

WARRANT TO GO
ON THE STEAMER
Naval Reserve Vessel
May Be Moved.

APPEAL TO GOVERNOR BUDD
IF HE OBJECTS THE SLOOP-OF-WAR WILL REMAIN.

Bark Northern Light and Barkentine Catherine Sudden and Jane A. Falkenberg to Return to Kotzebue.

The trouble over the naval reserve steamer Marion's berth at Howard-street wharf has broken out again. When there is a rush of shipping the Chief Wharfinger wants to move the vessel out into the stream, and Captain Turner, backed up by Governor Budd, refuses to have the war vessel shifted. At the present time it is impossible to find dock room for all the vessels in port with the Chief Wharfinger in charge, and in order to make room for at least one deep-water ship Assistant Chief Wharfinger Scott ordered the Marion into the stream, but the Harbor Commissioners refused to back him up, and the Naval Reserve still holds the fort.

When Uncle Sam presented the old sloop-of-war to the Naval Reserve there was a great deal of wire-pulling over the question of where she should be stationed. San Diego wanted her, and in fact at one time it was all settled to send her there. San Francisco turned the tables, however, and finally secured the vessel. The Harbor Commissioners were then appealed to, and a permanent berth was assigned to the warship at Howard's wharf. When this was secured the members of the Naval Battalion gave up their army on East street and moved, bag and baggage, aboard the training ship, and the Chief Wharfinger proceeded with the electric light service of the city and also with the telephone service, and the reserve boys soon began to feel at home.

Just when everybody was comfortably seated aboard the Marion and everything was moving like clockwork there came a rush of shipping into port. Chief Wharfinger Root worked day and night to accommodate the incoming vessels, and then in despair he ordered the Marion into the stream. The Harbor Commissioners were then appealed to, and a permanent berth was assigned to the warship at Howard's wharf. When this was secured the members of the Naval Battalion gave up their army on East street and moved, bag and baggage, aboard the training ship, and the Chief Wharfinger proceeded with the electric light service of the city and also with the telephone service, and the reserve boys soon began to feel at home.

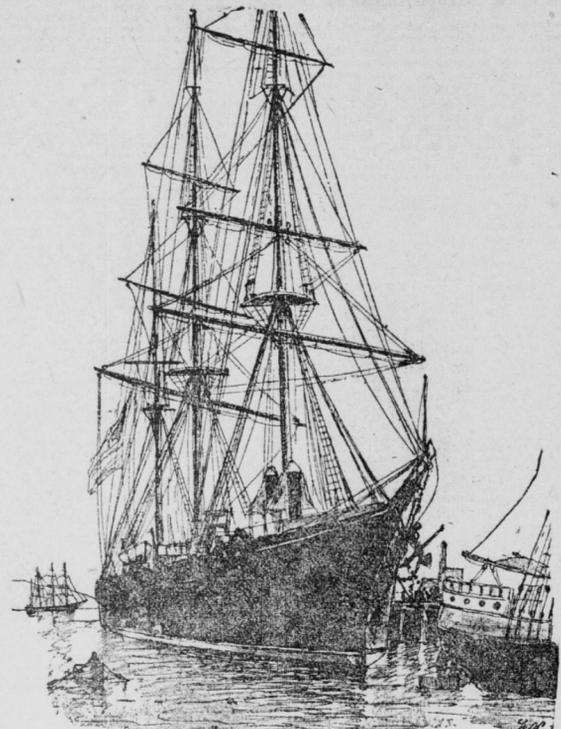

That was the last of the matter until a week ago. The bay is now full of shipping, and vessels are waiting two days for a chance to get out. Chief Wharfinger Root is on the move from morning until night contriving ways and means to give space to the incoming vessels. He came to the conclusion that the Marion should be moved into the stream. He explained the matter to the Harbor Commissioners last Tuesday. President Colton moved that the naval battalion be instructed to take the Marion away from the dock. Assistant Harbor Commissioners Harney and Herold thought it would be better to say the matter before the Governor. The matter was then referred to Governor Budd, and pointed out that with the Marion in the stream they would be without an army on East street, and the result was that the Marion remained in her berth.

THE MARION MAY BE MOVED.

The Chief Wharfinger wants the space occupied by the sloop-of-war and has appealed to the Harbor Commissioners to order her into the bay. The officers of the Naval Reserve refuse to have the training-ship moved, and say they will resist if the attempt is made. The matter is to be referred to Governor Budd to-day, and if he says the Marion is to make way for the commerce of the port she will be moved, and not before.

McVEY TAKES HIS TURN AT HABEAS CORPUS

He Petitions the Supreme Court.

IS GIVEN SCANT COURTESY

SCHEME EVIDENTLY INSPIRED BY MR. HOSMER.

Latest Ruse of the Prosecution to Secure Possession of Mrs. Botkin Was Considered Frivolous.

The Supreme Court, sitting at Los Angeles, yesterday refused to recognize Detective Bernard McVeay, accused agent for the State of Delaware, and declined to consider for a moment a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, which was laid before the Court by Assistant District Attorney Hosmer.

McVeay's petition set forth that though he had in his possession extradition papers, duly signed by Governor James H. Budd, for the person of Mrs. Cordelia Hotkin, Chief of Police Lees of San Francisco had custody of the prisoner, and refused to give her up to the Delaware authorities, though, by virtue of his papers, he (McVeay) was rightfully and legally entitled to her, for, after a short presentation of his case, Mr. Hosmer was informed that the petition would not be considered. He appeared yesterday morning with McVeay's petition. The Supreme Judges evidently knew the facts of the case, and their effort to keep the matter from becoming public succeeded so far as the Los Angeles papers were concerned, but the Call's representative in the southern city reported in the famous case and wired the facts to this journal.

Judge Carroll Cook has asked Judges Seawell and Wallace to sit with him on the 16th inst. to consider the writ of habeas corpus as prayed for by the defense.

A Dangerous Undertaking. Much interest has been created in athletic circles at the announcement that Professor J. Williams, the celebrated high-wire athlete, will attempt next Sunday to cross a canyon 1000 feet in width on a tight wire 300 feet above the ground, at the opening of Glen Park—the Mission Zoo. The performance, if successful, will probably eclipse anything of a like character ever before attempted.

NEW STREET WORK. Will Be Recommended by Supervisors' Committee.

The committee on streets of the Board of Supervisors met yesterday and decided to recommend new street work as follows: Bituminizing of Waller street from Masonic to Ashbury; Ashbury to Clayville; Cole to Ashbury; crossing of Shradler; bituminizing of Lyon street from Haight to Page; bituminizing of Central avenue at Page street, crossing and from Page to Haight; bituminizing of Page street from Central avenue to Masonic avenue and Masonic avenue crossing; bituminizing of Ashbury and Page crossings; basalt on Euureka from Nineteenth to Twentieth; the paving of Thirtieth street from San Jose avenue to Dolores and Thirtieth and Dolores crossing; grade Josephine avenue from Point Lobos to grade Central avenue; grade Collins street from Point Lobos avenue to northern termination; grade Scott street, between Greenwich and Lombard.

"Anakesis," the great external pils remedy, is endorsed by the best physicians.

Eva Hess Heard From. Mrs. Lizzie Vernon of Los Banos, the mother of Eva Hess, the young girl who, it is alleged, was abducted from this city, received a dispatch yesterday morning purporting to come from her daughter from Victoria, B. C. It asked that she send a ticket to bring the girl home and that Isaac Wolfe had nothing to do with her leaving for Victoria. The case against Wolfe, charged with abduction, was continued for a week. Meantime Chief Lees has communicated with the police in Victoria with the object of locating the girl.

CLUBBED A POLICEMAN. The Assault Upon C. M. Barnes Being Investigated by Judge Low.

The preliminary examination of John Bulger and Walter Nagle on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon was commenced before Judge Low yesterday afternoon. They are accused of striking Policeman C. M. Barnes on the head at Fifteenth and Mission streets in the early morning of September 13 with some instrument, inflicting an ugly wound, which confined Barnes to St. Mary's Hospital for two or three weeks. Barnes at the time had a prisoner in charge, who escaped.

The evidence of Barnes was corroborated by Joseph Falbe and the former testifying that he saw Bulger hold a stick with both hands and strike Barnes on the head with the heavy end. Policemen Connell, Ellis and Thompson testified to Nagle having voluntarily confessed to the assault, but he claimed that he (Nagle) was innocent.

The case for the prosecution was closed, and the defense not a continuation until next Wednesday.

THE RAILROAD HAS ITS RIGHTS DEFINED. COMMISSIONERS CANNOT SEE ITS BOOKS AND PAPERS.

Judge Seawell Outlines the Jurisdiction of the State Body in a Decision Rendered Yesterday.

The Railroad Commission has met a second defeat in its efforts to pry into railroad affairs not within its jurisdiction. A few months ago Judge Bahrs enjoined the Commission from further procedure in the investigation of railroad matters and papers, and yesterday Judge Seawell rendered a decision refusing the Commission a peremptory writ of mandate requiring Joseph L. Willcutt, as secretary of the Market-Street Railroad Company, to produce certain books and papers for examination. EMPLOYED BY THE PRESS OF THE GREAT WORLD HE LOVED. Arrest of an Ardent Wooer.

ANDREW ANZENE'S WOES CHARGED WITH BURGLARY BY LIZZIE BUCKLEY.

Because She Refused to Marry Him He Broke Into Her Room and Stole a Valuable Garment.

Andrew Anzene, a love-stricken rancher of Fort Bragg, is locked up in the City Prison with a charge of burglary received against him. He is charged with breaking into the room of a young woman named Nellie Buckley, also a resident of Fort Bragg, and fell desperately in love with her. His attentions became so obnoxious to her that she decided to leave Fort Bragg. Suspecting that he might follow her, she came to this city about six weeks ago and rented apartments in a lodging house at 118 Sixth street. Her ardent suitor followed her here, and learning her address, he took a room in the same house. Again she refused to marry him, and when she refused he threatened to kill her. Fearing violence at his hands Miss Buckley moved to another house, expecting that Anzene would not follow her. She came to this city about six weeks ago and rented apartments in a lodging house at 118 Sixth street. Her ardent suitor followed her here, and learning her address, he took a room in the same house. Again she refused to marry him, and when she refused he threatened to kill her.

"A Ragtime" Opera. The present theatrical season seems so far as announcements are concerned, to be very barren of new productions. This applies more particularly to the large field of entertainments not covered by the legitimate stars, such as farcical comedies, comic operas and extravaganzas, so that most new offerings in the latter line may be eyed with suspicion, but these conditions will not apply to such time-tried comedians as Mathews and Bulger. Their latest venture is "A Ragtime" opera entitled, "By the Sad Sea Waves." It is said to be well suited to the abilities of the two comedians. They are considered one of the season's most coveted bookings and will appear at the Columbia Theatre for a run of two weeks, beginning Monday next.
