

breakfast, and he heard that from a traveling man who used to borrow money from the doctor to get the jag with. I say, friend, do you give me a few dollars on a sure thing? Now let me give you a tip on the next race. I am right on the in—

"Who is that gentleman there by the telephone office?" "Oh, that's Hugh Hume, editor of the Post."

"What is the matter with him? He keeps moving around as though some one was after his scalp."

"Well, on the quiet, Hume has been annoyed all the afternoon by a cock-eyed man who looms up every five minutes and puts the hoodoo onto him. Every time he goes up to buy a pool that fellow looks over his shoulder and gives him the glassy eye. I don't blame Hume for keeping out of the way. When you are liable to such hoodoos it is a good idea to lay low. See, there he is now right behind him now. Just wait till Hume sees him."

"Jim Flynn, president of the Iroquois Club—$3, and the winner will be a 50 to 1 shot. Just let me take a $10 gold piece, and I'll throw it all into the pool. You can pull out $500 easy, but of course I get in on something like 10 per cent, which is a mere—"

"Well, if I must tell you how I feel about betting, I will state that I am very much inclined to the belief of your friend, Captain Lees."

In a moment the tout was gone, probably for the purpose of making a new and more sporty acquaintance.

was not the favorite's day, for Miller could already be seen urging him to keep in up in the bunch. Swinging around the turn into the stretch for the final effort, there was no material change in the positions, with the exception that Foremost had fallen back behind the favorite, G. B. Morris still being the target-carrier. The weight on Victor now began to tell, and although Cash Sloane strove desperately to retain the lead, Bergen, hugging the inside position with Junius, passed him and romped in an easy winner by five lengths, amid great cheering by the backers of the outsider. Gallant, who ran a great race, was lapped on Victor as the wire was passed. The winner covered the distance in 1:59, a remarkably fine performance.

The fourth event on the card was a five and a half furlong spin for maiden two-year-olds, and the Flambeau youngster Ravelston scored the first win for Mr. A. B. Spreckels. Coupled in the betting with Pique, the pair were backed down from 2 1/2 to 1 to 7 to 5, the stable relying on Ravelston to pull the event off. This he did in gallant style, for, shaking off Masocco, who tried hard to get to the front, the duo headed the other eight starters into the stretch. Ravelston here drew away and won easily by four lengths. La Flecha passed Pique the last sixteenth, finishing second.

A number of jumping talents was down to start in the one and a half miles hurdle race, the last event on the card, and the most exciting and stubbornly contested finish of the day was witnessed. A whole carload of money went in on the Elkton stable's J. O. C., still as good as 8 to 5, was obtainable at bugle call. Six to 5, however, was much more plentiful.

Andy Blakeley's jumper, Colonel Weightman, was a decidedly well-backed second choice at two. April, Son Enough and Three Forks commanded some small backing. After some little jockeying at the post, they were sent away well bunched. Soon Enough was indulged with the lead for little over half a mile, when J. O. C. and Colonel Weightman passed him, and a hammer-and-tongs struggle took place to the wire. Over the last jump the Colonel looked a winner, but Hennessy sat down hard on the Elkton jumper, and responding gamely, hung on, and the pair passed the wire so close together that the judges were unable to separate them, declaring it a dead heat. April was a distant third.

MISSING FOR TWO WEEKS, All Trace Lost of Mary Funk, a Sutter-Street Domestic. SHE LEFT FOR MILL VALLEY. Every Effort to Discover Her Whereabouts by Her Friends Proved Futile.

Mary Funk, a domestic in the employ of Mrs. Simon at 221 Sutter street, has disappeared, and all efforts to obtain information as to her whereabouts have proved unsuccessful. She left the home of Mrs. Simon on the 13th of this month, and a word has since been received from her.

When she left it was with the understanding that she would return in a week, and she also promised to write to her friends while she was away. She said she intended to go to Mill Valley, in Marin County, to spend the week, and only took along sufficient money to pay her railroad fare and hotel bill for that time.

GREENWALD DISAPPEARED. He Was Charged With Embezzlement by the Columbia Mills. His Relatives Say He Took Passage for Europe on a Ship Last Monday.

F. Greenwald, the traveling agent for the Columbia mills, who was arrested three weeks ago on the charge of embezzlement, has disappeared.

After his arrest and arraignment before Judge Johnchansen he was given his liberty on his own recognizance. Since then his friends have not been able to find him, and he labored zealously in his behalf, and one of the results may be found in the circumstance of his disappearance. He had no money and owed every one who would trust him, and it would have been impossible for him to leave the City without assistance.

The crime of which he is charged is of a doubtful character, so far as the capability of his accusers to prove their allegations is concerned. The alleged embezzlement consisted in selling his commutation ticket, in order to get money on which to travel and pay the hotel and other bills incurred while discharging his duties as traveling salesman for the Columbia mills.

Mr. Becker had been a clerk in the grocery store of D. Becker & Co., at the corner of Sutter and Leavenworth streets. He had been drinking for some time and finally went to the Home of the Inebriates, which he left about a week ago, though Dr. Potter thought he should have remained longer. He continued drinking and became morose and despondent.
