treasurer, $5000, was exhausted. Since then the cooks and waiters have been going on the every-man-for-himself principle. Last evening the twenty-five striking waiters and a large number of sympathizers in the same line of work assembled at 1159 Mission street. Walter McArthur, E. P. Burnes and Ed Rosenberg of the organizing committee of the Trades Council assisted the waiters in perfecting a temporary organization, which will be under the wing of the National Waiters' Union, headquarters at St. Louis. Application will be made for a charter at once. Temporary officers were elected. An organization committee was appointed to go among the waiters and induce all to join the union. It is expected that when the charter arrives there will be a large body of waiters ready to sign the roll.

At the New Creamerie restaurant, at 725 Market street, where the strike of waiters took place at noon, Friday, everything was moving along yesterday as if nothing of a disturbing nature had occurred. The place of the strikers were all filled with new men, the old hands were paid what was due them yesterday morning, and the proprietors expected no further trouble.

JOHN P. CLABROUGH DEAD.

Was the Senior Member of a Prosperous Pioneer Business Firm. Most of His Time Was Spent Abroad, but He Was Well Known to Local Sportsmen.

John P. Clabrough, senior member of the firm of Clabrough, Golcher & Co., died at the residence of his sister-in-law, Mrs. George Clabrough, at 5:45 last evening. The firm of which Mr. Clabrough was a member was one of the pioneer concerns of the City, and among sportsmen and business men he was very well known and extremely popular.

The deceased was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1824. While at a young man he emigrated to this country and made the trip across the plains. He reached San Francisco late in the fifties, where he at once obtained employment in a gunstore. This business had a peculiar fascination for him and he soon mastered all the detail of the fire-arms trade.

For some years he held a lucrative position with Liddle & Kaeding, on Washington street. This he resigned in 1864 to organize, with William Golcher, the firm of Clabrough, Golcher & Co. This firm met with marked success from its inception, and two years later Mr. Clabrough, who had retained an interest in the concern, departed for Birmingham, England, where he started a gun factory. This venture also proved successful, and has occupied most of its proprietors' attention up to two years ago.

While Mr. Clabrough has made his home in England most of the time during the last twenty-five years he has made it a point to visit his friends in San Francisco and to look after the place of his business every two or three years.

About two years ago he left England for good. His declining years (he was then 58) he determined to spend in this City. He took up his residence with his sister-in-law, Mrs. George Clabrough, who has two children are his only relatives in California. Here he enjoyed excellent health until about three months ago. He was then attacked with a disease of the liver, from which he never recovered.

Mr. Clabrough was never married. He leaves a sister in Illinois and a brother and sister in England. He belonged to no fraternal societies in this country nor, as far as is known, in England.

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. George Clabrough, at 906 Greenwich street.
