

THE PRESIDENT VERY ANXIOUS TO GAIN NAME

He Does Not Want to Act in the Cuban Matter Until the Middle of April.

NEW YORK, March 24.—A Washington special to the Herald says: President McKinley desires that the United States shall present an unbroken front in every step that is taken in the impending crisis with Spain. He is particularly anxious that there be no misconception of the pauses which he may feel called upon to make between the different steps which he has tentatively outlined and that no intemperate and impatient speeches may be made in Congress.

ACTIVITY AT MARE ISLAND FOR THE GUNS

All the Talk at the Navy Yard Is Now of War.

Blue Jackets, Marines and Officers Envy Their Brethren in the East and South.

High Power Projectiles That Will Be Used to Defend This Harbor.

At the Military Post There Is Great Activity and Many Apply for Enlistment.

The large supply of ammunition for the high-power guns which was recently shipped from Eastern arsenals by special train to San Francisco arrived yesterday.

VALLEJO, March 24.—All the talk here is for war. "Jackies" speak in envious tones of the fellows who are serving on the Atlantic coast; the marines who pace the peaceful sentry beats of Mare Island are as alert as though they momentarily expected to stumble upon a landing force from some Spanish warship.

There is a feeling at the State Department, not born entirely of the imagination, that the Sagasta ministry ordered the dispatch of the torpedo fleet from the Canary Islands for the purpose of the moral effect such action would have upon the elections which are about to come off in Spain.

SPAIN'S TORPEDO FLOTILLA SAILS FOR AMERICA

Will Not Be Destroyed, Although Washington Looks Upon the Movement With Disfavor.

NEW YORK, March 24.—It can be stated on excellent authority that strong pressure has been brought to bear on the President having as its object the dispatch of instructions to Minister Woodford directing him to make representations to Spain declaring that the United States would consider the sailing of the torpedo fleet an act of war and would give its future course accordingly.

VESSEL IN DISTRESS OFF POINT REYES

Some Unknown Ship Was Sending Up Rockets.

Fear of a Disaster at the Mouth of Tomales Bay.

POINT REYES LIGHT, Cal., March 24.—At 9:45 p. m. a vessel was seen laboring heavily near the mouth of Tomales Bay, about ten miles out, and several distress rockets were sent up.

Several blue lights were also burned and at 10 p. m. the last rocket was seen. It was then so dark nothing could be made out but the flash of light.

The operator at Point Reyes called up the life-saving station and men started for the relief of the distressed vessel.

It is feared that another disaster of the sea has marked the black rocks of the northern coast.

DEATH OF A NOTED RAILROAD FINANCIER.

LEAKS.

The human being is much like any piece of mechanism. If it gets worn too much in one place the whole of the machine is quite likely to be rendered useless.

Drains are getting very bad. Gloom and unrest. Ray of hope. Light and fire. No leaks, but full of strength.

This happy change will be yours if you use the grand remedio-treatment "Hudyan." It never fails to stop drains in a week, and the vim, the fire and the vigor of youth return rapidly.
