

HARNESS HORSES AT INGLESIDE. Summer Meeting of the Trotting-Horse Breeders' Association.

WILL BE A BIG AFFAIR. Trotters and Pacers From the Entire Coast Will Compete for Rich Purses.

TO BE NO TEDIOUS SCORING. McNair, the King of Sulky Starters, Has Been Engaged to Send the Horses Off

The summer meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting-horse Breeders' Association, which is to be held at Ingleside June 27, 30 and July 1, 2, 3 and 4, promises to be in horsesmen of the State, and their best efforts are all directed toward making this meeting an event in the history of the harness horse on this coast.

The following is the programme: First day, Saturday, June 27-2:30 class trotting purse, 2:15 class trotting purse, 2:25 class pacing purse.

E. P. Heald, President of the Pacific Coast Trotting-Horse Breeders' Association.

many respects one of the most important series of harness-horse events which this City has ever seen.

This is the first trotting meet which has been held in this City for two years and the lovers of sulky racing are looking forward to it with keenest anticipation.

The association conducting this meet is the largest organization of its kind in America and probably in the world.

Since that time the association has given meets at Napa, Sacramento, San Jose, Los Angeles, Oakland and San Francisco, and each meet has been a decided success.

There are at present about 200 horses in training at the track. Among them are the favorites of the track patrons of the entire coast.

POPULISTS' LOAL TO THEIR PARTY, The Sentiment Here Is Against Sacrifice by Any Fusion.

DOUBTS ABOUT TELLER. Both Populists and Democrats Want Genuine, Straight-Out Party Men.

WARDALL AND MAGUIRE TALK. The California Delegation Distrusted as the New Democratic Gold Campaign Begins.

The confusion of the anti-McKinley elements that has been rushed on the political stage on the heels of the Republican convention presents a remarkable situation in National politics, which is being watched by politicians of all stripes here as intently as in the East.

There has never in party history in America been a time of such complete and fateful uncertainty as to what will occur within four weeks.

What union or what scattering of silver forces will come forth from the uncertain workings of the gold Democrats, the silver Democrats, the Chicago convention, for the control of which a new battle has begun; the Teller bolt, now ready for co-opting; the silver party, which is ready to endorse in all sorts of directions; the Populist movement, which is still at sea, and from the side movements and plans which are cropping out amid a condition of political prospects which offers few gambles at even money?

Will the Chicago convention, which will meet two weeks from to-day, yield a radical gold or a radical silver platform and candidate or a straight-out compromise candidate? The gold administration forces are rallying from the apparent rout which followed the Kentucky victory for silver and the predictions that gold will increase hourly from New York to San Francisco.

As this is observed here, along with the news that the administration forces, backed by the banking and other gold influences in the party, will strain every nerve to capture the presidency, the marshaled under the popular leadership of Whitney, there are hourly increasing expressions of opinion that from one-third to one-half of the California delegation will vote on the side of gold in Chicago.

The California delegation is distrusted by free-silver Democrats, and is believed by others to be surely divided on the issue. Daggett will here lead the administration effort to convert delegates from free-silver to gold, the majority will bring to several delegates with gold leadings all sorts of appeals and arguments from high sources, and every possible pull that can be brought to bear will be felt by them.

When the recent State Convention was over the leading lieutenants of the Daggett-gold forces said: "Ha! Ha! They got a silver plank and we named the Democrats."

The Democratic State Convention adopted a radical whole-hog, free-silver plank, and the Congressional district conventions named a lot of goldbugs as delegates to Chicago. A silver man had no chance, and no leader, the majority will bring to several delegates with gold leadings all sorts of appeals and arguments from high sources, and every possible pull that can be brought to bear will be felt by them.

cles are except as to the silver question, but I don't think it possible that the Populists will nominate him unless he comes out openly for the People's party. He is a Republican and I think we will come to him in the tariff plank I expect to see adopted by the National Convention calling for protection to American labor and producers and the relegation of the tariff to a non-partisan business commission.

The address from St. Louis is non-committal and shows an inviolable enforcement of Teller. Those who signed it are in no position to say what the party will do. I admire Teller and it is possible that if he goes to the silver convention at St. Louis in conjunction with the Populist invited I will feel ready to support him.

"It seems to me now that the chances are that the election will be thrown into the House. There is no possibility of our maintaining the Democratic nominee. The Democrats will be by a radical free silver plank, but that only one of our demands. We are the anti-monopoly party and free silver is only part of our financial policy, though it is the most important one."

"Our chances of recruiting from the Republican party are too good now to throw away the results of years of labor in building up the party. To combine with the Democrats would be throwing away the party. We would not feel able to trust a Democrat for Congress even, if we made a combination. We couldn't afford to elect a Democratic Congressman unless he pledged himself to stay out of a Democratic caucus for the selection of a Speaker of the House, and Democratic Congressmen we elected we could not control. I have spent years of labor and thousands of dollars without a dime of recompense in the work of building up the party, and if now it was to be disrupted and thrown away by endorsing a Democratic candidate for the Presidency I would feel like going back to work on my farm."

"We are ready to combine with the Independent Free Silver party. We say to the silver men, 'Meet us in St. Louis July 22 and we will divide things on fair and equal terms.' We will treat the men who leave their parties and come out and stand with us as well as we do our own people. We say as well that this silver fight will continue a number of years before it is settled."

"Another consideration is that the Democratic party has gone to silver as a matter of policy mainly. That is one reason why we do not think it wise to trust a list of united and sincere in what they believe and will vote only for men they believe to be sincere. As to the Democratic National Convention, my opinion is that it will adopt a money plank that is neither fish or flesh."

"There will be no combinations on legislative candidates in this City," said George D. Gillespie. "There will be a straight Populist ticket of Assemblymen and Senators."

Congressman James G. Maguire gave some further opinions about the National situation yesterday. He believes that there is no chance of the Democratic National Convention taking up Teller or any body else who is not a true-blue Democrat as well as a silver man.

"It seems to me that the Teller bolt was a logical and necessary result of the Republican National Convention," said Mr. Maguire. "I don't believe that if Teller should run as a silver candidate he will undoubtedly receive a very large vote from the silver Republicans in all the States of the West, including Illinois, Ohio, Iowa, California, Oregon and Washington. I think the result will be the election of a Republican elector from all the States west and south of Pennsylvania, provided, of course, that the Democratic party shall, as I believe it will, adopt a silver platform and nominate strong silver candidates."

"I do not at present see any possibility of Teller's nomination by the Democrats. The nominee of that convention must be a Democrat who stands for the other principles enunciated in the Democratic platform as well as the silver plank."

FOOTPADS ARE KEEPING IT UP. A Japanese Shoemaker Nearly Beaten to Death.

ROBBED OF HIS WATCH. Lively Experience of Charles Kendrick, Cashier in a Corner Grocery.

HE COMES OFF VICTORIOUS. Two of the Many Cases Which the Police Want to Keep to Themselves.

Burglars and footpads are taking the fullest advantage of the idiotic policy of the Supervisors in shutting off the street lights to do as large a business as possible. The police are doing their utmost to keep the reports to themselves, but occasionally a few leak out, and two holdups are among the number.

Handi Naajiro, employed in the Japanese shoemaking of C. Sekeni at 223 Ellis street, after stopping work on Sacramento street. He left there shortly after 11 o'clock to go to his room at 228 Ellis street. He walked along Stockton street, and between California and Pine he noticed two men following closely behind him. He paid no attention to them, but when he reached Bush street they were close behind him, and he was knocked down by a blow on the head from some heavy instrument.

After knocking him down they kicked him on the head until he became unconscious. When he regained consciousness, in about fifteen minutes, he found that his silver watch and chain and a bunch of keys had been stolen. His head was cut in several places, and although he was weak from the loss of blood he managed to walk home. A physician was called in to attend to his wounds, and last night he was on a fair way to recovery. He could give no description of the two footpads.

Charles Kendrick, cashier in a grocery at California and Filmore streets yesterday related his remarkable experience with a footpad on Sunday night. He had been out with a lady friend, and, after taking her home, he went to the corner of Masonic avenue and Park street to wait for a car to go home. It was not so very dark, as the moon was shedding her soft light and the electric lights at the chutes were not far distant.

Kendrick heard stealthy footsteps behind him. He was not thinking of footpads and paid no attention to the footsteps. Soon a man, wearing an overcoat with the collar turned up and a black Derby hat pulled well down over his eyes, stood in front of him. The man had his hands in his overcoat pockets, and after glancing up and down the street, pulled a gun out of the pocket of his overcoat and, pointing it at Kendrick, quietly remarked, "Shell out, young fellow."

Kendrick retained possession of the revolver as a memento of his victory over the footpad. It is a rusty old thing and gave signs of being well oiled. When asked why he did not fire at the footpad when he saw him running away he said he was afraid of missing him, and he might have returned with a knife. He said the footpad looked like a "dope fiend" and he thought he might know him again.
