

DEBT THAT BLAME IS ON THEM.

Supervisors Declare They Only Did What They Were Told.

AN APOLOGY ISSUED.

They Toss the Ball of Responsibility to the District Attorney's Office.

SNOOK FOLLOWED MOREHOUSE.

Mr. Morehouse Ordered Nothing, but Simply Gave the Benefit of His Advice.

OAKLAND OFFICE SAN FRANCISCO CALL.

There is consternation in the county building. The ball of responsibility is being tossed from the District Attorney's office to the Supervisors' quarters and thence to the members of the State Board of Equalization from San Leandro.

To-day the Supervisors issued their "justification." They ordered the County Clerk to compile a tabulated statement of the assessment roll that would show exactly what they did, what Mr. Morehouse ordered them to do, what District Attorney Snook advised them to do, and what Mr. Black Ryan's arguments persuaded them to do.

The assessment roll was cut $2,500,000, and somehow or other the Southern Pacific Company experienced the benefit of half of the entire cut, and now the friends of the Assessor are attempting to find out who did it.

Mr. Morehouse disclaims the responsibility of it. When before the Supervisors, he informed Mr. Dalton he was not there to interpret law, but to inform the board how the State Board accounted for the 100 miles of track in this county that the Assessor claims is totally ignored by the State Board.

Mr. Dalton cannot understand how Mr. Snook could so readily render an opinion.

The reduction of the water company's franchise from $250,000 to $150,000 is "justified" by the remark: "Reduction made on advice of District Attorney because assessed by District Attorney because assessed by District Attorney."

The sum of $419,650 which was assessed to the national banks and their officials is marked "exempt," and the following "justification" is printed: "Items given as exempt, reduced to nominal figure, owing to advice of District Attorney that same were not subject to assessment."

NO CRIME TO LOVE.

Nor Yet Sinful to Beat the Man Who Takes Your Wife Walking.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—George Jordan learned last night that it is not a crime for a man to love a woman even if she is somebody else's wife.

George Jordan is a regular attendant at lodge meetings. Last night he did not feel inclined to go and so told his wife. She was very much surprised and urged him so strongly to attend to his fraternal duties that he doubted the cause of her persistency.

Finally he decided to go. He did not proceed to his lodge, but stayed in the darkness near his home and waited developments. A little later his wife came out. After walking a few steps she was joined by a young man and they started for a walk.

Before going far Jordan decided to take a hand. He took two hands, and while he held his wife with one he rained blows on the other man's head with the other.

Policeman Reinhardt was summoned by Jordan, who asked him to arrest his wife's companion, a barber named Henry Derwin. The officer refused, as Derwin had committed no crime. Derwin admitted his mistake to-day, and Jordan said if he cannot get satisfaction under criminal law he will resort to the Civil Code.

An Automatic Gate.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—The Street Department is at work placing an automatic flush gate in the main lake sewer. By this means a stream of water will be kept running through the sewer all the time except at high tide, when the gate will close to keep the sewage from being backed into the lake.

The automatic flushing of the sewer is expected to keep it from becoming clogged as at present with sand bars and will save a man's time who formerly had to open and close a gate by hand every time it was thought necessary to flush the sewer.

A Caved-In Sewer. OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—Street

Superintendent Miller is occupied making repairs upon the main-stem sewer between Twenty-second and Twenty-fourth streets, which has caved-in. At this point the sewer runs very close to the top of the ground and it is thought that a heavily loaded wagon has caused the trouble.

ARDENT SUFFRAGISTS.

Miss B. B. Anthony Greatly Encouraged by the Feeling Among the Salvationists.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—Miss Susan B. Anthony addressed the Salvation Army camp meeting at Trestle Glen this afternoon. There was a larger attendance than on any afternoon since the camp opened.

Miss Anthony seemed to strike a sympathetic chord in her audience from the start. The Salvation Army, explained Brigadier Keppel, is a suffrage movement par excellence. It was probably the first great organization to entirely eradicate sex lines and to confer distinction equally on men and women.

The position of women in the army was generally praised by Miss Anthony, and she encouraged her sisters to go ahead and stop at nothing short of the ballot. The speaker told of the progress and success of the movement in various parts of the State and predicted emancipation for her sex in November.

Rev. Eliza Tupper-Wilkes also made a short address and her remarks were very witty. She kept her audience smiling all the time.

Evening Commissioner Booth-Tucker arrived on the camp ground and conducted the latter part of the meeting. He will be present at all meetings till the close.

School Days to Begin.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—J. B. McChesney, principal of the High School, will be at his office in the school building Saturday from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. to consult with pupils and parents.

The pupils will probably take the commencing course in the High School and intend to report at the Central Grammar School, in the old High School building, on Monday. This change will lessen the attendance somewhat at the new building. All of the public schools open Monday for the fall term.

Objects to a Stepphater.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—Jennie Gibson, a pretty miss of 15, has left her home in San Francisco and will hereafter live in Oakland, just because her mother has married a second time and she has heard so much of stepphathers that she does not like the idea of having one herself. To-day Mrs. Prescott was appointed her guardian by the court, with the mother absent. The mother was in court at the time.

DEATH OF AN OLD-TIMER.

The Old Secretary of the Famous Ophir Mine Closes His Books Forever.

H. D. Clark Breaks His Collar-Bone. A Demand for Legal Services Made Upon the City.

ALAMEDA, CAL., July 23.—George Voges, who for the past ten years has been known as the proprietor of the Central Gardens, at the corner of Grand street and Railroad avenue, died this morning. His death is attributed to heart disease and diabetes. The deceased was 66 years old and was a native of Hanover, Germany.

Voges was a man who had had a varied and interesting career. In his young days he was a lawyer and took the boards in his native country and his adopted home. He came to California after the war, and was for many years secretary and accountant for the famous Ophir mine. Stock speculations ruined him and then he became a popular boniface, well known to business men on California, Sutter and Kearny streets, San Francisco.

Ill-health hampered him in his business ventures and he came to Alameda, making the Central Gardens a popular resort. The funeral services are set for Saturday at 2 P. M.

A Broken Collarbone.

ALAMEDA, CAL., July 23.—Herbert D. Clark, contributor to a local paper, broke his collarbone last night in the Alameda City Club, of which he is a member. He and another club member were wrestling, and Clark was thrown, landing heavily on his left side and breaking his collarbone.

Associate Counsel's Fee.

ALAMEDA, CAL., July 23.—Marcus P. Wiggins has made a demand upon the city for legal services in the case of J. J. Fleming vs. the City Trustees, in assisting the City Attorney in defense of that action. Mr. Wiggins considers his services to be worth $150, and he has been particularly liberal in the matter. The prices charged are the current market rates.

The Red Cross Ordinance.

ALAMEDA, CAL., July 23.—The health ordinance referring to expropriating in public places and conveyances has been posted in placards in the case of J. J. Fleming vs. the City Trustees, in assisting the City Attorney in defense of that action. Mr. Wiggins considers his services to be worth $150, and he has been particularly liberal in the matter. The prices charged are the current market rates.

Alameda Day.

ALAMEDA, CAL., July 23.—The Alameda day program for this morning and organized with T. G. Daniels as chairman and J. A. Munro secretary. Joseph F. Forderer has been chosen president of the day and E. K. Taylor and Green Majors the orators.

Street-Sprinklers' Work.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—Superintendent of Streets Miller wants the wages of the street-sprinklers graded according to the work done. From reports turned in by the men it is found that some of the sprinklers' cuts cover thirteen miles, while others only cover six miles. Notwithstanding the difference of work done they are all paid $4 a day.

He finds that the best results are made by men who have the latest improved carts and good teams. The character of the drivers cut quite a figure, and Mr. Miller thinks that a graded scale of wages will be an incentive to better work.

CHEERED FOR M'KINLEY. A Rousing Meeting by the Army and Navy Republican League.

THINK THEY SEE A LITTLE JOKER.

Radical Change in the Rules of the Haywards Road.

VIEW OF THE SECRETARY.

It Will Increase Salaries but Save Money for the Railroad Company.

BUT THE MEN ARE ANXIOUS.

Although the Rules Be Obeyed, the Old Employes May All Be Let Out.

OAKLAND OFFICE SAN FRANCISCO CALL.

A new system of conducting the Haywards electric road was inaugurated to-day. It was reported that the men were intending to strike, but such is not the case. The situation is of great interest to all carmen and will be carefully watched.

"There was one clause which the men did not see," said A. L. Stone, secretary of the road, to-day. "It says that the new schedule shall not affect any of the present employes of the road."

"Our new plan is a distinct benefit to the men whom we shall henceforth employ and does not affect the men who work for us at present. From this time on we shall pay 19 cents per hour for the first two years' service, 20 cents for the third year, 21 cents the fourth year and 22 cents for all who work for five years or upward. The only effect it will have on the men at present employed is that five years from now their salary will be increased 1 per cent per year. At present all men receive 21 cents an hour."

"Now here is where the men will receive a benefit. At present we have motormen and conductors, but in the future we shall break men in from both ends. That is, they will be fitted for either a motorman or a conductor, and this will give them more hours of work. At present two men are broken in where one will do in the future, and this will be a retrenchment for the company, as there will not be so many men on its payroll, more salary. As a matter of fact, the change is really a benefit to the men."

The employes of the road are discussing the matter, and while they admit the truth of all that the secretary says they feel somewhat uneasy, as they are not sure how soon it may affect them.

"This is our position," said one of the men this evening. "If the company likes it can soon bring about a big reduction in salary, even while it is faithfully obeying its new rules. Suppose it should drop all of its old men, one or two at a time, and take on new ones. Then the new men would receive 19 cents for two years. If the company should decide not to retain any one in its employ for more than two years, we would not pay more than 19 cents, although it could be obeying the letter of the new rule, but ignoring its spirit."

"We do not suppose that the company intends to make any such radical changes, but the loophole is there if they wish to take advantage of it, and that is what makes us feel uneasy."

Regarding a strike, a very interesting condition of affairs prevails on the Haywards road. Each car is marked "U. S. Mail," and the company has a contract to carry mails daily. Under the decision of the Federal courts employes cannot refuse to move the mails, so that if the postmaster placed a mail bag aboard each car the employes would either have to work or go to jail; that is, if former decisions should be allowed to stand. Should any disagreement arise the point would take on a very interesting phase.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

A Drowned Man Found With a Bottle of Whisky in His Pocket.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—The body of an unknown man, about 45 or 50 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, with a reddish-gray beard and mustache, was found in the estuary late yesterday by Nels Lunde, an employe at Hay & Wright's shipyard. He made it fast to the bank and notified the coroner this morning.

There was a Waterbury watch in the dead man's pocket, 30 cents and a bottle of whisky. The watch had stopped at 25 minutes of 7 o'clock. The body had the appearance of having been in the water a day or so.

Died Before Aid Arrived.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—The death of Miss Clara C. Deitman of Sixteenth avenue at a late hour last night was caused from general debility. At an autopsy held this afternoon Dr. Wilcox found that several internal organs were affected, but she had insisted on doing the housework and no one realized that she was in such poor health.

Miss Deitman was 31 years old and had just joined her sisters here. When she was taken suddenly ill yesterday afternoon the doctor was sent for, but she died before he arrived.

William Ashby's Will.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—The will of William Ashby, who recently died in Berkeley, has been filed for probate. The estate consists of money and real property valued at $400.

The legal heirs are: Mark T. Ashby of Berkeley, James T. Ashby of Oakland, Mrs. Annette B. Basset of Massachusetts and the two children of his sister, Mrs. Anne White. Mrs. Lydia M. Davidson, a widow, is bequeathed the sum of $500 as a token of affection.

Hilborn to Speak.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—Congressman Hilborn will address the Sixth Ward Republican Club Friday night. The meeting will be held in Becker Hall, on Washington street.

amused by the publication of the report that his club had been refused admission to the League of American Wheelmen.

No such letter has been received, and the matter is still being considered by the L. A. W.

"I think the story must have been circulated for the purpose of creating prejudice against us," said Captain Williams to-day. "I wrote to the league last year, and was told that the matter had never been brought up, and that we should hear later. I wrote again a few days ago and have not yet received a reply."

"The story that I have been informed that we could not be admitted and that I had severely criticized the league managers is entirely false. I am still waiting for my answer, and have every reason to believe that it will be favorable to us. It does not admit our clubs to full membership it may recognize our meets and keep our records."

"We did feel that the publication did us an injustice, as Chairman Welch is considering the matter and we have certainly said nothing."

NO PRIZE-FIGHTING.

The Chief of Police Sees No Good in Physical Culture Exhibitions.

OAKLAND, CAL., July 23.—Patrons of physical culture do not find favor in the eyes of Chief of Police Lloyd. When told that the athletic clubs are trying to secure a prize-fight to take place in this city he said:

"They can't come here. I do not propose to allow a prize-fight to be held in this city. The granting of a permit for a prize-fight, under the pretense that it is a 'physical culture' exhibition, is a mere farce. The legislative body of a city has no power to set aside a State law. I witnessed one of the exhibitions across the bay, and I can say that a prize-fight is a disgrace to the people. Such affairs cannot be given here if I have anything to say about it."

CUNNINGHAM'S SHORT HIS ACCOUNTS.

VETERINARY FINANCES.

The Accused Man Was Formerly Secretary of the New School.

MADE MANY FAIR PROMISES.

Treasurer Egen Swears to a Complaint Charging Misdemeanor Embezzlement.

There is intense excitement among the faculty and students of the veterinary department, University of California, over an alleged shortage of the former secretary, Professor J. A. Cunningham.

Yesterday the affair reached a climax, when Dr. Egan, treasurer of the veterinary school, swore to a complaint in Judge Conlan's court charging Cunningham with misdemeanor embezzlement.

The former secretary is directly accused of making way with the sum of $22, but the actual shortage is said to be anywhere from $190 to $500.

The trouble is one of long standing, but did not reach an earlier head because of the leniency of several members of the faculty. The veterinary department of the University of California was organized about two years ago, by the present faculty, it being necessary at the time for each member to put up something like $50 in order to make the institution a financial success. Dr. Steers was the first secretary, and at the end of twelve months was succeeded by Professor Cunningham. For a time everything moved along smoothly, and then suddenly a dark spot appeared on the secretary's record.

On November 22, 1895, Cunningham was given a check for $68.60 with which to pay sundry bills, including one of $22 from H. S. Crocker & Co., printers. A few weeks after this a second bill came from the printing firm and the secretary was called on for an explanation. He assured the faculty that the matter had escaped his attention, and that he would attend to it at once. Two months after this a third bill came from Crocker & Co., and this time Cunningham said he had paid it and consequently there was a mistake somewhere.

In the meantime other matters of an unpleasant character came to the surface, and last May when the annual election of officers occurred, Cunningham was displaced and Dr. Steers elected in his stead. A few days later it was discovered that the erstwhile secretary was about $350 behind in his accounts. The matter was called to his attention and he promised to right things in a few days. It seems that he did eventually pay $160 and then endeavored to offset matters by presenting a bill against the college.

Cunningham claimed among other things that he had entertained the students at various times at his house, the gas bill and breakage of instruments alone amounting to about $50. He was informed by the faculty that if he would produce the bills for the amount claimed the same would be placed to his credit. The bills were not forthcoming, and the indebtedness was consequently not decreased.

Then Cunningham made numerous promises to liquidate, but somehow failed to do so. Finally the faculty grew tired of waiting, and yesterday, Dr. Egan, as it was reported, swore to the complaint above referred to. Cunningham's known shortage, including the Crocker bill, is $212, but it is thought by some members of the faculty that there may be other bills unpaid, which will make this amount $300.

Dr. Egan declined to talk about the affair last night, though he admitted that the facts recited above are correct. He said, however, that he had sworn to the complaint Wednesday afternoon. He had requested it, and second the institution being still in its infancy could ill afford to sustain such a loss as was contemplated in the shortage of ex-Secretary Cunningham.

CLOSE OF VACATION NEAR AT HAND.

Berkeley Freshmen Have Already Begun to Arrive.

SCHEDULE OF EXERCISES.

The University Will Open Two Weeks From Monday.

500 FRESHMEN EXPECTED.

Buildings and Campus Being Put into Condition for the Fall Opening.

BERKELEY, CAL., July 23.—Vacation at the State University is rapidly drawing to a close. Two weeks from Monday the clocks of the State's highest institution of learning will again begin to revolve. Three weeks from to-day, the 13th of August, will be registration day, when graduates and upper class students will be expected to file their schedules of courses for the fall term. Already new students have begun to appear on the campus and ask for the recorder's office. Many families from the interior of the State have arrived within the last few days and are taking up their residences in the college town. The professors have begun to return to Berkeley from their summer outings, and the buildings are again groaning under the conditions for the reception of students.

From all appearances it would seem that the class of freshmen this year will exceed 500. If the number is swelled to 600, as is being generally expected, it will be confronted with the question as to where they all shall be accommodated.

The new Mechanics' building has been put into service as headquarters for several large buildings, which were formerly in the other buildings. Lieutenant Winn, head of the military department, who is probably the most visited man in the faculty, has moved his office to the Mechanics' building, a distance of 300 yards from the old headquarters of the student body.

This change has already aroused considerable displeasure on the part of the student cadets who are about Berkeley, because of the distance of the new building from the armory and recitation hall. Some talk has been made of moving the recorder's office to the Mechanics' building also.

Librarian Rowell has just received a large consignment of English books on science, art and literature, which he says will be a valuable addition to the library.

Following is the schedule of exercises for the opening of the term, as prepared by the president:

Monday, August 10.—Academic year begins. Monday, August 10.—August 10-12—entrance examination at Berkeley for the colleges of letters, sciences and laws. Filing of credits of the distance of the college of accredited schools. Filing of credentials by applicants for admission to graduate and post-graduate courses.

Tuesday, August 18.—Registration day. Professors and instructors will keep office hours for consultation with students concerning the election of courses for the first half year, etc.

Thursday, August 13, 1 P. M.—Instruction in upper-class courses. August 13-15.—Registration of graduates and upper-class students for courses of the first half year. Registration of such students after Thursday will be restricted only in cases of exceptional urgency.

Monday, August 17, from 9 o'clock A. M. to 5 o'clock P. M.—Admission cards issued by the recorder to incoming students. Payment of diploma fee deposit ($10) and signing of the university roll by incoming students.

Tuesday, August 18.—Organization of instruction for freshmen. The freshmen will assemble in the lecture hall of the Mechanics' building, to meet the president of the university and the freshmen instructors and advisers. Freshmen and other qualified students will register for courses in military science and physical culture.

A Politician Injured.

BERKELEY, CAL., July 23.—James Andrew of Walnut street, the Socialist candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, while riding home from his work yesterday evening was thrown from a wagon and the wheels of the vehicle passed over him. He was picked up and carried home, where he suffered extremely. To-day he was improving, but as yet the physicians have not been able to determine whether or not any bones are broken.

News Items in Brief.

BERKELEY, CAL., July 23.—The Sunday-school annex to the First Congregational Church is rapidly nearing completion. It will be ready for dedication on August 15, and when finished will cost upward of $3500.

The new panel of trial jurors ordered by Judge Ogden includes Philo Mills of Berkeley, Phil Rosenheim of Lorin and Joseph Green of Oakland Township.

A concert will be given to-morrow evening in the Park Congregational Church by the members of the Lyceum Literary Society.

Clure, a farmer, flew into a rage yesterday because his horse rubbed against him, soiling his Sunday clothes, and as a punishment he bit the animal's ear. As McCure's teeth closed on the horse's organ of hearing it tossed its head high in the air, breaking the man's jaw in three places. The horse is quite a hero in the neighborhood. McCure has gone to bed for the summer.—Kansas City Times.

GAS PROPERTIES PAY WELL.

Electricity Giving Way to a More Economical Light.

D. J. McCool, a representative of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia, which owns gas plants in thirty-eight American cities, arrived here last night from the East.

He says that electricity as a rival of gas is not nearly so dangerous as it was about twelve years ago. At that time the electric light began rapidly to supplant the gas light. But since the introduction and perfection of improved gasburners that regulate and economize the supply there has been a constant return of old patrons to gas.

These new burners require only three cubic feet an hour, where eight and nine feet were used before their introduction. With them a sixty-candle power light can be attained at a cost much less than that for a sixteen-candle electric light. Consequently people are going back to the more economical light.

Mr. McCool declares that he considers gas properties safe investments. He adds that not over 30 per cent of the electric light plants in the United States are paying dividends.

THE WISDOM OF THE CURBSTONE.

What the Small Street Orators Say About Silver.

A HOT DISCUSSION.

What Held the Crowd After the Bulletins Stopped Coming.

PROTECTION AND PROSPERITY.

It Paid the War Debt and Put a Value on Every Man's Property.

"Good-night." The eager crowd in front of THE CALL bulletin saw the words written at the end of the story of the convention proceedings in Chicago, which all afternoon and the early hours of the night had been written there in brief paragraphs. The orators that had been dividing the interest with the man on the trestle with his marking pot all these hours now had it all their own way.

That part of the crowd who did not care for them broke away, but their places were quickly filled by others who did care more for the heated argument than for the news from St. Louis, and who wanted to help heat the argument.

"They'll be out of the road altogether and safely landed in the Democratic camp by this time to-morrow night," said one of these, by way of inciting to rebellion.

"Sixteen to one they do nothing of the kind," said the man in the center of the crowd, whose soft, white hat distinguished him.

There was a surge to and fro for a minute and the debate was under full swing.

"The Populist party is the party of the people," said the man with the white hat. "The people want money, more money, and they can't get any out of either of the old parties, and they're going to stick in the middle of the road until they get it."

"To the White House, of course. It leads to a place where the fiat of the Government makes as good money as there is in the world."

"Can we buy English hops with it?" "Not an English hop—we don't need 'em. We have hops to sell, and better beer, too, than they can make in London."

"That's with a long white beard, who was, nevertheless, not a Populist, but a goldbug of the most pronounced character, edged his way through the crowd until he stood face to face with the man with the white hat, and with his hand full of silver half-dollars cried:

publican era, with its protective tariff and the consequent unemployment of every man who desired to work, gave a value to every man's farm and his horse and his cow and his home.

"He could borrow money on them if he wanted to. Under a system that drains the country of its gold; that compels the issuance of bonds sold to foreign countries for the wherewith to pay the running expenses of the Government, the farms, the houses, the horses, the cows and every other creature has lost its value. No money is to be had and business is suspended."

"The crowd jostled and swayed again. A man with a bigger voice than either he or the white beard was explaining to a neighboring group that neither silver nor gold was the panacea; but that some finer and stranger remedy was the thing. He was calling the crowd when a policeman came and told him to go away and hire a hall.

FUN FOR THEATER-GOERS.

Arrival of the Empire Theater Company of New York With Three Attractive Plays.

There is a treat in store for the theater-goers of San Francisco. Charles Frohman's Empire Theater Company arrived last evening from New York with its repertory of the latest and most successful plays and will present at Sixteen street, Broadway, Theater next Monday. The company will remain for three weeks, opening with Clyde Fitch's comedy, "Bohemia," which ran for 100 consecutive nights at the Empire Theater, New York. The latest successful comedy, entitled "The Benefit of the Doubt," will occupy the boards during the second week, while the third and last week will be devoted to the presentation of the brilliant comedy-drama, "The Masqueraders." All of these plays will be produced with the same careful attention to detail and scenic effects that characterized them at the home theater in New York. Prices will remain as usual, and seats are now on sale.
