

DELIVING FOR DEAD MINERS. Rescue Work Goes Steadily On at the Vulcan Mine.

TWELVE BODIES FOUND.

Arrest of a Man for Looting the Residence of Two of the Victims.

REMOVED TO ESCAPE LYNCHING.

Working Shifts Removing the Debris in Quest of the Remains of the Unfortunate.

NEWCASTLE, Colo., Feb. 20.—Rescue work was temporarily retarded by the placing of a pump so as to draw the water out of the Vulcan slope. A large force was working, never once ceasing except for a few minutes to eat a mouthful.

This morning, about 5 o'clock, a party went down, and in one of the side entries found the bodies of Will Dore, who kept the door, Nick Ross, an Italian miner, Robert Cottle and Emil Funk, son of John Funk, pit boss. Will Dore and Robert Cottle evidently died from suffocation and Ross and young Funk were instantly killed by the explosion. All four bodies were found in the first left entry, about 900 feet from the entrance to the main slope.

From 1 o'clock in the morning, when the brattice over the right entry was put in place, the crews were kept steadily at work clearing away the massive debris from the entrance to the left east workings. The task was rendered dangerous by reason of the prevalent black damp; but toward morning the fan had expelled most of it from the workings, and by 5 o'clock the crews were able to work out the full two-hour shifts.

The first funeral service was held to-day over the body of Ed Welsh, the rope-rider, who was blown out of the slope by the terrible explosion. His sister arrived here to-day from Cripple Creek in response to a telegram sent by Mrs. Welsh before the accident occurred, she having been moved by some premonition of impending trouble to this.

The coroner has decided not to hold an inquest until all the bodies most readily obtainable have been brought to the surface. It is his intention then to probe the affair to the bottom by making the most searching examination into the cause of the accident, and to thus fix the responsibility.

It is impossible just now to say how many bodies remain in the mine. The clerk of the Vulcan Company has made a careful check of his books, and gives it out that the dead will not exceed forty-nine in number, eight of whom have been recovered, and forty-one still remain in the mine.

Concerning this estimate there is room for doubt, however, as to whether it is large enough. Many of the miners who worked in the Vulcan and were off temporarily the day of the explosion, insist that there are four or five more men entombed than is given on the clerk's list.

Carl Schmidt, at one time a saloon-keeper here, was arrested this afternoon by a deputy sheriff on the charge of grand larceny. It is said that he rifled the effects of John Funk in his house near the Vulcan mine. Funk and his son Emil were both killed by the explosion, and the father's body has not yet been recovered.

There was indignation among the miners over Schmidt's alleged act, and while the funeral of Ed Welsh was in progress this afternoon mutterings of an ominous nature were heard on the street corners. Schmidt was taken up back streets and alleys until clear of town, and a freight train was flagged by the officers. He was put on and taken to Glenwood Springs for safety from a mob which would surely have lynched him if he had remained in Newcastle.

Four more bodies were recovered at 2 o'clock this afternoon—those of Chris Seigle, Tony Tapero, John Gombard and Charles Merchant—making a total of twelve bodies recovered so far. Working shifts of eight men are now steadily removing the debris, the work all being done in the left entry, as it is almost certain that nearly all of the dead are in there.

The town is draped in mourning, all the stores and places of business have been closed to-day and everything possible is being done to assist in the rescue of bodies and console the mothers, widows and orphans of the dead miners. The ladies are cooking and serving meals to all at the mines, so those working do not have to leave to get food.

WAILED TO DISASTER. Peculiar Misfortunes of a Family in Pennsylvania.

WEST NEWTON, Pa., Feb. 20.—Etta Rowland, aged 14, and her cousin, Edward Smith, were killed on the railroad near Grapeville, Pa., a few days ago. Within the past two years, Albert Rowland, an uncle of Etta Rowland, and his son Emmet were killed on the railroad near West Newton; her cousin, Frank Rowland, was killed in a mine at Port Royal; the husbands of Frank Rowland's two sisters were killed on the railroad near Jeanette, Pa. Bunt Stevenson, another cousin of Etta Rowland, her uncle, Mark Burdige, and her cousin, Norman Kyle, were killed on the railroad, and her sister Belle was murdered by her lover. Etta Rowland's father only the day before the girl's death was badly injured by a falling tree, and her mother is a cripple from an injury received in a runaway accident.

Rev. Mr. Wood Will Retire. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 20.—The connection of William Wood of Green-castle with Walling and Jackson, the murderers of Pearl Bryan, and the general belief that he himself was an accessory before the fact to the crime, will doubtless result in the retirement of his father from the ministry. It is said that Rev. Mr. Wood feels the disgrace that his son has brought upon him most keenly, and he has not appeared in the pulpit since the facts of the case became known.

An Expedition to Labrador. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 20.—An expedition bound for the interior of Labrador will leave Philadelphia in June for the purpose of studying the Esquimaux and collecting specimens of the flora and fauna of that region. Professor Frank

THE SACRAMENTO RIVER. Improvement Recommended by the Senate Commerce Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—The Senate Commerce Committee to-day ordered a favorable report and the Senate agreed to a resolution directing the Secretary of War to inquire into the present condition of the Sacramento River, the changes in its course caused by recent floods and the effect on navigation of these deviations from the ordinary course of the stream.

An estimate of the cost of restoring the river to its usual channel is required. It was shown to the committee that these floods had washed away the banks of the river, creating crevasses, through which the water finds its way to the lowlands, leaving the bed of a portion of the river nearly dry and thereby rendering navigation difficult and at low water almost impossible.

No Pardon for Holston.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—President Cleveland in denying a pardon to F. M. O. Holston, convicted in Oregon of forgery in a pension case, says he is decidedly in favor of strict punishment in a case like this which involves the "swindling of a poor and needy veteran, and a prostitution of the benevolent intentions of the Government as embodied in its pension law."

Treasury Gold Reserve.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—The treasury gold reserve at the close of business stood at $92,414,987. The withdrawals for the day aggregated $1,093,987. It is expected that to-morrow the gold reserve will exceed $100,000,000.

Signed by the President.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—The President has signed the act to extend the mineral land laws of the United States to lands embraced in the north half of the Colville Indian reservation.

DEPUTIES FIRED UPON.

Officers Receive a Surprise While Making a Raid on a Thieves' Resort.

During the Encounter One Man Is Killed and Three Badly Wounded.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—Jackson City, Va., at the Virginia end of Long Bridge leading across from Washington to the Old Dominion, a place that has long been the resort of thieves and the lower element that follows the racetrack, was to-night the scene of a tragedy in which one man was killed and three wounded.

Six deputies of Sheriff Palmer of Alexandria County made a raid upon a saloon kept by John Nelson. They expected to find stolen property and gambling paraphernalia. As the posse entered the saloon Nelson became aware of their intentions and immediately began firing. Harry Candler, the bartender, followed his employer's example, and a fusillade of bullets met the officers.

About twenty or thirty people were in the saloon at the time, but soon fled from danger. The attack of Nelson and his bartender took the officers unawares, and before they could draw their weapons, Deputy Benjamin Hines (colored) was instantly killed, Special Deputy Johnson shot in the neck and Deputy Edward Deuteran received a bullet in the chin which laid him prostrate.

Charles O'Neill, a hanger-on at the saloon, came to the assistance of the posse and received a bullet in the eye from the pistol of Nelson.

Nelson and Candler fled and the wounded men were brought to the Emergency Hospital at Washington, where they received medical attendance.

The bullet was extracted from Johnson's neck and O'Neill's eye. Deuteran seemed the most injured, but the physicians do not look for fatal results in either case.

The saloon-keeper was so active in using his weapons that the Sheriff's posse was able to make but little showing in their raid upon the lawbreakers.

WALLER IS PARDONED.

Orders Issued for His Release by the Government of France.

The United States Refused to Make an International Controversy Over the Ex-Consul.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—Secretary Olney to-day received the following dispatch from Ambassador Eustis at Paris: "The President signed this morning Waller's pardon. Orders are being issued for his release."

There does not seem to be any intention on the part of Mr. Waller's counsel or of his friends to take advantage of the offer made by the United States Ambassador under instructions from the State Department to enter suit for damages in the French courts, with the United States Ambassador providing the requisite security for cost.

On the contrary the Waller family find that the United States on the facts as disclosed decline to make an international affair out of Waller's offense, and are contemplating his return to Kansas, from which State he was originally appointed Consul at Tamatave, Madagascar.

Mrs. Waller is said to be at present in Baltimore making arrangements for this purpose. Nothing has been heard from Waller directly by his family for three or four weeks, according to the statement made by his daughter to-day.

IVAN KOVALEV MUST DIE TO-DAY.

He Paces His Cell Like a Wild Beast in a Cage.

WILL NOT EAT OR TALK.

It Is Thought He Will Utterly Collapse Before Reaching the Trap.

CLAMOR TO SEE THE HANGING.

Warden Aull Says He Has Never Before Been So Flooded With Applications.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Feb. 20.—Ivan Kovalév's last day on earth has ended and to-night he lies tossing in uneasy slumber, broken by intervals of wakefulness, during which he springs from his cot and paces to and fro like a trapped wild beast in its cage, only to again throw himself on his cot, cover his face with his blanket and toss and tumble and groan in troubled sleep.

All day long he has been in a state of nervous unrest and has refused to eat a mouthful, but seems to be overcome with fever, as he incessantly demands water, which he fairly gulps down. He has again refused to utter a single syllable, either in reply to questions or of his own volition, with the exception of a few words for water. His cell companion, a fellow countryman, who, in addition to the death watch, has been keeping him company since his removal from the solitary cell, where he was placed upon his first arrival at the prison, has been unable to extract anything further of the crime for which his life has been declared forfeited, nor has he admitted that he personally, as is suspected, acknowledged that he took the life of his companion in crime at San Jose to prevent him from exposing him as the perpetrator.

It is now thought that the criminal will utterly collapse before he reaches the trap to-morrow morning, as he has been in such a state of nervous excitement all day, refusing any and all nourishment. He is visibly weaker and his snatches of slumber are so brief that they impart no rest or strength.

Warden Aull when interviewed this evening by a CALL representative said: "I cannot, of course, state with any certainty how Kovalév will behave when led to the gallows to-morrow morning. All I can say is that he will go there somehow. There is no doubt but what he is visibly weaker and he absolutely refuses nourishment of any kind. My preparations are complete and I am sure that no blunders can possibly occur on the part of the men whom I have chosen to perform the details of the execution, as they are guards of tried nerve. There will not be a very large crowd in attendance—probably forty or fifty at all."

"I have been simply flooded with applications to witness the death of this man, but owing to the fact that the apartment where the execution is to take place is very small I have been compelled to refuse admittance to all save officials and representatives of the press."

Perhaps never in the annals of criminal history of this city since the death of Troy Day has so much anxiety been expressed by the citizens of Sacramento to witness the death of any criminal on the gallows as there has been to obtain admittance to the execution of Ivan Kovalév. The cowardly attack upon the two aged and respected citizens and the brutal method by which the crime was committed have aroused toward this son of far-away Russia as has served to totally overcome the natural antipathy of all to witness the death and last struggles of a fellow-mortal.

Even Governor Budd has been besieged with petitions for admission to witness the execution, and there are few, if any, of the Prison Directors but have received repeated entreaties through personal friends for cards of admission and it is evident that a spirit of satisfaction is abroad in the community at the thought that within a few brief hours Ivan Kovalév will expiate that crime with his life.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

Deputy Postmaster of Port Angeles $1200 Behind With the Government.

PORT ANGELES, WASH., Feb. 20.—John Brown Jr., Deputy Postmaster in the office in this city, is short $1200 in his settlement with the Government. Postoffice Inspector J. C. F. Gordon is now engaged in checking up his accounts, which may result in a slight change being made in the amount of the shortage.

A complaint has been filed with United States Commissioner Henry E. Lutz, charging Brown with embezzlement and he is now under surveillance.

Brown informed a CALL representative this afternoon that his accounts have been short for two years and that he has endeavored to cover up the deficit in his reports from week to week.

He acted as Deputy Postmaster during the term of J. S. Fenn, and when at the beginning of Cleveland's administration Major Hooker was appointed Postmaster he was again employed as deputy.

The greater portion of the shortage occurred during Postmaster Fenn's term of office, and Brown to-day claimed that Fenn was implicated, and that on leaving office he left a deficit as a legacy for Brown to cover up.

John Brown has always been highly respected in this community and has been considered honest and industrious. He is not addicted to any bad habits and has always been popular with young people. A short time after his marriage with a charming young lady of this city his father committed suicide at Dungeness, leaving a large estate to be divided among the family. This estate has not yet been settled.

PLUNDERING PUBLIC LANDS.

Federal Officials After a Washington Logging Company.

SEATTLE, WASH., Feb. 20.—United States Attorney-General Harmon filed a suit in the Federal court to-day against the Union River Logging Company of Kitsap County, operating in Mason County. He asks that the order of approval of definite location of the road through the public domain be canceled, on the ground that the company in making its petition for the proposed highway represented it to be an undertaking for the public benefit, and Secretary Vilas granted the prayer upon those grounds.

On the contrary, the Attorney-General alleges that it is a private enterprise, carried on for private gain, and that the company—which is composed of Cyrus Walker, John McReavy and other rich men throughout the State—is plundering public lands and stripping them of valuable timber. Immediate relief is asked in the name of the Government.

SUPPOSED TO BE MURDERERS.

Two Suspicious Characters Arrested at Goldendale, Wash.

GOLDDENDALE, WASH., Feb. 20.—Two suspicious-looking men were to-day arrested here by Sheriff Stinson, presumed to be wanted in Los Angeles, Cal., for murder. Some weeks ago a jewelry-store in that city was burglarized, and the proprietor murdered. The Sheriff is awaiting further description. The suspects arrived in town last night, and to-day made a canvass of the town on the back streets, offering different kinds of valuable jewelry very cheap. A $7 pair of spectacles was offered for $1. They also offered to exchange a $20 gold ring with a farmer for a pair of boots.

Altercation at Phoenix.

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Feb. 20.—A sensational altercation occurred this evening during the firemen's tournament between Leonard Fowler and Patsy McQuilkin, the latter a well-known gambler, in front of the Palace saloon, a result of hot words over attacks in a newspaper on prominent officials and citizens here. Fowler was considerably worked and both were sent to jail. McQuilkin was bailed out immediately.

THE NEWS OF SAN JOSE.

Outcome of a Two Years' Feud Between the Careys and the Haggertys.

The Head of the Latter Family Obtains $150 Damages for Malicious Prosecution.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Feb. 20.—Justice Willey, sitting in Justice Dwyer's court, to-day awarded Patrick Carey $150 damages and costs against D. J. Haggerty for malicious prosecution. The Careys and Haggertys own adjoining properties near Berryessa, and the families have been engaged in a feud for the past two years. The trouble arose over Carey maintaining a slaughter-house on his premises. Haggerty objected to the stench of the place and a quarrel ensued, during which Haggerty said Carey and his hired man pursued him with a long spear that is used for killing cattle. Haggerty also claimed that Carey threatened to kill him (Haggerty) and feed him to the hogs.

Carey was at once arrested for threats against Haggerty's life, but was subsequently discharged. It was then Carey's turn in the courts and he sued Haggerty for $250 damages for malicious prosecution, resulting in a verdict for the former for $150 and costs.

The case will probably be appealed, as both parties are well off and will fight in the courts to the bitter end.

HORSE AND LIVE WIRE.

For Ten Minutes the Poor Animal's Flesh Was Burning.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Feb. 20.—A horse belonging to W. J. Bigger was struck by a live wire at the corner of Tenth and Santa Clara streets at noon to-day and knocked down. Workmen were engaged in stringing the wires of the Pacific Telephone Company, and in some manner a wire crossed a trolley wire and fell to within a few feet of the ground. Bigger, who was driving along the street, saw the wire but could not stop in time. The wire struck the horse on the side of the head and he dropped like a shot. The body fell over the wire and the horse kicked convulsively, but could not get off the wire. During the ten minutes while the bystanders were studying how to spare the animal the burning flesh was a sickening sight.

A lineman cut the wire finally and the horse was relieved, but the wire had burned a cut seven inches long and two inches deep in the flesh.

BORROWED A GOLD WATCH.

John Hanson's Taste for Jewelry Gets Him Into Trouble.

SAN JOSE, CAL., Feb. 20.—John Hanson, who borrowed a gold watch from George Paugh, a rancher, a few days ago, and went to San Francisco on a spree, was arraigned before Justice Gass to-day on a charge of petty larceny. Hanson pleaded not guilty, and his trial was set for February 26. He was locked up in default of $100.

Hanson met Paugh shortly after his release from the City Prison, where he had served a ten days' sentence for drunk, and they had a few drinks together. Hanson admitted a gold watch Paugh had, and while looking at it he exposed himself for a few minutes and disappeared with the timepiece. Last night he applied for lodging at the City Prison, and was at once charged with petty larceny.

A. McAllister, Mrs. C. M. Perkins, Mrs. C. J. Decker, the Misses McCalla, Mrs. R. M. Cutts, and Organist E. R. Langdon, sung in a most effective manner "Before Jehovah's Awful Throne."

The service peculiar to the dedication of a monument, with appropriate alterations to the one in whose memory the tree was to be planted, was read in a clear voice by Major Sherman and was attentively listened to by the spectators and many of the invalids at the hospital who stood or reclined on the balconies of the hospital which had been erected through the efforts of Dr. Browne.

Each one of the thirteen brethren held an equal number of boxes of earth, and Major Sherman in appropriate terms gave a short synopsis of the earth it contained. After the earth had been deposited by each one of the brethren he placed his right hand on his left breast, then raised the hand and eyes heavenward, as if in the act of supplicating the Most High to look with favor on the ceremony.

The following gentlemen assisted in depositing the earth:

1. George V. Carter deposited earth taken from the base of Plymouth Rock, the landing-place of the Pilgrim Fathers.

2. A. L. Hatheway deposited earth from Faneuil Hall, the "Cradle of Liberty," Boston, Mass.

SACRAMENTO'S ROUND-UP.

The Grand Jury Finds Indictments Against Ten Residents of the Capital.

A Policeman Charged With Perjury. Election Officers in Serious Trouble.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Feb. 20.—The Grand Jury of Sacramento County, which has been in session for some time past, presented a partial report this morning to Judge Catlin of the Superior Court.

The report, which is lengthy, presents indictments against ten persons, namely: W. P. Rutherford, George Dowdger, Frank Gregory, J. R. Brown, George Anderson, George E. Brady, George French, I. J. Simmons and W. L. Taylor.

W. P. Rutherford, who is a policeman of this city, is charged with perjury in having positively sworn, in the Police Court, to having seen a man, who was on trial for vagrancy, on the streets of this city when the party in question was confined at the alleged date in the Woodland Jail.

George Dowdger is charged with assault with a deadly weapon in having, it is claimed, wantonly fired at a Japanese. He, however, claims to have shot at a bird and hit the Jap accidentally.

The others are charged with conspiracy in having fraudulently permitted illegal votes to be cast during the late election, knowing the same to be illegal. The latter were acting as election officers in the downtown wards, which it is claimed were heavily stuffed.

The indictment states specific instances, and the testimony showed that in one precinct sixty illegal votes were cast, being mainly voting in the names of dead men and repetitions.

Frank Gregory is a member of the firm of Gregory Bros. of this city and is a brother of ex-Mayor Gregory, who at present is sojourning in Eastern parts to most people unknown.

Warrants were issued, and the majority of the accused were immediately arrested and released on bonds in the sum of $2000 each.

Among the names voted were those of "Big Neck" Smith, a noted tough, who shot and killed a man named Braigan in a row over an election a few years ago. Smith died in the County Hospital afterward. Clem Pressy, at one time a Sacramento gambler, who left the State and died in Arizona, also was voted, and it is claimed that there were many others.
