

CALLED HIM DOWN.

Ex - Governor Thayer Before Grand Army Veterans.

HOOTED HIS REMARKS.

Old Soldiers Resented an Insult to Foreigners and Debs.

COMPELLED TO STOP TALKING.

Before Sinking Away the Statesman Hurdled Defiance to His Enraged Audience.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 12.—Ex-Governor John H. Thayer of Nebraska was almost hooted from the platform at the Grand Army campfire at Phoenix Hill last night, which was participated in by a crowd of over 10,000.

After talking of war times and the flag he suddenly shot off on a new tack and commended Grover Cleveland for calling out the United States soldiers to put down the laboring men in Chicago a year ago.

He called Governor Altgeld an anarchist and denounced Eugene V. Debs for everything under the sun. Then he switched about and said:

"Colonel Evans, you are the next Republican Congressman from this district. I call on you to amend the naturalization law when you go to Congress so as to shut out the 'Dagoes' of Italy and the emigrants of other European countries."

Thousands in the audience immediately sang out, "Shut up; sit down."

Colonel Evans advanced to the front of the platform and asked the audience to give Governor Thayer a hearing. Silence reigned for a few minutes and he began again. He said he had made speeches a thousand times, but never before had he been interrupted.

"I don't know why it was," he said. A voice from the audience responded, "You don't know any better."

Thayer attempted to continue his talk on the same lines, but by this time the entire audience was in an uproar, and there were cries of "Take him away," "We won't hear him."

He managed to say: "I thank all the respectable people in the audience for the polite attention they have accorded me. For the disrespectful people I have nothing but contempt," and then left the platform.

COLLAPSE OF A STAND.

Veterans and Others Injured at the Fireworks Display.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 12.—A section of the grand stand on the river front, in the rear of the Galt House, and which was occupied by Grand Army officials and visiting members of the press, collapsed while the fireworks display was in progress.

Dozens of the occupants sustained bruises, sprains, contusions and slight injuries, but none were seriously hurt. A panic was only averted by the appeals of several cool-headed men to the 2000 people on the rear seats to keep cool.

Several ladies fainted and were removed by the ambulance corps.

AT THE ENCAMPMENT.

A Touching Incident Followed the Speech of Henry Watterson.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 12.—Business and pleasure were combined by the Grand Army folks to-day. While the delegates to the National encampment settled down to legislate for the good of the order and to select officers for another year the rank and file indulged in the reunions that of late years have become one of the most interesting features of encampment week.

At Camp Caldwell and in the tents over at Jeffersonville, as well as in the schoolhouse and other post headquarters, the survivors of State regiments and their companies now scattered throughout the country met together to say "God bless you" once more and to rehearse never-to-be-forgotten incidents upon the battlefields. There were many affecting scenes as comrades who had not met since the war recognized each other. Their joy could not find expression in words and they fell upon each other's necks, while the tears streamed down their wrinkled faces.

There were many ex-Confederates, too, that hunted up the reunion quarters of regiments with which they had engaged in hand to hand encounters, and made themselves at home with their former foes. Thus, in scores of places throughout the city the blue and the gray spent the day and evening in a fraternalism that came from the heart and soul. The delegates to the National encampment found it difficult to get down to business after the emotion created by the welcoming exercises. The scene that followed the closing words of the fervid oration of Henry Watterson was thrilling.

The speaker himself was overcome with emotion and left the front of the stage. Men rose in their seats and not only cheered but yelled. They cried and cheered by turns, hugged each other and threw hats, fans and handkerchiefs into the air. But they were not prepared for the touching incident which followed thirty seconds later. Mrs. John A. Logan was seated a short distance back of the commander-in-chief's stand, and as Mr. Watterson walked away from the footlights, with the tears coursing down his cheeks, General Lawler took his hand and pulled him to Mrs. Logan. Neither could speak for a moment, and then the white-haired, motherly looking woman took his hand in both of hers, and when she found her voice said, tremblingly: "I am glad I have been permitted to live to hear your speech." That was all she could say. Then she sat down and wept.

Meanwhile a scene of a very different nature was being enacted at the opening session of the National Convention of the Women's Relief Corps. For several years the branch of the organization at Canton, Ohio, has sent a delegate, Mrs. Ada A. Clark, and just as often she has been excluded on technical grounds, the opposition to her being led by Mrs. Sherwood of the same city, an ex-president of the corps. The feud has become a celebrated one in Ohio. This year Mrs. Clark came to Louisville, determined to enforce her claims, and early this morning accompanied by counsel, she appeared before Judge Edwards and secured the issue of fifteen injunctions, restraining as many National officers of the corps from refusing her recognition as a delegate. The papers were given to Sheriff Pfanz for personal service, and having succeeded in securing admission to the secret session in Liberty Hall by warning the sentinel of the majesty of the law, he proceeded to the platform and served the first injunction upon the National president, Mrs. M. R. M. Wallace, of Chicago. Then he was in a quandary. The other fourteen he did not know from Adam. Mrs. Wallace upon being asked to point them out refused bluntly. Delegates mounted chairs and begged their sisters not to betray their associates. But Mrs. Clark had friends on the floor, and one by one, amid a scene of wild excitement, the officials were designated until all the injunctions had been served. Then Mrs. Clark took off her hat in triumph and the Sheriff withdrew.

The address of Commander Lawler and the presentation of subordinate reports occupied the remainder of the morning session of the encampment. When the encampment reassembled at 2:30 the location of the next encampment was made the special order. The claims of St. Paul were presented by H. A. Castle and ex-Governor McGill, those of Denver by Nicholas O'Brien and General John Cook Jr., and those of Buffalo by F. L. Atkinson and James Graham.

The first ballot resulted as follows: St. Paul 396, Buffalo 226, Denver 187, Nashville 26. The selection of St. Paul was made unanimous.

The election of officers was the next order. For commander-in-chief, General T. N. Walker of Indianapolis was nominated by his only competitor, General Thayer of Nebraska, and chosen unanimously; for senior vice-commander-in-chief, General G. H. Hobson of Greensburg, Ky., and for junior vice, S. G. Cosgrove of the State of Washington, were chosen by acclamation. An adjournment was then taken until Friday afternoon.

At the close of the morning session the officers and council of the Women's Relief Corps called a conference and decided not to continue with business until the Clark injunction has been argued in court. Counsel was at once employed to move its dissolution to-morrow morning. The delegates met in the afternoon with open doors and listened to speeches and the reading of letters from absentees. Mrs. Clark was in her seat, but took no part in the proceedings.

The Ladies of the Grand Army met in conference at Liberty Hall, with Mrs. N. Gunlock of Chicago presiding. The report showed a membership of 20,000, an increase of 4000 during the year, mostly in Illinois. No business of National importance was transacted.

The display of fireworks on the river front to-night was one of the finest ever seen here. Two hundred thousand spectators lined the Kentucky banks.

STEAL PETALUMA CHICKS

War Declared Against the Whole Tribe of Poultry Thieves.

Victims of Their Depredations Will Offer a Reward for Their Conviction.

PETALUMA, CAL., Sept. 12.—The chicken men hereabout are determined to catch the whole tribe of poultry-thieves who have infested this neighborhood for some time, and at a recent meeting they passed resolutions and made provisions for employing private detectives. To-day they are getting a purse together to offer as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the miscreants who have been stealing poultry by the hundred.

OIL TRANSPORTATION.

The Problem Now Engaging the Attention of the Oil Exchange.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Sept. 12.—The members of the Los Angeles Oil Exchange have been busy for several days working on the problem of transportation of oil to San Francisco. It is understood that good progress is being made and that in a day or two the negotiations now pending will have been carried through. A well-known oil man to-day said that San Francisco, once satisfied that transportation facilities can be had, will consume several thousand barrels of Los Angeles oil daily.

Will Extend the Road.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Sept. 12.—R. S. Seibert, who has been prominently identified with the Nevada Southern Railroad, has sent a delegate, Mrs. Ada A. Clark, and just as often she has been excluded on technical grounds, the opposition to her being led by Mrs. Sherwood of the same city, an ex-president of the corps. The feud has become a celebrated one in Ohio. This year Mrs. Clark came to Louisville, determined to enforce her claims, and early this morning accompanied by counsel, she appeared before Judge Edwards and secured the issue of fifteen injunctions, restraining as many National officers of the corps from refusing her recognition as a delegate. STOPPED BY BANDITS

Four Robbers Held Up a Passenger Train in Oklahoma.

SECURED ONLY A GUN.

Falling to Open the Express Safe the Outlaws Quickly Fled.

COWARDICE OF TWO OFFICERS.

Deputy United States Marshals Held Their Weapons and Crouched Behind Seats.

WICHITA, KANS., Sept. 12.—The west-bound passenger train on the Santa Fe was held up, three miles west of Curtis, O. T., at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon by four robbers, all of whom wore black masks.

The robbers forced the section boss, John Miller, at the point of a Winchester, to place and other obstructions on the track in a deep cut, and then, still keeping their guns leveled at him from behind a pile of rocks, they made him flag the train.

The train, which was under the charge of Conductor Corfield, Engineer Robert Buswell, Fireman Tom Parks, came within an ace of crashing into the obstruction. When the train stopped two of the desperadoes ordered the engineer and fireman off the engine, and made them march down the track some distance.

Several shots were fired through the express-car, one of which barely missed Messenger Kiever, who retreated to the smoker and did not venture out again during the holdup. The conductor and brakeman jumped off to investigate the cause of the sudden stop, and found themselves looking down the muzzles of a pair of Winchester. They were ordered to get back on the train and obeyed instantly.

The robbers first entered the mailcar, and then proceeded to go through the express-car. They got nothing but the messenger's gun, and when they asked the engineer who the messenger was, he said he was unable to identify him.

Their programme had evidently been to compel the messenger at the point of guns to deliver up the money packages. Foiled in their efforts to open the safe, they beat a hasty retreat, ordering the crew not to move the train until they gave the signal. The hold-up lasted nearly a half hour.

Two Deputy United States Marshals who were on the train exhibited pitiable cowardice, hiding their guns and crouching behind the seats. After the train got under way the deputy marshals fired at the retreating robbers from the baggage-car, but to no effect.

During the hold-up the robbers' horses were hitched in a ravine several rods distant. A special train from Woodward, O. T., bearing Deputy Sheriff Ben Woodford and Deputy United States Marshals Funhauser and Hall, reached the scene an hour and a half after the hold-up. The trail was plain and leads in a southeasterly direction toward the Blackjacket country. The officers are in hot pursuit of the robbers. It is the first instance of a daylight hold-up known in this section.

SANTA CRUZ, CAL., Sept. 12.—William Jackson received a sentence of five years in Folsom by Judge Logan this morning. He was charged with abducting Katie Fillmore, a 14-year-old girl, from her home at Corralitos, Mendocino county, guilty this morning in the Superior Court to the charge of burglary. He will be sentenced on Monday. Mendoza is the young Spaniard who burglarized the stores of P. J. Friemuth and Anderson at Watsonville a short time ago. He has money, but seems to have an inclination to steal.

In the United States District Court at Portland, Or., counsel for Seid Bark, the Chinese merchant, sentenced to pay a $5000 fine for smuggling, moved for a reduction of penalty. Counsel stated that it was impossible for Seid Bark to raise the amount of the fine and that he would appeal to the Supreme Court to go to jail. If he did, under the circumstances, he would not doubt take advantage of the paper act and be released after serving only thirty days. In that event the Government would get nothing. Upon that point Judge Bellinger reduced the penalty to $3000.

Robert J Easily Defeated Joe Patchen at Louisville.

MADE A SPLENDID RACE.

The Great Son of a Great Sire Created a New Track Record.

THE FASTEST FOURTH HEAT.

Jockey Eddie Cassin Pulled Simon W, and Was Promptly Indefinitely Suspended.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 12.—About 10,000 people jostled against each other and sweltered in the grand stand and lawn at the Louisville Driving and Fair Association this afternoon in their effort to get places of vantage to witness the event of the day—the pacing race between Robert J, Joe Patchen and John R. Gentry.

The great son of a great sire, Robert J, is still the king of pacers, for although Joe Patchen won a heat to-day Robert J made the circuit four times, not once faltering, and finished three times ahead of his rival. In the fourth heat Geers drove Robert J to his limit, and doing so he made a world's record for a fourth heat for harness horses.

In the contending heat Joe Patchen was a nose in front when the word was given, and he led to within fifty yards of the wire, when he went off his feet, and Robert J, who was only a neck behind him, passed under the wire a winner of the heat and race by a length.

The fifth and sixth races were carried over until to-morrow, while the seventh was not reached.
