HISSED BY FORMER DEVOTEES

Cleveland and Carlisle Are Derided in the Blue Grass State.

THE DEMOCRATS IN STATE CONVENTION.

Red-Letter Day for Senator Blackburn and the Free Silver Element.

"SOUND MONEY" MEN SHOWN NO QUARTER.

By a Vote of 691 to 206 the Free Coinage Forces Capture the Organization.

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 3.—This was a day of triumph for Senator Blackburn and the free-silver element of the Blue Grass Democracy.

State Chairman Charles R. Long called the convention to order at 1:40 this afternoon in the auditorium of the Chautauque Assembly building.

Chairman Long was the first to experience the ill-will of the silverites. In closing his address he said: "Gover Cleveland stands to-day as the equal in devotion to the best interests of our Government and faithful service of any President that has preceded him."

This was the signal for a scene. The silver delegates hissed, yelled and created such a disturbance that the chairman could scarcely proceed.

Nominations for temporary chairman being in order, John S. Rhea, for the free silver men, nominated Hon. Charles J. Bronson for temporary chairman.

Mr. Bronson then addressed the convention, and after he had finished his address John S. Rhea, the noted free-silver orator, was called for.

The speaker told of his years of service to the party and said that while he had suffered much at the hands of Democrats, who opposed the policy he advocated, he bore them no ill will.

After the appointment of the committees, the convention at 4 o'clock took a recess until 8 p. m.

The time was taken up to-night by speeches by Evan E. Settle, free silver candidate for Congress from the Ashland District.

After the speeches the convention adjourned until 10 a. m. to-morrow.

The following is the money plank of the platform agreed upon by the committee on resolutions late to-night:

We are in favor of an honest dollar—a dollar worth neither more nor less than 100 cents. We favor bimetallicism and to that end we demand the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 as standard money at equal legal tender power.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 3.—A call was issued here to-day for a Democratic free silver convention, or mass-meeting, which will be held in this city on Friday night next. It is intended as a forerunner of the coming Democratic State Convention.

DECLARE FOR SILVER. Kansas Democrats Stand in Line for the White Metal.

TOPEKA, KANS., June 3.—The Kansas Democrats to-day elected a delegation to the National Convention and bound them to vote for no Presidential candidate who was not unequivocally in favor of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

The silver men were so largely in the majority that the goldite delegates were not even heard. The proceedings were carried on by the silver men with harmony and dispatch.

"But," said Chairman Blair in submitting his report, "the committee differs totally and radically with the President on the all-absorbing question of finance, and therefore resolve:

"That we demand the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 without any effort toward international agreement, believing this great country capable of taking care of itself."

The solution provided that the delegates to the National Convention be instructed to vote for no man for the Presidential nomination not holding well-known views favoring free silver.

SAYS M'KINLEY WILL BE NAMED.

Senator Quay Predicts the Nomination of the Ohian.

THAT VISIT TO CANTON. Believed to Have Won Second Place on the Ticket for Hastings.

HAD BEEN REFUSED BY REED. The Speaker Declines to Become the Successful Candidate's Running Mate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—While Senator Quay's statement that Governor McKinley would be nominated on the first ballot at St. Louis created no special surprise it has aroused a great deal of interest and comment among members of Congress.

Senator Quay was seen by a CALL correspondent this afternoon. He said he had nothing to add to his statement already made. He conceded that McKinley would have 479 votes certainly on the first ballot, with a probability of others when it appeared that McKinley would win. It must not be understood however, that Senator Quay has withdrawn from his own Presidential candidacy. He has been endorsed for President by the State of Pennsylvania, is proud of the honor, and as he is pledged to remain in the race he will do so, although he realizes that McKinley will be nominated.

Senator Quay continued: "I will furnish you with tables of estimates. I have not put out any heretofore, so take your pencil and write down the vote which I believe McKinley will have on the first ballot at St. Louis. The figures I give you are correct as the delegates stand to-day."

Table with 2 columns: State/Territory and Number of Delegates. Includes Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, etc.

"There," said Senator Quay; "that is correct. Of course, we cannot tell how many others may swing into line as the vote proceeds."

"These figures mean, therefore, Senator, that Mr. McKinley will be nominated on the first ballot?"

"That is the size of it," he answered cheerfully, like a man who had been aware of the fact for some time.

In the following States Mr. Quay did not give any delegates to Mr. McKinley: Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Utah; also in the following territories: Arizona, Oklahoma, Alaska and District of Columbia.

When it was suggested that there was a good deal of talk about the Ohio platform, Mr. Quay declined to make any comments whatever.

Governor Hastings of Pennsylvania, who is Quay's choice for the Vice-Presidential nomination, arrived in Washington to-night. He declined to discuss his own Vice-Presidential candidacy, and would say only that he esteemed it a great honor to be mentioned in that connection.

"He has been endorsed by Pennsylvania, and feels highly honored," he said. "It would certainly be an ungracious act for him to withdraw in advance of the convention."

Although Mr. Quay himself to-day repeated his avowal that he was yet an aspirant for the Presidential nomination, the politicians realize that he has gone over to the McKinley camp, bag and baggage, and that when the State of Pennsylvania is called in the convention they believe he will thank the Pennsylvania delegates for their support and will withdraw and move that McKinley's nomination be made unanimous.

There was published in a New York paper to-day what purported to be a visit of Senator Quay to Canton. It was a labored effort, intended to show that Mr. Quay had begged for an interview with Major McKinley, and had gone to Canton without an invitation and had been met there with the declaration that he must make "an absolute surrender."

When the story was called to the attention of Senator Quay the latter laughed heartily and said that somebody had evidently thought he had made a great discovery. The Senator refused to take any public notice of the article, the absurdity of which is recognized by friends of both Mr. Quay and Mr. McKinley.

Mr. Quay has steadily refused to discuss his visit to Mr. McKinley, but it is known positively here that his journey was not undertaken at his own suggestion. He did not beg for an audience with Mr. McKinley, and the meeting and interview were alike honorable and satisfactory to both.

The nomination of McKinley having been practically settled by the action of Senator Quay in conceding the certainty of such a result and the large preponderance of delegates under instructions to vote that way, about the only question under discussion around the Capitol now is: Who is the coming man for second place on the ticket?

It is pretty well understood that Speaker Reed has been approached by certain influences not far from Canton and Cleveland, Ohio, requesting that he should permit his name to be used in that connection, and the intimation has been given that such a decision on his part would be most agreeable to the prospective head of the Republican ticket.

Speaker Reed was shown the statement given out by Senator Quay, in which the latter conceded McKinley's nomination. After reading it carefully the Speaker expressed surprise that Senator Quay gave McKinley six votes in Connecticut.

It may be said that under no circumstances will Speaker Reed accept a nomination for the Vice-Presidency. Official position without opportunity he regards as absolutely unworthy his acceptance, and that is just what he thinks of the position of Vice-President.

A man of much wealth and advanced in years, he thinks, might be satisfied to wear the blue ribbon of the Vice-Presidency and appear at social functions in an ornamental capacity, but to a man of limited means, like himself, who, at the end of his term of office as Vice-President would feel the loss of the $8000 salary that goes with the position, the acceptance of it is hardly worth considering.

"I see," said one of the Speaker's friends to him to-day, "that you are spoken of as a good man for running mate with ex-Governor McKinley."

"Is that so?" said the Speaker. "A run-

POSSES CLOSE ON THE TRAIL.

Constance Soto Frightened by a Stranger—Eleven Thousand Dollars Reward.

HOLLISTER, CAL., June 3.—The hunt for Dunham waxes exciting in this county. Sheriffs Lyndon, Matthews, Holbrook and Ballou were joined late last night by Swelgert and Edison of San Jose. A courier from this posse reports a thorough search of the country around the Gypsey mine without success.

Sheriff McAvoy of San Mateo County, with Deputy Sheriffs Gardner and Rives of San Jose, arrived from Bells Station this afternoon with an outfit of saddles and ammunition, but no horses. They report having run across the trail of Dunham four miles south of Mountain House, and also the finding of sacks that had been worn upon his feet.

McAvoy and Gardner at once started for Hollister and pushed on to Panoche Valley to head the fugitive off if he attempted to go through the Los Aguilas. Under Sheriff Brown furnished them a requisition for saddle horses, and also dispatched a messenger to Lyndon and Holbrook.

Every avenue of escape in this county is now thoroughly guarded, and if Dunham is here at all he will be starved out or captured.

SEEN AT SEVERAL POINTS. Peculiar Tactics of the Stranger Believed to Be Dunham.

SAN JOSE, CAL., June 3.—The seat of action in the chase after murderer Dunham has been transferred from Smiths Creek and Indian Gulch to Pacheco Pass and the neighborhood of Hollister. Sheriffs Lyndon, Ballou and Matthews and the dogs are still working in that country.

Deputy Harrison is confident that the trail is a good one. He was with the posse of Under Sheriff Gardner, consisting of Sheriff McAvoy of San Mateo and Preston Rives of Gilroy, who went down the Dacca Creek, southeast from Mount Hamilton, on Monday. He says they struck what appeared to be a good lead on the fugitive near the Dowdy Ranch.

"We followed these tracks," he said to-day, "along the creek down to the road leading to Gilroy and Los Gatos. Here we lost the tracks for that day. The track showed one shoe pointed, the other blunt, and I can only suppose that one shoe was pretty well worn and wrapped in sackcloth."

"The next morning (Tuesday) we went to make inquiries at the Mountain House, at the summit of the Pacheco Pass. Here the vaqueros declared that as they went to feed their horses early that morning a man jumped out of the manger and ran away. The news of the murder had not yet reached the place, so the cattlemen did not attempt to stop the fellow, but their description of him convinces us it was none other than Dunham."

"After a short search around the barn Gardner found the same tracks we had
