

SUNRISE LANDS FOR MR. BOVARD

The Elloquent Divine Will Enter Boston University.

REV. FLAWITH LEAVES. Green Street Congregational Church's Pastor Off for England.

MINISTERS' REGULAR MEETING Several Original Papers Read on Current Issues in the Religious World.

Although the papers read before the various ministerial organizations yesterday were as sparkling and original as heretofore, there were at least two meetings where the hearts of the pastors, as evinced by their countenances, were rather gloomy.

Following is the resolution offered by the Methodists on account of the departure of their brother:

WHEREAS, We learn with pleasure and profit from our brother, W. S. Bovard, is soon to leave for a term of study in the Boston University, we wish to assure him that it gives us pleasure to know he can enjoy such an opportunity for study, and yet regret that he is to be absent from us.

Resolved, That we commend Brother Bovard to those among whom he is to live, and will pray for the health of himself and family and for his success in his life-work.

Resolved, That we shall be glad to welcome him back at any time to the work that he loves so much and in which he has been eminently successful.

W. S. BOVARD, JOHN T. THOMPSON, Committee. A. KUMMER.

Dr. Goodwin reported that fourteen new members were received into his church yesterday, and Rev. Mr. Baker of Epworth Church reported receiving twenty-four.

Rev. Mr. Simister and wife, lately from Drew, were introduced and spoke on missionary work in China, to which place they are going shortly.

Rev. S. W. Beatty read a review of Bruns' "Paul's Conception of Christianity," which was favorably discussed by Drs. Goodwin, Callis, Carroll, Briggs, Urny, Kummer, Thompson, Case, Pearce, Matthews and Simmons, and was closed by the essayist himself.

The cause of the Preachers' Mutual Aid Association was ably presented by Dr. Wythe.

The Congregational Monday Club Rev. S. L. Raybone read a paper on the "Congregational Way of Emphasizing and Promoting Fellowship." His claim was that when individualism becomes prominent in church relations the responsibility becomes greater.

The Christian Alliance held in Glasgow last June. He said there were delegates from 100 churches there, representing in all 30,000,000 adherents.

As a rule he believed Presbyterians are pushing their way to the front, but that Satan is ingenious and quickly steals the inventions of highly developed ages. In conclusion he stated that Jesus Christ is shaking, shaping, moving and ruling the world as never before in spite of its defects and wickedness.

"In all this," he concluded, "our good old Presbyterianism, with all its impressiveness by the grace of God has a front place."

Dr. Pary followed with a few notes on his travels abroad and especially his visit to the House of Lords.

The Christian ministers did not hold their regular meeting on account of the paucity of attendance.

RESOURCES OF WILLIAMS

Judge Morrow Rules That They May Be Legally Inquired Into.

A Point for the People—Testimony of the Payment of $85 to Defendant.

Judge Morrow of the United States District Court made a ruling yesterday in the case of the United States vs. Richard S. Williams, the ex-Chinese Inspector, which was far from satisfactory to the counsel of the defendant, and will, so the prosecution claims, aid materially in the establishment of his guilt.

At the morning session Wong Kew Kin testified that in the barber-shop, at 608 Washington street, he had seen Chin Ying pay to Dick Williams $85 for the landing of his (witness) brother and loaned him (Chin Ying) $25 with which to make up the amount.

"that the salary of Williams was $5 a day." "I foresee," answered Judge Morrow, "an argument from counsel as to the admissibility of evidence upon this point and will accordingly excuse the jury and the witnesses until 11 A. M. to-morrow (Tuesday)."

"We wish to show," resumed Mr. Henley, "that during his employment in the Government service Williams put money in bank and acquired real estate, although his expenditures were fully equal to his salary and despite the fact that when he became an inspector he was utterly impecunious and was compelled to borrow money with which to buy a suit of clothes."

"Williams," answered T. C. Coogan, his attorney, "is accused of the unlawful extortion from Chinese of $375 specially as follows:

September 18, 1895.....$100
November 19.....90
November 6.....85
November 23.....100
Total.....$375

"These alleged crimes cover a period of only a few months of last year and I submit that the testimony counsel seeks to introduce is altogether irrelevant and immaterial. If the sum were thousands instead of hundreds it might be admissible, but as it is we strenuously object to its introduction."

"We are prepared to meet all the allegations in the indictment against our client and are confident that we can disprove them, but we do not wish to go outside of the issues involved in this case."

At the conclusion of the arguments of counsel, Judge Morrow ruled that the evidence was admissible and adjourned court until 11 o'clock this morning.

OPPOSES INDIAN TRIBES

Commissioner Browning Would Have Each Noble Red Man a Farmer.

Says the City Might Get More Reservation Trade for the Asking.

Ex-Judge D. M. Browning, United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs, is here from Washington, D. C., with his wife and son, on his first visit to the West. He will remain in this City until Wednesday or Thursday, when he will start for Salem, Or. He purposes to inspect a number of small Indian schools in that part of the country before going to the Fort Hall reservation, in Idaho, to see the notorious Bannocks. Afterward, if he has any time left, he will visit other reservations, but his plan is to return to Washington September 15.

For sixteen years previous to April, 1893, the Commissioner was Judge of the Circuit Court at Benton, Ill. He left the bench to accept his present position, which in official rank is next to that of Secretary of the Interior.

All the Indians in the United States except those of Alaska are under his charge. Indian treaties, laws of Congress affecting the Indians and their lands, the assignment of agricultural property and supplies of all kinds and the education of In-

The advance sale of tickets at 900 Market street yesterday was very large, and Managers Gibbs and Groom of the National Club are much elated thereat. To-day it is confidently expected that enough seats will be sold for the contest to fill the house to overflowing.

Dr. C. O'Donnell, who is accredited with missing no principal of consequence held in San Francisco since the Dark Ages, is rumored to have entered a florist's last evening and left orders for a basketful of flowers with which to deck the brow of the victor. The gentleman in question denies this, but admits that the fight would amount to nothing without his inspiring presence.

Van Buskirk is out at the Six-mile House putting on the artistic touches necessary to put him in first-class condition. He is very confident that Steilzner's star will either shine to-morrow with a very dim light or be transformed into a comet and take an erratic course into interstellar regions out of sight of the naked public eye.

Steilzner is training with Choyinski. He does not talk whatever, which only adds another mysterious element to the man's rather peculiar personality. In the last few days his admirers have been waging pretty heavily on him. Local opinion is that this contest is going to be a pretty close one. This excludes Harry Watson, whose faith in his pupil, Van Buskirk, is as great as Barney Farley's in the "Mission Giant."

THE GRAND JURY

Its Final Report Will Earnestly Recommend the Adoption of the New Charter.

The present Grand Jury, which was impaneled last December, may adjourn here next week. Work on the final report, which was interrupted last week by the sickness of Expert Dunn, has been resumed.

Foreman Frank Maskey returned yesterday from Marysville, and Theodore F. Payne is here again from the redwoods. At the session of the jury next Friday the expert may report the result of his inspection of the books of the Edison Light and Power Company. The foreman has received information that the company offered no objection to the examination of the books.

It is said that the report of the Grand Jury will earnestly advocate the adoption of the new charter by the voters of San Francisco and will contain facts and figures to prove that the taxpayers cannot obtain much relief in the management of municipal affairs unless the proposed charter be accepted.

John Landers, one of the committee appointed to prepare the final report, will be obliged to leave for Honolulu on the steamer that goes next Saturday.

NO PLACE FOR WORKMEN

Guatemala Is Not a Paradise for Mechanics of Any Kind.

Deluded Seekers After Wealth Travel Far to Find Disappointment.

The mechanics who went from here some time since to Guatemala to work on the exposition buildings there, and who have been under the impression that Guatemala was booming and was a good place to go to, are writing here that it is really no place for the California citizen and are advising them to stay at home.

Harry Blanchard, one of these, has written to a friend here, as follows:

We arrived in this place two days ago, Jack and I went to this morning at 8:30 per day, but we do not know how long the work is going to last. Everything in this place is dear. Jack Conway paid $4 for a hat that he bought in San Francisco for 50 cents. Price of boots cost $11. It will cost us $80 per month for our living, and very poor at that. You cannot get a meal to eat for less than a $1. Butter costs $1.50 per pound. Clothing is out of the question. Do not advise any of the boys to come to an American city. They are better off in San Francisco.

The subjoined letter from Guatemala City, and bearing a recent date, sheds further light on the situation there. The letter is from John Conway, Mr. Blanchard's friend, and reads as follows:

"I will give you a dead pointer, if I know as much when I was in San Francisco I would have stayed there. We worked five days last week and Saturday evening Harry got laid off. Harry has not struck any gold since then, there are lots of good mechanics out of work. More are coming, too, on every steamer.

"This world's fair that they are going to have here is bringing men from all over. Advise your friends to steer clear of Guatemala, for there is nothing here. Of course the wages look big, but when you take into consideration what you have to pay for board, lodging and the little things you may happen to need you are really working for about $1.25 a day in our money."

"In the first place $1 in our money is worth $2.20 in Guatemala money, so you see $8.50 a day is really only a little over $2 a day in our money."

"Then you must consider $50 for board and $12 for your room each month, and your washing will amount to $5 or $6. Now is the rainy season, too, so there is no chance to work steady, for about all the work is on the outside, on the roof of the buildings. The buildings are all built of adobe and have tile floors. No inside finish at all, only a few doors and windows, and the natives get most of that, for they do the work on the inside."

"We board in a Chinese restaurant, it being the cheapest. You cannot touch the hotels for less than $4 a day, and the grub you get is something horrible. We get coffee at 6:30 A. M. and go to work at 7; quit at 11; breakfast goes to the kitchen again at 12, work until 5 and have dinner at 6. You get nothing here but mescal, which is 6 cents a glass, and one is enough for you, too. A small glass of gin or liquor costs 25 cents."

Plaintiff in Suit Against J. D. Spreckels to "Move to Strike Out."

The Story of the Blackmailing Proceedings Is Objectionable and the Court Is Appealed to.

F. D. Brandon, counsel for H. F. Marshall in the latter's suit to recover damages from John D. Spreckels for the alleged assault upon him at the time of his blackmailing proposition, yesterday gave notice that on Friday next he will move the court that all that portion of the defendant's answer telling the story of the attempt to blackmail be stricken out.

As defendant is further informed and believes and therefore alleges the said plaintiff, Marshall, and said Ross and said Woodworth conspired together for the purpose of conceiving, devising, maturing and executing an infamous and criminal scheme to blackmail said defendant and to exact and extort from him money to the extent of $60,000.

Negotiations have been carried on for some time with regard to Manager Gibbs taking charge of the proposed contest between Jimmy Carroll and Jack McAniff. Sunday night Gibbs was requested to be present at a meeting of the St. George Club with a view to making such an arrangement.

He went, with the result that papers were signed by which he will not only have charge of this contest, but all battles conducted under the St. George Club's auspices. McAniff and Carroll are booked to meet each other about the middle of November.

FRANCIS SPRING'S WILL

His Wife Made the Principal Legatee of a Large Estate.

A HYPATIAN CLASSIC BERKELEY

Bertha Monroe Rickoff's Idea of Woman's Suffrage.

WOMAN EVER WOMANLY Would Have the Wife a Wage-Earner Like the Husband.

THE NOTION CHARMS WOMEN. And Even Men, When They Thoroughly Understand Her, Become Her Disciples.

Over on the classic Berkeley hills lives Miss Bertha Monroe Rickoff, a young woman whose intellectual influence on questions pertaining to the advancement of her sex is constantly spreading, and whose ideas on this theme, it is singular to state, become more attractive to the masculine mind the more clearly they are understood.

Miss Rickoff believes in woman's advancement pure and simple. She says women are emancipated enough at the present day.

She would have wives engaged in profitable occupations, either in a kind of partnership with their husbands, perhaps, or in some other line of business wherein their particular abilities would be used.

In this way husbands would find a long desired financial aid. "Women would not then," said Miss Rickoff yesterday, "attract so much through the purely sensuous element as they do now."

"I have seen so many young girls whose parents were poor and who were being educated to fill no remunerative position whatever, and then I have seen young men who were old enough to marry and desired to marry, yet were not financially able. Suppose that these girls could also support themselves. Then marriage would become possible."

Miss Rickoff is an ardent believer in the development of home virtues. She advocates woman's advancement, but on womanly lines. She boldly declares that suffrage is not the sum total of this advancement.

"It is a misfortune," said she, "that the suffrage question has ever been called 'woman's rights.' It has put woman in a belligerent attitude and this has done much to antagonize the most conservative element."

"I would not banish the home or the ties of affection between man and woman. I would simply make woman more attractive to man by her usefulness, and consequently her increased ability to sympathize with him and hold him to herself. Home then would become even more sacred, and affection would be truer and stronger."

It occurs to those who listen to Miss Rickoff speak with animation on this subject, that it really would be a very delightful sort of a condition of affairs after all. There is a charm to her personality and a sympathetic womanly ring in her voice. It is also said that she is no mean artist in the virtues of hospitality.

Miss Rickoff is a descendant of a noble Russian family, the members of which have been distinguished for their intellectual ability.

Miss Rickoff has original thoughts not only on the suffrage question, but in various other fields. One of her favorite ideas, and one that has stirred up considerable discussion in literary circles, is her belief in the educational function of the novel.

"The novel will develop into being," said she, "the kindergarten of the world, it is the greatest existing force even now for influencing the masses."

"The only novel which is worthy of filling this use is the realistic. Novels nowadays are becoming the food for mateur minds and not simply the entertainer of idleness. I class Zola and George Meredith above the rank of the novelist. 'Trilby' I consider the most pernicious work of the day. It too vividly depicts the pleasures of vice without attaching thereto the suffering resulting from it."

"The novel is absorbing the offices hitherto relegated to the priests. I believe that education is far more effective if addressed to the emotional and spiritual part of the nature."

Miss Rickoff is quite the fad with the most exclusive circles in all the bay cities. She conducts classes in the criticism of current fiction that include as members some of the wealthiest lovers of literature in San Francisco and Oakland. She is an Ohio girl, but enjoys the proud distinction of having been presented to the Queen.

She is a constant contributor to the North American Review. Furthermore, she is a poetess and improviser at times unconsciously. Yesterday she said, while speaking in a general way regarding the omnipresence of the deity: "While we are looking for God through an intellectual telescope he is calling to us from the flowers at our feet."

People Who Want Work

The State's Free Employment Bureau was established by Labor Commissioner Fitzgerald in July of last year. Since that time a large amount of good has been done by the bureau in the way of obtaining employment for people who were unable to obtain work for themselves. Some idea of what has been accomplished during the first year of the bureau's existence may be obtained from

CRUELTY AT PRESIDIO

Four Men Arrested for Working Disabled Horses—Reports of Inhumanity to Pigeons.

J. M. Southworth, Elmer Miller, James Berry and G. F. Jennings, teamsters employed in the grading now in progress at the Presidio, were placed under arrest yesterday by Officers Hooper and Dalmer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. There are about 140 horses at work, among which are some who are unserviceable. General Graham arrested two men whom he detected treating horses cruelly and locked them up over night in the guardhouse; but seeing that the example did not deter others from similar offenses, the general reported the case to the society, detaining a sergeant to accompany the officers and assist, if necessary, in making the arrests. Six horses and two mules were taken from work and sent to be treated. The Presidio will henceforth be visited at intervals by officers of the society.

The society is also contemplating some action in relation to cruelties committed at pigeon-shooting matches. Last Sunday about 1000 birds were let loose near the Fourteen-mile House, on the San Bruno road, to be shot at by members of a local club. An army of small boys went after the wounded pigeons, beating them with willow switches and otherwise torturing them. One enterprising child of older growth went about on a bicycle collecting candidates for a pigeon pie, leaving at length with four or five dozen birds hanging from the bars of the machine.

SHE IS SLOWLY DYING

Mrs. John J. Farrell's Life Despaired Of—Her Statement Almost Unintelligible.

The life of Mrs. John T. Farrell flickered like an extinguishing candle all during yesterday. The unfortunate woman, surrounded by her family and friends, lay at her home, at 20 Henry street, with every prospect of an early death as a result of the rash act in which she indulged to fight off the cares of maternity.

The authorities have detained Dr. McBeth, the physician who, the woman claims, attended her and placed her in her present critical condition.

Yesterday morning he was escorted to the woman's home, but she was unable to recognize him as the physician who treated her. The detectives have secured an ante-mortem statement from the woman, but it is so indefinite and unintelligible that it can hardly be used as evidence. In it the woman claims that her visit to the offices of the physician dates back a month or more.
