

appearance. They fully appreciate their situation, and recognize the impossibility on the part of the few war vessels now in port of protecting and sheltering the British subjects, to say nothing of the Americans and others who have no refuge in the shape of a man-of-war present.

Of the 700,000 or 800,000 people in the cities and towns about the Golden Horn a little over 50 per cent are Turks, or rather Mohammedans. Greeks and Armenians come next in numbers, about 150,000 each, and the balance is made up of Circassians and other Asiatics—Jews, Albanians, Bulgarians, etc. There are comparatively few Western Europeans and Americans among the number.

With the exodus of the English and others to Pera Stamboul was no longer the center of the trade incident to their presence. This gradually followed them across the bridge to Galata, on the slope of the hill crowned by Pera. In time the two cities grew into one, as it were, and now number together over 280,000 people.

At Pera, as it were, entirely surrounded by Turks. On the northeast is Taksim, east is Fundukli and Tephkani, and on the west Cassimpacha, Husa-kini and others, and on the south and through which the only available routes to the landing place lie is Galata, which, as far as the residents are concerned, is as Turkish almost as Stamboul itself.

Out the Rue de Pera, in Taksim and near the Italian and German embassies, is the artillery barracks, and in care of any other soldiers would be a guarantee of protection to the Peraites, but being Turks there is no counting on them or on their officers.

BRYAN TALKED IN DELAWARE.

He Was Sidetracked at Newcastle and Made a Speech.

FEW PEOPLE HEARD HIM

But All and Sundry Shook Him by His 'Sore and Inflamed' Hands.

THE FIRST CHEER OF THE DAY

It Was Given at Elkton, Where About Fifty People Awaited the Silver Advocate.

WILMINGTON, DEL., Sept. 21.—Candidate Bryan slept to-night at the Clayton House, in this city, after a day of more or less trying incidents.

On the trip from Dover to Wilmington Mr. Bryan made a short speech to a large audience at Newcastle, where a stop of about a half hour was made.

His car was sidetracked, leaving the train to proceed to Wilmington. Later it was picked up by an excursion special and reached Wilmington at 5:30 o'clock.

With his plans for a good rest in Wilmington disarranged by the action of the Delaware escort committee, Mr. Bryan started out from Baltimore this morning at 6:25 o'clock for Dover, Del., to fill an engagement to speak in the afternoon.

The first incident of the day was at Havre de Grace, where a score of people boarded the day coach in which Mr. Bryan was sitting and shook the candidate's ears and inflamed hands.

At Perryville, just across the Susquehanna River, and at Northeast more people greeted him in the car. The first cheer of the day was given at Elkton, reached at 8:11, where about fifty were in the crowd.

At Newark, Del., the candidate changed cars to a little branch line that carried him to Porters station, six miles away.

Some Delaware College boys of Newark gave him an original Bryan yell, and Mr. Bryan went out on the platform and shook hands with them.

When Mr. Bryan reached Porters he found not the hundreds of excursionists on whose account he had been persuaded to lose his night's rest, but the members of the Dover reception committee.
