

HIS HANDS ARE RED.

Bomb-Thrower Schnaubelt Is Interviewed in Honduras.

NO ROSES IN HIS PATH.

But He Glories in Anarchy and Boasts of the Haymarket Horror.

ROBBED BY HIS COMPANION.

He Yet Lives for Revenge and Keeps Constantly on the Move.

TEGUCIGALPA, HONDURAS, May 22.—A CALL correspondent interviewed Rudolph Schnaubelt, the Chicago anarchist who is here, but who is believed to be preparing to leave.

Schnaubelt told the correspondent that he had left California, but would not be precise about it. He had come on a coasting vessel to Mexico, whence he had taken a Pacific Mail steamer and landed at San Jose de Guatemala, having only money enough to reach that place because the person accompanying him, a Frenchman named Rousseau, had in Acapulco robbed him of nearly all his belongings including over $10,000.

TONG HAKS PUT TO DEATH.

Five Ringleaders Show Stout Hearts During Their Execution.

They Do Not Fear Punishment, but Object to Being Classed as Rebels.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 22.—Late advices from Korea are as follows: It has been discovered that Li, the favorite grandson of the Tai Won Kun, lately arrested on a charge of murder and treason, is not a prince of the blood as was believed.

The five ringleaders of the Tong Haks were sentenced to capital punishment and executed. They were all men of great presence of mind and stout heart, in every respect superior to the average Korean.

Cho, a Councilor of the Department of Justice, remarked that however resolute they might be they must hold their lives precious, whereupon the chief of the five, Zen, replied that he did not value life at all, but that he bitterly regretted being regarded as a rebel.

Mr. Uchida, Japanese Consul at Seoul, endeavored to save the men's lives, but the Korean Judges were inflexible, and the rebel leaders were executed on the morning of the 24th ult.

The budget from April to December of the current year has been framed after considerable discussion. The revenue is estimated at about 4,500,000 yen and the expenditures at 4,500,000.

The organization of the Government and the drafting of several important laws have been at last completed and were proclaimed on the 24th ult. They go into operation from April 1, Korean calendar.

Inflammatory placards denouncing the Japanese representative have been posted in several places of Seoul. They declare that Count Inouye is in league with traitors, the inference being, of course, to Boku and his coadjutors, and they call him a disturber of the public peace of Korea. More than ten charges are enumerated against him.

GENERAL BARKER'S VIEWS.

Trouble Is Not Yet at an End in the Far East.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 22.—Among the passengers on the Empress of India was General Barker, commander of the Imperial forces in Hongkong. Speaking of the recent war, General Barker says the situation is one of great difficulty, as henceforth Japan will have to be reckoned with as a first-class power in the East, and he thought the result of the recent war would further increase the military ardor.

Russia, Barker says, for reasons of her own is determined to Japan shall not acquire continental territory, and in the event of a renewal of hostilities she would, in his opinion, probably co-operate with China. The proximity of the Pescadores to Hongkong renders England an interested party in the dispute, but as to her probable attitude toward Japan, General Barker refused to speak.

No Trouble Among Creeks.

MARQUIS AND LORD, Queensberry and Son Are Both Bound Over.

THE STREET ENCOUNTER. Self-Defense Is the Excuse of the Enraged Father.

DOUGLAS OFTEN INSULTED.

Peculiar Letters Received by His Wife and Other Members of His Family.

LONDON, Eng., May 22.—At Marlborough-street Police court to-day the Marquis of Queensberry and son, Lord Douglas of Hadwick, were bound over, each in $500 to keep the peace.

Both the Marquis of Queensberry and Lord Douglas of Hadwick were fashionably dressed. The Marquis wore a rose in his buttonhole and did not show any sign of yesterday's fight. On the other hand his son had a black eye. The Marquis was not defended by counsel, but Lord Douglas had a lawyer present to attend to his interests.

The police evidence regarding the encounter between the father and the son in Piccadilly yesterday afternoon was first given. The disturbance was described as having taken place near the corner of Bond street. A few words were exchanged and a brief but very determined conflict followed.

The combatants were soon separated by the police, who escorted them to the nearest police station, where they were charged with disorderly conduct. Neither the father nor the son would prefer a charge against the other.

In his defense the Marquis of Queensberry said that while walking in Piccadilly his son, Lord Douglas of Hadwick, came running at him and pushed him against a store-window, speaking at the top of his voice.

The Marquis added that he struck his son in self-defense.

Counsel for Lord Douglas of Hadwick said that the latter and a friend were walking in Piccadilly, not thinking of the Marquis of Queensberry, when the encounter between Lord Douglas and his father took place. Counsel added that Lady Douglas of Hadwick received the following telegram:

"I must congratulate you on the result, but I cannot congratulate you on Percy's appearance. He looks like a dug-out corpse. I fear there is too much madness in kissing. Taylor is guilty; it will be Wilde's turn tomorrow."

It was also asserted that the Marquis had written to Lady Douglas false charges against her husband and members of the family, and that although he had promised to stop writing, he had not done so. Yesterday it was claimed that Lord Douglas asked the Marquis to cease writing these obscene and filthy letters to his wife. The Marquis then hit him in the face and the fight between father and son followed.

After further evidence showing that the Marquis was the aggressor, the case was settled by the Marquis and his son being bound over each in $500 bail to keep the peace.

WANTED BY CREDITORS.

Stock of a Defunct Bank Said to Have Been Illegally Transferred.

Assignees Sued by a Receiver, Who Is Trying to Locate All the Assets.

DENVER, COLO., May 22.—Zeph T. Hill, receiver of the German National Bank, has begun suit in the District Court against the assignees of John J. Reithmann and J. J. Reithmann & Co. to compel them to show cause why they have not made a report of the condition of the estate and to collect the individual liability of Reithmann as a stockholder of the defunct bank.

It is set forth that John J. Reithmann owed the German National Bank $121,597.29 and was the owner of 1057 shares of the bank stock, which, under the ruling of the Comptroller of the Treasury upon the liability of individual shareholders, should realize $105,700. The German National Bank is the largest creditor of the Reithmann concern. The report shows only the status of the wholesale and retail drug-store property. The real estate amounts to more than $1,000,000.

The Reithmann assignees are asked to intervene in the action begun by the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City and to dissolve the attachment upon 2900 shares of Denver Tramway Company stock, which were held in the name of John J. Reithmann at the time of the attachment, the assignment having been made before the attachment. It is contended that this stock should be held for the benefit of the common creditors.

He drew a revolver and fired from the ground. The shooting attracted nine deputy marshals, who had been guarding the works, and they ran to his assistance. After several shots had been exchanged the strikers were driven off. It is reported that one of the mob was shot, and that he was carried off by the strikers.

TO BE CALLED TO TIME.

Mexico Must Pay for the Harsh Treatment of Oberlander.

Officials Sought Revenue Because He Exposed Their Tricks With Chinese.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—At the instance of Patterson Spriggs, a lawyer of San Diego, Cal., Acting Secretary Uhl has brought to the attention of the Mexican Government the claim for reparation of Charles Oberlander of San Diego. Oberlander was a Deputy Marshal in California at the time the Chinese exclusion act went into effect and he was employed in serving on the Mexican border, preventing the smuggling of Chinese from Mexico into the United States.

His statement is that while engaged in this duty he was kidnaped on May 29, 1892, by Mexican officers, forcibly carried out of the United States and kept in confinement in a Mexican prison without warrant of law. All of the Mexicans implicated are named in Oberlander's statement.

"You can have no conception of the condition of affairs down on the boundary," Mr. Spriggs said to a CALL correspondent. "There was collusion between the Mexican officials and United States Marshals. The former would rob deluded Chinamen and run them across the boundary, where the Marshals would be sure to get them, and even the latter would receive large fees for arresting Celestials and taking them before a United States Commissioner, who would, of course, order them to be deported. Oberlander learned who the principals were in this conspiracy. They included many prominent Mexican officials, and when it was made dangerous for them to continue longer the outrageous treatment of Chinese they naturally held Oberlander responsible in a degree for the stopping of their reprehensible means of gain."

"At the time that the Chinese exclusion act went into effect Oberlander had been largely instrumental in breaking up this conspiracy. The affidavits and evidence taken in the case, all of which are before the State Department, prove conclusively to the satisfaction of the State Department officials, as I have been definitely informed, that Oberlander was treated infamously upon slim pretext, and that the real object of the Mexicans was to revenge themselves upon him for his honorable and vigorous persistence in breaking up their illegal practices."

DIVISION OF NET EARNINGS.

Controversy of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line.

OMAHA, NEBR., May 22.—This afternoon the various interests in the hearing before Special Master in Chancery Cornish, as to a division of the net earnings of the Short Line got together. The hearing was called to determine the proper basis of distribution of the earnings and operating expenses between the various mortgage divisions of the Short Line system within itself.

Auditor Young of the Union Pacific was first placed on the stand and expounded the technicalities of making a division of the company's income by divisions. He will resume his testimony to-morrow, when it is expected some startling features may be developed by the representatives of the American Loan and Trust Company trying to learn where various funds have gone in the company's accounting. AFTER KICKAPOO LANDS.

There is a Great Rush of the Settlers and Sooners.

One Bright Kansas Boy Makes a Good Stake by Selling His Place in Line.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., May 22.—All night long the roads leading to the Kickapoo lands were crowded with men on horseback going to the border. The crowd is much larger than was anticipated here. There will hardly be an able-bodied man in the town by to-morrow morning. The banks have given notice that they would close for the day, and the report was started that a raid by outlaws was feared. It will be a great holiday event, and the town has to-day an air of gaiety. No one seems to be working.

Plenty of queer outfits are going out. This morning a bus drawn by four horses took out a town-side party. On the bus was loaded a big tent and wet and dry supplies, and inside were the town projectors and the men who will open the first hotel and restaurant. A large body of horse-men, over 100 strong, started out this morning. It was a fine sight as they went through the streets, four abreast, with Winchester and cantens strapped to their saddles.

A MONTANA ROMANCE.

Attorney-General Haskell Comes Here to Wed the Woman Who Ran Against Him.

The Palace Hotel is to be the scene of the final act in the most interesting romance Montana has furnished when Miss Ella C. Knowles becomes the bride of Henri J. Haskell, Attorney-General of that State. In the campaign of 1892 Mr. Haskell was the nominee of the Republican party of his State for the position; he now holds, and Miss Knowles the candidate of the Populist party for the same office. Miss Knowles made a brilliant campaign, and at first the result was declared that she and Mr. Haskell had tied for the place. A recount was held and Haskell won by a few votes. The two candidates were good friends throughout the campaign, and Miss Knowles so won the respect of her competitor that he appointed her Assistant Attorney-General. A natural enough result was their engagement. Some months ago Miss Knowles met with a severe accident from a runaway team and came to this State to recuperate. She arrived at the Palace on the 17th and Mr. Haskell arrived here yesterday.

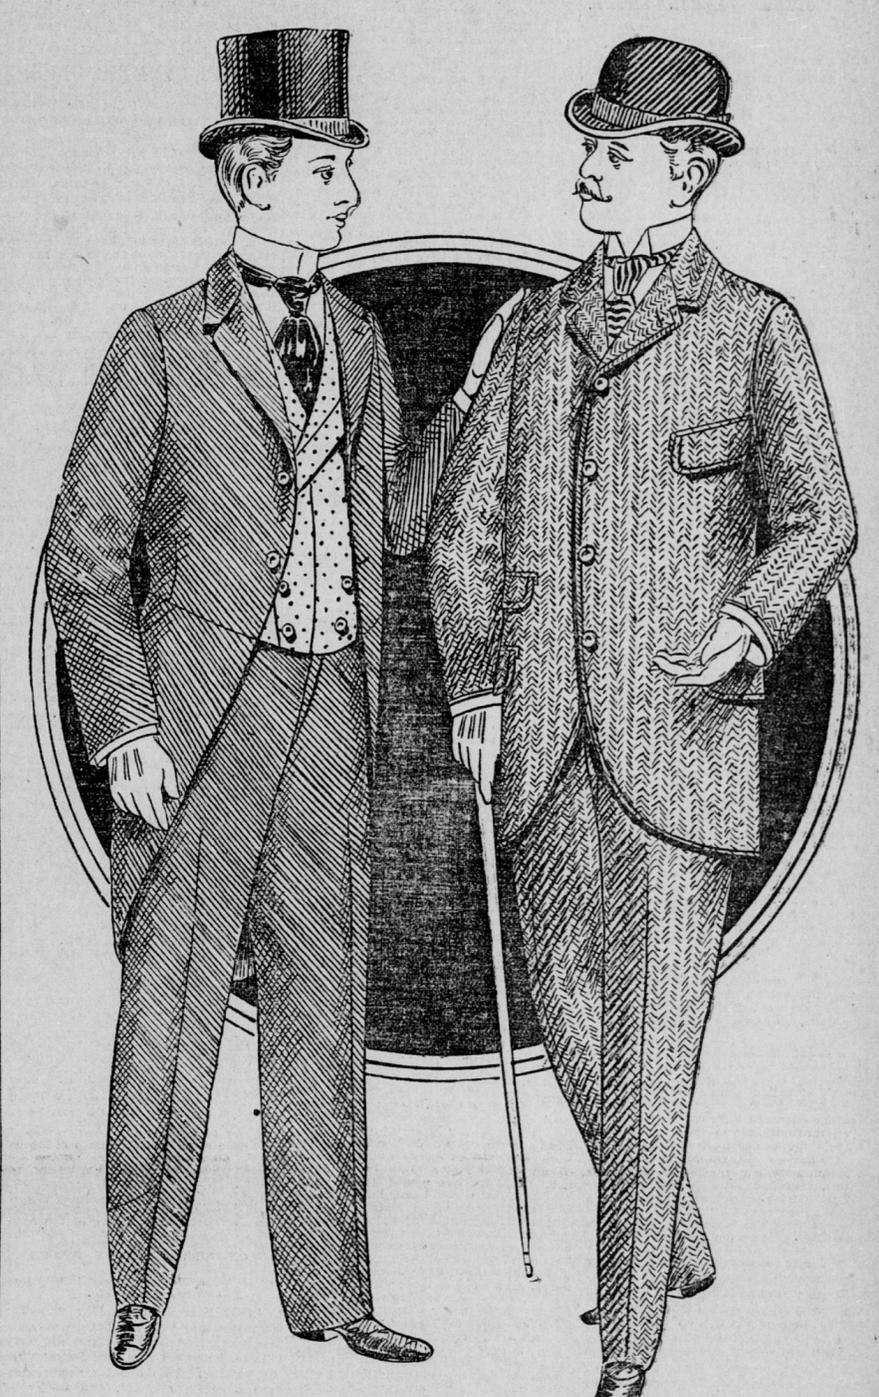

The Governor Goes Home.

Governor Budd goes to Stockton on one of the early trains this morning.

It was rumored that the members of the Board of Health were to be named to-day. Governor Budd was non-committal as to the probable personnel of the board. He has, however, decided when the suspense of the waiters is to cease.

"I have not yet decided upon the members of the Board of Health," he said last night. "You may say, though," he added, "that they will be made known by next Wednesday."

Budd has promised to investigate the case of Dr. Parramore, who was dismissed from the office of Alms-house physician, and if he finds that the young man suffered merely through the fact that he was a Democrat and that he was not personally agreeable to Superintendent Weaver, Dr. Parramore's friends say the Governor will lend his influence to their cause.

The picture above is that of two of our prominent young men about town, attired by Raphael's. The Suits cost Ten Dollars. They're marvels of grace, art and skilled tailoring. The fabrics they come in are Serges, Cheviots, Worsteds and Tweeds. The colorings are Blues, Blacks, Grayish and Brownish Mixtures, suitable for Business and Outing.
