NEW YORK, March 18.—Captain Robley D. Evans contributes a chapter to W. A. M. Good's book, "With Sampson Through the War," just issued. Captain Evans describes how the Iowa joined Admiral Schley off Cienfuegos on May 22...

Summing up the much-discussed question of how Cervera was "bottled," Captain Evans, after telling of the discovery of the Cristobal Colon on May 29, in the mouth of Santiago harbor, writes as follows:

We signaled to the flagship (Brooklyn) that the Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon was in the harbor and the answer came "I understand."

On June 1 Admiral Sampson arrived on the New York and the Iowa escorted the admiral's plan of blockade was substituted for that of Commodore Schley and the beginning of the battle was in sight.

In another chapter entitled "A Battleship in and Out of Action," the captain gives the lesson that in a general way he deduced from the war: First—The absolute necessity for fast armored cruisers capable of long sea endurance. Second—Ample supply of torpedo-boat destroyers...

WILLIAM'S DEEP MORTIFICATION

Rage of Emperor Over Pet Army Bill.

STANDS ALONE IN THE FIGHT

DOES NOT DARE TO DISSOLVE THE REICHSTAG.

However, He Has a Rod in Pickle for Prince von Hohenlohe, the Imperial Chancellor.

Copyrighted, 1899, by the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 18.—The unexpected Reichstag crisis, which has overshadowed everything this week, was brought about by the fact that the Reichstag, judging from the words and manner of the Minister of War, General von Gossler, was led to believe that the Emperor and Bundesrath were satisfied with the military bill as fixed by the budget commission's report...

Those who are close to the Emperor have repeated his sayings on the subject which leave no room to doubt his Majesty's attitude. But he is virtually alone in the stand taken, since a majority of the Bundesrath made it clear to the Imperial Chancellor, Prince von Hohenlohe, on Wednesday that their governments were satisfied with the bill in the shape reported.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 18.—A series of windstorms swept through portions of Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas to-day, doing an immense amount of property damage and killing a number of people. The storms covered a radius of several hundred miles, destroying telegraph wires and cutting off communication with a large part of the affected country.

bill in the shape reported. They further declared that a dissolution of the Reichstag on such a trifling matter seemed undesirable and injudicious.

This effective arraignment of the insensible military demands of the statements of the other opposition leaders made a considerable impression.

Herr Richter, the German radical leader, said: "If the Reichstag were now dissolved it would not be because of this trifling reduction in the military bill, but because another Reichstag is wanted, one which will pass a reactionary anti-strike bill and modify the election laws, and its motto will be autocratic, absolute government and destruction of the Reichstag's independence."

The Emperor felt that the Reichstag's action was a personal defeat and his mortification was correspondingly great, for the influence of the court military party for weeks has been strongly exerted in the decision of not yielding in this matter.

INESTIMABLE AID IN LIFE SAVING

Practical Test of Wireless Telegraphy Demonstrates Its Great Value.

Special Cable to The Call and the New York Herald. Copyrighted, 1899, by James Gordon Bennett.

LONDON, March 18.—Wireless telegraphy has been put to really a practical test which has proved how valuable it will be in the future saving of life at sea. Last Saturday a barkentine got ashore on the treacherous Goodwin Sands, and signals of distress were fired from the south of Goodwin light which were heard on the East Goodwin light-ship, where wireless telegraph apparatus is fixed, and by that means a message was sent to the South Foreland lighthouse, whence other messages were passed on to Kingsdown and Ramsgate for life boats.

day in regard to his interest in the army beef investigation and the rumor that he is supplying evidence to General Miles. Dr. Webb said: "I really haven't anything to say in regard to either point more than what I have already said. I am a great friend of General Miles and also of Secretary Alger and the administration and I think it a great pity the controversy ever came up. The investigation will certainly put the blame upon those who deserve it."

It is said that his Majesty is further irritated by the fact that the ultra montanes, though only one-third of the minority, upon this occasion triumphed in protestant Germany over the protestant Emperor. This also seemed to be a most galling reflection in Government circles, especially as the ultra montane leader, Dr. Lieber, spoke on Tuesday and Thursday in a defiant, challenging tone and with the manner of a master of the situation.
