Stanford's Players Put More Vim Into Their Work.

First and Second Elevens Undergo Hard Signal Drilling.

Coach Brooks Pleased With the Play and the Spirit of His Pupils.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

CONGRESS SPRINGS, Nov. 19.—The Stanford football squad, accompanied by Coaches Brooke and Downing, arrived here at noon to-day.

On being pressed Mr. Herrington admitted that he was not speaking of his own knowledge, and when he was informed that it would be proved that two of the accused Justices had admitted their guilt before the Grand Jury, and also on the street to private persons, he made no further effort to constitute himself a defending instead of a prosecuting official by the use of "glittering generalities."

Continuing his interesting explanations, he said: "Herrington was also disqualified in certain cases because of his relationship to C. H. Herrington, a brother, who is practicing law in San Jose, and myself, and for that reason had to transfer some of the cases to Judge Loring."

The District Attorney then made a special plea for the accused Justices. "There was not an officer of the State of California," he said, "who knew of the insanity law until it had been published, and I think personally that during the period between its becoming a law and the time of publication they had a right to take jurisdiction. I believe further that it is nothing but justice to pay for services that have been honestly performed."

He even went further and said that even now there would be nothing wrong with the Peace Commission, and that in cases where there were violently insane persons to be looked after, and in such cases he thought the fee of $3 ought to be allowed. When it was intimated that the Peace Commission would have them treated like ordinary rules he only shrugged his shoulders.

Before the interview was at an end this peace officer of the county of Santa Clara intimated that if he were criticized in the columns of the CALL as the Justices had been, he would go gunning for some one.

District Attorney E. A. Herrington is a candidate for Superior Judge, to succeed Judge W. G. Loring.

THE BEAR TO SAIL

The doctor is in this city to say good-by to his father, Colonel Edward S. Woodruff, a prominent citizen of Marysville, to whom the younger man bears a strong facial resemblance.

The CALL's correspondent, in conversation with Dr. Woodruff at his room in the Western Hotel, learned considerable of the gentleman's history. He was born at San Francisco on April 21, 1859, and consequently is now in his thirty-eighth year. In 1884, when 25 years of age, he graduated from Harvard University.

Six years later, in 1890, he graduated from McGill Medical College, receiving a diploma as doctor in medicine and master of surgery. Directly afterward he went to Europe, where he gained much valuable experience in the hospitals of London and other large cities. Of late years he has been practicing his profession on the Pacific Coast with success.

As assistant surgeon of the Bear Dr. Woodruff will be of the party to venture on the overland explorations after the cutter has reached its destination. He will leave Marysville on the Oregon express-train to-night for Seattle, from which point the Bear will set out Tuesday.

Carriers for the North.

BERKELEY, Nov. 19.—A Carlisle, the carrier-pigeon fancier of North Berkeley, has given the United States Government eight pairs of his best birds for a carrier-pigeon service between the remote points of Alaska. He has suggested that stations be established at various points in Alaska, where they will be taken care of until acclimated. The young of these birds will be used as the messengers between the isolated miners and whalers and the outside world.

CHARGE TYPES AND VARIETIES

William C. Fuller of Colton to Growers of Fruit.

Movement Started for the Annexation of Suburbs.

Five Communities to Be Included Within the New Boundaries.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 19.—The Board of Trade and a committee from the City Council will next week begin an active campaign for a greater San Jose. It is proposed to extend the city boundaries so as to include East San Jose, Crandallville, the Alameda, Cottage Grove and the Willows within the corporate limits.

This will give the city a population of between 30,000 and 35,000, whereas now within the cramped limits there are but about 22,000.

San Jose long ago outgrew its swaddling clothes and the limits should be extended. Several attempts have been made to organize for a greater San Jose, but each time they have been abandoned because of the opposition put forward by the residents of the suburbs sought to be annexed.

The suburbanites claimed the city tax rate was too high for the benefits to be derived. Now there can be no such excuse, for under the new charter the city tax rate is limited $1 on each $100 valuation. By coming in on the city they would be increased but 65 cents on each $100, as they would escape the county road tax. Besides this they would not be subjected to the levy on the bonds recently issued for the new school, and improve the main sewer, while they would enjoy all the privileges arising therefrom.

For this additional tax the people of the suburbs would gain notice and fire protection together with at least 25 per cent increase in the value of their property. Sewers would be erected in their districts and the streets lighted and their residence portion improved.

A great many of the people residing in the suburbs are in favor of annexation, and it is thought by proper agitation and a number of mass-meetings the residents of the desired districts can be brought into Greater San Jose.

Active work will commence early next week. On Monday night the committee appointed at the last meeting of the council—consisting of Councilmen Fay and Noling and City Attorney Welch—will report to that body the names of fifty citizens to form an annexation committee. The Board of Trade will work in conjunction with the committee, and they will at once enter upon the campaign for annexation and Greater San Jose.

BULLET GRAZED HIS HEAD

Rancher Almost Murdered as the Result of a Quarrel Over Leased Land.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 19.—Charles Branson, a rancher, attempted to kill Alex Anderson in a dispute over a piece of leased land in the Sierra district, in the eastern foothills, last night. Branson had farmed the place the past year, but his lease expired on November 1, and Anderson then acquired the place.

When Anderson attempted to take possession last night Branson ordered him away. Anderson demurred, and Branson drew a pistol and fired at him. The bullet just grazed Anderson's head, and he ran, with Branson in hot pursuit and threatening to kill him.

To-day Anderson came to town and swore to a complaint before Justice Wallace charging Branson with an attempt at murder.

PERJURED HIMSELF TO SHIELD ANOTHER

Bakersfield Witness Arrested for Giving Conflicting Evidence.

Altered His Testimony in Favor of a Man on Trial for Robbery.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE CALL.

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 19.—During the progress of a criminal trial to-day in the Superior Court before Judge Mahon, it developed that a witness named Archie Stewart testified just the opposite on a material point to his testimony at the preliminary hearing. The courtroom was cleared of the jury, and then the court directed the Sheriff to take the witness into custody and the District Attorney directed a charge of perjury against him. Stewart was locked up. Stewart is a resident of the tenderloin section of the town.

Robinson, the man on trial, was charged with robbery. At the preliminary hearing Stewart swore that he saw Robinson search his victim's pockets and take some articles. To-day he denied any knowledge of the crime.

It is notorious that in this section of the town there are many perjurers and witness "fixers," and it is next to impossible to convict one of them. Some time ago the court sent one of the crowd over the road for a similar offense.

SELLS MORE PROPERTY

Confirmation of the News That Huntington Will Dispose of All His Realty in the East.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Colin P. Huntington, who, as told in the dispatches to the CALL last Saturday night, intends to sell all his real estate in this city, to-day disposed of another property. Through John N. Golding he sold a vacant lot, 25x100 feet, on the north side of Seventy-second street, 175 feet east of Fifth avenue.

The property sold by Huntington on Saturday comprises three blocks, fronting on the east side of St. Ann's avenue, between One Hundred and Thirty-eight and One Hundred and Forty-first streets.

Partial Fall From a Horse.

HANFORD, Nov. 19.—Elmer Welburn, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Welburn of this city, was thrown from a horse last Saturday and so badly injured that he died to-day.

PORTER PERISHES AT A ROPE'S END

Is Hanged for a Triple Murder in an Oregon Town.

He Mourn's the Gallows With Steady Step and Calm Demeanor.

Special Dispatch to THE CALL.

UNION, Ore., Nov. 18.—Kelsey Porter was hanged here this morning. On New Year's day, 1886, he killed Benjamin Machea and his wife and 17-year-old son in Pine Valley, because of a quarrel.

The Governor had been petitioned to commute the sentence, but no word was received from him until last night, when the Sheriff received a message stating he could not interfere with the due course of the law, and the Sheriff at once completed his arrangements for carrying out the order. Last evening Porter sat for Rev. Mr. Shields of the First Presbyterian Church, who called on the condemned man and gave him such spiritual advice as he could. Porter had been studying his Bible and said that he realized that he had committed a great sin, and that he knew his only hope was to be found in the scriptures.

This morning Rev. Mr. Shields again visited him and remained until the end came. Just before daylight everything was in readiness for the execution. Porter was informed he had but a short time to live, and in the presence of twelve citizens the death warrant was read to him. He expected it and was prepared for it. He was clad in a new suit of clothes and at 6:45 he was taken from his cell in the jail and led to the scaffold. There were about fifty persons present.

Porter manifested the greatest courage and walked to his doom with a steady step. On reaching the platform, Sheriff Puy asked him if he had anything to say. He said he had not. He was then handcuffed, straps put around his limbs and body, the black cap slipped over his head and the noose adjusted. The Sheriff stepped to one side, and saying: "Prepare to die," pulled the lever that opened the door.

The body shot downward a distance of six feet and all was over. Not the movement of a muscle was discernible. Death was instantaneous. The body was broken by the fall. After waiting twelve minutes the attending physicians pronounced the body dead and it was taken down and buried.
