

SAM RAINEY HAS TAKEN THE TICKET

Last Night's Primary Shows Him Close to the Junta's Control.

HEATED DISTRICT ROWS.

Election Officers from Headquarters Thrown Out in the Forty-Fourth.

THEY SAT ON THE BALLOT-BOX.

The Anti-Boss Faction of the Anti-Boss Organization Wonder Where They Are At.

The Junta held its primary for the election of a new general committee last evening, and Sam Rainey seems to have captured the anti-Buckley organization.

This is not the truth it is so close a shave from the truth that it amounts to the same thing as the apparent truth.

Of course it is not all Sam Rainey. It is an anti-Buckley trinity that is credited with having secured control of the Democratic revolutionary organization.

At the primary last night and during all the long preparations for that primary election, the chief political strength, represented by Rainey, Daggett and Lanigan, has been going on for some time.

The Rainey element has so controlled district politics that it has been able to dictate nominations in various districts.

A somewhat vague, but in all ways suppressed light between the powers in active control of the Junta organization and the three elements which have given the primary elections in the Thirty-fourth district.

It was in the Forty-fourth district where George H. Maxwell, secretary of the Fire Commission and Rainey's lieutenant, was elected absolutely.

No wonder there was some trouble. The chief battle was in the Forty-fourth district, where George H. Maxwell, secretary of the Fire Commission and Rainey's lieutenant, was elected absolutely.

His followers constituted the row in the district, the opposition—led by Otto Koepfer, Senator Fay and others—being in a small minority.

Maxwell took the democratic principle that the majority should rule, and ignoring the ticket made out at headquarters giving him twelve out of the twenty-five delegates, ran the ticket of Maxwell, Koepfer and others.

Chairman Sullivan, who had things into his own hands, sent five men to take charge of the election and a bundle of "official" tickets.

There were twenty-five delegates, but Chairman Sullivan's election officers were thrown out and the Maxwell people took charge of the election.

There were 150 ballots cast and not a single one of them were the pink "official" tickets prepared at headquarters.

This Forty-fourth row is the sum and measure of the whole situation. Maxwell's twenty-five will demand seats in the general committee.

Out in the Thirty-fourth there were more interesting doings. The district club was in the room.

James J. Deagan; secretary, H. Barbee; treasurer, Edgar Pilkington.

As the hour of half-past 7 approached and the polls were about to be opened, J. J. Deagan, president of the district club, called a meeting of the club.

Frank Huga for the committee said that the club, do as they would, take the box back to the headquarters of the committee, as he understood such were his instructions.

Dogart then said there was another ticket that had been made up and proposed that the club appoint two men and the committee appoint two, representing both tickets, to count the ballots.

"That red ballot was prepared by the general committee," said George Maxwell, speaking of the matter last night.

"It does not represent this district. We had no objection to it being voted, but the district had no right to have it voted."

There was to have been a conflict between the Rainey, Daggett and Lanigan faction and the Mint and Sam Braunhart.

The little crowd gathered in a hall on the ground floor of the building and when the time for opening the ballot had arrived, a clever trick was played on the opposition, that is, Seelig's men.

The secretary remarked that it was time to open the window to let the air in.

They were a singularly good-natured lot of Democrats who took an interest in the primary elections in the Thirty-fourth district.

To begin with, the ticket nominated in regular manner by the district committee February 7 and duly presented at the Junta's headquarters was not printed by the Junta managers.

DARING ATTEMPT TO ROB.

Two Ladies Held Up on the Corner of McAllister and Jones Streets.

A Shabbily-Dressed Young Man Tried to Grab a Purse and Struck One in the Face.

One of the most daring attempts at this city robbery ever attempted in this city occurred last night on McAllister and Jones streets in front of the Hibernia Bank.

Mrs. Rix, 40½ Tenth street, and Mrs. Kelly, 25 Ellis street, were standing on the corner waiting for a car about 7 o'clock.

The streets in the vicinity were crowded with people at the time, and the ladies were chatting pleasantly, not realizing that they were being closely watched by a shabbily-dressed young man.

McAllister streetcar approached the crossing the young man walked hurriedly up to the two ladies, and addressing Mrs. Rix, the elder of the two, who had her purse in her hand, said, "Throw up your hands—quick."

Mrs. Rix was completely taken by surprise, but as soon as she was able to speak she blurted out, "I haven't got any money." The young fellow made a grab for her purse, and she drew her hand quickly behind her back.

"When he asked me to throw up my hands," said Mrs. Rix, "I thought for the moment he was fooling me, but he looked so wild and so desperate that I quickly turned around and saw the young fellow with a pistol in his hand, and the blow stunned me for the moment."

The detectives were instructed to keep a sharp lookout for the young fellow.

A blue bottle-nosed whale, measuring twenty feet in length, was discovered off the coast of the city.
