Ivan Kovalev on Trial for the Weber Murders at Sacramento.

A STRONG LEGAL CHAIN.

Circumstantial Evidence at the Preliminary Trial Apparently Sufficient.

BUT MAY CHEAT THE HANGMAN

The Prisoner's Physical and Mental Condition Marks Him as Near the Grave.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Nov. 4.—Ivan Kovalev, the Russian escapee from the island of Saghalien, who braved the terrors of the Pacific Ocean in an open boat to escape the living death of a Siberian prison, with its multitudinous horrors, was brought into Judge Johnson's court this morning to be tried for his life—a life that will be speedily forfeited should the prosecution succeed in welding the chain of circumstantial evidence which, if one reverts to the preliminary examination, seemingly connects him undeniably with the dastardly murder of F. H. L. Weber and his aged wife on December 29 last.

Yet, despite the strength of circumstantial evidence adduced at that time, there are people who are asking with simple earnestness if Kovalev is in reality guilty, or whether there could by any possibility be a concerted plan on the part of agents of the Russian Government to prove the miserable wretch guilty of this hideous crime in order to wreak vengeance on the culprit who escaped the meshes of their net of justice in far-away Saghalien.

Even should the prisoner be convicted and sentenced there is a strong probability that the gallows will be cheated of its prey, for if ever human being bore the imprint of the finger of death upon his face that human being is Ivan Kovalev.

His cheeks, which at the time of his arrest were full and round, are now white and sunken. His eyes have glare of death. His lower jaw droop helplessly.

Ivan Kovalev's mind seems to be wandering and all day he sits silently between his counsel, Senator Hart and Major Anderson, with wild staring eyes, apparently paying no heed to any of the proceedings or to the glances of the curious crowd that packed the courtroom.

Only once during the entire day's proceedings was there any change perceptible in Ivan Kovalev, and that was when a fellow-countryman, evidently a friend, laid his hand on his shoulder during a brief recess and whispered in his ear in his mother tongue.

Then a fleeting look of interest swept across his face, and, moistening his dry lips with his tongue, he muttered a reply and then collapsed into his old hopeless attitude.

At the close of to-day's proceedings four jurors had been selected. They are George Maddox, William N. Upton, M. L. Jones and Emil Grosze.

KILLED A FELLOW ITALIAN.

Two Workmen Quarreled and a Third Got in the Way of a Bullet.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Nov. 4.—Francisco Cannelle was shot and killed by Paroni Cefferino at Hollister's place, one and a half miles below Courtland, last night. Both men are Italian workmen on the ranch.

But meager accounts could be secured of the occurrence. It appears that Cefferino and another Italian named Luemina Mancina had been quarreling in front of the cabin where they lived and Mancina stepped inside. As he did so, or a moment after, Cannelle, who also lived there, came out of the door. Cefferino must have taken him for his antagonist, for he shot at him. The ball took effect fatally. Cefferino was kept prisoner over night. This morning Sheriff Johnson sent Deputy Schwilke after him and Coroner Clark took charge of the body.

NOT A REAL DESERTION.

Amanda Best of San Jose Fails to Secure the Divorce She Sought.

Barron Estate Suit, the Chrysanthemum Show and Other Items of News.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Nov. 4.—The application for divorce, on the ground of desertion, of Amanda Best from Thaddeus Best, was denied to-day by Judge Lorgan.

The decision was on the ground that there was no evidence to show that he had deserted her. In March, 1894, Best went to Boston to accept a position, and left his wife in possession of the home near Evergreen.

For some time they corresponded, but finally the wife ceased to hear from her husband. The Judge says as there was no proof of a quarrel, and as the wife had made a living off the place and had never wanted to go he could find no evidence of desertion, and no good cause for granting the divorce.

BARRON ESTATE AT SAN JOSE. Further Court Proceedings in the Famous Will Case.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Nov. 4.—George W. Monteith, attorney for Edward Andrew Barron, the negro claimant to the Barron estate, to-day filed demurrers to the answers of Mary F. Barron, George F. Barron and Eva Rose Barron.

Notice was given that on November 22 a motion will be made to strike out certain paragraphs of the answer of Mary F. Barron, and at the same time she will be asked to answer more definitely to the petition that an issue may be joined.

Chrysanthemum Fair. SAN JOSE, CAL., Nov. 4.—The annual chrysanthemum fair, under the direction of the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society and the directors of the Pratt Home, opened this evening with a good attendance. The decorations of the hall are elaborate, and the displays of chrysanthemums are the best ever exhibited in this city. The booths were well patronized. After the grand promenade concert, dancing was indulged in in an adjoining hall.

Arraigned for Robbery.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Nov. 4.—Miles McDermitt was arraigned before Justice Gass this morning on the charge of robbing Pierre Le Pointer of $8. The men were drinking together and McDermitt took the money from Le Pointer's pocket and transferred it to his own. McDermitt's examination was set for November 7, with bail at $500.

For Letters of Administration.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Nov. 4.—George Kettman to-day petitioned for letters of administration upon the estate of Elizabeth Dierker, who died in Iowa a few months ago. The estate in this county consists of a lot, valued at $250. November 15 was set as the time for hearing the petition.

FRESNO'S POLICE ROW.

Suspensions Ordered of Four Members of the Force Awaiting Investigation for Drunkenness.

FRESNO, CAL., Nov. 4.—At a meeting of the City Trustees to-night four policemen of the City Force were suspended on the charge of drunkenness while on duty. The estate in this county consists of a lot, valued at $250. November 15 was set as the time for hearing the petition.

RELEASED AN ASCONDER.

The Return of Fresno County's Ex-Deputy Clerk Not Desired.

FRESNO, CAL., Nov. 4.—Sheriff Scott to-day sent a telegram to the Sheriff in Galesburg, Ill., to whom Clark E. Wood, the deputy clerk of this county who recently disappeared, gave himself up, to release Wood.

The authorities here do not want him, and it was on the advice of the District Attorney that Sheriff Scott sent the telegram.

The bond, $300, of Wood as commissioner in the case which he had in charge, when he absconded, was received by Supervisor Wickersham to-day. It was sent to him by Wood, who had taken it with him when he left.

PROMISES VERY LIVELY.

Some Interesting Developments Anticipated in Sacramento's Election.

Republicans Claim a Walkover, but the Outcome Hard to Guess.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Nov. 4.—To-morrow's election promises to be exceedingly lively, and if one may judge by the threats and counter threats that can be heard on all sides, there may be blood letting and hand scrapping.

Captain Bradley, it is claimed, has boasted of 100 men, tried and true, who under his leadership will see that the polls are fully protected. This does not seem to meet the approbation of the residents in the downtown wards, and they declare that if he attempts to invade their precincts he will depart a sadder and wiser individual, if he departs at all of his own volition. The fact that he has circulated a printed slip to-day, containing a violent attack on J. W. Wilson, the Republican candidate for the Mayoralty, has not only aroused a feeling of indignation throughout the city against him personally, but is said to have reacted against Hubbard, in whose interest it was professionally done.

Steinman's adherents, such as remain staunch to his interests, are announcing his chances of election loudly, and are also distributing circulars containing the declaration of G. P. Huntington to the effect that the railroad company will never interfere in politics unless their individual interests are attacked.

This is also acting as a boomerang, as it claimed that in one case during the past year their interest has been attacked by Steinman, and that in consequence Wilson will receive the vote of the shops.

W. D. Lawton, at the head of the reformed Democracy, is making a noble fight, but with absolutely no chance of success. Since a great many prominent Catholic citizens have declared in favor of Wilson, Hubbard's bright chances are said to be rapidly fading into gloom, and the claim is made by the Republican leaders that all is over but the shouting and that the ticket will win as an entirety, with the exception of possibly a few minor offices.

KILLED IN THE BRIGGS MINE.

Sydney Porter, Son of the Superintendent, Fell to His Death in a Ninety-Foot Shaft.

RIVERSIDE, CAL., Nov. 4.—Last evening a deplorable accident occurred at the Briggs mine, fourteen miles from this city, by which Sydney, the 13-year old son of S. R. Porter, superintendent of the mine, lost his life. The parents of the boy had been entertaining company, and in the evening a trip was suggested to the mine.

The party entered one of the tunnels, being provided with a lantern. The boy, who was searching for them, made for the spot where the rays of the lantern were reflected, never thinking or not knowing that a ninety-foot shaft had been opened between him and the end of the tunnel. Into this he fell headfirst. Thirty-five feet below he struck on a bucket which had been drawn part way up the ladder. From this he fell to the bottom of the shaft.

Two miners named Peck and Watkins who were at work in the shaft gave the signal to lower the bucket, and sent the boy to the top, when it was found he was dead. A scalp wound several inches in length, and a fractured skull exposing the brain, plainly told the cause of death. No bones were broken.

Bank Failure at Whatcom.

SEATTLE, WASH., Nov. 4.—The Bellingham Bay National Bank of Whatcom closed its doors to-day. The suspension was decided upon after a conference of directors. During the great panic the bank failed, but resumed payment some months later.

Pure Quill Mine Fatality.

ANGELS CAMP, CAL., Nov. 4.—David Sutherland, a Scotchman, about 45 years old, was killed this morning at the Pure Quill mine. A bucket of rock fell, horribly crushing him.

Auspicious Opening of the Cadmus Works at Nevada City.

FIVE PARALLEL VEINS.

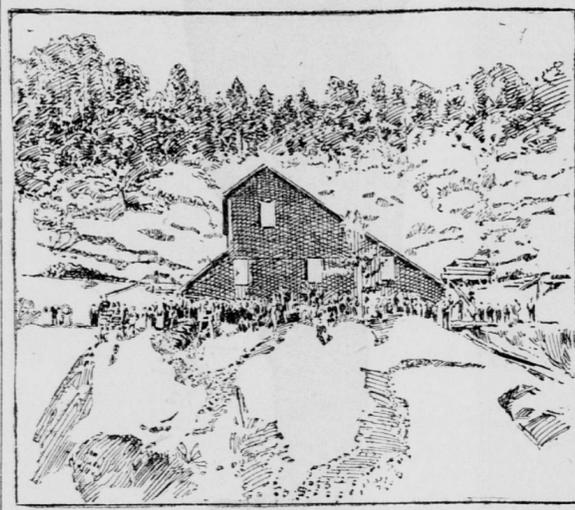

Gold Ore in All Encourages Energetic Development of the Claim.

Past Results and Prospects for the Future of the Famous Home Mine.

(Special Correspondence of THE CALL)

NEVADA CITY, CAL., Nov. 3.—As stated in yesterday's dispatch to THE CALL the formal opening of the Cadmus mine

FORMAL "OPENING" OF THE CADMUS GOLD MINE AT NEVADA CITY, CAL.

was made the occasion of a great jollification at Nevada City.

The list of visitors from San Francisco included Charles Stepp, president of the company; John M. Harper, vice-president; A. Goetz, treasurer; A. Rapp, secretary; Charles Goetz, Fred Attiner, J. T. M. Kelly, R. Finking, W. J. Smith, William Bartjes, Ad H. Weber, George H. Luch-singer, Robert Hewson, L. Winter, William Flagemann, L. Reckless, F. C. Miller, Fred Karmiller, A. Pohlhammer, L. Lautermilch, J. A. Miller, R. Eden, George Conon, J. F. Hink, U. Remelsburger, P. Tielman, W. Goegel, J. Wucherer and A. J. Brooks.

The purchase and development of the Cadmus mine is an outgrowth of the work done on the Home mine adjoining. The claim is a large one, being 1500 by 3000 feet. The surface indications of value were very slight at the beginning, but judicious prospecting developed five distinct veins, all prospecting finely in free gold and carrying a large percentage of rich sulphurets. The course of these veins is northwest and southeast, and across Deer Creek, in Red Hill, they have thrown out rich pockets, the Providence mine, and was selected because of his special knowledge of the ground and general capability, and the work done under his supervision commands the choice.

The Home mine was in a way the parent of the Cadmus. It was the discoveries and developments made in this mine that induced the purchase of the adjoining ground. Tom Finley of Grass Valley in 1867 sunk a shaft in the bed of Deer Creek on the Home mine vein, and took out a lot of rich rock. The creek got on a rampage that winter, as it sometimes does, and the shaft was obliterated under many feet of debris. Spasmodic efforts were made afterward by different persons at different times to reopen the mine, but no persistence or judgment was used until some two and a half years ago, when Charles Stepp and A. Getz secured the property, and under their energetic management, coupled with good sense in erecting their shaft at an advantageous point, all difficulties were overcome, and the mine is in a fair way to become a dividend-paying property in the not far distant future.

A working shaft was started on the south side of Deer Creek, and at a depth of 200 feet crosscuts were run and several small veins encountered, from one of which about 100 tons of ore was taken, including several hundred pounds of specimen rock worth $17 per ton. The ore was crushed in the Nevada County mill, and averaged $17 per ton in fine gold and the sulphurets went $310 per ton. As the indications all pointed to an increase in size and richness at depth, the shaft was started down again, and at a depth of 70 feet a vein was cut three feet wide, having 18 inches of rich ore, much of it showing free gold. The shaft will be continued to the 400-foot level and crosscuts run to prospect all the veins.

The buildings and machinery on the Home are all substantial and modern, put up for work and not for show. The power used is water applied to Peckton wheels, and the plant is sufficient to sink 1500 feet. The claim is irregular in shape, being 700 feet wide on the north and 300 on the south and 2500 feet long.

The officers of the Home Company are: Charles Goetzinger, president; Martin O'Dea, vice-president; J. B. Fargo, treasurer; J. O. Johnson, secretary. These officers and A. Getz compose the directory; Charles Kahl, superintendent.

A. J. Brooks.

over $100,000 having been taken out of "everybody's mine," as that hill is called. A peculiarity of these veins is the fact that the two footwall veins dip east, the central vein is nearly perpendicular, while the two west veins dip west. From this dip the probability seems to be that they will concentrate in depth, probably between the 500 and 700 levels.

The development work in the Cadmus mine consists of four tunnels, the one on the footwall ledge being in 300 feet, the next one sixty-five feet, and that on the O'Dea, or center ledge, 108 feet, which is used as a drainage tunnel, a station being cut in the shaft on it. The other tunnel to the west is in seventy-five feet. The shaft has been sunk sixty feet, and at that point work was suspended in sinking until proper machinery could be supplied.

Having established the fact of the existence of five parallel veins, a site for a permanent working shaft was chosen about midway between them, so that they might be most easily crossed until depth consolidates them, if that theory proves to be correct. The country rock on the Cadmus location is slate and very favorable for cheap and expeditious working.

The improvements on the Cadmus consist of a finely timbered two-compartment shaft, 5 by 9 in the clear, including a man-way. The building covering the machinery is 26 by 65, fifty feet high, substantially constructed. The machinery consists of a 10-inch Cornish pump, capable of lifting 6000 gallons on a hour, run by a 5-foot Pelton wheel, with a 200-foot pressure. The hoist has a separate wheel of the same dimensions and power. The shaft is the only perpendicular one in the county, and the machinery is calculated to sink 2500 feet. The intention is to go down 300 feet before crosscutting and 600 feet before opening up the mine for the extraction of ore.

The machinery was constructed and erected by the Miners' Foundry at Nevada City, and all supplies, so far as possible, are purchased at home. The Miners' Foundry, under the direction of Martin Brothers & Muir, has a wide reputation for doing good work, and the Cadmus plant is a model in all respects. At the opening yesterday to test the efficacy of the safety cage, R. Eden, Captain Niles and Tom Jones mounted the cage and cut it loose, when it only fell six inches before being stopped by the clutches.

The hoisting works of the Cadmus Company are on the banks of Deer Creek, at an elevation of fifty feet, allowing ample dump facilities and affording a favorable site for a mill below. Unlimited power may be obtained from the Excelsior Ditch Company. The country rock of the Cadmus ground, being slate, is considered a very favorable point just now, in the light of the recent rich strike in the Providence at the 180 level, in slate.

The superintendent of the Cadmus, Charley Kahl, was formerly foreman at Stockton Commercial Association and the Valley Road.

WILL KEEP PROMISES.

President Buell Urged the Donators of Land to Act With Expedition.

CONDEMNATION SUIT PUSHED.

One Individual Found to Be Obstinate in His Refusal to Submit.

STOCKTON, CAL., Nov. 4.—The Commercial Association held a well-attended meeting this evening. The principal topic discussed was in relation to the fulfillment of the association's promises to the directors of the San Joaquin Valley Railroad. President Buell put the matter squarely before the members and urged, on behalf of the honor of the city, some immediate steps toward placing the company in possession of the various blocks of land promised at the time when the directors visited the city and decided, in consideration of the people's promises, to bring the line this way.

The members seemed agreed that some plan must be put in execution whereby such an end could be attained.

Blocks 19 and 23 remain to be purchased and a mortgage must be lifted on block 27. The people have witnessed the active construction work on the line, and so fully has the company redeemed its promises that the members of the association seem thoroughly stirred up in the matter.

A resolution was adopted authorizing President Buell to wait upon the directors and ask, on behalf of the association, permission to solicit from local subscribers to cash donations, to the extent of about $15,000, in order that the land may be secured without further delay.

This will require some work, as the subscribers value their claim upon the stock very highly. But it is believed that, in consideration of the object to be attained, enough changes to secure the amount could be brought about. This is of course considered as a means to an end, as the company will soon need the land.

The association desires to clear up the land part of the promise at once, and to this end the directors will probably be waited upon to-morrow by the bearers of the proposition. By a decisive vote it was decided to prosecute the condemnation for a right of way against P. J. Chalmers with vigor.

Dr. Chalmers to-day tried to make the sale of the five and a half acres involved for $3000, with the intimation that he would raise the price if the matter was carried into court. It is reported that at one time he placed a valuation of only $400 an acre on his land.

At that rate the association could buy sixty acres for $2400, enough to take out right of the land he claims the line will follow. It appears that the railroad directors made all concessions possible to Mr. Chalmers, and as fast as he was favored in one way he would make additional demands.

The association is confident that the court will cut his figures greatly. Ex-Congressman James A. Louttit was made chairman of the committee on the new postoffice building and H. J. Corcoran of that on waterways. Both gentlemen are well qualified to do effective work in the two important positions.

Considerable surprise was occasioned by the presentation of bills from M. D. Eaton and Fred Arnold for services in securing rights of way for the association. The claims were sent to the executive committee for action.

The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chair in the expectation that Mr. Buell will render an early report on the result of his conference with the railroad people at San Francisco.

Corral Hollow Road Suit.

STOCKTON, CAL., Nov. 4.—The Alameda and San Joaquin Railway Company, commonly known as the Corral Hollow road, to-day commenced condemnation proceedings against C. Ludwig, who owns a ranch on the west, to compel him to grant a right of way for the road through his land. The strip asked for comprises 7.84 acres and Ludwig refuses to let the road have it at any price. Arthur Levinsky is attorney for the plaintiff.

TO DREDGE THE SUISUN.

Congressman Hilborn Will Ask National Aid for the Project.

He Advises the Compiling of Statistics Showing the Amount of Shipping.

SUISUN, CAL., Nov. 4.—After spending yesterday in Suisun, Congressman Hilborn took his departure on the last train for the National Capital. The representative of the Third District came here at the request of many of the leading citizens of this vicinity, who wanted to discuss with him the question of dredging Suisun Slough by the Government.

In December, 1894, Lieutenant Potter, a Government engineer, came to Suisun to make an investigation as to the necessity of improving the waterway, and through some possible misunderstanding he received no attention from the proper representatives of the town. This resulted in an adverse report being sent to the War Department at Washington. In the face of this report, Mr. Hilborn was urged to work for an appropriation for dredging and otherwise improving the slough, and the matter was thoroughly discussed by all who attended the meeting.

The changed conditions of affairs were pointed out to him. He admitted the importance of Suisun as a shipping point and said that, taken from this point of view, it is second to Petaluma as an inland shipping point.

The high freight rates charged by the railroads to the people of Elmira, Vacaville, Winters and other towns north of here have this season caused them to ship most of their merchandise to Suisun by schooner, to be hauled by team the remainder of the way.

During the past four months from six to a dozen eight-horse and ten-horse teams could daily be seen hauling their loads of merchandise from the wharves. One firm alone, with yards at four of the towns north of Suisun, received over half a million feet of lumber here, and effected a saving of about $2000 in transportation, while about $8000 was placed in circulation by paying it to farmers for teaming.

As it is impossible to haul heavy loads over the roads in parts of Solano County during the rainy season, and the cheap rates to this point have caused the people here and those living in the towns above named to consider a permanent means of transportation to and from tide water.

The Solano Republican and Winters Express for several months has advocated the building of an electric railway from Suisun to Winters. From present indications this is one of the possibilities of the future. It cannot be done, however, until Suisun slough is so improved that large steamers can make regular trips. These were the principal facts shown to Congressman Hilborn, and, being perfectly familiar with this section of the country, he admitted that the demands of the people here were worthy of recognition by the Government.

Acting on his suggestion, the Town Trustees, at their next meeting, will employ a competent person to gather shipping statistics from Suisun and the country north of here, and the same will be forwarded to him at Washington.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Andrew Kerr Received a Serious Wound While Out Hunting.

SUISUN, CAL., Nov. 4.—While hunting near Joyce Island yesterday Andrew Kerr, a carpenter who resides with his wife and three children in Fairfield, was accidentally shot and may lose his right leg. Kerr was in company with Jack Aiken. Their boat drifted into the high tides along the bank of one of the narrow sloughs.

In trying to work out of this position one of their guns was caught by the tides and it dropped to the bottom of the boat. The hammer struck as it fell, discharging it, and the full charge entered Kerr's leg below the knee. The accident occurred at 5 o'clock, and it was after midnight before the injured man was landed at the wharf here.

Kerr suffered intensely during the seven hours his companions were rowing in the boat against the wind and tide, and he was very weak from loss of blood. Dr. Ostrander dressed the wound, but cannot yet determine its seriousness.

TRIAL OF SEALING SCHOONERS.

Chief Justice Davis Hears Evidence in the Case Against the Shelly, Reserving His Decision.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 4.—The trial of the sealers seized by American cutters began to-day in the Admiralty court, before Chief Justice Davis. The case of the Shelly was first taken up. The case rested on the right of the schooner to pass through the closed waters while sailing home, if, as contended, no sealing was done.

Although the evidence of the schooner's crew is in direct denial of sealing in the sea, there is a suspicion that the vessel was there at least in search of seals. On this contention the crown asks the forfeiture of the vessel and equipment.

Judgment was reserved until the hearing of actions against the Beatrice and Marvin, which are set for Monday next.

DEMPSEY'S BODY INTERRED.

Floral Offerings From Friends Far and Near Decorated the Casket.

PORTLAND, OR., Nov. 4.—The funeral services over the body of Jack Dempsey were held this morning at the residence, and were followed by public services at St. Francis Church, where requiem mass was sung under direction of Father Heinrich.

Fully 2000 people attended the service, but not more than half could gain admission to the church, and the remainder stood on the street. The floral offerings were gorgeous and numerous, and filled the interment took place at Calvary Cemetery.
