The fight between the Seamen's Union of the Pacific and the Ship-owners' Association has begun in earnest. Two of the employees of the latter were arrested yesterday for paying advances to sailors. The racing at the track yesterday was unequalled first and second choices winning the majority of the events. The winners were Tillie S. Frouder, Mollie R. Jack Richelieu, The Lark and Nephew. The tight on the Mint patronage is growing very warm. Biggy and Gentry have been strongly re-enforced and influence is being brought to bear in Washington to circumvent Daggett's plans for reform. The case will go on to-day. The police are mystified over the disappearance of Blanche Lamont, a beautiful girl, who has not been seen since Friday. It is believed that she left the Normal School to go to her home at 209 Twenty-first street. The fate of Mrs. Ella Forsyth, who disappeared from her home last Friday, is still shrouded in the deepest mystery. The police are still firm in the belief that she slipped from the rocks and was drowned in the ocean. At a meeting of its officers, held last night, the First Regiment, N. G. C., has decided to go into camp some time during next summer. As there is no State appropriation for the purpose the regiment will go at its own expense. The Rev. Father Crowley says that the Ancient Order of Hibernians will hold no more Sunday picnics, and that the society will absolutely refuse to aid in any of the political aspirations of prominent members. Superintendent Moulder is informed that the July apportionment for the San Francisco public schools is $205,170, which is considerably less than anticipated and will leave a shortage of funds that may cause a cut in teachers' salaries. Auditor Broderick finds in the new revenue law a provision that requires him to furnish the Assessor with blanks before March 1, while the act did not become law until March 25. He says this renders the law inoperative for this year. Judge Hunt and a jury are trying the case of Harry S. McAlpine by his guardian, Lydia A. McAlpine, and Lydia A. McAlpine against Harry Laydon and P. F. Dundon, of the firm of Darby Laydon & Co., for $40,000 damages for the death of Walter J. McAlpine. The case will go on to-day. Lewis, Louis Costello, Richard O'Keefe, Fred Eric Kaiser and Julius Barcott, marched out, followed by the Pacific team, the pull was a short one, and ended in a glorious victory for the American team.

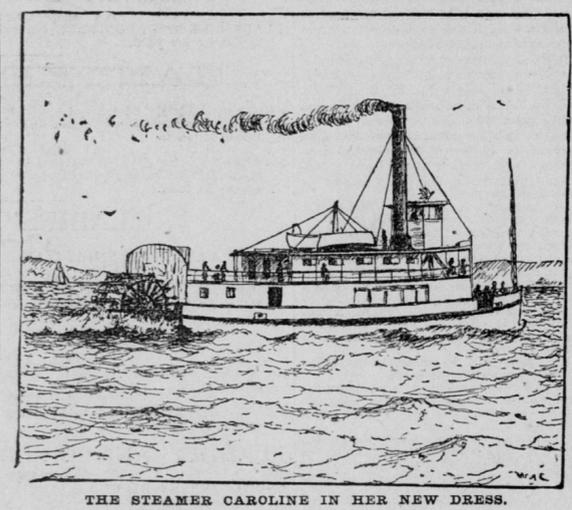

A FLEET STERN WHEELER.

The Favorite Excursion Boat on the Bay in a New Dress.

SAUCY STEAMER CAROLINE.

One of the Speediest Boats Practically Rebuilt From Stern to Stern.

The steamer Caroline, looking spick and span in her new dress, has been running on her old route between here and San Quentin for the past several days carrying jute. It is over six months since jute has been hauled to the prison and from this on about twenty bales a day will be consumed in the manufacture of bags. The Caroline is one of the best known vessels on the bay and now enjoys the distinction of being one of the speediest. She has been practically rebuilt from stern to stern, only the forward part of the old forward deck remaining intact. Her engines were taken to pieces and overhauled and a brand new wheel hung on to her stern. The stern itself has been raised six inches, which gives her a cleaner run and at which has increased her speed at least 20 per cent. On the cabin deck two of her rooms were taken out to give more space forward. The Caroline is the favorite excursion-boat on the bay, and her genial skipper, Captain W. G. Leale, has never been known to miss a yacht race or any other aquatic sport. He is a great character on the water front and is exceedingly popular. A story-teller he is par excellence. At one time the Caroline plied between here and Napa, but of late years she has been running to San Quentin and Baden. The latest annex to be formed in the Young Men's Christian Association is a Camera Club, and already it is gathering to itself all the camera enthusiasts of the association. There are thirty-five so far, and with that number it has been considered advisable to organize. This was accordingly done yesterday. The officers of the new annex are George Walker, president; O. L. Hall, vice-president, and E. M. Bixby, secretary. Hall and Bixby, the vice-president and secretary respectively of the annex, have been appointed a committee to secure apparatus for the rooms. They will provide an enlarging camera and also a portrait camera, both the best obtainable, besides all the apparatus and chemicals necessary to fit up their photographic laboratory for all kinds of work. The rooms to be used have already been set apart for the annex on the fifth floor of the building. There are two of them now, but as the annex increases a third will be added. All members of the association will be allowed to join the annex, but there will be no outsiders. Monthly dues of perhaps 25 cents, or some small amount, will be exacted to keep the rooms and apparatus in good condition and the bottles on the laboratory shelves filled. Beyond this all the conveniences of the rooms and accessories will be free to all the members. There are a number of excellent amateur photographers in the association and it is expected that the new feature will prove very attractive.

THE FIGHT HAS BEGUN.

Coast Seamen Have Caused the Arrest of Men Who Pay Advances.

Will Be Vigorously Prosecuted in the United States Courts.

L. A. Rickoff, shipping master of the Ship-owners' Association, and W. Sandstad, bookkeeper of the Sailors' Home, were arrested to-day by the United States Marshal for violating the United States shipping regulations in exacting advance money from sailors. The complaining witnesses are Joseph P. Dailey and Alexander Anderson, and they charge that Rickoff and Sandstad engaged them for a voyage to Alaska and return on the American bark Harvester at $25 a month and $15 advance. The advance money was paid them, and when the union learned of the fact Secretary Furuseth at once swore out warrants for their arrest. Rickoff and Sandstad at once furnished bail and were released. The coasting sailors have all along been opposed to the payment of an advance. Members of the union were bound not to accept it, but outsiders were only too glad to get it, and by this means non-union crews were secured for vessels. Under the old law an advance could be paid the relatives of a sailor, but the new act does away with the provision, except in the case of whaling vessels, and the Harvester cannot comply with the law. The penalty is a fine of not less than four times the amount advanced the sailor or imprisonment for six months, or both. This is the first serious move made by the Seamen's Union of the Pacific in the present fight. Under the old law it was impossible to convict the ship-owners for paying an advance on a coasting vessel. Since the Maguire act has become law, however, the officers of the union think a combine and the Ship-owners' Association and they now think they have the Ship-owners' Association at their mercy. The war is now on and the Seamen's Union says it will break up the boarding-masters' association, but the Harvester case is certain or go to pieces in the attempt. Secretary Walthew of the Ship-owners' Association is very complacent over the turn affairs have taken and asserts that he can prove no advance was paid to any sailor who went out on the Harvester.

BIG TRANSACTION IN WINE.

The California Wine-Dealers' Association Much Exercised in Regard to the Affair.

The largest personal wine deal ever made in this State was consummated last week when F. Chevalier & Co. of this city bought from Donnell & Co. of St. Helena, Cal., 400,000 gallons of dry wine, which is now stored in Chateau Chevalier at St. Helena. The wine has already been sold to prominent wine-dealers in New York, where California wines are commanding better prices each year. The California Association of Wine-dealers are much stirred up over the sale. As an association they have been buying up and shipping wine East. They had agreed to take the 400,000 gallons of Donnell & Co., who were members of the association, but failed to keep their agreement as to the prices agreed upon. George Chevalier, manager of the firm, saw his opportunity, bought up the whole lot, and will immediately begin shipping it East. RAILROAD ACCOUNTANTS.

On April 15 some 150 railroad accountants will arrive in San Francisco to attend a convention of members of their craft, and to contribute to the entertainment of the visitors, who will hail, for the most part, from the far East. The promotion committee of the Half-million Club yesterday decided to make the accountants the guests of the club in an excursion around San Francisco Bay. The date of that event will be Friday, April 19, and Messrs. Hugh Craig and L. C. McAfee were named as a committee to secure tugboat facilities on that occasion.

DIPHTHERIA IN THE AIR.

Complaints of Many Residents at North Beach Caused by a Contractor's Work.

A complaint was made this week at the Health Office that the contractor at work on the Fair property at the foot of Pierce street on North Beach had stopped all outlet for a flow of water at that point and that a pool of water had gathered as the result, extending for the length of several blocks along Lombard street; that it had overflowed a tract of land which had been under cultivation by some Chinamen and had driven them from their houses; that the water had become stagnant and very offensive to residents for many blocks around; that diphtheria had broken out in the neighborhood, and that something like an epidemic was following and that several deaths from the disease had taken place, and that it was supposed the ill-smelling, stagnant pool was the cause of it. An officer was sent to the place yesterday, and found the facts as to the pool as represented, also that there was considerable diphtheria in the neighborhood and the residents are very much alarmed. The matter will be reported at the next meeting of the board and action will be taken to abate the nuisance.

A NEW CAMERA CLUB.

The Young Men's Christian Association Is to Have a Camera Annex.

BAD NEWS FOR TEACHERS.

A Big Shortage in Funds May Cause a Cut in Salaries.

The Apportionment is $14,000 Less Than Was Reasonably Expected.

Speaking of financial deficits and stringency Superintendent Moulder of the public schools received a startling communication from Superintendent of Public Instruction Black yesterday. It was a statement in which he estimated the July apportionment for the city and county of San Francisco for public schools at $3,688,900, which, multiplied by $3, gives just $205,170 as the amount for the July apportionment for the schools of this city and county.

THIS IS HOW THE CASE OF CURIOS WILL LOOK IF MR. McLAREN'S SUGGESTION IS ADOPTED.

representing on one side the infant King of Rome and on the other Romulus and Remus. Among the missing medals is one of great value. It is of gold, and was struck in London, representing Napoleon riding a mule on his way to the Elbe. Hereafter a watchman is to be stationed in the French room day and night. The cases are all to have heavy iron bands placed around them, and instead of screw eyes staples are to be used. It is hinted, too, that Superintendent McLaren's half jocular suggestion is to be adopted, and that the cases are to be chained to the floor.

NO CLEW TO THE THEFTS.

Conflicting Tales as to the Cost of the Stolen Property.

VALUABLE NAPOLEONIC MEDALS.

Superintendent McLaren Suggests That the Curio Case Be Chained Down.

The looting of the Midwinter Fair Museum has thrown the officials at the Golden Gate Park into a state of consternation. There is an effort being made to show that the loss is inconsiderable, and such may be the case; yet the fact that the pilferers were able to get away with even the smallest object in the collection of curios came as a startling revelation to Park Superintendent McLaren and his assistants. If the robbers could abstract a handful of coins why was it not possible for them to carry off as many other articles as might please them? From the conflicting and widely varying stories of those in charge of the museum, it is impossible at this time to give anything like an accurate estimate of the value of the stolen property. For example, Charles P. Wilcomb, custodian of the museum, while admitting that twenty-five valuable Napoleonic medals were taken from the French exhibit, denies positively that any coins are missing. On the other hand, L. A. Hagenkamp, a museum watchman, says that if 20-franc gold pieces are coins, then coins were stolen from the same case with the medals. These young men also disagree as to the methods used by the robbers in securing their booty. Wilcomb asserts that the screw eyes were pulled out—an easy matter for the screws are short and the wood the softest kind of pine. Hagenkamp is willing to swear that the Yale locks were broken and that the screw eyes were not pulled out at all. Superintendent McLaren, who examined the cases on Friday morning after the robbery was discovered, corroborates the story of Watchman Hagenkamp. He says that the locks were broken, and adds laconically: "Strange case, strange case. What next, I wonder? They ought to chain those cases down."

IN SPITE OF DISBARMENT.

A Supreme Court Order Does Not Stop Philbrook From Practicing.

He Will Seek an Elective Office and Ask People to Vote for Him.

"So he ruled against me? Well, that is the first I heard of it," was the remark of Attorney Horace W. Philbrook last night when informed that Judge Hunt had denied his motion to be substituted as plaintiff in the action of Seth Warner against the E. Thomas Farisian Dyeing Works.

Mr. Philbrook, it will be remembered, is the attorney who some time ago in a brief filed in the Supreme Court made serious charges against one of the Justices of that court. The language he used was of such a severe character that the Supreme Court decided that the attorney had been guilty of improper conduct, and made an order that he be "disbarred for the period of three years and until further order of this court."

The judgment of the Supreme Court, Mr. Philbrook says, will not prevent him from appearing in any court in the State, even the Supreme Court, on matters of points of law. This he did last Saturday before Judge Ellsworth of the Superior Court of Alameda County. A man had been arrested for violation of the license law and was kept in default of bail. Mr. Philbrook, who had been sent for, discovered that there was a novel point of law at issue, so he at once swore to a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to secure the release of the prisoner. He subsequently appeared before Judge Ellsworth, who was to hear the view, when the Judge informed him that in view of the action taken by the Supreme Court he could not permit him to appear.

But, it is remarked Mr. Philbrook, "your Honor will hear me, for the law permits any one to appear as his own attorney and as I am the petitioner I have the right to appear for myself."

Judge Ellsworth conceded that the law gave him that right, and Mr. Philbrook went on with his argument, and will resume it this week.

Another step in the way of practicing law was taken last week by Mr. Philbrook, and that was when he obtained an assignment, made out in due form of law, by Seth Warner, making him the plaintiff in the action against the Thomas dye works. The motion for substitution was argued by the assignee on Friday and submitted. Yesterday Judge Hunt made an order denying the motion.

"The motion was denied for personal reasons only," said Mr. Philbrook, "as there is no law for it. There has been a little unpleasantness between Judge Hunt and myself, and I suppose that the denial of the motion was because of that."

"What shall I do in the matter? Well, that is a matter for future consideration. There are many steps to be taken yet. There is no law that can prevent a man who is the plaintiff in a case from appearing in court for himself. This matter was regularly assigned to me, and the motion to substitute ought to have been granted."

"Now, there is that judgment of disbarment entered against me by the Supreme Court—that is void, and the court knows it. If it was guilty of contempt, the only punishment they could visit was either fine or imprisonment. That was settled in the case of Stephen J. Field, forty years ago, when he was adjudged guilty of contempt. The appellate court held that he could not be disbarred as a punishment for contempt. There is another decision, some twenty years ago, of a similar tenor. Then, again, if disbarment is a punishment for contempt, as the Supreme Court says, why the disbarment must be absolute or for a fixed time. In my case it is neither, and I so advised the court, but it did not avail."

"If the bill which was passed by the Legislature and which would have met my case, but was vetoed by Governor Budd,

VETERAN POLICE SKETCHES.

Captain Isaiah W. Lees was born in the year 1830 in Oldham, England, and came to America with his parents at an early age. While the family lived in the State of New Jersey Captain Lees, who had not arrived at his majority, caught the gold fever, and came from New York by way of Mexico, crossing at San Blas, to San Francisco, arriving on April 6, 1849. He went to the Big Bar on the Middle Fork of the American River and engaged in placer mining with varying success. He became dissatisfied and returned to the city, engaging in his trade of millwright and engineer. Then he started in the tug business on the bay, in which he continued till October 28, 1853, when he was appointed in the police force. Three months after his appointment he was ordered to detective duty, and on July 1, 1855, was made a captain. For the long period of forty years he has been in the detective branch of San Francisco's police force.

THE FIRST WILL CAMP.

Lacking a State Appropriation the Regiment Will Take the Field at Its Own Expense.

The First Infantry Regiment is to go to camp. It was so decided at a meeting of the officers of the regiment last night. The First will get no appropriation from the State for camping purposes this year, but despite this fact the men are going away on regimental money.

The strike of last July and the service of the militia in consequence of the interference to a considerable extent with the plans of the regiments which were called out. The First had arranged to go into camp last fall, but it was called under arms to Sacramento during the railroad strike instead, and the camp trip was given up. In the appropriation of the Legislature for the National Guard was so cut into by the Legislature that there is nothing left for camping purposes, and it is for that reason, if it camps at all, the First must camp at its own expense. It has decided nevertheless to go.

A committee consisting of Captain Robert A. Marshall, Captain Edgar C. Sutcliffe and Lieutenant Thomas A. Cliff has been appointed to make investigations regarding big good camping sites, and the committee will start on their work at once. It is not decided as yet whether the regiment will go north or south. It may be influenced by inducements offered, but it will try to arrange to get away in June or July.

The meeting had also under discussion a proposition to provide a benefit entertainment for Private Holt, the guardsman who was shot at Sacramento by the premature discharge of a rifle. This action will be taken in view of the fact that the Legislature has made no provision for his benefit.
