

GREEKS ENRAGED AS FRENCH TAKE CHARGE OF THEIR CAPITAL

French marines disembarking on Greek soil just before occupying Athens.

In this picture, just received from the scene of hostilities in Greece, the first detachment of French marines to land on Greek soil is shown leaving the transport ships and affecting a landing. The marines marched to the city of Athens, where they took possession of the capital and placed a strong guard around the royal palace of King Constantine. The Greek people are deeply incensed by this action and have called on the United States to free them from entente oppression.

days per year, or 7,500 tons a year, shows that the annual growth from 40,500 acres would be required in the case of wood as against the annual production of hemp hurds from 10,000 acres. The cost of manufacture of paper from hurds has not been estimated by the investigators, but, because of the increasing cost of wood pulp and the increasing acreage of hemp grown in the United States it is believed that the time may come when the use of the material by the papermaking industry will be profitable.

SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK BY O. O. McINTYRE. Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-125 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—While I rolled down a flight of stairs, I've ridden a motorcycle into a lake, I've begun to follow the bricks of the pavement in my home town and my feet flared out and there are those who say that I am now "pie-footed." A man who is "pie-footed" can never become a graceful fox trotter, but I have tried and angels could do no more. The other night in the Cafe Moderne of the Majestic I saw a lithe young woman who danced like Old Man Terpsichore's wife—if he was married. I don't know. And I asked the hostess, Miss Evelyn Hubble, if the lady would dance with me. "I do not know," she said, "but I'll ask. I represent her in America." "Who is she that she needs representation?" I asked. "She looks to me like she could represent herself ably."

Franklin P. Adams, who conducts the Conning Tower in the Tribune, reported in big type in his column that Samuel Merwin would write one story of the world series for him. The stunt was advertised for days ahead and naturally there was great expectancy. The day dawned auspiciously. The Tribune readers turned anxiously to the Conning Tower. This is what Merwin wrote: "The Boston Red Sox defeated the Brooklyn Robins at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon."

An incompetent actress who knew a girl who knew a man who knew Florence La Badie, the movie star, has been annoying everybody at the Theater studios trying to get a job. All she got was advice to return home to her rich husband and forget her movie ambitions. Finally, she managed to steal into Miss La Badie's dressing room and started to appeal for work. "I've dived off a ship, I've ridden a horse off a cliff," she began; "I've

A new room has been opened at the Ritz called the Oval Room. It has oval tables, oval dishes and even some of the waiters have oval heads. Everything is running to rooms of this name and that name in hotels. No one seems to know where it will stop. A man lost a diamond studded cigarette case near Times Square the other day. A newsboy found it and returned it to the rightful owner. The man gave him a long talk on honesty and a dime. "Thanks," said the boy. "My mother thanks you and my father thanks you. But I cannot take your money. You think more of money, than I ever will."

SANCTUM VAUDEVILLE

Editor—Have you a good joke for Lent? Contributor—No, but I've got a good one for hire!—Widow. Sillicus—A man is soon forgotten after he is dead. Cynicus—Yes, unless you happen to marry his widow.—Judge. "Pride goes before a fall, you know." "Maybe it does; but it goes a lot quicker after one."—Boston Transcript. Her Mother—Do you think Ferdinand is deceiving you? Mrs. Bridenoppe—Oh, I wouldn't say that. But he frequently lies to me.—Puck. "Was her father violent when you asked him for her hand?" "Was he? Great guns! I thought he'd shake my hand off."—London Saturday Journal. "I hope you will come out ahead, Bobbie. What are you being examined at this time of the school year for?" "For adenoids."—Life. Mertie—Why don't you paint the sky blue? Mary—Cos I've only got Prussian blue and I'm not going to use that till the war's over.—London Opinion. "What did you do at your convention?" "Not much. But we had to stick around four days because the committee on arrangements had told the hotelkeepers we'd be there that long and they needed our money."—Detroit Free Press. "This horn you sold me won't make any noise," said the customer, returning. "Well, I thought you wanted it for your grandson," said the clerk. "So I did." "Gracious; but you're a hard man to please!"—Yonkers Statesman.

WONDER WHAT HE THINKS OF WATCHFUL WAITING?

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 28.—Tired of four years' waiting, Charles M. Arthur, of Altoona, has had Judge Thomas J. Baldridge annul the marriage license issued to himself and Miss Jessie F. Martin, of Duncanville on June 17, 1912. The couple were to be married the following July 4. The trousseau was purchased, a wedding trip planned and a house and furniture selected. But when the day arrived the bride-to-be demurred. She has never since been quite able to make up her mind to fulfill her part of the contract.

LEWIS COUNTY TO HAVE SOME FINE SPEAKERS

Judge Robinson, Stuart F. Reed and Others Are on the List.

(SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM) WESTON, Oct. 28.—Itineraries of Republican speakers for Lewis county for the week beginning Monday, October 30, have been announced as follows: Wallace B. Gribble and Birk S. Stathers at Lightburn, October 30, at 7:30 p. m. L. L. Long, state treasurer, and State Senator George E. White at Jane Lew, October 30, at 7:30 p. m. H. E. Long, state treasurer, and State Senator George E. White at Fink, October 31, 7:30 p. m. Wallace B. Gribble and Birk S. Stathers at Ireland, October 31, at 7:30 p. m. Wallace B. Gribble and R. Ad Hall at Freemansburg, November 1, 7:30 p. m. H. Roy Waugh and George C. Cole at Berlin, November 1, at 7:30 p. m. Stuart F. Reed, Republican candidate for Congress, and Charles P. Swint, at Vadis, November 2, at 7:30 p. m. George C. Cole and R. Ad Hall at Butcherville, November 2, at 7:30 p. m. Stuart F. Reed, Republican candidate for Congress, and Birk S. Stathers, at Alum Bridge, November 3, at 7:30 p. m. H. Roy Waugh, of Buckhannon, and others, at Marlinton, at 7:30 p. m. George C. Cole and Charles P. Swint, at Walkersville, November 3, at 7:30 p. m. Judge Ira E. Robinson, Republican candidate for governor; Stuart F. Reed, Republican candidate for Congress; Wallace B. Gribble, Republican candidate for state senate, and others, at the opera house in Weston Saturday, November 4, at 1:30 p. m. Bright Funeral. H. L. Bright, the Baltimore and Ohio freight conductor who fell from a train at Jane Lew last Saturday morning and broke his back, died at a Clarksburg hospital and was buried here today. Huddall! Out. William Huddall, who got his leg broken some time ago, is no wabler to get out of after several weeks' confinement to his home. Painting Bridge. The city has several men at work painting the First street bridge. Dr. Shaw Speaks. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw's lecture here Tuesday evening was well attended and from reports after the meeting she won several new converts to the cause of suffrage. Gribble in Town. Wallace Gribble, Republican candidate for the state senate, was in the city a day or two this week seeing the voters.

Stalk Fragments for Paper Making.

A satisfactory quality of book paper can be made from hurds, the waste stalk fragments produced in preparing fiber for market, is a conclusion reached by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture as a result of commercial tests made in co-operation with a paper manufacturer. The experiments and the economic conditions surrounding the use of hemp hurds as a paper-making material are described in a new professional paper of the department of agriculture, bulletin 404. The investigations demonstrated that the hurds can be reduced chemically to paper stock by the soda process under practices little different from those employed for the manufacture of pulp from poplar wood. Slightly more bleach was necessary, and beating was found desirable for a somewhat longer period. As against these items of increased expense in comparison with poplar wood as a raw material, the first preparation of the hurds at the mill is less expensive. It is necessary only to sieve the hurds, while the wood must be chipped with expensive machinery. Storage possibly would be more expensive for hurds, as storing in the open—the methods employed for wood—probably would be impracticable. Because of the lightness of the hurds, charges of this material in the digesting chamber must be smaller than charges of poplar wood. The experiments showed that the weights of the charges ran about sixty and five-tenths per cent of the weight of poplar wood charges. The total yield of air-dry fiber from hurds was thirty-three and one-tenth per cent as compared with about forty-seven per cent of air-dry fiber from poplar wood. Hemp is now grown in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and California. In Kentucky, however, the fiber is separated from the stalks by hand brakes moved about the fields, and the hurds, therefore, are so scattered that their use for paper making is not economically practicable. It is only in the other states named, where large machine brakes are used and the hurds deposited in stacks that the waste may be drawn upon practically as a paper-making material. About 5,000 tons of hurds are produced each year in the machine braking districts. This is an insufficient supply of the material to warrant the erection of a pulp mill or even to justify transportation to existing mills, but it is expected that the available tonnage will increase, because of the extension of hemp growing and increasing use of machine brakes. Calculation by the department's specialists of the raw material and acreage necessary for a permanent supply of materials for a pulp mill producing twenty-five tons of fiber a day for 300

THERE'S A LESSON to be found in the lives of those who reached the top. It wasn't "LUCK" they worked and saved to be ready for every advance in their career. No one knows what tomorrow may bring. The trouble is that many never think of to-morrow—live only for to-day. They fail to understand the value of small economies. If a start would only be made by laying aside a small part of the income, the lesson of economy would soon be learned. By opening an account with us, you'll add a system to your foresight that will benefit you, now and later. THE LOWNDES SAVINGS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY Resources over $1,000,000 CLARKSBURG, W. VA.

To Eradicate Bedbugs.

THOSE who are troubled by bedbugs will find practical information as to how to deal effectively with these pests in Farmers' Bulletin 754, "Bedbugs," recently published by the United States Department of Agriculture. In this bulletin C. L. Marlatt, of the bureau of entomology makes clear the habits of these insects which have a bearing on their eradication and suggests a number of simple household measures, as well as more radical methods of