Judge Hanford Ousts Northern Pacific Receivers.

IVES' GREAT VICTORY.

Resignations of Oakes, Payne and Rouse Are Refused Acceptance.

JUDGE JENKINS TURNED DOWN.

Andrew F. Burleigh Placed in Charge of the Company's Washington Property.

SEATTLE, WASH., Oct. 2.—President Brayton lives of the Northern Pacific Railroad, in his war on Receivers Oakes, Payne and Rouse, scored a great victory this morning in the United States District Court when Judge Hanford summarily rejected the distinguished trio of railroad magnates because of their failure to obey the order of his court, and appointed as their successor Andrew F. Burleigh, general counsel of the Oregon Improvement Company, to be sole receiver of all Northern Pacific property within the jurisdiction of this court.

Upon consideration of the fact that Receivers Oakes, Payne and Rouse have disregarded the order to file their accounts in this court, I now make an order removing them from their offices as receivers. The court makes a further order appointing Andrew F. Burleigh to be sole receiver of the property and business of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company within jurisdiction of this court.

After receiving a $300,000 bond of Mr. Burleigh, which he gave promptly with a check on H. M. McLaughlin, McDonald, Jacob Furth, C. J. Smith, A. B. Stewart and S. L. Crawford as sureties, Judge Hanford concluded his remarks, saying:

"All that I wish to say in addition to entering this order is that my hope is that for the credit of the judiciary and as well for the preservation of the rights of all parties having money invested in this great estate, a proper adjustment of differences may be arrived at, or that the courts will be set right in all points as to which they have differed in opinion very speedily, or some order or decision of an appellate tribunal that has authority and jurisdiction to correct errors of Circuit courts, and with that object in view I regard this appointment as being temporary in character, and prefer to name only one person, instead of attempting to place a number of persons in the position of receiver at this time. In taking this course I have had the benefit of a limited conference with Judge Gilbert, who I hoped could be here, but who has not been able to be here. So far as the action of the court at this time is concerned, while it is the action of this court, it has been taken after an informal conference with the Circuit Judge."

Throughout the day's proceedings Judge Hanford made no direct reference to Judge Jenkins' court, but in the most emphatic manner by his action that he did not propose to follow the suit of the Milwaukee jurist and confirm the appointments of Messrs. Biglow and McHenry. His every word and manner indicated that he believed himself right in what he was about, and he desired to wash his hands of anything that had been done by the Wisconsin court. By the side of his Honor Judge John P. Hoyt, a member of the Supreme Court, occupied a seat, and an aggregation of talent and learning that was probably never before equaled in the State faced them through the intensely interesting proceedings.

Following the appointment of Burleigh as sole receiver of all Northern Pacific property in this State, the United States District courts of Oregon, Idaho and Montana will at once be called upon to concur in an confirm the selection. This, if done, will place more than three-fifths of the great Northern Pacific property under the direct management and control of Mr. Burleigh.

Two special trains going south to Portland and another east through Idaho and Montana, left Seattle this evening to make a tour of the States traversed in the Ninth Judicial Circuit by rail, having aboard the various counsel, who participated in the great battle here to-day. In this array were eminent jurists, brilliant lawyers, United States Senators and Congressmen and politicians of high and low degree. Hon. James McNaught of this city, general counsel of the Northern Pacific, is generally credited with being the chief adviser and counselor of Mr. Ives in his fight.

At Portland, for which City Receiver Burleigh left on a special train to-night, Judge Gilbert will be asked to confirm the appointment of to-day. There is no doubt that he will heartily concur, for Judge Hanford announced this morning that he had consulted Judge Gilbert, who is also a member of the Circuit Court of Appeals, and that his Honor had approved the course appointing Burleigh. In Idaho Judge Healy of Boise and in Montana Judge Knowlton of Helena will be asked within the next day or two to concur in Judge Hanford's action.

In a second and more sensational affidavit filed with the court to-day Ives charges that William Nelson Cronwell, counsel for the old receivers in July, 1893, said that Henry Villard had arranged to have Henry C. Payne appointed as one of the receivers.

Mr. Burleigh's appointment appeared to give general satisfaction. He will tender his resignation as general counsel for the Oregon Improvement Company within a few days.

Before leaving for Portland this evening Mr. Burleigh appointed George W. Dickinson, sole Tacoma general manager of the road, Heretofore Mr. Dickinson has served the company in the capacity of assistant general superintendent.

Terrible Experience of Three Brothers at Riverside.

TWO OVERCOME BY GAS.

Will Higgins Died From Suffocation and Thomas Fainted.

THE OTHER HAS GONE INSANE.

On Seeing One Dead and the Other Ill Hugh Lost His Mind.

RIVERSIDE, CAL., Oct. 2.—A terrible accident, in which one man lost his life and another his reason and a third lies dangerously poisoned by noxious gases, is reported from West Riverside, a settlement west of this city. William, Hugh and Thomas Higgins, brothers, engaged in digging a well, and when they had reached a depth of 102 feet rock was encountered.

Dynamite was used for blasting. The men placed a couple of blasts last yesterday afternoon, only one of which exploded. Will Higgins was lowered into the well by his brothers to investigate. Soon after reaching the bottom Higgins signaled his brothers to haul him up. This they started to do, but the unfortunate man was too much overcome to hold on to the bucket, and he fell out after being raised probably twenty feet. A death wail was all that was heard after the fall. The brothers surmised the worst, and Thomas started down to recover the injured man.

He too was soon nearly overcome, but not before he had placed the dead body in the buggy and gave the signal to hoist. Hugh Higgins, who had remained at the top, was suddenly bereft of his reason when he saw the lifeless body of Will and the terrible condition of Thomas.

SCORED THE GRAND JURY.

Trials of Supervisor Curtis at Sacramento Proves a Boomerang.

Judge Catlin Orders a Verdict of Acquittal of Any Wrongful Act.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Oct. 2.—The recent Grand Jury, of which H. M. Lane was foreman, received a body today in the Superior Court. The jury had presented accusations against the Supervisors individually for willful misconduct in office, specifying that they had allowed certain claims for clerical work in some of the county offices in violation of law.

The specific charge on which Supervisor Curtis was tried was that he had voted to pay the claims of extra deputies in the Assessor's office two years ago. The trial was concluded to-day, and Judge Catlin instructed the jury to acquit the Supervisor of any wrongful act. The jury not only did this, but suggested that the county would have done so even though the court had not instructed them to that effect.

They went further and openly declared that the members of the Grand Jury, who had all the facts before them, should be sued for the amount of money uselessly expended by the county to prosecute the case.

The defense showed by the testimony of Supervisors of Santa Clara and other counties that the Grand Jury had acted in a manner that was not only illegal, but also a violation of the State Board of Equalization and other officials that an Assessor is entitled to such deputies as in the judgment of the Board of Supervisors enable him to complete his work within the time required by law if the Supervisors are convinced that such employment is necessary.

They showed also that the persons so employed must not receive more than $5 a day, nor be employed more than four months; that these facts show that it was within the contemplation of the Legislature that these appointments should be considered as reasonable emergency cases; that the deputies are provided for by the law, and that it is the duty of the Supervisors to pay their bills, and if they fail to authorize the Assessor to employ such deputies, the necessary existing the State Board of Equalization may do so; that the passage of the county government act did not modify or repeal any sections of the law governing this authority.

THOUGHT IT WAS CHOLERA.

San Bernardino Citizens Made Ill and Badly Scared by Buttermilk.

No Fatal Cases, but the Physicians Puzzled as to the Real Cause.

SAN BERNARDINO, CAL., Oct. 2.—There was a big scare at Colton, last night, when a dozen or more prominent citizens of both sexes were seized with colic symptoms of such violence as to suggest cholera. Every doctor in town was busy for two hours with suddenly stricken patients.

Among them were Mrs. A. B. Miner, Mrs. John Platt, Mrs. Blakely and William Butten. All of them suffered through the night very severely and one patient is still unable to leave her bed. Investigation to-day revealed the fact that all who were poisoned had taken buttermilk from John L. Clifford, who buys all the product of the creamery distributed here last month and delivers it over his regular route.

The weather has been unusually close and sultry for the past few days, and milk and cream everywhere have soured in half the customary time. It is not believed that any of the cans were foul nor that chemical action produced by heat created a poisonous compound. Physicians are discussing whether or not a new form of tyrotoxin has been developed, and altogether the cases make a very interesting study and may serve to add something to materia medica.

Another theory advanced is that the milkman, to keep the milk from spoiling, introduced some acid, which he put in itself but in combination creating a poison.

ALESSANDRO VALLEY BONDS.

Citizens Organize to Attack Those of an Irrigation District.

MORENO, CAL., Oct. 2.—An organization has been formed in the Alessandro Valley, known as the Alessandro Valley Defense Association, the purpose of which is to attack and set aside $765,000 of bonds issued by the Alessandro Irrigation District, and transferred to the Bear Valley Irrigation Company for 51,000 class "B" water right certificates purported to represent 60,000 inches continuous flow of water to be delivered by the company to the district for the purpose of irrigating its lands.

This is the present result, according to President D. E. Myers, of the famous Bear Valley deal, during which over $900,000 was divided, up to and including the year 1892 and 1893. In the latter part of 1893, sale of lands and stock ceased. The status of the company became generally known, and finding its usefulness ended, it went into bankruptcy and its affairs are in the hands of a receiver of the United States Court.

As a result of all this there is only about 250 acres of land supplied, as guaranteed to purchasers, with water or can be so supplied. The owners of the balance of the 25,000 acres in the district are having to pay enormous taxes to meet the interest on the bonds of the district and to pay the expenses of the district without receiving any benefit whatever or hope to receive any in the future. The $765,000 in bonds amounts to $30 per acre on the 25,000 acres of land in the district, including the Government land bonded. This is more than the land is worth without water. As a consequence about 16,000 acres, or about three-fourths of all the land that does not receive water and some of that does receive it, are forfeited to the district, and as the district cannot tax its own land it leaves the actual settlers on about 2800 acres to pay the $765,000 of bonds. This, of course, they cannot do.

REDWOOD CITY'S THEATER.

Work on the Pretty Structure Is Nearing Completion.

REDWOOD CITY, CAL., Oct. 2.—The new theater building now being erected on Main street is progressing favorably. A solid concrete foundation was laid. On this the brick walls of the first story have been raised. The iron columns and steel girders of the front portion of the structure are also in place, and the second story is well under way.

The building is a very substantial one, with heavy walls and timbers throughout. While of ample dimensions for the needs of the town it is not going to be of unwise extravagance, although every appointment is to be modern and first class.

The first story will be of iron and plate-glass front and used for store purposes. The second story will be the theater proper and public hall, and under Page Brown's creation will be of unique Moorish design, the four large windows being of quatrefoil or leaf-like pattern, and set in deep embrasures very similar to many of the picturesque windows on the

DROWNED NEAR STOCKTON.

An Unknown Man Jumped From the Steamer T. C. Walker.

STOCKTON, CAL., Oct. 2.—The body of an unknown man was found floating in Stockton Channel, near Mormon Slough junction, this afternoon by some fishermen. Pilot Sault of the T. C. Walker stated to-day that a man leaped from the boat on the down trip Monday night and was drowned.

When the boat reached a point near where Mormon Slough meets Stockton Channel he agreed to go overboard from the bow, and immediately gave the alarm. Bow-watchman James Cates ran forward, and looking over the side of the boat saw a man struggling in the water. A life-preserver was thrown to him, but he would not grasp it. Finally the steamer was stopped and a boat lowered, but the man had sunk out of sight.

The officers of the steamer T. C. Walker did not give notice of the fact that the man had been overboard. The corner knew nothing of the suicide until the body was found this evening. The remains have not been identified.

WANTS A NOTE CANCELED.

Mrs. Manner Charges the Equitable With Fraudulent Acts.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Oct. 2.—Mrs. Emma Manner to-day commenced suit in the Superior Court against the Equitable Life Assurance Society and T. P. Spiers, the local agent of the company, to have a promissory note for $102 given defendant declared void and canceled.

In the complaint the plaintiff alleges that on June 7, 1895, the Equitable Life Assurance Society, through its agent, agreed to deliver to her a ten-payment life insurance policy for $10,000; that it was represented to the plaintiff that if she would not accept it, and that shortly after the time of the issuance of the policy she also refused to accept.

On September 12 last the plaintiff demanded the return and cancellation of the three promissory notes, but the complaint relates the Agent Spiers, who had the amount of the notes paid to the company, and the latter refused to cancel the notes unless she would pay a ratable proportion of the first annual premium from the time of the issuance of the policy to the date of her demand.

The plaintiff asserts that these representations were fraudulent and made for the purpose of inducing her to settle on the terms suggested, which she did, executing a note for $102 and securing in return her three promissory notes. Plaintiff asks for the return of her promissory note for $102 and costs of suit, and that a note for $102 be issued to her by the defendants from disposing of her note.

Silver Debate by Irish and Cator at Los Angeles.

FOUR THOUSAND PEOPLE.

The Audience Cheered Loudly the Advocate of the White Metal.

DID NOT LIKE CLEVELAND.

Mention of the President's Name Drew Out a Big Storm of Disapprobation.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Oct. 2.—An audience of nearly 4,000 people assembled at Hazard's Pavilion to-night to listen to the debate between Thomas V. Cator and Colonel John P. Irish on the silver question. Congressman McLachlan presided and his introduction of Mr. Cator was received with tumultuous applause.

Mr. Cator, after a few complimentary remarks to his audience, launched into his subject with great earnestness, presented some statistics regarding silver, and then stated that a scare had been made by the goldbugs, saying that this country would be flooded by foreign silver if a free coinage act were passed, answering it with the statement that no more money could be coined than the industries could use.

If a gold standard was to be maintained, the farming classes would be wiped out, the Nation would be destroyed and general bankruptcy would result.

Colonel Irish, in reply, said that he was glad that he had been honored with call to duty outside of a political campaign, especially to discuss a question so vital to his country's welfare.

He reviewed the financial condition and legislation of the country from 1793 to the present date, quoted from Jefferson and Macaulay, and stated that he stood with patriots and statesmen such as Jefferson, Jackson, Benton, Hunter, and Grover Cleveland. At the mention of Cleveland's name a perfect storm of hisses arose from the audience, which provoked from the colonel the remark that only two classes of animals hissed—snakes, who were venomous, or geese, who were silly.

The colonel went on to remark that anything stamped a dollar did not necessarily represent a dollar; that an inflation of currency meant destruction of public credit and private prosperity; that there never had been and never would be enough money to pay all the debts of the world. He reviewed the prices of cotton and wheat, denied that the fluctuations in silver affected them and stated that America was never more prosperous than when under a gold standard.

Mr. Cator, in his reply, aroused the audience to the very zenith of enthusiasm by a fling at the present administration. Said he: "In answer to my friend's statement that the best and only money for the workman is gold, I would ask you if the Rothschilds and all the goldbugs are surrounding Congress in the interests of the workmen. The time has come for us to assert our American manhood, to dictate the financial policy of the Nation instead of being dictated to—to crush Wall street, the most dangerous enemy that menaces our country, and to place in office men of ability, patriotism and honesty.

THE GREEK CONSUL'S DAUGHTER AND SERVANT STILL UNDISCOVERED.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Oct. 2.—It is now seventeen days since Adrian Pavides disappeared from the residence of her father, Dr. Pavides, the Greek Consul, at 1327 Flower street, in company with the maid servant, Adelaide LePage. It is as much a mystery to-day where the girls are as it was an hour after their disappearance was made known.

Detectives, police officers, Deputy Sheriffs and constables have been scouring all Southern California, but not the slightest trace or clew of the missing girls, nor of Edward L. Rangod, who left with them, has been found.

Adelaide LePage, the servant, had had some words with Dr. Pavides a few days before she left, and it was thought that possibly she had persuaded the doctor's daughter to leave with her to frighten her parents. If this was the girl's object she has succeeded, for Dr. Pavides does not think that he will ever see his daughter again.

Many theories have been advanced, but everybody is in the dark. The mystery is growing to be as deep as that which surrounded the Charley Ross case.

STANDARD OIL CORNER.

Various Opinions as to the Effect of the Corporation at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Oct. 2.—Advices from San Francisco are to the effect that the syndicate recently formed in that city to control the oil industry of Los Angeles acknowledges its defeat by the Standard Oil Company. The unexpected move of the Standard Oil people is all the talk in the oil districts. R. T. Nelson thinks that the company is about to corner the Los Angeles output. J. B. Martin expressed it as his opinion that the Standard Oil people did not mean business.

There is a difference of opinion among the producers as to the intentions of the great octopus. William Lacy, president of the Puente Oil Company, who is interested in the fields to the extent that his company handles large quantities of the local oil monthly, is of the opinion that the coming of the Standard Oil people into the field is a good thing. It has been his experience that the more buyers there are the better it is for the producers. The Standard Oil Company, he says, has considerable faith in the permanency of our oil output, else they would not come in.
