

GOULD AND THE JUNTA WIN.

and pleasure exerted by this news, the doctor got out his little kodak and created consternation and merriment among the delegates scattered along K street in front of the Golden Eagle Hotel. He "shot" friend and foe alike, and took a score or more snap shots. Among his victims are Joe Rothschild, James H. O'Brien, Senator Donovan and other prominent characters of the convention. His implement of torture worked on the instantaneous plan, and no man upon whom he once directed his attention was allowed to escape.

DEMOCRATIC COMMENTS.

How the Convention Work is Viewed by Leaders.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—E. L. Colton found something remarkable about this convention. "This," he said to-day, "is the most remarkable convention that ever convened in California in this respect—it is a spontaneous outburst for a thing that was doubtful a short time ago. "The leaders who have the convention in hand are nearly all pronounced gold men, yet the convention will undoubtedly be overwhelmingly for silver and adopt a radical silver platform. There is an unexpected confidence among the Democrats and a strong hope of winning on the silver issue.

"The silver issue is about the only feature that I am taking much interest in, and I am going away as soon as the platform is adopted. My paper, the Stockton Mail, has been fighting for silver for four years, and it is a singular thing that when a Democratic convention meets and is about to adopt a free silver platform, there is but one Democratic paper in the State really advocating free silver. This shows that the silver sentiment has not been created by the press, but in spite of it, and it shows how effective has been the propaganda by the silver men.

"The gold men are generally accepting the silver issue with a good deal of confidence that the party can win on it. They think that it is a good party policy, although they think it is bad for the country. John P. Irish is the only one of the gold men I have met here who does not say that it is good policy for the party to endorse silver and that it can probably carry the next election on that issue.

"Stevenson is my favorite for the Presidency if his stand on the silver question is satisfactory. Boies would probably be my next choice.

"I think it is shameful the way the Federal brigade has been turned loose on this convention; I think it is an outrage that the recent civil service order of the President has been withheld in the personal interest of the President in securing an indictment here."

Attorney R. A. Long of Willows has been keeping at least half an eye on the Congressional nomination in the Third District. "This is a representative convention," he observed to-day, "and it knows what it wants to do and will do it. It represents all classes and has comparatively few proxies in it. It is independent, and the bosses will fare mighty poorly in it. Boies of Iowa or Campbell of Ohio are my present favorites for the Presidency."

Captain Messic of San Francisco is one of the notable characters of the convention. He is a strong friend of John Daggert and does not believe that W. W. Foote's coalition with Gould presages any misfortune for the Mint superintendent.

T. T. Lane of Angels Camp is urged as a candidate for delegate. His friends say that all Mr. Lane has to do is to acknowledge his willingness to serve and he is as good as elected. Mr. Lane has consented to accept if the honor is offered him.

One of the old Democratic warhorses here is Judge J. C. Ball of Woodland, who has been attending Democratic conventions for a generation and a half in this State. His interest did not seem to run very actively to the connubiating and wire-pulling that is going on.

"I have been looking around," he observed to-day, "trying to find some of the old faces I have been meeting at conventions for thirty-five years, and I found but few of them here. There is old Joe Hamilton and Applegate of Placer of the old-time delegates, and I ran across Judge Mesick of Santa Clara. I have met John McMurray of Siskiyou and Ostrom of Yuba, and I expect to run across some more of the old boys, but they are few."

August Keller, an able representative from Yuba, is one of the prominent characters of the convention.

Joseph Blake of Solano, who has the distinction of having Andy Clinie for his colleague, has proved to be a man of weight and influence in the convention. E. B. Pond is quietly busy. He will not go to Chicago as a delegate at large on a silver platform and so is out of that race. "My main criticism of this convention," he said, "is that it is being governed by policy rather than by some other things."

Among other comments were the following:

A. M. Seymour of Sacramento—The convention will no doubt declare for free coinage of silver, and those who are in favor of gold will simply have to stand it. I think that if we could get the real sentiment of the delegates we would find a surprisingly large number in favor of gold, and I think that many who are shouting for silver really have not given the subject honest thought.

H. M. La Rue of Sacramento—I am firmly opposed to woman suffrage, and believe the convention will ignore or take a stand against it.

Frank V. Brooks, of the regular Forty-second District: "I believe the action of Chairman Gould in refusing to grant the contesting delegation a hearing will result in a split in the Democratic party. It is contrary to no less than four precedents which make it a law of Democratic conventions that contesting delegates should be barred until the party organization was effected. Gould's usurpation of arbitrary power is a great injustice that the country delegations must resent. In the matter of the currency I think that every member of the delegation is for silver. The CALL did a creditable stroke of journalism by beating its competitors into the capital by fully an hour this morning."

Colonel O'Byrne of the Regulars: "Oh, I'm for silver of course. I'm also for fair play in the Democratic party, and I am going to see that we get it. I created a good deal of this trouble for the Junta in the caucus last evening."

Dan Geary, secretary for Regulars: "Silver will be the battle cry after all, and McKinley's name will not mean so much on a gold platform as it was expected to do."

Dr. Stanton: "THE CALL seemed to be a little more than simply in this morning."

Under Sheriff Claek of the Regulars: "With free silver and harmony the Democratic party will win in the State and the Nation. What we must have here in the State is harmony. I congratulate THE CALL on its stroke of enterprise in reaching the city by daylight to-day."

Ex-Superintendent Denham: "I am a Democrat and am prepared to endorse the declarations of the party announced at Sacramento and at Chicago."

PASSING UPON CONTESTS.

Footo Attacks an Oakland Primary Election Judge.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—Before the committee on credentials to-night W. W. Foote made a bitter attack upon the contestants and the officers of election in the Third Ward, Oakland, for the primary election.

His attack was principally directed at Patrick O'Kane, one of the judges of election, who, he said, had committed such open frauds as should send him to the penitentiary. O'Kane, who is a big fellow physically, resented the language, declaring that Foote could not send him there and had mistated facts, and for a few minutes it looked as though there would be a pitched battle.

The contest was that of J. J. McDonald against W. B. White, the latter holding the certificate of election and seat in the convention. Foote declared that when he himself went to the polls to vote he was told by O'Kane that his name had been voted. He confessed to having felt very indignant and insisted upon casting his vote.

O'Kane came out and tried to explain to him that there was a clerical error in the case that caused the officers to at first refuse his vote and he (Foote) declared O'Kane would not know a clerical error if he met one on the road.

"There were strange people conducting the elections in Oakland that day," said Foote. "Among them was the Banjo-eyed Kid from San Francisco. We know that the ballot boxes were stuffed, and O'Kane and his confederates ought now to be on their way to the State prison instead of appearing here trying to unseat a young man who honors his place in the convention to-day."

Foote read an affidavit of one of the election officers, S. B. Worley, in which Worley stated that he saw O'Kane and another judge of elections inserting ballots in the box through an opening in the rear; that O'Kane held his arm over the opening and removed it at intervals to allow the other to insert the ballots; that he (Worley) informed his colleague on the board, and they pasted a piece of paper over the opening in the rear, after which he saw no more stuffing.

Foote declared that these heroic measures were taken in the election to discredit him (Foote) in his own ward, because it was known that he would come before this convention seeking the honor of a delegateship to the National Democratic Convention. He had carried the matter before the executive committee of the State Central Committee.

The vote had been canvassed and it was determined that with a proper accounting for the fraudulent votes, and the number of voters who had not been allowed to vote under the pretense that their names had been voted, White had a majority. McDonald had been credited with 195 votes and White 145 in the original returns.

R. J. Fitzgerald made the argument for the contestants. He was not charged with complicity in any of the frauds recited. He made an attack upon the methods by which White had secured his certificate of election. He said the State Central Committee had no authority whatever to change the result of the election as it had done.

McDonald had received no notice of the proposed contest whatever. He had asked why the certificate was not issued to him, and was told that he would hear from them in a few days. The next day the certificate had been issued to White, and neither he nor Fitzgerald had ever heard why until now.

He (Fitzgerald) declared this was all irregular and unlawful. The committee had met in some back room, heard the testimony of one side—the other side had not even been notified—and the results and records of the election had on this ex parte testimony been overturned and the certificate given to the man who received the lesser number of votes.

The contest from Alameda of the four seats in the convention was heard at great length and with considerable recrimination. The committee then went into executive session.

BUCKLEYITES GRAB SEATS.

Break Into the Convention Hall by Force of Numbers.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—Every attempt to secure even the slightest concession from Gould by the Buckley men drove the members of that delegation to desperation to-day, and by fusese and force they entered the hall at 1 o'clock this afternoon and took possession of the seats set apart for the San Francisco delegation—that is, the Junta representatives.

The last effort to soften the heart of Gould toward the men reputed to be Buckley proteges was made about 2 o'clock this morning by the committee appointed at the caucus of the southern counties. He was asked whether he would entertain a motion, before any other business was transacted in convention, providing for the exclusion of the Junta men from the floor and the privilege of voting on temporary organization. This he positively declined to do.

When this information was conveyed to the leaders of the anti-Junta outfit a caucus of that body was immediately called to decide upon a plan of action. The session lasted until 12 o'clock. Then in a body the entire delegation, comprising nearly all the delegates elected, proceeded to march in easy stages from headquarters on Seventh street, near K, to the pavilion where the convention was to meet.

Meanwhile a select few were sent ahead to reconnoiter. They reported that C. C. Dubain, one of the assistant sergeants-at-arms, was on guard alone, with orders to admit no one until 1 o'clock.

When the push arrived at the pavilion they were kept out of sight of Dubain while Andy Clinie went around to the front to interview the obdurate guardian of the convention hall, but the eloquence and argument of the suave attorney fell apparently on deaf ears and blunted intellect. Admission was absolutely refused, and Clinie walked back to his colleagues disappointed, but far from discouraged.

Meanwhile Tim Tracey, a member of the "regular" San Francisco, took off his Buckley badge and acting as escort for three lady friends of the State Printing Office near by secured admission for himself and his bevy of beauties.

Clinie was losing no time or thought on his next move, but with Dr. Stanton on his right he led the way for a charge upon the entrance amid cries of "100 to 1," appropriately changed for the occasion from the silver cry of the delegates of 16 to 1.

Clinie again argued with Dubain, but he was neither to be wheedled or coerced into breaking his orders, notwithstanding the exception made in favor of Tracey and his unconscious lady co-conspirators.

When Tracey, who was watching developments on the outside while entertaining his friends on the inside, saw that the whole body of "regulars" was massed in front of the entrance, he asked Charles Studarus, one of the assistant sergeants-at-arms inside the hall, to allow them to go out. Studarus walked to the entrance and forced one of the large doors partly open.

Tracey quickly pushed his lady friends back, jumped into the breach and shouted to the besetters to charge. Dubain made a brief, but frantic and vain effort to stem the torrent of human beings, but was swept alone inside like a straw in a gale, and in less than half a minute the "regulars" were individually selecting the soft seats, which had been set aside for their opponents.

The miscellaneous feature of the break was that no one was injured in the made stampede through the narrow doorway.

By 1 o'clock every Buckleyite was contentedly viewing the decorations of the hall and calmly fanning himself into a worse state of perspiration. Shortly before 2 o'clock the delegates began to drift in and among them came scattering groups of the Junta's followers. Surprise and consternation are mild terms to describe their looks of disgust and defeat. But no attempt was made to disturb the bold and crafty men in possession of the San Francisco seats. The Junta men found seats where best they could and for the time being war was averted.

WOMEN MORE HOPEFUL.

Are Making Some Converts Among the Delegates.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—There was a more animated appearance to the rooms of the woman's suffrage delegation to-day, and the countenances of the champions of equal rights in consequence were more cheerful and hopeful expressions.

Visits of delegates were less like those of the legendary angels, and Max Popper gladdened the hearts of the lady campaigners by dropping words of wisdom and advice among their number for two hours at a stretch. Miss Anthony in particular was more cheerful than at any previous time since the arrival of the delegations Sunday night.

"I think," she said, "that woman suffrage stock has gone up among the Democrats to-day most decidedly. The individual delegate says at first he does not know about it, but after a while he says, 'Why, yes, that is common-sense'; and I believe that if these delegates had the matter submitted to them in the convention nearly every one of them would vote for a woman suffrage plank."

Here Miss Anna Staw took up the thread of thought, saying: "Ignorance on this subject has always been the trouble. The men think this entirely a woman's business, and that they have nothing to do with it. They seem to be quite surprised when you explain to them that it is something quite different from their conception of the matter. All the opposition in the past has been either sentimental or on the ground of expediency. Some have a peddler idea of woman, but the same man who expresses this view allows his wife to work on the farm, milk the cows, look after the chickens, etc., and does not think this interferes with his sentimental idea of woman."

Miss Anthony resumed as follows: "It is not very strange that the majority of men have not a clear idea of this question when you remember that their mothers had not taught them to think on the subject, school teachers had not instructed them on it, ministers had not preached it and editors had not advocated it in their papers. Now, all these educational instrumentalities are at work bringing the subject home to every one."

In the course of conversation late this evening with Miss Ida Harper, she said that every one in the women's headquarters were yesterday.

"We have had quite a number of delegates in our room during the day," said she. "In several instances entire delegations came, and if the elevator had not broken down I am sure the number would have been much greater. We have found that we have a good many more friends among the delegates than we expected, and we believe that if we had the opportunity for a little more missionary work it might be possible to make a good many converts at the convention; but we fear that the time is too short to allow us to achieve our purpose at this time. We find as a rule that the younger element is in favor of woman's suffrage."

"We consider it somewhat against our success that the platform committee will consist of so many members. If we are given an opportunity to address the platform committee Miss Anna Shaw, Miss Anthony, Mrs. A. S. Sargent, Mrs. E. O. Smith of San Jose, Mrs. Alice M. Stiker of Oakland and myself will appear before that body. With the exception of Miss Anthony and Miss Shaw, we will be limited to three-minute speeches, and the two ladies mentioned will not occupy more than ten minutes each. We hope at least for a minority report, which will bring the matter before the convention."

ARE VOWING VENGEANCE.

"Regulars" Swear They Will Run an Independent Ticket.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—The Buckleyites, amid their denunciation of Foote, are declaring what they will do when they get back to the City, and they swear that they will run an independent ticket and perform all the functions of the "regular" party in San Francisco. They are to-night taking comparatively little interest in their contest, which is being heard by the committee on credentials, as they consider the prospects of recognition hopeless.

PEACE IN THEIR CAMP.

Foote and Daggert Believed to Have Buried the Hatchet.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—The treaty between Foote and Gould is expected to effectually end the prospects of an open declaration of war on John Daggert in the convention.

Foote, who had declared that a resolution would be introduced reading Daggert out of the party again, has quit on his anti-Daggert roar. The Daggert forces are not fighting Foote in his candidacy for delegate at large.

SAM RAINEY ARRIVES.

Engaging in the Fight to Capture Committeemen.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—Sam Rainey arrived to-day and went on deck at the Western Hotel. It is officially announced that Mr. Rainey is up here to buy a hop ranch.

Rainey is getting in his work in the direction of members of the State Central Committee largely. The eighteen members of the State Central Committee from the Sacramento will be elected by the Assembly district delegates to-morrow or Thursday.

The McNab-Sullivan faction on one side and the Rainey-Daggert-Lanigan faction on the other are engaged in a fierce fight for the capture of committeemen. Ed Lanigan, who has been here for two days, is devoting his special attention to this proposition, and will likely walk off with some victories which the other men have been counting on.

The Thirty-fourth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, Forty-second and Forty-fifth districts are conceded to the Rainey-Daggert-Lanigan combination, which firm will probably win a number of the doubtful ones.

MADDUX FOR CONGRESS.

Nominations Made by Seventh District Democrats.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—The Seventh Congressional District held its convention immediately upon the adjournment of the State convention, L. J. Maddux of Stanislaus was nominated for Congress.

Oscar A. Tippet of San Diego, George E. Church of Fresno, H. A. Jastro of Kern and A. O. Smith of Riverside were placed in nomination for district delegates to the National Convention. Tippet and Church were elected and Jastro and Smith made alternates.

Each of the nominees expressed himself as pledged to free silver. Tippet is reputed to be affiliated with the American Protective Association.

Gaston M. Ash of San Benito, D. M. Baker, editor of the Santa Ana Standard, J. F. Kinney of San Diego and J. W. Martin were nominated for Presidential electors. After the first ballot Ash was withdrawn by Devling of San Benito, who placed him in nomination. Upon the fourth ballot Martin was declared the choice.

JUNTA KNIFING MAGUIRE.

Mixed Condition of the Fight for Delegates.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 16.—The Daggert faction favors for delegates at large: Thomas Geary, W. W. Foote, Stephen M. White and James V. Coleman. This would leave out Maguire, but it is thought this scheme will not work, as Maguire is probably too solid to be jostled out of the place. The Junta men are considered hostile to Maguire, notwithstanding their action in nominating him for Congress.

DAIRYMEN AT FERNDALE.

The Annual Meeting of the California Association.

Several Valuable Papers Are Read by Old Hands in the Business.

FERNDALE, CAL., June 16.—The California Dairy Association convened here to-day.

This section is conceded by all as the most important butter section in the State, and the average per acre and cow eclipses all rivalry.

The monthly output from the famous Eel River Valley amounts to about $75,000 per month for twenty creameries. Prior to dairying the people were engaged in the grain business and were all on the verge of bankruptcy; to-day they are money-lenders.

The meeting was called to order by James Smith as chairman who spoke extensively on grasses, exhibiting many kinds grown by him to determine which was the best for feed. W. H. Roussel, assistant manager of dairymen's union, in a very eloquent manner spoke upon the marketing and packing of butter, short weight-packing and bad results of importation of inferior Eastern grades.

Professor Jaffa read a well-written paper on green manuring by Professor Hilgard. The author proved himself to be a student of no ordinary ability.

A resolution was passed that a monthly bulletin be issued showing the amount of butter and cheese on hand at the date of the report, and that in counties embraced within one Assembly district, each such county shall be entitled to one committeeman.

We recommend that the permanent chairman of this convention be empowered to appoint twenty members at large of the Democratic State Central Committee.

We further recommend that holders of proxies of members of the State Central Committee shall be a member of such committee.

We recommend that the Democratic State Central Committee be empowered to adopt such constitution and by-laws as to them may be deemed proper for their own government and the determination of all issues presented to said committee.

We recommend that the Democratic State Central Committee immediately investigate and take all necessary steps looking to the incorporation of our party organization, if by them deemed advisable.

We recommend that the Democratic State Central Committee chosen by this convention be empowered to fill all the vacancies occurring in nominations made by this convention.

We recommend that all delegates to the National Democratic Convention, and all alternates thereof, and other nominees of this convention, appear before the same and pledge themselves to the platform adopted hereby, absentees excepted when properly vouched for.

This report may be amended in the minor details in the morning, as it is the intention of the committee to have another meeting before the convention is called to order.

POPPER HAS A SCHEME.

He Would Incorporate the Democratic Forces of California.

ONE WAY OF BEATING THE "REGULARS."

His Plan Is to Prevent Buckley's Faction From Using the Party Name.

CONVENTION PROGRAMME IS ARRANGED.

Recommendations Submitted by the Committee on Order of Business.

THE CALL'S HEADQUARTERS, 614 K Street, Sacramento, Cal., June 16.

At a meeting of the committee on organization and order of business to-night in the parlor of the Golden Eagle a striking innovation was incorporated in the programme recommended to the convention. It suggested the advisability of incorporating the party.

Max Popper was the instigator of this idea, the evident purpose being to prevent the use of the party name by the Buckley faction should it decide to bolt.

Popper quietly snatched into the committee room while it was deliberating and said there was considerable talk among the "regulars" of putting up a ticket of their own in San Francisco if they were not given seats in the convention, and then suggested that incorporation was the way to prevent them using the party appellation for their ticket. The report of the committee as adopted to-night is as follows:

We, the committee on permanent organization and order of business, respectfully report as follows:

First—We recommend that the temporary officers of the convention be made the permanent officers thereof.

Second—Receiving the report of the committee on credentials.

Third—We recommend the following order of business:

Appointment by the permanent chairman of this convention of a committee of thirty-five on platform and resolutions, and recommend that all resolutions offered in this convention be immediately referred to said committee without previous reading or debate.

B. Report of the committee on platform and resolutions.

C. The election of four delegates at large to the National Democratic Convention and four alternates thereof.

D. The election of two Presidential electors at large and two alternates thereof.

E. Receiving reports of the election of two delegates to the Democratic National Convention from each Congressional district and two alternates thereof; receiving the report of the selection of one Presidential Elector from each Congressional district and an alternate for each of the same.

F. The nomination of a Democratic nominee for the office of Lieutenant-Governor of the State of California to fill the unexpired term of S. G. Millard, deceased.

G. The election of a State Central Committee, two members from each Congressional district and one member from each Assembly district, providing that in counties embraced within one Assembly district, each such county shall be entitled to one committeeman.

We recommend that the permanent chairman of this convention be empowered to appoint twenty members at large of the Democratic State Central Committee.

We further recommend that holders of proxies of members of the State Central Committee shall be a member of such committee.

We recommend that the Democratic State Central Committee be empowered to adopt such constitution and by-laws as to them may be deemed proper for their own government and the determination of all issues presented to said committee.

We recommend that the Democratic State Central Committee immediately investigate and take all necessary steps looking to the incorporation of our party organization, if by them deemed advisable.

We recommend that the Democratic State Central Committee chosen by this convention be empowered to fill all the vacancies occurring in nominations made by this convention.

We recommend that all delegates to the National Democratic Convention, and all alternates thereof, and other nominees of this convention, appear before the same and pledge themselves to the platform adopted hereby, absentees excepted when properly vouched for.

This report may be amended in the minor details in the morning, as it is the intention of the committee to have another meeting before the convention is called to order.

ANTI-FUNDING A MAIN ISSUE.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 16.—The Democracy of Southern California regard the question of transportation and the money question as vital issues in this campaign, and are in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, the foreclosure of the Government mortgages on the Pacific Railroads as well as the general regulation of the question of transportation in the interest of the people. The delegation from the South will do all in its power to secure unequivocal declarations on these questions and to bring about harmony between the various elements in the party. The wise statesmen and politician looks beyond the convention, and to-night's conferences will no doubt result in mutual concessions in the interest of united action by the different elements. The conservative delegates are now trying to bring this about.

THE SINKING OF THE HULKS.

The Boss stood on the burning deck; His lambs they couldn't flee. Said Buckley: "If you quit the wreck You can't escape the sea.

"We'll plug the leaks and fight the fates And run the craft kerplunk Against the Junta's battered raft, Till both the hulks are sunk.

"The gangs are doubly doomed, my lads; Die hard—but never pine! We'll down together howling go— Boss—Junta—in the brine."

IDAHO DEMOCRATS MEET

State Convention Transacts Its Business in One Day and Adjourns.

The Platform Is Brief and Pointed, With Silver at 16 to 1 the Watchword.

POCATELLO, IDAHO, June 16.—Fifty delegates were present at the Democratic State Convention to-day, accompanied by a large number of distinguished visitors.

The convention was called to order at 11:30 A. M., and Watt of Blaine, was elected temporary chairman. Committees on credentials, resolutions and permanent organization and order of business were appointed.

At the afternoon session Martin of Ada was elected permanent chairman, and the following resolutions in full were presented for adoption:

WHEREAS, The delegates of Idaho are profoundly impressed with the overshadowing importance of the financial question and believe that all other political questions should be subordinated to this one, and fully recognizing the enormity of the crime of 1873, which has impoverished beyond measure the producing class as well as reduced them to financial bondage; therefore be it

Resolved, That we reaffirm our devotion to the principles of Democracy as taught by Jefferson and Jackson, and that we demand the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, as such coinage existed prior to 1873, without waiting for the action of any other nation on earth; such gold and silver to be full legal tender for all debts, public and private.

Resolved, That we hail with delight the efforts of the masses of the Democratic party now being made in so many of our sister States to emancipate themselves from the domination of the Republican financial policy which has been the cause of so much distress and destitution, and that to these brethren and to the friends of free silver everywhere we send greeting and urge that their colors never be lowered until the battle is won.

Resolved, That the delegates of this convention be, and they are hereby instructed to support no man for the nomination for President or Vice-President who does not endorse the views expressed in these resolutions and pledge himself to carry out the same, and that
