

SENT FROM WARSAW.

Mme. Modjeska Expelled by the Russian Government.

CAUSED BY HER SPEECH.

Prevented From Fulfilling an Engagement at a Theater.

CAN'T APPEAR ON THE STAGE.

The Actress' Telling Poland on Behalf of Poland Strikes a Tender Spot.

LONDON, Eng., April 24.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Vienna says the Russian Government has expelled Mme. Modjeska, the well-known actress, from Warsaw, owing to a violent speech she made against Russia in Chicago.

On February 27 an order, issued by the Russian Government forbade Mme. Modjeska to fulfill an engagement at the Warsaw Theater in consequence of a speech she had delivered before the Chicago Art Institute on the subject of Polish women.

Soon after this speech Mme. Modjeska was notified she could not appear on the stage within the Russian jurisdiction.

In the course of her speech at Chicago Mme. Modjeska said: "I shall not dwell upon the development of our political institutions. They (the Russians) have laughed to scorn the belief that there was ever a Polish nation. They have restricted, if not wholly prohibited, the use of our language. Under such a condition could there be any organized effort of women? Why, it would be considered a political crime, it would bring its punishment. I cannot tell what the Polish women are doing, because to do so would bring punishment upon the heroic workers."

"We have had a constant struggle for independence. An unholy alliance was formed to crush out our country, rob it of its free government and destroy our institutions. The gates have been closed. Men have stood guard at the gates of their country. It was they who preserved patriotism and honor in spite of Siberia, and what is worse, the lash, to the everlasting disgrace of the Russian Government."

"Our enemies make a great mistake if they think they have destroyed us. As long as a Polish woman lives Poland will live."

"We may have merited punishment for our frailties. God knows, maybe we have. We have heard much of the Roman and Spartan mothers. That is well, but I hope the world will hear more of the Polish mother. The Polish mother is waiting patiently for the insurrection, and if there is justice on earth she will not wait in vain."

The speech was delivered to the World's Congress of Representative Women.

She Weds a Farnesite.

LONDON, Eng., April 24.—In St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, this afternoon, Hon. Miss Julian Peel, daughter of Viscount Peel, late Speaker of the House of Commons, was married to Rochford Maguire, a young Farnesite, who represents the west division of Clarendon in the House of Commons and has become very wealthy through his connection with Hon. Cecil Rhodes, the Premier of Cape Colony, and the Rothschilds. There was a large and fashionable attendance. The Bishop of Derry and Raphoe, Right Rev. William Alexander, assisted by the Dean of Canterbury, officiated.

Widow's Home Sold.

LONDON, Eng., April 24.—The application of counsel for Oscar Wilde to have his trial, which was set for Friday next, postponed on the ground that his lawyers had not had sufficient time to prepare for defense and the present state of public feeling has made a fair trial impossible, was refused to-day. Wilde's home was sold by the Sheriff in the presence of a crowd of curiosity mongers.

Earl Russell Gets a Separation.

THE BATTLE OF KAIPING.

The Querer Way in Which Chinese Newspapers Report Events.

The Chinese newspapers are quite as queer in their way as the armies and the generals. After the Chinese defeat at Kaiping on December 29 the Shen-pao, an influential Peking journal, published the following:

Chefoo scholar writes us that an important battle has just occurred at Kaiping. An overwhelming army of Japanese made a cowardly attack upon the fearless General Sung-Ching, thinking to take him unawares. But that great soldier is always vigilant and routed his foes with great slaughter, killing over 3000 and driving the rest back thirty-five miles without losing over ten men himself. Evening coming on and ever one being tired from the hard labor of the day, General Sung thoughtfully ordered all his men to lie down and rest, while he slept likewise. He had not been in bed more than an hour or two when he was disturbed by the Japanese, who, contrary to all usages of war, again assailed the camp. He was naturally indignant, and ordered a lieutenant to drive the wretches away so that he could finish his slumbers. The officer did the best he could, being wounded, and his troops being panic-stricken by the cold, he and his men turned and retreated, being pursued by the Japanese. This turned the camp into great disorder, and resulted in deep unhappiness. General Sung perceived this and ordered a retreat at full speed. His forces quickly out-marched the enemy, so that at morning the whereabouts of the Japanese was unknown, from which it was inferred that they had fled. While the tents, guns and ammunition were left behind, the banners, flags and umbrellas were all safely brought away. General Sung, in view of the urgency of the situation, has applied to Peking for 50,000 reinforcements.—Worcester Spy.

PURSUED THE ATTORNEY.

What a Washington Lawyer Says of a Dead Client.

"Lawyers frequently fail to save clients charged with a capital offense from the gallows," said Andrew Lipcomb to a Washington Post reporter, "but I don't believe any one had one treated worse after his death than I did. The first murderer I ever defended was a young colored man named Shaw, who was charged with the murder of his sister. Judge Wylie assigned Howard Clagett and myself to the case. Shaw had accompanied his sister, who lived in Washington, on a visit to her sick mother over beyond Anacostia. His companion carried a basket containing a chicken and a couple of bottles of wine for her mother. Her body was found in the snow next morning with the skull battered in.

Shaw had eaten the chicken and drunk the wine. He had been seen returning through Anacostia with the basket hanging on his arm. He then went to his brother-in-law's house, stole a small amount of money, and, expending it in a pair of skates, went skating on the river. This was the circumstantial evidence against him, and we tried hard to hang the jury by attacking that kind of testimony, but he was convicted. Efforts to secure a commutation were in vain, and Shaw was hanged, and his body buried in the potter's field."

Then Shaw's posthumous troubles began. The night after his execution, Jansen, the notorious body-snatcher, stole Shaw's body, and placing it in a hack carried it to a city medical college. The authorities of the institution declined to pay the sum Jansen demanded for the corpse, and he carried it to another dissecting room with similar results. Jansen then drove to a station-house and informed the keeper that he had a drunken man in his vehicle, whom he had been 'backing' around for several hours and who refused to pay his fare. An officer was sent out to bring the man in and found Shaw's naked body in the carriage.

"Well, there was much excitement and Shaw was buried again. That very night his body was stolen again. A year or so afterward I was in the office of a well-known physician here when I perceived a skull upon a table and remarked upon its peculiar configuration. 'Yes, it is somewhat singular,' said the doctor. 'It belonged to Shaw, the colored boy who was hanged for murdering his sister.' It seemed as if Shaw's cadaver pursued me despite all the efforts I made to save him."

OUT OF THE RACETRACK.

Midas Was No Match for the Favorite, Lovdal, in the Handicap.

ILL FORTUNE PURSUES HIM.

A Spill in the Two-Year-Old Race, in Which Coady Is Injured.

Seraphin and the Ledette filly meet in a match race to-day.

Nick Hall got down off the box and backed Norrie all around the ring.

Colonel Dan Burns as usual had a well bet down on his grand colt Lovdal.

The Elmwood Stock Farm repeated its feat of Tuesday by winning the first two races.

Ed Pruner backed Red Glenn all around the ring, and was a big loser over his defeat.

Sloan's two rides on Mallicbery and Tillie 8 were splendid exhibitions of the Bergen style of riding. Waiting until you are beaten and then coming on.

Coady, who met with the accident while riding the Lenox filly, was able to ride Howard in the last race.

W. O. B. Masondough placed his money on Realization to win and Quarterstaff for the place in the last race.

When Banjo and Tillie 8 can outstrip Realization through the stretch it is high time to quit playing racehorses.

Little Cripple, Jerome S. Miss Willoughby, Hymn and Heno will arrive to-day from Los Angeles and will be trained by Johnny Weber.

Purser helped out the price against Mount Air in the last race and the crowd followed him, bringing the gelding's price down to 10 to 5.

For a young stallion, the get of Imp. True Briton are certainly showing up marvelously well. By the manner with which his daughter, Johanna, lately joined the track and her victory yesterday, stamped her as a filly above the average.

As it is impossible to tell whether the man in the moon is addicted to the tobacco habit, so it is impossible to gauge the betting in the ring at the present stage. With two men controlling about six books, it is a wonder the races are hard to pick?

I wonder why the trainer of Banjo did not put Glenn up on his horse yesterday? He rode him Saturday and his horse was never in it. This may be a capital way to get odds against a horse, but it is an injustice to the betting public. I was told Purser backed this horse yesterday, and if he did he is certainly a mind-reader.

Johnny Weber, the popular jockey, arrived from Los Angeles yesterday, where he has been residing for some time with his parents. Johnny lately joined the track and has been taken as his companion in life Miss Durfee of the southern city, daughter of Charles Durfee, well known in trotting-horse circles as the owner of the stallion McKinney. The jockey's many friends wish him every success in his travels over the turbulent waters of the matrimonial sea.

It is the glorious uncertainties of horse-racing that make it such a popular sport, that yesterday's carnal at the track can be voted a great success. The management endeavor to cater to all tastes, and yesterday was no exception. Three long shots, two favorites, a second choice and an accident should satisfy the most fastidious.

The mishap occurred in the two-year-old race, and that it was attended with no more serious results than one boy suffering the fracture of an arm was certainly remarkable. As the field were nearing the turn into the stretch Marionette in some way stumbled and fell, and Virgie A and the Lenox fell over her. None of the horses were hurt, but arose and galloped in riderless after the field. Thomas H. Williams Jr. showed his solicitude for the fallen riders by mounting to the seat of a hack and taking the reins drove down to the scene of the accident at a break-neck pace. The only one of the jockeys to suffer injury was young Frank Coady, who had an arm broken. The lad, who is very popular with racegoers, seems to be singularly unfortunate, as he had but recently recovered from a severe accident caused by a fall during the muddy season. Lloyd and Bob Isom escaped with a severe shaking up.

The mile and a sixteenth handicap, the event of the card, was taken by the 3 to 5 favorite, Lovdal. The favorite with the second choice, Midas, went out in front, racing heads apart until well around the far turn, where Midas developed a streak of "yaller," and began backing up. In the stretch he was passed by both the other starters, Flirtilla and McLight, the former carrying but 85 pounds, getting the place, two lengths in front of McLight, and about the same distance behind Lovdal, who ran the race in 1:27 1/2, within a quarter of a second of the coast record.

With 39 to 1 against him, Claudius took the opening race at seven furlongs, in a drive from Mullberry, who came from last place, and was beaten by a neck. Red Glenn, the second choice, got badly way leading a hundred yards from the wire, and finished third.

There were a number of tips flying around on the second race, a five-furlong scramble with twelve starters, the strongest played of which was the one on Gypsy Girl, who was booked from 20 down to 6 to 1.

After getting away fast, she ran through the bunch, and led into the stretch by three lengths. She tired near the finish and was passed by Nervosa, Blue Bell and Lulu, the latter post favorite at 7 to 2. Nervosa was first past the stand half a length in front of Blue Bell, the favorite third.

The four and a half furlong race for two-year-olds was taken very cleverly by Her Majesty, backed from 15 to 9 to 1, after a wild drive with Monitor, the second choice. William Pinkerton, the favorite, who led into the stretch, got badly flustered, Marionette, Virgie A and the Lenox filly fell while running in the rear, leaving the turn into the stretch.

Realization, the fifth race, a five and a half furlong run, failed to get inside the money. Getting away none to well, he was to all appearances outrun from the jump. At the end Banjo came from last place and beat Mount Air half a length in 1:14. Nelson, the one-year-old, who behaved fairly well at the post, led into the stretch, where he died away.
