Judge Woods Commits a Very Forgetful Witness for Perjury.

FAVORED A SALOON-KEEPER.

Frank Robinson, the Car-Cleaner Who Cut His Throat, Is Dying Slowly.

George Dority, a young colored man, got himself into trouble with Judge Wood of the Police Court yesterday, in consequence of his conduct in the case of Nicholas Dabanovich, a saloon-keeper, who is charged with selling liquor after midnight.

Dority was the complaining witness against the saloon man, the police having learned from him that he purchased liquor at Dabanovich's place, at Seventh and Market streets, after 12 o'clock. When the case was called yesterday the negro seemed to have entirely lost his memory in connection with the matter.

He did not remember that he had told the officers where he purchased two bottles of beer which he was carrying when arrested by them, and denied that he had stated that he had bought them of Dabanovich for twenty-five cents.

Judge Wood speedily came to the conclusion that Dority was trying to shield the saloon-keeper, and ordered him into custody on a charge of perjury.

Attorney Abbott, who represented Dabanovich, asked Judge Wood to continue the case until the defendant could get another lawyer, as he intended to withdraw from the case. He said he had no idea that such a condition of affairs existed, and did not intend to get mixed up in such a transaction.

The case was continued until Friday.

All Are Invited.

E. W. Woodard, chairman of the general committee having in charge the Memorial day celebration, has issued the following invitation:

All soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the Civil War, whether members of Grand Army posts or not, are invited to join in the parade on May 30, and also to attend the services at the First Congregational Church on the evening of the Sunday previous to Memorial day, May 26.

Also to participate with us in the ceremony of strewing flowers on the graves of our dead comrades who have answered to the last toll of the bell in the Mountain View cemetery, and in the evening exercises to be held at the First Presbyterian Church. An interesting program has been prepared and addresses will be delivered by Senator Perkins, Dr. E. S. Chapman and Dr. R. F. Coyle.

The place of assembly will be at Grand Army Hall, between Third and Fourth streets, at 10 o'clock, on Sunday, May 26, at 7 p. m., and on Memorial day, May 30, at the same place, at 10 a. m., unless otherwise hereafter notified.

Robinson Will Die.

Frank Robinson, the car-cleaner who attempted to end his life a few days ago by slashing his throat with a razor, after taking a dose of poison, is slowly passing away at the Receiving Hospital.

His wife, whose desertion caused him to attempt his life, refuses to see him, though informed of his condition, saying that she has caused her enough trouble, and that she has no further interest in him.

Robinson provided for the two children that his wife left behind when she left his house.

One of them, a boy 6 years of age, has been adopted with the brother's consent by P. Gibbons, a kind-hearted groceryman, who took him out of the West Oakland Home.

A Pleasant Lawn Party.

A delightful musical and lawn party, at which a large number of society people were present, was held last evening at the residence of Miss Edith May McLellan, 914 Castro street, for the benefit of Good Will and West Oakland's Musical entertainers.

The program was as follows: Guitars solo, "Home Memories" (arranged by Farrar), Lettie Carr; song, "Adelaide" (Beethoven), Henri Fairweather; mandolin solo, "The Maiden" (arranged by Farrar), Lettie Carr; guitar accompaniment Lettie Carr; song, "Lost and Found" (Oscar Barr), R. H. Auerback; selection, "Richard Miller"; song, "Shall I Hear" (Percival), Miss Sullivan; violin obligato Miss Crabtree; cello, "Songs Without Words," op. 109 (Mendelssohn), Lovell Lettie Carr; song, "Oh Fair, Oh Sweet and Holy" (Oto Carter), Miss Eva Wren; accompanist, Alma Schmidt.

Rice Has Decamped.

Justin Rice, the "cowboy" preacher, has apparently shaken the dust of Oakland's highways from his shoes. He was convicted some time ago of violating the municipal ordinance against street meetings, and allowed to go on his own recognizance.

On Monday night he was missed from his accustomed place on the City Steps, and a colored preacher stood in his stead. He was expected to appear yesterday as complaining witness against A. A. Hines, whom he had arrested for disturbing one of his meetings, but did not put in an appearance, and it was then discovered that he had taken his wife and children to San Francisco.

New Ordinances Adopted.

Three new ordinances came up before the Board of City Trustees on Monday evening, two of which were adopted. One requiring railroad companies to sprinkle their tracks daily from May 1 to October 1 of each year. Another prohibits every one except the gardener from cutting flowers in the city park, opening the water pipes or introducing animals into the park. A committee, consisting of Messrs. Lydecker, Flitter and Clark, were appointed to interview Mr. Fillmore. The latter has expressed a wish to confer with a committee of the board and the master mechanic to the end that evil complained of might be stopped by putting extension fronts on the locomotives, straight stacks and spark arresters. The committee will also confer with the railroad company about the speed of the freight trains on Railroad avenue.

Garden Party.

The ladies of the Alameda Woman's Exchange and Reef Society will give a military concert and garden party on Captain R. R. Thompson's grounds, on High street, Saturday afternoon, for the cause of charity. A committee of ladies, consisting of Messrs. A. O. Wells, J. T. Fleming and H. Lally, went to Angel Island yesterday to secure the United States band for the occasion.

BERKELEY.

Last Monday evening marked a new era in the history of Berkeley, it having been the occasion upon which the first Board of Trustees elected under the new charter took their seats.

The Finance Committee recommended a long list of bills, including expenses of the last election, which were accepted.

Town Marshal Striker reported that during the period from April 1 to May 18, 1895, he had collected $12,429 58 in licenses and fees.

The Treasurer's report showed that during the year from May 24, 1894, to May 18, 1895, the total amount received by him was $98,973 09, and the total disbursed $74,033 34, leaving a balance on hand of $24,879 75.

A number of petitions for grading and severing certain portions of the town were read and passed upon, after which the new Board of seven Trustees, instead of five, as under the old charter, was sworn in.

Trustee Richard was elected chairman, the other members being Messrs. Richards, Gage, Cripps, Durrell, Martin and Hoff.

President Rickard read a lengthy paper on the financial condition of the town, showing that the town treasury was in a depleted condition and urging that more strict economy be practiced in the future.

Charles Spear, the County Recorder, presented each of the members with a finely bound copy of the new charter, after which the regular routine business was commenced.

The fixing of the amounts of the bonds for the several offices was as follows: Marshal, $5000; Treasurer, $10,000; Clerk, $3000; Engineer, $1000; Town Attorney, $2000; Poundmaster, $1000; Assessor and ex-officio Tax Collector, $5000; and Street Superintendent, $10,000.

The following committees were then appointed by President Rickard: Finance—Richards and Cripps; Street—Durrell and Gage; Light—Martin and Hoff; License—Hoff and Cripps; Fire and Water—Gage and Richards.

It was decided that meetings will be held on May 31, June 7 and every alternate Friday evening succeeding that date. B. A. Payne was elected Town Attorney unanimously.

The bonds of the Street Superintendent were reduced from $10,000 to $5000.

SUTRO'S OLD RESIDENCE.

The Mayor Closes His Town House, Which He Built Many Years Ago.

He Has Decided to Sell It and Have His Family Live at the Heights.

Mayor Sutro has closed his town house forever and has his family at the heights over the ocean.

The Sutro family residence is a plain mansion with bay-windows on either side of the entrance. It is at the northwest corner of Hayes and Fillmore streets, surrounded by beautiful grounds in which some of the trees planted by the Mayor many years ago have grown to majestic size and are now covered with ivy. There are well-kept grass plats and a great profusion of flowers.

It is something like twenty years since Mr. Sutro went to live in this home like house with his family. Years passed and he took up his abode in his romantic residence on the ocean cliffs, leaving the old home to his wife and children.

Not long ago Mrs. Sutro passed away, and soon afterward the unmarried children went out to the heights and made their home there. The old residence was closed, and now it is to be sold, since Mayor Sutro has no further use for it.

The grounds it has been divided into several lots. The price asked is $140,000 for Hayes street and 137 feet 6 inches on Fillmore street. As the value of the whole property is more than anybody wishes to give for the house that Sutro built and the laws around it, it is anticipated that many of the negatives will be converted into lantern slides, the effect of Yosemite views, especially when suitably colored, and thrown on the screen, being wonderfully realistic. The proposed trip should be of benefit of good results to Mr. Adams and his friends.

Dr. E. G. Eisen and W. C. McIntosh are devoting their attention to marine scenery. J. A. Hall is taking some good flashlights and interiors.

Dr. Cecchi, an old-time photographer, is making a specialty of interiors and children.

E. Kolb, a recent addition to the ranks, is doing good work with his Kodak. "Miss Ella Hobart" is doing a good deal of home and outdoor work.

Miss Frauenholz is devoting her talents to taking children's portraits. Her efforts are attended with much success.

Samuel Reiss is turning out some good portraits work.

E. Gray has taken a camera east and hopes to return with a batch of interesting negatives.

Samuel Reiss has been working flashlights with considerable success.

LOS ANGELES IS HONORED.

The Supreme Circle, C. O. F., Will Hold Its Next Convention There.

BUNKER HILL DAY ADOPTED.

Measures Adopted That Will Give All Circles a Much Better Financial Basis.

One of the most important legislative measures of the session of the Supreme Circle, Companions of the Forest, was enacted yesterday. It provides for placing the circles on a sounder financial basis, by making the dues commensurate with the benefits to be received. Those paying 50 cents a month will hereafter be entitled, during illness, to doctor and medicine only; those paying 75 cents will be entitled to doctor, medicine and a weekly allowance of $3 for six weeks and half that amount for another six weeks; those paying $1 will be entitled to doctor, medicine, a weekly allowance of $6 for six weeks and half that amount for an additional period of six weeks.

It was also decided to change the form of the medical examiner's certificate, so as to require a more thorough physical examination.

The degree of past supreme chief companion was conferred on J. R. Hughes of Columbia Circle No. 150 of Sacramento.

In the evening Social Hall in the A. O. F. building, at 102 O'Farrell street, was held with an audience of Companions of the Forest, who witnessed an exemplification of the initiatory work of the order by the grand officers under the auspices of Bohemian Circle No. 134.

To-day the principal business yet remaining is the election of officers. In addition to the candidates previously mentioned in these columns the following have been announced: Mrs. F. N. Morrow for grand left guide, and Mrs. B. Mackrett for grand right guide.

THE SECOND TRIAL ENDS.

Mrs. Louise Worthington's Case Is Again in the Hands of a Jury.

The second trial of Mrs. Louise Worthington for the killing of Henry Baddeley closed yesterday afternoon, and late in the evening the jurors, having failed to agree on a verdict, were locked up for the night.

In the opening of the trial Attorney Haskell for the defendant aroused the indignation of the court by saying that he would reserve an exception for the Judge's refusal to instruct the defendant fully as to her rights, and refusing to state in what particular there was a failure of instruction.

Judge Belcher characterized this action as a trick and stated his intention of citing Haskell for contempt therefor.

Yesterday on the opening of court Attorney Haskell made a complete apology for any laches committed through oversight throughout the proceedings, and Judge Belcher acknowledged the apology as satisfactory. It is understood that the threatened contempt proceedings will now be dropped.

Haskell made an eloquent plea in behalf of the defendant. He reviewed the testimony and bore chiefly on the proof of the insanity of Mrs. Worthington at the time of the murder. He drew a fervid parallel between the killing of Baddeley and the killing of the inhuman wretch who betrayed the victims of the Baptist Church murder, saying that as that miscreant's killing would be justified, so the killing of Baddeley was justified for the protection of the home and society.

He painted the punishment of the woman as undecent and declared that he relied upon the evidence to show her absolute irresponsibility at the time of the deed to which persecution had previously goaded her.

The Baddeley family entered the court to hear the closing argument of District Attorney Peixoto, who begged the jury to dissociate sentiment and the cold facts of the law from their minds and not to be swayed by the word-pictures of counsel for the defense.

He ridiculed the theory of insanity, and declared the killing had been prompted by motive, and that motive had been an avaricious desire to come out by the evidence of eye-witnesses, nor the admissions of the defendant herself.

Judge Belcher delivered an able and exhaustive charge to the jury. He told the jury to find—First, whether an offense had been committed; second, if any offense had been committed whether or not the defendant committed it; and third, if there are affirmative findings what the grade of the offense was. Two pleas on the part of the defendant were also to be considered, viz: One of "formal acquittal of the charge of murder of the first degree" and the other of "one in jeopardy on account of a former conviction of the same offense."

The court then instructed the jury as to the legal definition of "murder," "reasonable doubt," the worth of "verbal admissions" by the defendant, the testimony of a witness, the value of a confession, and the legal significance of the defense of insanity. This was shown to consist of an inability to distinguish right from wrong, manifestly as opposed to morality.

Finally the court bade the jury find a verdict of guilty or not guilty, but true in fact as well as in name, according to the law and the evidence.

DIED IN PRISON.

Death of Harry Baxter, the Oldest Prisoner in the Branch Jail.

David, commonly called "Harry" Baxter, a character well known to the police, died yesterday in the House of Correction at the age of 69 years. Thirty years ago Baxter entered that institution for the first time. Since then a year has not passed that has not found him there a prisoner for some misdemeanor. In the thirty years he served as a prisoner, and his terms of imprisonment added together make about fifteen years. The charges against him were never higher than being a common drunkard or a vagrant. Baxter came into the good family back in New York and he was among the pioneers of this State. At one time, while still a young man, he owned a valuable placer mine and became wealthy. In later years gambling in mining stocks on Pine street became his curse. He finally lost his fortune and was obliged to take a clerkship for a living. The gambling habit clung to him, and one day Baxter was faced by his employer, who accused him of misappropriation of a small sum of money. He lost his place and self-respect and in time became known as a Chinatown rouser. Year after year the police arrested him and the Judges sentenced him. When sentence was pronounced Baxter's constitution was broken down and he failed by several months of serving out his sentence. He once had a wife and child, but they died long years ago.

The current number of the Photographic Times contains a specimen of the work of Jesse Poundstone. A marine study forms the subject of the picture.

Messrs. Argenti, Owens and Adams propose making a trip to the Yosemite Valley this year. They will start the last week in June with bicycles and cameras. For "big" work, i. e., such negatives as cannot be treated on a small plate, they will use an exceptionally fine and large camera. This will be sent on in advance, and the party will follow with hand cameras and smaller-sized boxes. It is anticipated that many of the negatives will be converted into lantern slides, the effect of Yosemite views, especially when suitably colored, and thrown on the screen, being wonderfully realistic. The proposed trip should be of benefit of good results to Mr. Adams and his friends.

GUN FOR RAPID FIRING.

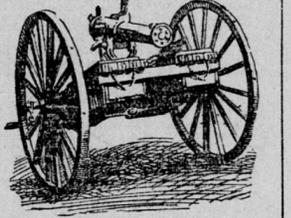

A New Accles Machine for the Naval Battalion of California.

Will Throw 700 Shots a Minute With Initial Velocity of 2000 Feet a Second.

The wires transmitted this message yesterday:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21, 1895. Adjutant Frank A. Brooks, Naval Reserve, California National Guard, San Francisco: Your Accles gun, with ammunition, was shipped yesterday, May 20.

The United States Government makes an annual allowance of $25,000 for the Naval Militia of the Union, and this Accles machine-gun, which, by the way, is of the most modern and approved pattern, was purchased from Government funds allotted to the Naval Battalion of this State.

The Accles is a modification of the Gatling type of guns, and possesses many good points for effective work aboard ship or in the field. Experts in artillery regard it as the best weapon of its type ever constructed, and when it arrives here it will be regarded with a great deal of interest by every one connected with the artillery branch of the service.

The gun may be mounted on field carriages, parapet and embrasure mountings and naval mountings. It can be fired at any degree of elevation or depression, and is so constructed that it is almost impossible for accidents or explosions to occur. It is designed and built to stand the rough usage of field service. It has six barrels, and can be used as long as there is one complete lock and barrel left. The dimensions of the gun are:

Caliber, 30; number of barrels, 6; total length of gun, 41 1/2 inches; number of grooves, 4; twist of rifling, one turn in 10 inches; weight of gun, 150 pounds; rate of fire per minute, 400 to 700; length of cartridges, 3.085 inches.

The bullet is nickel-covered and weighs 220 grains.

THE TURN OF LIFE.

WOMAN'S CRITICAL PERIOD Contemplated with Less Fear than of Old.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

There is no period in woman's earthly career which she approaches with so much anxiety as the "change of life."

Yet during the past twenty years women have learned much from a woman.

It is safe to say that women who prepare themselves for the eventful period pass through it much easier than in the past.

There is but one course to pursue. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be used in time to subdue the nervous complications, and prepare the system for the change.

It is well for those approaching the time to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and get her advice.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing:—"Your Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me; it saved my life when all else failed. I would have been in my grave ten years ago but for it. My womb had fallen and rested on the bladder. The doctor could not relieve me; my mind was deranged. Your Compound cured me. It helped me through the change of life all right and now in good health. It has also cured my husband of kidney trouble; made him like a new man. Please state my words in the strongest terms. I am glad to send you my picture. I travelled twelve miles to have it taken for you. MRS. W. L. DAY, Bettlesville, O."
