

DUTCHER'S ACT SAVED HER LIFE

Widow Schofield Testifies in the Lad's Behalf.

HER STORY OF THE TRAGEDY.

Was Pursued by Her Husband When the Choreboy Fired Upon Him.

OPENING OF THE CASE FOR THE DEFENSE.

Will Attempt to Prove That the Killing of the Rancher Was Justifiable.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 20.—The story of the Schofield murder was told today in all the details...

Schofield said he would prove that about fifteen years ago Schofield married the woman who was jointly indicted with the defendant...

A few days before the tragedy, the attorney declared, Schofield threatened to kill his wife and the entire family unless she would sell their home and give him the money to go to Klondike.

On the morning preceding the homicide Schofield, in the presence of the defendant and without any provocation on the part of Mrs. Schofield, threw a knife at her head because she would not turn over to him the homestead...

Schofield then described the battle between husband and wife on the evening previous to the murder and stated that Mrs. Schofield had fled from the house in order to save her life...

Mrs. Schofield was very calm when called to the witness stand. It took the entire day for her to tell her story and answer the many questions propounded by the District Attorney in cross-examination...

ST. MICHAEL A MILITARY RESERVATION

Set Apart by Order of Secretary of War Alger.

EMBRACES A LARGE TERRITORY.

Contiguous Mainland and Islands Within a Hundred Miles Included.

TROOPS TO BE STATIONED THERE.

Commanding Officer Given Authority to Preserve Order and Protect Property.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The order establishing the St. Michael reservation was issued this afternoon and reads as follows:

By the authority of the President the land known as St. Michael Island, with all contiguous mainland and islands within 100 miles of the location of the flagstaff on that island, is set aside from the public lands from the Territory of Alaska and declared a military reservation.

The military reservation above declared, and the military post located thereon, will be known as Fort St. Michael and will be under the control and supervision of the commanding officer of the troops there stationed.

R. A. ALGER, Secretary of War.

The purpose of the order is to confer upon Lieutenant-Colonel Randall the necessary legal authority to preserve order and protect property in this section of the country.

FRAPPED EGGS FOR KLONDIKERS.

People of Dawson Promised a Novel Christmas Treat.

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 20.—Frozen eggs to the number of 3843 dozen will leave here by the steamship Elder on Friday night, to furnish Christmas treats for Klondike miners.

Besides the eggs he will take one and a half tons of frozen poultry, which he expects to sell for $5 a pound, and $50 worth of freshysters (Portland price) that will realize not less than $500 at Dawson.

The expedition will also carry fresh pork and bacon for the Dawson market, but the big returns of the enterprise are looked for in the sale of the eggs, which will bring not less than $130,000 according to Vest's calculations.

For more than a month he has had his teams of dogs in training, until now they are perfectly tractable. He has no doubt that he will reach his destination before Christmas, and expects to return in February to make another winter trip.

KILLED BY HIS OWN TRAPGUN.

Klondiker Michaelson Receives a Charge of Shot Intended for Thieves.

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 20.—S. M. Wise of Dawson City, Alaska, writes to Simon Jacobs of this city that W. F. Michaelson of Portland was killed on El Dorado Creek in a peculiar manner.

Michaelson suspected that some one was stealing from his cabin. He fixed a trapgun in the door, so that it would be discharged if any one attempted to enter the cabin.

Michaelson himself was the first one to attempt to open the door, and he received a charge of buckshot in the abdomen.

He died in a few minutes. Michaelson was an upholsterer by trade.

Elkins Has Not Given Up the Fight for Section Twenty-Two.

He Believes Some Way Can Yet Be Found to Make the Clause Operative.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—Senator Elkins, who is the putative author of the celebrated "section 22" of the Dingley tariff act, is still at work trying to find some way to execute the law imposing a 10 per cent discriminating duty.

LUETGERT'S FATE STILL UNDECIDED

Under Lock and Key, the Jury Puts in Another Night.

MAY BE KEPT UNTIL SATURDAY.

Judge Tuthill Is Determined to Secure a Verdict if Possible.

STUBBORNNESS OF JUROR HARLEY.

The Only Man Standing Between the Sausage-Makar and the Death Sentence.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—At 8:30 o'clock tonight it was announced from the office of State's Attorney Deenen that there would be no announcement of a verdict in the Luetgert trial before the opening of court to-morrow morning.

Judge Tuthill went home early in the evening, leaving matters with Mr. Deenen, who was to send him word in case a verdict should be reached during the early part of the evening.

The attorneys for the defense also left matters with Mr. Deenen and went home to await any word that came from the jury-room.

Attorney Phalen, the junior counsel for the defense, was around the State's Attorney's office for a short time and then took his departure.

State's Attorney Deenen, pale-faced and red-eyed from lack of sleep, sat in his office until 8:30 o'clock, and then he announced that he would wait no longer and gave orders that his office be closed.

"There is absolutely no chance now of anything being heard from the twelve men before to-morrow morning at the earliest," said the State's Attorney as he left his office.

For a time to-night it was rumored that if the jury should not agree by to-morrow it would be discharged as soon as it reports its inability to reach a verdict.

This, however, is not the case. It is the firm determination of Judge Tuthill to keep the jury until Saturday night or late Saturday afternoon before he permits them to report a disaccordment.

He has announced that both the State and the defendant have spent much money and time and the case has been so long and difficult to try that he will not consent to the discharge of the jury until there is absolutely no hope whatever of a verdict being reached.

The jury stands about as it stood this afternoon. Reports vary from nine for the death penalty to three for acquittal to eleven for death and one for acquittal.

The one juror holding out for Luetgert is Harley, and it is thought that if he would change front there would be little time lost.

Juror Holabird is also credited with favoring acquittal, but it is thought he would come around quickly if Harley could be induced to vote for conviction.

The feeling among the jurors who are in favor of the death penalty is high against Harley, and they have done some very plain talking to him.

At one time this morning they even sent for Judge Tuthill to know among other things, if eleven men could compel one man to vote with them, or if a verdict would be valid if but eleven men signed.

This is the incident that gave to the State the idea there was but one man standing between Luetgert and a death sentence.

TAKING UP THE CASE OF MGR. SCHROEDER

Directors of the Catholic University in Washington in Session.

The Pope Disapproves of the Controversy and Desires Its Early Termination.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The board of directors of the Catholic University assembled in annual session to-day at McMahon Hall. The morning session lasted till 1 o'clock and was confined entirely to routine matters.

The case of Mgr. Schroeder did not come up, but an understanding was reached that it would be taken up at 4 P. M. Mgr. Schroeder remained at the Divinity building during the morning, pursuing his usual duties and subject to call.

WILLIAMS BAY'S BIG TELESCOPE

Yerkes' Gift to Chicago University to Be Dedicated.

Will Be Formally Turned Over To-day in the Dome of the Observatory.

Interesting Programme of Exercises Arranged-Enthusiasm of Scientists.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The Yerkes telescope will be formally dedicated and turned over to the University of Chicago to-morrow, Professor Keeler of Allegheny, Pa., will make the address of the day, which is to precede the dedication.

To-morrow evening a company of wise men will go to Chicago, and at the close of the week the gathering will stand adjourned. Then the costly Yerkes telescope will be in the hands of the faculty resident at Williams Bay.

Two special trains over the Northwestern road will leave Chicago early to-morrow morning for Williams Bay station. About 700 people are expected to come to the dedication exercises.

Besides members of the faculty of the University of Chicago, accompanied by their wives, there will be the trustees, Charles T. Yerkes and a number of invited guests. First there will be addresses by Professor James E. Keeler, Sc.D., director of the Allegheny Observatory, on "The Importance of Astrophysical Research and the Relation of Astrophysics to Other Physical Sciences."

Following the address, which will occupy an hour, Charles T. Yerkes will make the formal presentation, and President Harper of the university will respond in behalf of the trustees.

Before returning to Chicago the trustees, faculty and visiting professors will inspect the observatory and telescope and other appliances. The dedication ceremony will take place in the dome, where the large telescope stands. In all the spare rooms in the observatory cots have been placed, and here forty visiting scientists are accommodated. Nearly all the prominent visitors at the observatory this week are enthusiastic over the new telescope and believe that great discoveries will be made soon by means of its powerful lens.

Professor Keeler, who before going to Allegheny was at the Lick Observatory, is one of the men most interested in this latest acquisition to the wealth of the University of Chicago.

"It will be many years," said he, "before another telescope as large as this one or even approximating it in size will be made. The glass is by all means the most powerful in existence, and in months and years to come great discoveries in the field of astronomy may be expected at Williams Bay. The situation of the observatory, too, is much better than I expected. Its steadiness, which has been the subject of wonder to astronomers, is remarkable. Of course, the Lick Observatory has a more favorable location, but I doubt if a better place than the shore of Lake Geneva could be found for Yerkes' instrument anywhere east of the Rocky Mountains."

ELECTRICITY THEIR THEME.

Men Who Harness the Lightning Meet at Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 20.—The Pacific Coast Electrical Transmission Association met to-night at the Golden Eagle Hotel. E. B. Gilbert of the Sacramento Electric Gas and Railway Company presided, with Robert McE. Doble of the Blue Lake Water Company as secretary.

The first paper of the session was read by W. Stuart Smith on the topic "Hydraulics and Waterwheels." The same subject was treated by W. D. Knights of Sutter Creek. An interesting and extended discussion followed. The meeting was well attended, among the delegates being S. Morton Smith of York, Pa., who built the great plant at Folsom, and is now engaged in constructing a similar one in Rome, Italy.
