

DEACON MORSE TRIUMPHS AGAIN.

The Opposition Faction Cannot Meet in the Church.

DOORS STILL CLOSED.

The Trustees Will Ask Permission to Mortgage the Property.

SOME CAUSTIC COMMENTS.

Claim That the Only First Congregational Society Meets in Golden Gate Hall.

Deacon Morse is not the man to play a losing game. Yesterday morning the "opposition" was ready to march up to the First Congregational Church building and take possession.

"The idea," observed the senior deacon last night, "that three members could compel the trustees to open the church is simply amusing. No such rule is to be found in any manual of Congregational law that I ever saw, and I have seen many. The church will not be opened to serve as a theater of scandal and contention."

The trustees held a meeting yesterday afternoon. W. F. Whitford, James Coleman, W. J. Dutton and Charles Merrill, all the trustees at present in town, being in attendance. Trustee Dodge is now in Europe, and there are two vacancies in the board, which should regularly consist of seven members.

The reasons given for the refusal were, first, that no guarantee was given that the expenses attendant upon the reopening would be met, and second, that under existing circumstances a view of the fact that the Bay Conference is about to take up the former trouble at its coming session, such reopening would be unwise and inexpedient.

"Things are in a queer tangle," commented one of the church officers when informed of what had transpired at the meeting. As I understand the situation, the trustees are at length decided to apply to the courts for permission to mortgage the property. No notice was taken of the present conflict between the two factions in the congregation, the meeting being purely business like in character.

"The church people have been meeting in Golden Gate Hall, where they have an average attendance of about 400. There are about as many more members who are holding aloof waiting for things to settle down. The opposition consists of about forty persons, but they make up in venom what they lack in numbers. The First Congregational Society is the one which meets at the hall on Sutter street and there is no other organization entitled to the name. Four of the deacons, the church clerk, the standing committee and the trustees are part and parcel of the Sutter street congregation, which will recapture its church building when the other people shall have done with their tantrums."

A pillar of the opposition stated that the synodical list mentioned in the call of yesterday would commence its rounds to-day, seven copies to be furnished to as many persons, who will make a thorough canvass for signatures. A movement is on foot to bring about the resignation of deacons, church clerk and standing committee, after which new officers will be elected to fill the positions of those now considered objectionable. This project is directed against Deacon Morse in particular, since he has been mainly instrumental in keeping the congregation from disbanding by convoking them in the Sutter street hall.

"I am satisfied with the action of the trustees in keeping the church closed," said one of the members. "It would never do to open it while Dr. Brown's enemies are carrying on in their present fashion. It would keep the church in hot water all the while. There is no truth in the statement that Dr. Brown intends returning hither."

"He is at present acting under contract as supply for the Rev. Dr. Blanchard, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, the principal Congregational church in Chicago, where he is meeting with the most gratifying success. As soon as he can leave Chicago he will proceed to Dubuque in order to be formally received into the church, which is a prospect not readily to him, and has offered to admit him into fellowship with its members. In case the Bay Conference takes any future action he will be represented at its sessions by a duly accredited attorney."

SMILEY ON THE ALERT.

He Smells a Rodent in Regard to Populist Appointments.

The Election Commissioners Postpone Action in Consequence of His Objections.

Ex-Registrar of Voters T. J. L. Smiley, who represents the Republican party in efforts to purge the registration lists of illegal voters and to have honest and impartial election boards appointed, showed his opinion before the Election Commissioners yesterday when the matter of the number of officers to each board came up.

to the party that polled more than 5 per cent of the total vote. I am in favor of giving the Democrats five, the Republicans five and the Populists two. I am also in favor of making one of the Populists a judge and the other an inspector, because these are the important offices. Each party will then have one inspector and one judge."

"Hold on," said Mr. Smiley, "there is going to be or has been a fusion between the Democrats and Populists. The result of this action will be that the Democrats will virtually have five of the offices on each board while we have only five. That would not be a fair apportionment. It would be unfair to the Republican party."

"Populists won't fuse," said Crewell, "so there is no occasion for alarm."

"They have already done so," said Smiley; but the further discussion and settlement of the matter was postponed until next Monday.

SUES THE COMPANY.

Irwin Silverstein Claims Damages for Injuries Caused by a Laborer.

Irwin Silverstein, by his brother and guardian, Jesse G. Silverstein, began a suit yesterday in the Justice Courts against the Market-street Railroad Company for $200 damages.

Young Silverstein alleges in his complaint that on April 10 last he was riding his bicycle along Leavenworth street near Golden Gate avenue, when one of the employes of the corporation who was engaged in excavating the rails of the defendant at that point struck his wheel with a shovel, throwing him into the excavation. His bicycle was damaged, his clothing torn and his person injured to the extent demanded in the complaint.

A HIGH-NOON WEDDING.

Nuptials of Garret McEnerney and Miss Elizabeth Hogan.

Reception After the Ceremony—Fellacious Speeches at the Bridal Breakfast.

Garret McEnerney, the distinguished and popular attorney, and Miss Elizabeth Hogan, daughter of the late J. S. Hogan, a Napa pioneer, were married yesterday at noon at St. Mary's Cathedral on Van Ness avenue.

Archbishop Riordan, assisted by Father Kirby and Father Mulligan, read the solemn words that made the distinguished couple man and wife.

The church was crowded to the doors with the many friends of the popular young couple. The decorations of the church were elegant and artistic. The altar of St. Mary's lends itself readily to decoration and ablaze as it was with countless tapers and almost hid beneath a wealth of fragrant white blossoms it presented a most artistic and beautiful picture.

To the strains from the bridal chorus of "Lohengrin" promptly at noon the bridal party entered the church. The bride, in a manner of elegant and artistic. AT THE MARK ONE HUNDRED.

Louis Greenberg, a Centenarian, Hale and Hearty.

BANISHED FROM POLAND

He Was in France During the Last Days of the First Empire.

MADE AND LOST TWO FORTUNES

His Shroud and Coffin Are Ready for Occupancy in Case of Accident.

Yesterday Louis Greenberg, an inmate of the Hebrew Old People's Home in this City, was a century old, and the ancient gentleman celebrated his ripe years in a fitting manner. Many prominent business men remembered the old man and his age, and sent him gifts and congratulations.

He was born in Seiditz, Poland, when troubles were falling thick and fast upon that unhappy, dismembered country. He early took an active part in the political discussions of the time, and went into exile at 15. The Poles learned to be patriotic in their cradles and suffered for it in their youth.

He went to France, the refuge of the banished, and for many years was a commission merchant in Paris. During the close of the Napoleonic era he lived in the capital city and many times saw the great Corsican and heard the imperial bugles sounding through the streets. Old Mr. Greenberg remembers and loves to speak of the Emperor and is sad when he recalls the downfall of Bonaparte, the warrior-friend of Poland.

He afterward removed to Algiers, where he met and married his wife. She died in 1854, leaving him two children, who died in their youth. Soon after their death he removed to America and embarked in active business. He soon acquired considerable money, but lost it in an unlucky speculation.

He came to this State in 1863, where, from a penniless stranger, he soon grew to be a man of means and finally of wealth, when the great mining deal and disaster of 1876 swept down upon the street, and Louis Greenberg, with many others, was ruined and his fortunes scattered. He struggled against misfortune, but never succeeded in establishing himself firm in business again, and about ten years ago he became an inmate of the Hebrew Home.

Although 100 years with their ups and downs, their fortunes and misfortunes, have gone over his head, his mind is clear, and he remembers the most minute details of his active life. The flight from Poland, the great Napoleon, life in Africa and in America, are yet fresh in his memory.

In 1849 he had his coffin and shroud made for his final occupancy and kept them near him, so as to be handy, he said. When he went to the home the officers objected to the coffin and it was banished from the institution. The shroud he was permitted to retain and the sepulchral garment hangs in his closet. However, he wants it understood that he does not intend to use either the shroud or coffin for a half of another century, unless he should meet with an accident.

Mr. Greenberg enjoys excellent health and can read and write without glasses. He takes care of his person and is cleanly and genteel in his habits. He is a light eater and seldom partakes of liquor or uses tobacco. With a fine, sound constitution and a quiet, peaceful disposition, it is believed he will lengthen out his span of years far over the century mark.

before that time as the representative of several English capitalists. He was an ardent sportsman, as was his wife, and they became attached because of their similarity of tastes. The marriage was a very quiet one, owing to the death shortly before of the bride's father.

Mr. Heathcote was for some time engaged in the wholesale liquor business in this City with Harry Dexter, but of late has been busy in no commercial pursuit.

WANTED HIS MONEY.

Why Dr. F. F. Lord Was Sued in the Justice Courts by a Fair Client.

Dr. F. F. Lord's suit against Mrs. Lottie White developed some interesting points in Justice Groezinger's court yesterday. Dr. Lord is a dentist and Mrs. White was formerly a patient of his under the name of Mrs. Dentice. As she was about to be married she desired to present as pleasant a personal appearance as possible. Mrs. Dentice applied to the dentist and requested him to remove a rubber plug from her teeth and replace it with one of gold. The charge for the change was $30, and Dr. Lord, after doing as requested, refused to allow the lady to leave his rooms until he had received his money. As his coin was not forthcoming, he insisted on his patient going back into the dentist's chair and having the plug removed. Mrs. Dentice then went to another dentist to have the work done and Dr. Lord sued for his fee. The matter was taken under advisement, the judge desiring some expert testimony as to the value of tooth plugs.

HOP-PICKERS WANTED.

Large Orders From the Country Have Been Received.

The hop-picking season has again rolled around, and opportunities will soon be presented for hundreds of people to visit the country on vacations that will be alike pleasant and profitable. At all of the large hopyards in the State there is plenty of work to be done for six weeks or two months, and those who have left the City in past years have enjoyed the novelty of camp life and outdoor work.

Last year the free employment office attached to the State Labor Bureau sent hundreds of people to the hopyards, and the experiment proved a success for those who worked and those who employed. While the wages were not large the pleasures of camp life more than made up the compensation for those who otherwise would have been unable to leave the City. Whole families packed their blankets and tents and went to the country, and nearly all were sorry when the harvest season was over.

This year the exodus of hop-pickers from the City promises to be larger than ever. The first order for this kind of labor was received at the State's Free Employment Bureau yesterday. J. B. Durst, a large land-owner at Wheatland, Yuba county, sent in an order for 600 pickers, and Labor Commissioner Fitzgerald will undertake to fill the order at once. The wages offered this year are better than last, 70 to 90 cents per 100 pounds being the price. Men, women and children will be accepted and sent to Wheatland as soon as the hops are ready for picking, which will be very soon.

The same gentleman also said: "I am aware and others are aware that some weeks ago there were very large importations of silver certificates into this State. The attention of bankers was called to the fact by the unusual and unusual way in which they came to banks. They were refused at some banks, but for a time they were taken at the sub-treasury. In fact gold was paid out right along for them until the order of the Treasury Department was issued about ten days ago and that put a stop to that practice. Gold is at a premium, and it was possible to turn in silver certificates here and get gold out and for $1,000,000 in gold obtained in this way a profit of $40,000 could be realized when it was disposed of."

"There is no money to be made in exchanging gold for silver certificates here and San Francisco because exchange is at a discount. The financial policy of this Democratic administration has been very bad. The sub-treasuries in the East have paid out gold for National bank notes in exchange for silver certificates. The sub-treasury here and get gold out and for $1,000,000 in gold obtained in this way a profit of $40,000 could be realized when it was disposed of."

NEW CADET OFFICERS.

An Election of Commanders by the League of the Cross.

Preparations Being Made for a Week's Camp at Glen Ellen.

The League of the Cross has held an election and as a result Thomas F. Ryan has been made lieutenant-colonel in command of the local battalions. In addition, Daniel J. McGloin, the former senior major, was re-elected and Daniel C. Deasy was made captain and adjutant.

Lieutenant-Colonel Ryan was educated at Sacred Heart College, from which he graduated about five years ago. He has held the office of lieutenant and inspector in the League of the Cross Cadets for the past two years.

Major Daniel J. McGloin is a graduate of the Lincoln Evening School, class of '94. He has been a member of the League of the Cross since its organization and has served for two years as major of the first battalion.

Major D. C. Deasy graduated about four years ago from the Sacred Heart College. He is at present reading law and expects to pass his final examinations next year, when he will be admitted to the bar. He has held the office of captain and adjutant of the cadets and has been a member of the regiment since its organization.

Captain F. S. Drady of Company A presented over the election of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s bank said yesterday that he had no knowledge concerning the subject matter. It has been the practice of the San Francisco banks in the past to deposit gold in the sub-treasury and to draw out greenbacks for shipment, because of the less expense involved in the forwarding of the paper money.

GOLD GOING FROM THE SUB-TREASURY.

Four Millions, Withdrawn During the Present Month.

TALKS WITH BANKERS.

Most of the Gold Held in the Vaults of Banks in This City.

STOCK OF MONEY INCREASED.

Financial Situation in This City Commonly Regarded to Be Very Strong.

Cashier Burns at the United States sub-treasury, in this City, made the statement yesterday to a reporter that during the month of August there has been withdrawn $4,000,000 in gold from the sub-treasury in exchange for greenbacks and other currency.

Mr. Burns made no attempt to explain this striking fact. The withdrawal of this large amount has left about $5,000,000 in gold in the sub-treasury. This large withdrawal is entirely unprecedented, but, according to bankers who were interviewed last evening, a very small proportion of the gold has found its way out of the State. One of the best known bankers in the City estimated that not over $500,000 of this gold has gone East. The remainder is in the vaults of California banking institutions.

Inquiry was made in many quarters last evening to ascertain the reasons for the withdrawal of the gold from the sub-treasury. The answers which were received from conservative and well-informed men all tended to show one fact of significance, which is that the local money situation has been very greatly strengthened during the period of the transferring of the gold from the sub-treasury to the bank vaults, because at least $1,000,000 has been added to the money in the City and probably a very much greater sum than that.

The $1,000,000 represents the sale of Government bonds in New York by California parties, and the transference of the proceeds to this City. The money received for the bonds was presented at the sub-treasury and was there converted into gold, which has gone into bank vaults.

A banker who knew about the transactions involving the sale of Government bonds by California parties in New York placed the estimate of the total transactions at the figure of $1,000,000, as quoted above, with the understanding that this was only an estimate.

This gentleman also instanced another fact which may account for large gold withdrawals or rather transfers to local bank vaults, and this fact also shows that the local situation has been made even better than it was before. "Parties having deposits in Eastern banks may have called for their Eastern deposits. They have received their money from the out in currency and have turned it into gold. Of course you can see that the bringing of currency here in payment for Government bonds and also the bringing of Eastern deposits here in currency has added larger sums to the amount of money actually here. I have very good means of knowing, and I feel confident that not over $500,000 of gold has gone East. I also feel confident that the exchange between California and New York is not accounted for the drawing out of gold from the sub-treasury."

The same gentleman also said: "I am aware and others are aware that some weeks ago there were very large importations of silver certificates into this State. The attention of bankers was called to the fact by the unusual and unusual way in which they came to banks. They were refused at some banks, but for a time they were taken at the sub-treasury.
