NUMBERS OF HIS PURPOSE.

One Way to Bring the Criminal End of the Suit Before the Grand Jury.

A VERY CAUTIOUS INTERVIEW.

M. W. Fox and W. T. Baggett Say It Is Time for Some One Else to Move.

Since the Supreme Court rendered a decision sustaining the lower court in favor of M. W. Fox, a stockholder in the Hale & Norcross mining suit, who sued the owners of the mine for the recovery of certain sums of money which the Supreme Court says were secured from the stockholders by fraud and corruption, the case has come to a sudden standstill, and the plaintiff and his attorney are waiting for some one to begin a criminal move before the Grand Jury.

"We have," said Mr. Baggett, the plaintiff's attorney, "succeeded in getting a decision in which M. L. Levy and Alvinza Hayward are found to be guilty of fraud and conspiracy by the Supreme Court of the State of California. I was warned not to proceed with this case, as the men involved were millionaires and it would be impossible to get a decision even if our allegations were proved. I was not disposed to think that this State was beyond delivering justice to those who deserved it, and, as you are aware, I moved in the matter with all the capacity I possessed. I proved, and the testimony is still extant, that Levy, Hobart, Hayward and several others were combined in a scheme—partly successful I might say—to defraud the stockholders of the Hale & Norcross mine out of their just dues and dividends. It is not necessary to go over the entire case in order to refresh the mind of any one. Suffice it to say that it has been in progress since 1890 and that we have at last been able to get a decision in our favor.

"Mr. Fox was the only stockholder who ever put up a dollar to push the proceedings, and has never had another cent from any source. All the expense has been shouldered by him, and at this juncture, after the civil proceedings are brought to a close, it is the duty of the Grand Jury, being cognizant of the decision of the Supreme Court, to proceed in the matter of taking up the case and concluding its criminal end. If any single one of the members of the Grand Jury should demand that the Hale & Norcross case be taken up, and the individuals found guilty of fraud be properly dealt with, it would have to be done, but it certainly must be started, that is evident.

"I will even go further. Any stockholder holding stock at the present time, or even one who has held stock in the past, can demand that the Grand Jury summon the guilty ones, and enter into the testimony of the case proving their guilt. It is possible to take up the case, and the individuals found guilty of fraud be properly dealt with, it would have to be done, but it certainly must be started, that is evident.

"How does it happen, Mr. Baggett, inquired the representative of the Nevada Mill, was not mentioned in the decision of the Supreme Court?" "Well, for the reason that he was merely the tool used by the defendants to complete their chicanery, and he is merely an employee of the Hale & Norcross Company. Senator John P. Jones was also one of the principals in our original suit, but it was impossible to get a decision on the case together with Frank Newlands, head of the Sharon estate, was never brought into the suit. Williams, however, had nothing to do with the case other than as an employee of the company.

"There is one thing," said Mr. Fox, who entered into the conversation here, "to which I would like to call the attention of the Grand Jury, and it is the fact that this popular belief regarding fraud being out of the State is not altogether understood in this community. The code says that fraud is not outlawed until three years after it is discovered. Now, mind you, this fraud was not discovered until the Supreme Court rendered its decision, and therefore is not outlawed at the present time. The decision was not rendered until the 3d of August this present year, and it has to run to 1898 before it is beyond the laws of California.

HUNTINGTON INDICTMENT.

It Is Not Determined Whether He Will Be Prosecuted on His Return.

C. P. Huntington left Liverpool on his way to New York. The indictment still hangs over him in San Francisco for violating the law regarding passes, and the question now fraught with interest is, Will the great railway magnate be prosecuted under that indictment?

Students Regret the Resignation of Their Tried Friend and Professor.

He Was Forced to Give Up His Professorship for His Private Practice.

In the assembly-room of the Hastings College of the Law the student body held a special meeting last night to pass resolutions of regret on the recent sudden action of the board of trustees making vacant the chair held by Justice E. W. McKinstry as professor in that institution. Extreme sorrow was expressed by every student and expressed emphatically.

The classes of '95, '96 and '97 were present, besides many of the older alumni. Burbank Summers acted as chairman. J. J. Barrett, vice-president of the middle class, presented a set of resolutions earnestly expressing respect, esteem and admiration for their late instructor and recalling his long and exalted services on the bench and at the bar, his profound knowledge of the law, his eminent career and wise decisions, the enthusiasm with which the students attended his lectures, which were "models of fullness, clearness, simplicity and originality, giving universal satisfaction and earning for him the strong regard and high esteem of every class and its every member."

It was moved that the assembled classes of the Hastings College of the Law should give expression to our deep regret at his retirement. We attest his surpassing fitness for the position he has vacated and we think it cannot soon be filled. We bear witness to the universal respect and admiration with which his energy, zeal and tireless efforts in the scrupulous discharge of the duties of his position have always met. Our best wish is that in the practice of the profession which he has so elevated, honored and faithfully served the same success and appreciation may attend him as crown his career as senior professor of Hastings College of Law.

The resolutions were greeted with vociferous applause and were unanimously passed. In addition to these Burbank Summers, J. J. Barrett, Stanley Jackson, Percy Denman and Miss Mabel Craft were chosen as a committee to select a competent artist to paint a lifelike portrait of the Judge to be hung in the college; also to choose for presentation some fitting testimonial of the warm regard they cherish for him and their appreciation for his past services in their behalf.

There is a certain air of mystery attached to the history of the matter. It will be remembered that some months ago at a meeting of the board of trustees a wish was expressed that the Judge devote all his time to the college. This would necessitate on the Judge's part the relinquishment of his independent practice. He vociferously objected, considering it entirely without reason. A week ago the trustees passed another resolution to the same effect, asking him if his affairs would permit him to give all his attention to the college. He again refused to go by unnoted. The final act on the part of the board of trustees was to declare the vacancy of his chair.

IN A GRASSY THEATER.

Progress of Plans for Giving "As You Like It" at Sutro Heights.

Society and Theatrical Stars Preparing for the Big Open-Air Production.

Arrangements for the production of Shakespeare's pastoral comedy, "As You Like It," in an open-air entertainment at Sutro Heights, are progressing favorably, and present indications augur a most successful performance. Society has taken hold of the affair in earnest, and several ladies prominent in the smart set will be seen in the cast, which will also include a number of stars of the theatrical world. Rose Coghlan, Henry E. Dixey, Maurice Barrymore and several lesser lights will represent the professional talent. S. M. Shortridge has been invited to take part, and will play either Touchstone or Jacques. Dixey will probably play the part of the clown, and Barrymore may be billed to impersonate the melancholy William. The cast has not been made up as yet, nor has a date for the performance been set.

These matters were to have been arranged last evening at a meeting of the projectors, which Mayor Sutro promised to attend. At the last moment, however, he was called away to the country by a telegram and was, therefore, unable to be present.

THE NEW ELECTION BOARD.

Auditor Broderick Will Not Sign the July Salary Demands.

Special Meeting of the Commissioners Called to Consider the Question.

To-day Auditor Broderick will return, without his signature, the salary demands of James Denman, A. E. Castle, Patrick W. Ulin and M. J. Foster, comprising the new Board of Election Commissioners. He will also return unsigned the demands of Registrar Hinton as secretary of the board under the old act.

The Auditor last evening said that he would to-day send a communication to Mr. Hinton as secretary of the new board, setting forth reasons for declining to sign the warrants presented by him for July salaries of the commission.

It was the Auditor's opinion that the Commissioners immediately after their appointment and organization should have applied to the old Board of Election Commissioners, consisting of the Auditor, City and County Attorney, Surveyor and Tax Collector, for the books, records and material of the commission.

In response to this formal demand, Registrar Hinton has been asked to sign the warrants for the salaries of the new board, and the case brought into court. The new Commissioners deemed it best to proceed, as it were, by strategy, instead of approaching in a direct manner to demand the old bills. Now the text of the communication is as follows: "I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 7th inst., in relation to the salary demands of the new Board of Election Commissioners. It is proper, however, that questions of such far-reaching consequence should be adjusted before an election is called, and my refusal to audit the salary demands will open the way for mandamus proceedings to determine the constitutionality of the act may be determined."

Registrar Hinton said that he had been informed that the Auditor would send an order to the Commissioners to determine the salary of the new board, and as he has declared it to be his opinion that the new law is unconstitutional other counsel may be desired.

At one time the information was imparted quite freely that the Union League would not give the Commissioners a dinner but would engage Senator Carpenter to fight their legal battles free of charge to the public, but since the Foster incident the Republican State Central committee has had the matter quiet as a church mouse. The commission has had neither the free dinner nor the gratuitous advice.

July Street-Sweeping Demand.

Auditor Broderick has consented to sign the street-sweeping demands for July to the amount of $1000, in conformity with the rules of the Board of Education, which are not to be paid until June 30. At this time he can not promise to do more, because the levy for the fiscal year ending next June has not been determined. It is possible that the Mayor may veto the pending order, and if another one cannot be passed in due time the levy fixed for the previous year will continue. There is the usual one-twelfth apportionment thereunder.

Exempt Firemen.

The fund of $9000 for the benefit of exempt firemen will be created as the Legislature contemplates. The Auditor sees his way clearly to recognize the fund and the warrants properly drawn thereon.

ON BOARD THE ZARAGOZA.

The Mexican War Vessel the Scene of a Public Reception.

MIDDIES FROM CHAPULTEPEC.

Sail and Yard Drill by the Crew of the Ship-List of Officers.

Yesterday afternoon a public reception was held on board of the Mexican war vessel Zaragoza, lying off the oil works, and a large party of visitors enjoyed the graceful and hearty hospitality of Captain Azueta and his brother officers. At 3 o'clock Consul A. K. Coney and Mrs. Coney arrived, accompanied by the following guests: Senator Rufino Valez, Mexican Consul at Tucson, Ariz.; F. Garrissere, Miss Florence Garrissere, Alex J. Durell, Frank B. Romo; Mrs. L. G. Goch, president of the Mexican Ladies' Benevolent Society; Mrs. M. G. de Romo, secretary of the society; Mrs. Fernandez, Miss Ainz, Miss Andrade, Mrs. Schell, Miss Lou Luga, Miss M. Cuencia, Miss Giralloli, Mrs. Parra, Mrs. Gray, Mr. Locuzio and Mr. Canali.

The guests were conducted to the handsome quarters of the commander, where refreshments were served, and then to the wardroom, where the officers vied with each other in the entertainment of the visitors. To exhibit the seamanship of his crew Captain Azueta put them through the naval evolutions of sail drill and sending down the lighter yards. At the order the little Mexican tar ran aloft and in a short space of time the canvas dropped simultaneously from the yards. The sails were quickly furled and presently the topgallant and royal yards and topgallant masts all came down together on deck with a precision not always found even on crack American and English men-of-war. Prominent among the nimble sailors was the little five-year-old son of the commander. Some day the young reeler will be completing his naval training at the war college at Chapultepec.

The Zaragoza is a French built steel corvette with an armament of six 14-centimeter, or about 5-inch guns, two Nordenfeld quick-fire and two Hotchkiss guns. Her officers are: first lieutenant, C. Gonzalez; second lieutenant, A. G. Baer; lieutenants, A. Zenteno and O. Blanco; engineers, Coward and Vasquez; doctor, Rodriguez, and paymaster, Rocherall. She carries the following ten midshipmen who have completed their six years' student life at Chapultepec: N. Varela, G. A. Plata, George A. Palmer, F. Canales, L. R. Linarez, J. Tamborell, L. E. Pourzan, A. Ortega, S. Torres, J. Ornelas. The young men are engaged in the advanced studies of their profession and their quarters do duty as a schoolroom when the Mexican middies are not standing watch on deck.

Captain Manuel Azueta was born in Mexico 33 years ago, and was educated at the naval school in Spain, and has been in the service of the republic 15 years. He is a highly polished gentleman, a thorough sailor and an earnest patriot of the Mexican Republic.

The Zaragoza has completed her repairs and will sail for Guaymas to-morrow.
