YESTERDAY'S VOTE AT THE PRIMARY

Inglorious Fate of the Contest in the Thirty-Sixth.

JACK MCCARTHY DOWNED

Four Men Knocked Hors de Combat in the Fortieth District.

MARTIN KELLY'S BAD BLUFF.

He Asked for a Second Warrant for the Ballots and Was Sat Down Upon Very Rudely.

The primary election of the Republican party passed off quietly in this City yesterday afternoon, there being but one opposition ticket, and that in the Thirty-sixth Assembly District, engineered by Jack McCarthy, ex-prosecutor.

Mr. McCarthy did not put out a good engineer. He had been given two delegates to represent his uninteresting interests, but Mr. McCarthy's ambition soared higher. He wanted to crow on the top rooster and so he put up an opposition ticket and last night there was nothing left of him but the tail feathers.

There were many good men on his ticket, but the fact that ambitious Jack flew the track had a tendency to drown them into that political purgatory known as "the soup." Like the man who visited the Bowers with more money than brains, they will never go there any more.

The following was the McCarthy ticket: Jack McCarthy, W. H. Murphy, J. Carroll, Charles White, C. Foster, L. Savanna, Charles Duvencack, E. Crystal, James Woods, J. Lorenz, H. Cleary, Robert Thorp, Joseph Sheridan and C. H. Wedgewood.

Club 1 in that district cast 1308 votes; Club 2 360 votes. In Club 1 the regular ticket received 726 votes and Mr. McCarthy's ticket received 6. In Club 2 McCarthy's stronghold, he received 258 votes to the regular's 102.

In the Fortieth District there occurred a stirring incident. A quiet-looking man had cast his ballot for the regular ticket, and had announced that fact rather conspicuously in David Short's saloon, whereupon a stout man with a black neck and a red face reproved him. The voter smote him on the terminal glare of his rufous countenance and sat him bleeding on the floor.

A friend stepped up and indignantly protested. He peered up and indignantly peered up. He peered up and indignantly peered up. He peered up and indignantly peered up.

The third man approached the voter and declared that such conduct was a plain breach of the law. He was the recipient, as the society reporter would say, in the left eye of the fist of the voter, and he broke a cuspidor with his left clavicle.

Then approached the third man. He deprecatingly war and advised arbitration. Just then a warclub made up of flesh and knuckles smote him on the kisser, and he fell rather ungracefully, spitting the seat of his chair with his chin.

The whole affair being politics, no arrests were made. Early in the evening two emissaries of Martin Kelly, boodler and would-be boss, appeared before Judge Campbell and demanded a search warrant for the ballots. No reason being given for this unusual and illegal request, the Judge denied the warrant.

It was simply a bluff, and showed the defendants into which the fakers have been driven. The following is the complete list of the delegates elected:

- Twenty-eighth District—E. P. Peterson, E. W. Haughey, Joseph Fitz, J. E. O'Brien, I. F. Brady, J. C. Ryan, F. Denahy, E. Loy, H. L. Einfield, J. Loney.

ECONOMY DESIRED.

A Communication From the Grand Jury to the Heads of Municipal Departments. The Grand Jury, which adjourned sine die last Thursday, addressed the following communication to the Assessor, Chief of Police, City Hall Commissioners, Board of Education, Board of Election Commissioners, Coroner, County Clerk, Health Officer, Tax Collector, Superintendent of Streets, License Collector and Sheriff:

Dear Sir: In view of the stress of the times and the just demands of taxpayers for reasonable economy, it is earnestly suggested to you by the Grand Jury to use all possible economy, care and discretion in the administration of the office and the duties with which you are entrusted by the citizens of this City; that, without regard to the permission given you by special laws made to meet special emergencies, you refrain from the exercise of any or all the privileges thereby accorded you, except when your honest judgment tells you that the public interest requires it.

The Grand Jury also sent a letter of thanks to District Attorney Barnes for his assistance. The defendant is Mrs. Rose Madero, who, with her five children, lives at 1226 Green street. According to the testimony of one of her children, fell sick several months ago, and being without funds to purchase the medicines and delicacies needed for the little one, she decided to borrow money on her scanty furniture and sent for Ehn.

HIS HONOR WAS ANGRY.

Justice Groezinger Gives a Money-Lender an Oral Casting. Charles Ehn's Reward for Charging 10 Per Cent a Month on a Note.

A sad story was told in Justice Groezinger's court yesterday, and the telling resulted in Charles Ehn, a money-lender, being thoroughly "roasted" by the bench.

The defendant is Mrs. Rose Madero, who, with her five children, lives at 1226 Green street. According to the testimony of one of her children, fell sick several months ago, and being without funds to purchase the medicines and delicacies needed for the little one, she decided to borrow money on her scanty furniture and sent for Ehn.

The money-lender came, and after listening to her sad tale, in which she related the story of her dying babe and of her great need, he consented to loan her $50 if she would give him a note secured by a chattel mortgage. Mrs. Madero accompanied him to a notary, and there, not being able to read or write, affixed her X mark to a note in which she agreed to pay 10 per cent a month for the use of $50 for ninety days.

She also had to pay the notary's fees for making out the mortgage and note. Ehn told her that all she must do was to pay $5 per month, which she supposed would pay interest and principal, her knowledge of figures being very limited.

The next day her baby died. With the assistance of one of her little girls, who earns 40 cents a day in a factory, she managed to raise $40 in arduous effort, and then to her astonishment was served with the papers in a suit to foreclose the mortgage, J. J. Rauer being the assignee of the claim.

The judge came up yesterday for the continuance of ten days stating that his client had managed to borrow $35 and would pay that down and the balance within the time specified or allow the furniture to go without further payment. Ehn entered a vigorous protest, but was brought to a sudden halt by the Justice, who had been looking over the papers.

"This is simply an outrage and one that I shall not allow to pass," he said. "It appears from this complaint that the assigner here Ehn charged this poor woman 10 per cent per month for the loan of $50 and that he now, after receiving $40 of his client's desires to take her few little belongings from her."

"It is simply barbarous and it is the greatest shame that the law does not provide a severe penalty for such proceedings. It is worth the while to pay the balance."

"I shall give Mrs. Madero thirty days' time instead of the ten as asked by her attorney and no interest will be allowed either. Any jury in the land would have rendered a verdict in her favor, and the circumstances I am sorry to say I cannot."

THREE SHOPLIFTERS.

The Police to Be Employed in Running Down Some Very Clever Women Rogues.

For ten days past the police have been looking for three shoplifters who, it appears, have managed to get away with several hundred dollars' worth of goods. Just how the scheme is worked is not definitely explained, but that they have worked successfully is admitted by the parties mostly interested.

Nearly two weeks ago three women visited the store of Davis Bros. and managed to walk away with several articles of considerable value. They then turned their attention to Hale Bros. and stole some articles. Two or three times the trick was turned, and then the proprietors began to cast about for the guilty parties.

In the meantime other stores reported similar losses, and the Retail Merchants' Association held an indignation meeting. It was determined to ask Chief Crowley to appoint two special officers to visit the various retail stores during each day, the belief being that in this way the swindlers would eventually be brought to justice.

The following gentlemen were named as committed to lay the matter before the Police Department: S. M. Levy, J. H. Martin, Samuel Weller and Leon Samuels.

No special officers for the services required have as yet been appointed by the Police Department. In the meantime the three mysterious women continue to get in their work. It is said that during the last few days they have visited several grocery-stores, and on one occasion secured a plunder of no little value. They work singly and in pairs, but never as a trio. Only once have they been seen together, and that was at Hale Bros'. So clever is the work, however, that no one has as yet been able to catch them in the act of stealing.

LUMBER ATTACHED.

The Local Stock of an Everett (Wash.) Concern in the Hands of the Sheriff.

The Bell Lumber Company of Everett, Wash., a corporation carrying a heavy stock of lumber in this City, was attached yesterday in a suit filed at the instance of the Central Lumber Company of California, having headquarters in this City.

The Bell Company had big contracts with the local concern, which it failed to fulfill, and the suit for $2375 was the result.

The Bank of Everett is believed to be a creditor of the company to a heavy amount and attachments on the concern's mills at Everett are said to be almost certain. Bishop & Wheeler are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

TWO BROTHERS MISSING.

The police were notified yesterday of the disappearance of Arthur and Fred Otis from their home, 261 1/2 Clementina street, last Tuesday. They told other boys that they were going to pick beer either at Fresno, Pleasanton or San Leandro. Arthur is 14 years of age and Fred two years younger. Arthur was dressed in a new suit of dark clothes and took his hat with him, while Fred had on a shabby suit of dark clothes.

THIS SON WAS UNFILIAL.

W. Cron Jr. Charged With Having Defrauded His Father.

Induced Him to Sign a Quitclaim Deed to His Property Under a Misrepresentation.

William Cron, an old and well-known German citizen, through his attorney, Alfred Fuhrman, began suit yesterday against his son, William Cron Jr., to recover property worth $20,000, which the old man alleges his son secured from him by fraud.

The old gentleman is 68 years of age and only brought the suit against the son because of having by the son's act been reduced almost to want.

Cron was for many years engaged in the butcher business, but, having amassed a competency, retired several years ago. He secured from James Boardman a lease for twenty years of a lot in Oakland, upon which he built a house, giving his son a deed for a half-interest in the same. The lease and improvements were valued at $20,000.

According to the complaint filed, the son induced the old man to sign a paper on the 13th of June, 1894, which he represented to be a power of attorney in certain litigation he was then engaged in. The paper was really a quitclaim deed to the property, from the ownership of which the old man has since been ousted, the son claiming all the revenue.

The old man was so completely deceived by the son's comment is unnecessary, for people are well aware of the many novel as well as useful advantages that electricity possesses over all known forms of illumination. For cooking purposes electricity furnishes the means for fitting up an ideal kitchen. There is entire absence of dirt or smell. It can be turned off when not in use, and as soon as the current is turned on an intense heat is the instantaneous result. It has everything to commend it, and the display at the fair will perhaps be the means of causing many people in this City to see the advantages to be gained by the use of electricity for cooking a circumstance which would naturally result in the installation of numerous electric kitchens.

Many visitors to the fair are probably not aware that the display made by the Dairymen's Union of California is representative of one of the foremost industries not alone of this State, but of the United States. The value of the dairy products of the country each year exceeds only by the great exports, and therefore this display is deserving of the highest attention. It is a magnificent exposition of California's extensive dairy interests, and in the display every county in the State is represented. It is far the finest and most complete exhibit of kind ever made on the coast, with the exception of the display made by this same association at the Midwinter Fair, where they received the highest and special awards on butter and cheese. California's creamery industries have a reputation for excellence that is too well established to require special mention. In the production of these California now ranks with any of the Eastern States, and it is due largely to the efforts of the Dairymen's Union that such is the case.

Great quantities of cheese are shown in the display, and there is not a pound in the entire lot that is not equal to the best ever imported from the East. The center of attraction of the exhibit is a mammoth cheese weighing 638 pounds. It is a full-cream, made by the cheddar process. This is a particularly delicious variety and about all of this kind that is sold in this market at present comes from the Union.

The success of the Dairymen's Union in the manufacture of this brand will enable them to supply the local demand and thereby add materially to California's industries. This display merits careful consideration on the part of visitors when balloting for the best exhibit.

Rattlesnakes, Butterflies, and ...?

Washington Irving said, he supposed a certain hill was called "Rattlesnake Hill" because it abounded in "butterflies." The "rule of contrary" governs other names. Some bottles are, supposedly, labeled "Sarsaparilla" because they are full of... well, we don't know what they are full of, but we know it's not sarsaparilla; except, perhaps, enough for a flavor. There's only one make of sarsaparilla that can be relied on to be all it claims. It's Ayer's. It has no secret to keep. Its formula is open to all physicians. This formula was examined by the Medical Committee at the World's Fair with the result that while every other make of sarsaparilla was excluded from the Fair, Ayer's Sarsaparilla was admitted and honored by awards. It was admitted because it was the best sarsaparilla. It received the medal as the best. No other sarsaparilla has been so tested or so honored. Good motto for the family as well as the Fair: Admit the best, exclude the rest.

Any doubt about it? Send for the "Curebook." It kills doubts and cures doubters. Address: J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

ATTORNEY COFFEY KNOCKED OUT

Lawyer Noah F. Flood Delivers the Violent Blow.

POLICE COURT SCENE. Coffey Was Addressing the Court When the Assault Was Made.

FLOOD PLACED UNDER ARREST. Judge Campbell Fined Him $100 for Contempt and Sent Him to Jail for Twenty-Four Hours.

Noah F. Flood, an attorney in the Parrott building, created a scene in Judge Campbell's court yesterday morning resulting in a fine of $100 being imposed upon him and one day's imprisonment in the County Jail for contempt of court.

The case of Stephen Otis, stockbroker, charged with felony embezzlement by Mrs. Annie McManus, was being heard. Attorney John J. Coffey represented Mrs. McManus and he was on his feet addressing the court when Flood came in. Flood walked along till he reached where Mr. Otis was seated. He whispered something in Mr. Otis' ear and the stockbroker pushed him away. Flood then addressed the court, saying: "There's going to be a knockout in this case."

The Judge thinking that he might have been called into the case and imagining that Flood meant to spring a motion to bring the matter to a sudden close waited for Flood to proceed.

Coffey had wheeled around and was looking at Flood in a surprised way when Flood shot out his right fist and struck Coffey a violent blow in the face, which staggered him and soon raised a lump around his right eye.

A scene of wild confusion ensued, but the Judge promptly restored order. Flood, who had evidently been drinking, realized that he had made a mistake and did not attempt to repeat the assault.

"I will fine you $100 for contempt of court," said the Judge to Flood, "and order that you be imprisoned in the County Jail for twenty-four hours. Your conduct is disgraceful. Take him away." Policeman Coughlin and Deputy Bailiff Harris grabbed hold of Flood and he struggled fiercely to get away from them. In the struggle Flood was thrown to the floor. He was picked up and escorted outside the courtroom where Policeman Fleming held him till Coughlin got his hat. Flood tried to get back into the courtroom and Fleming had all he could do to restrain him.

When the City Prison Flood was abusive in his language to Coughlin, and in prison he struck at him twice while being searched, but Coughlin evaded the blows.

After Flood had left the courtroom Coffey apologized to the court for being an innocent party to such a disgraceful scene. Out of respect to the court he did not return the blow, but he was determined to make Flood suffer for his indignity. Coffey swore to a complaint charging
