

WILL TAKE THE ANGELS BY STORM.

Republican Alliance to Go South in a Special Train.

BIG THINGS PROMISED.

Commander Gaskill Promises That All Expectations Shall Be Exceeded.

ORGANIZED IN A CELLAR.

But Now Acknowledged the Crack Uniformed Political Regiment in the State.

OAKLAND OFFICE SAN FRANCISCO CALL, 908 Broadway, Ave. 25.

When the sun sinks into the Pacific off Los Angeles next Saturday night the people of that city will witness their bug-baptized by a Republican fire from Central California.

"What's the matter with McKinley?" Commander Varney Gaskill will shout. "He's all right, you bet—every time—hip-hip-rah, hip-hip-rah—Alliance—Alliance—rah-rah-rah—McKinley."

GEORGE P. MORROW, PRESIDENT OF THE ALLIANCE.

Wadsworth, Gard Schotchler, C. T. Rodolph, J. J. Allen, R. F. Crist, Hart North, W. R. Evans, Dr. Merriman, Arthur Pope, W. J. Martin, W. S. Watson, G. T. Weed, George Mason, A. G. Roberts, Harry Hinckley, W. G. Henshaw, W. E. Henshaw, Victor H. Metcalf.

The Alliance, with its globe and natty uniforms, has been the feature of many Republican demonstrations both about the bay and the interior of the State. They always travel by special train, and turn out in great numbers. They have been to Sacramento and San Jose several times, and once to Stockton. They turn out at all big gatherings in this city, Alameda and Haywards, and have been over to San Francisco many times.

The trip to Los Angeles is the first of such a distance and much interest has been shown by all members. The drills have been especially well attended and as a result the clubs will make a remarkably fine showing when they appear Saturday. They will leave Oakland mole at 7 o'clock Friday night on what is known as "The Alliance Special" and will be in Los Angeles for breakfast at 8:30.

After a few hours for rest and sight-seeing the special will be run to Pasadena, where the club will take part in the meeting to be held there at 1 o'clock. Following this the special will be run back to Los Angeles in time to allow the members to clean up and get dinner before going out to take part in the great demonstration being prepared for Saturday evening.

After the parade the club is to be banqueted. Sunday is to be devoted to rest and sight-seeing. The start home will be made at 6 o'clock and the train is to arrive here so as to allow members to reach San Francisco at 8:15 Monday morning.

This morning Commander Varney W. Gaskill issued his final orders to his comrades. The concluding paragraph fairly expresses the spirit of the Alliance. It is as follows:

"Study, understand and practice all the above instructions. They are the secrets of a fine military appearance. The people of Los Angeles and elsewhere expect great things from the Alliance. We can easily exceed every expectation. Let us all cooperate to make the fame of the Alliance as a crack military corps even greater than it is."

VARNEY GASKILL, COMMANDER OF THE ALLIANCE.

"Who?" will come from the iron lungs of the commander and all the invaders will shout, "McKinley."

Immediately following the flares from full 200 fiery flambeaux will shoot into the air and the peaceful people of the City of the Angels will know that the Republican Alliance has the freedom of their city.

There is never anything small about the Alliance. They are as magnificent as the doctrine they uphold, and when the invitation to go to Los Angeles was received it was at once resolved that a few members should not drift there like corporal's guards cast adrift, but that they should go in a body. They must go with glory and return with more, so a special train was chartered, uniforms were renewed or refurnished, and with flags, banners, music and torches the Alliance will leave the mole on Friday night amid the cheers of those less fortunate than members of the organization.

And they will not forget their mascot. The colored gentleman who carries the large transparent globe at the head of every Alliance procession will not be permitted to remain behind. Considerable doubt exists in the minds of many as to the real name of the Alliance mascot. At a recent cake-walk at the Macdonough Theater "John" was introduced to the audience as "Mr. Hanfin." John is a fixture at Hanfin's, which is in close proximity to the Athenian Club, which embraces several members of the Alliance, therefore John is a necessity in more ways than one, and Commander Gaskill or President Morrone will not walk with half the pride that will cause John's bosom to heave when he twirls the globe at Los Angeles.

Up to 9 o'clock to-night about 120 berths have been engaged.

In the car Salinas, will travel J. J. Hanfin, Thomas Crawford, Dr. Hamlin, C. D. Bates, Ed Johnson, G. C. Kaufman, Dr. Dunn, Dr. F. E. Pierce, E. F. Gove, A. W. Baker, Chauncey Taylor, Henry Travers, M. Campbell, Arthur Wilson, C. B. Parcells, Elmer Dyer, Everett Ames, Cordes, Champion, Wheaton, W. C. Wallace, R. Lukins, Shina, Bryant, Carlton.

The car Los Gatos will carry O. W. Green, W. S. Spaulding, E. L. Lawrence, E. C. Brayton, W. R. Wheaton, G. H. Allen, J. W. Harris, W. C. Jorgens, Ber...

WOMEN AND WOMEN ONLY are most competent to fully appreciate the purity, sweetness, and delicacy of CUTICURA Soap, and to discover new uses for its skin. To cleanse, purify, and beautify the skin, to ally itching and irritation, to heal chafings, excoriations, and ulcerative weaknesses, nothing so pure, so sweet, so speedily effective as warm baths with CUTICURA Soap, followed, when necessary, by mild applications of CUTICURA (ointment), the great skin cure.

Sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, Soap, 25c.; RESOLVATORY, 50c.; and CUTICURA Ointment, 50c. Sole Proprietors, Boston, U.S.A. How to Prepare Luxurious Hair, mailed free.

Peckham, C. E. Palmer, W. J. Schmidt, C. E. Snook, A. P. Thwaites, R. J. Boyer, Charles Babb, W. A. Bernheim, C. L. Dietz, Lee, Bennett, A. R. Wilson, George Stinson, Robertson, J. C. Wilson Jr., J. H. Ames, J. Calewing, T. F. Mock, Phil Remillard, K. Watson, Griffith, W. B. Standeford, G. W. Lamb, F. C. Youngberg, John Mitchell, C. H. McCormick, A.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS.

President Frank K. Spencer Delivers an Earnest Address on the Silver Question.

The Young Men's Republican League held an enthusiastic meeting in Justice of the Peace Kerrigan's courtroom last night. There was a large attendance, and several new names were enrolled.

President Frank K. Spencer delivered

A. Moore Jr., L. L. Bromwell, F. E. Brigham, W. A. Mitchell.

The company in the Paso Robles will be: V. W. Gaskill, W. C. Little, E. L. P. Herrick, Sol D. Rodgers, L. P. Lemote, T. Dargie, G. H. Mason, G. Roberts, Egan, W. J. Pattison, J. G. McCall, Correll, J. Pheoby, Thomas Pheoby, F. M. Smith, J. Rooney, W. B. Chipman, H. N. Sloper, Mulvaney, F. L. Farr, Phil Carlton, H. R. Boynton, Matthews, G. Belcher, J. V. Campbell, H. A. Tabbs, E. M. Hall Jr., F. E. Webb, C. A. Wetheran, Major Frank McLaughlin, President George P. Morrow.

The Republican Alliance was organized on Sunday morning, August 3, 1884, in the cellar of the cottage at 1424 Webster street, then occupied by Allen Knight. It was the successor to the Union League of 1880. At the first gathering there were present the following, who are yet connected with the club: Harry F. Gordan, Fred S. Stratton, F. E. Bigham and W. B. Hamilton. The others at that meeting were Allen Knight, A. F. Coffin, C. O. Alexander, John Lathrop, G. C. Pratt, A. P. Redding and B. F. Stone. There were forty-six applications for membership at a meeting held eight days later, making the charter membership fifty-seven.

The first president was A. F. Coffin and the first commander of the military branch Colonel W. C. Little. At the bi-annual election in 1886 R. H. Orton was elected as president. He was succeeded in 1888 by L. L. Bromwell, who was re-elected in 1890, 1892 and 1894. Colonel Little was re-elected to succeed himself in his department all this time and drilled the club each year. Mr. Bromwell resigned in 1894 and Victor H. Metcalf as vice-president completed the term.

This year George P. Morrow was chosen to the presidency and Varney Gaskill was elected to succeed Colonel Little.

George Hanfin, Mascot of the Republican Alliance.

distributed, the club decided to take up the discussion at some future meeting. A package of campaign literature was sent from the Republican State Central Committee and distributed among the members. The next meeting will be held at the same place September 8. The executive committee will prepare for a mass-meeting to be held in Pythian Castle, September 23. The following were appointed as a committee for the club's picnic, to be held at Shell Pond Park, October 18: G. Peterson, Aug. Sjogren, J. P. S. Johnson, Aug. Peterson and Alf Johnson. Owing to inability to attend the meetings, President A. G. Spencer sent in his resignation, which was accepted.

Thirty-Fourth District.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Thirty-fourth Assembly District Republican Club the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer were made ex-officio members of the executive committee, and the president was authorized to appoint twenty-seven additional members.

In compliance with the resolution, the president, F. J. Hurst, has announced the following committee: Charles Mayer, William Raich, Cord Wetjen, John Lyett, George W. Elder, E. B. Smith, C. C. Butt, George A. Rutz, John H. Harney, I. J. Truman, William Lowenberg, W. Aug. Whan, D. J. Kelly, James Smiley, F. D. Mullin, William Cashman, P. J. Code Jr., Harry Beasley, H. G. Krasky, F. L. Griffith, F. de la Fontaine, George Dietterle, J. E. Elkington, E. I. Robinson, A. Adams, O. E. Fairfield and D. B. Bowley.

REASON MARCHING TO MEN'S MINDS.

Protection to American Industries Is the Real Issue.

FREE COINAGE OF IRON

What an Atlanta Man Has to Say on That Absorbing Subject.

MR. ESTEE'S GREAT SPEECH.

Lawyer Campbell Will Address the Phoenix Club—Saturday Night's Great Events.

Friends of Morris M. Estee say that his speech to be delivered at the Auditorium next Saturday night will be the crowning effort of his life.

The subject will be the two issues now before the people, namely, "Protection to American Industries" and "The Financial Issue."

Mr. Estee has devoted considerable time and research to the preparation of his speech, and it will be printed as one of the most valuable and effective documents on the shelves of Republican campaign libraries.

Seats in the gallery will be reserved for ladies and their escorts.

THE IRON DOLLAR.

Arguments of an Atlanta Man Favoring Additional Free Coinage.

An Atlanta man has written the following argument on the free coinage of the iron dollar at the ratio of 16 to 1. The Republican State Central Committee of this State intends to have it printed as a campaign document:

The Demonetization of Iron.

Alexander P. Hull of Atlanta is a strong 16 to 1 man. He does not believe in half-way measures. The free coinage of silver idea is too tame for him. He is willing to see the silverites and go them 100 points better. Here is his declaration, proposition and argument:

Having been deeply impressed with the arguments of Judge Crisp, Bryan, Stewart, Jones and others, and especially grieved, shocked and horrified by the "awful crime of 1873," as so luridly depicted daily in the columns of the Atlanta constitution and other silver organs, I have changed my views on the money question and am ready to maintain the propositions following in joint debate or newspaper controversy.

I accept the arguments of the advocates of silver and agree with their remedy, as far as it goes. However, it does not go far enough. Let us have plenty of remedy—in fact, enough to make debt and poverty things of the past, relics of the dark ages. I am in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of pig iron at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold by the United States alone, independently of all nations, and can prove by the best authority that such a policy on the part of the United States will raise prices, but plenty of money into circulation and give the "honest debtor a chance to pay his debts," thereby making the whole country prosperous.

Now in the first place, it may be urged by some who do not understand the subject of "standards of value," that a free coinage act for iron would not raise its price to a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold. To them I reply that "the stamp of this Government" and the "legal tender quality" of the iron dollar would instantly make the bullion value of pig iron the same as the mint value. "For who would part with an ounce of this precious metal for anything less than the mint value?" (Stewart, Jones, Bryan.)

Again, it may be urged that our mint would be overcrowded with pig iron. I reply that the price of pig iron having been raised from $7 50 a ton to a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might go out of circulation. I reply, first, "This is a mere assumption of the tools of the money power, which they cannot verify" (Atlanta Constitution). Second, "Suppose gold and silver do go out of circulation, is there not plenty of pig iron to take their place and give the world over, "no one would especially care to carry it to the mint, since the mint price could be obtained anywhere in the open market" (Atlanta Constitution). Next it may be urged that gold and silver might