PRISON MESS.

Table with 2 columns: Breakfast and Dinner. Lists items like White Beans, Bread, Fruit, etc.

Sixteen barrels of sugar are used every month to sweeten the tea and coffee for this army of outcasts.

In the jailmill there are not looms and other necessary machines enough to give full employment to all the men that are daily assigned to Captain Alden.

Then there is opium in plenty for those convicts who use the drug, and most of the opium is sold for it in the commissary.

Every prisoner who passes through the outer gate, if he only goes to the Captain's office and returns in a few seconds, is searched by the two guards at the gate, but it must be confessed that the search is perfunctory, to which the convicts submit willingly, even cheerfully.

If a convict has friends—and most of them do—there is one thing the officers complain of bitterly, and that is the prisoners of San Francisco, which contributes a large percentage of the inmates, give the friends of the latter ample opportunity to visit the prison at will.

The eight condemned men awaiting execution in San Quentin are favored with favors. No labor of any kind is required of them, while instead of receiving the same fare as the ordinary convicts they means the best of the market.

During the afternoon Mrs. Durrant visited her son and was conducted to the office of the Captain of the Yard.

Next Tries for the High-Wheel Sulky Mark, but Falls a Trifle Short.

I AM TROUBLED.

With pains in the small of my back, also up each side of the backbone to lower points of shoulder-blade.

These pains are not permanent pains; they are fleeting, ever going and coming. I am troubled with pains in the head—shooting pains, such as might come from Neuralgia.

I am troubled with a feeling of dizziness in the head, dark spots or dots before my eyes and rings around my eyes. When I look in the glass I see hollow sockets in my face; my breath is offensive. I have a palpitation of the heart; a curious weak feeling; I am sleepy until I get to bed; then I am wide awake—at times for a whole night. I have nervous fits.

WHAT CAN YOU DO

To be cured? I do want to be a strong man once more. The answer is, Consult the Hudson Medical Doctors, either privately or in a letter, which is the same. Tell the doctors just how you feel, do all you can to help them, and if the great remedy-treatment HUDYAN is good for you the doctors will allow you to have it.

Just 10,000 men claim to have been cured with HUDYAN. Can they be 10,000 fools or worse? Dr. Johnson says that what all believe to be true must be true. Well, if it is true that HUDYAN does cure, you ought to have it. Don't get it yet. Wait, learn, be patient. Write for Circulars and Testimonials, or consult Hudson Doctors free. The address is:
