Excursion Trains to Be Run From All Sections of the Golden State.

LOS ANGELES OFFICE OF THE CALL, 328 SOUTH BROADWAY, LOS ANGELES, CAL., Oct. 14.

Republicans throughout Southern California will be rejoiced to know that Hon. Thomas B. Reed, ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives, has in a telegram received by H. Z. Osborne of the Republican Auxiliary Committee to-day, promised to come to Los Angeles and make one political speech. Tuesday, October 27, is the date for Mr. Reed's California speech.

It was in California that Thomas B. Reed began the practice of law. He crossed the Rockies thirty-five years ago. A press dispatch says that Mr. Reed will be accompanied by his brilliant daughter, Miss Kittie, who is anxious to see the place where her father first made fame and fortune.

The Reed meeting will be the greatest of the campaign. The committee are already at work for it. Mr. Reed will probably speak here in the daytime, and it is intended to make the most of the month of October. Excursions will be run from all parts of California.

A feature of this demonstration will be the street parade. Every McKinley club in this end of the State will turn out in a body. Twenty-five or thirty thousand people will gather in the city on doubt to hear the great Pine Tree State orator and some site where seats can be provided for so large a multitude will have to be found.

It will be the greatest gathering of people in the history of Los Angeles. Those who live away from the railroad lines will come in wagons. It will be no matter to them how they get here, so long as they accomplish the journey and hear Mr. Reed discuss the great issues of the day.

Stagnation in commerce across the people of America to economize to the extent of 180,000,000 bushels of wheat since last year—two and a half bushels per head. Those who in 1892 enjoyed plenty to eat now considered themselves lucky to get bread to eat. He said that the cause of this loss of work, closing of factories and pinching in supplies had worked the greatest hardships ever put upon intelligent people, and it was the question of free trade policy.

He exposed the fallacy of a Democratic free-silver idea, and closed with an eloquent appeal to the voters of Yolo County to uphold the principles of the Republican party. The Judge was liberally applauded, and great enthusiasm prevailed throughout the meeting.

Judge Swinnerton was followed by E. E. Gaddis, candidate for Superior Judge, Arthur North, candidate for the Assembly and T. J. Vaughn, candidate for Supervisor.

Cator also tried to pick Ben Butterworth's record to pieces and to counteract the influence of the Ohio statement of the state many votes for McKinley in Southern California.

Among other choice sentiments uttered by Cator was this: "If they dump shiploads of silver upon us, let them dump. We will coin it into money, and it will raise the price of all products, and we can pay our debts with half the labor and sweat that is expended now."

WILL STAY AT STANFORD

Dr. Jordan Would Not Accept a National Museum Directorship.

Reply of the President to Letters Hinting That He Could Have the Position.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, CAL., Oct. 14.—Dr. Jordan stated this evening that the directorship of the United States National Museum became vacant a month ago by the sudden death of Dr. G. Brown Goode. In most regards a directorship in this institution is the most desirable scientific position in the country. "It has not been offered to me," said the president of Stanford, "though I have had a number of private unofficial letters asking whether I would accept the position, if offered. I replied that I could not accept it, as I have to remain at Stanford as long as I am fit for any position at all." Dr. Jordan further stated that he would not leave Stanford for any position whatsoever. A few years ago nothing would have suited him better than such a position, and his highest ambition was to get into that institution; "but now," said President Jordan, "without my students around me; without their enterprises, which are also mine; without our football team, I wouldn't know what to do." From the smile which accompanied Dr. Jordan's words, it is plain that in declining to allow his name to go in he was in earnest, and his heart is with Stanford, where he expects to live his life's work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 14.—The appointment of a successor to Professor Brown Goode, deceased, as assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and director of the National Museum will be considered at the January meeting of the board of regents of the institution. Jordan of Stanford University had been suggested by a member of the board, and that the suggestion was favorably received. It is believed that a naturalist will be appointed, and Professor Jordan is considered all scientists connected with the Smithsonian Institution. The National Museum to be one of the most scholarly and experienced men who could fill the position. It is questionable, though, whether Professor Jordan would be willing to resign his position at Stanford University, which pays him $10,000 a year, to accept the directorship, whose salary is only $4500.

TAMPA AND GRANDIZIA WIN.

The Oregon Mare Beats Selkirk Only a Head in the Five Furlongs.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Oct. 14.—There were three running events on the card of to-day's races, which brought out a fair-sized crowd. The principal race was the 2:12 class pace, in which Loupe, Del Norte and Hazel H started, the former winning as he pleased after allowing Del Norte to take the first heat.

Nacho B, M. A. Forster's veteran, fooled the talent in the second race and won the Agricultural Park stakes with ease, leading all the way from the quarter. Hacienda had been made the favorite in this race, being backed from 6 to 1 to even money, but she got only third. Santa Paula was made the favorite in the race for two-year-olds, but failed to land the money. Hueneome opened, but did nothing on account of lameness. Tampa was backed heavily and went to the post second choice. Selkirk, at 10 to 1, was beaten only a head by Tampa in a very pretty finish.

THE INDIANA STORM-TOSSED.

Violent Weather Nearly Ends the Career of the Battle-Ship.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The battle-ship Indiana, which arrived to-day along with the rest of Admiral Bunce's fleet, was badly used up by the storm which has raged so violently at sea during the past few days, and came near the end of its career. At 10 o'clock Monday night the Indiana set up signals to the flagship that the eight-inch turret in the after battery had become loose. She was plunging about under reduced steam, and the officers benighted with the dread that the weight of steel and iron might at any minute be heaved over upon and destroy the ship.

Soon after the first signal was displayed the turret went up under the 13-inch turret in the forepart of the ship had also been ripped from the camps. It was spinning around and its great gun was whirling viciously back and forth as the vessel plunged.

On Friday, after a desperate fight with the disarranged machinery, the turrets were fastened with clamps and hawsers. During all of Monday the ship made only forty miles. The full injury to the turrets had not been ascertained to-night.

The three men met in the cafe of the Kennard House. The ball-players had been drinking. Tebeau accused Pasco of having written a story which had been published in the Cleveland Press. Pasco denied it and finally called Tebeau a liar. Tebeau knocked Pasco down and, it is said, kicked him. Then O'Connor jumped onto Pasco and left the marks of one of his heels on his neck. Experience of a California Horseman in Guatemala.

Francisco de Ojeda Returns Home After Selling His Stable to President Barrios.

Francisco de Ojeda has returned from Guatemala with a bullet wound in his right ankle and a determination that he will not return there next year to race his horses. Ojeda is a prominent member of the old Bay District Track Association and the California and Pacific Coast Jockey Clubs, and for the past few years he has been shipping part of his stable to Guatemala to run in the Central American Derby.

With Dr. Ross, who was too well known here to run without a heavy handicap, he captured the first Derby in Guatemala some four years ago and year after year he sent there some horse who carried off the purse. It got so that the veterans of the Central American Derby, who had repeated defeats in their yearly event and jealousy was engendered to an unusual degree.

The Derby was to be run on the 12th of August, and Ojeda arrived with his stable some time early in July. He found that his main competitor was a man named Schumann, who had two entries against which no one would start so sure was he of winning. Ojeda, however, had a mare in his stable he was willing to enter and would start a few days of the event, when he found there was something wrong about her. He said nothing, however, and it was not known that only Schumann's horses would run.

On the afternoon of the 11th of August Ojeda and a party of friends were at dinner in the Gran Hotel and were discussing track matters when an individual, who was subsequently recognized as the second secretary to President Barrios, but whose name Ojeda did not know, called Ojeda "Bobos." While not an insult of a very grievous kind, it was sufficient to cause Ojeda to slap the man's face.

The affair, which at first promised to be more serious, passed away without any further ado. "At 9 o'clock that night," said Mr. Ojeda, "I was shot by some unknown person as I was walking upstairs to my apartments. I never saw who did it, nor do I know whether it is the outcome of my slapping the fellow's face who insulted me."

"There is one thing certain, and that is I have quit racing in Guatemala. I sold all my horses there to President Barrios, and I will not send any more down there to compete for the Derby. I have won it often enough to satisfy me, and if winning it again involves a shooting scrape, or if I cannot slap a man's face who insults me without being shot at from the rear and an ambush, I think I'd better stay and race here."
