

DREYFUS MEETS HIS DEFENDERS

PATHETIC SCENE AT THE PRISON

Maitre Demange and the Captain Rush Into Each Other's Arms.

M. LABORI PRESENTED

Both Attorneys Warmly Thanked for Their Manner of Championing the Exile's Cause.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

RENNES, France, July 3.—Maitre Labori and Demange, counsel for Dreyfus, who had a long conference with Mme. Dreyfus yesterday, visited Dreyfus in the military prison, at 10 o'clock this morning. The permit for the lawyers to enter the prison bore the inscription:—

Tenth Army Corps, Tribunal of the Court-martial, Rennes, to counsel Maitre Labori and Maitre Demange, to communicate with Captain Dreyfus, whom he is charged to defend.

MAJOR CARRIERE. This was the first time that Demange, the defender of Dreyfus at the court-martial of 1894, and Dreyfus had seen each other since the sentence.

On entering the room, Maitre Demange and Dreyfus threw themselves into each other's arms. The scene was most touching. Neither was able to utter a word, but they warmly embraced.

M. Demange then presented M. Labori, who had been a silent spectator in the background of the foregoing scene. Dreyfus, who had been in M. Labori's hand, and in a voice choked by emotion expressed the deepest gratitude for the splendid manner in which M. Labori had championed his cause.

M. Demange and Labori then gave the prisoner a general review of all which has happened since Dreyfus was sent to Devils Island. Dreyfus explained that he knew nothing but what was contained in the volume which M. Labori had sent him, giving an account of the proceedings of the Court of Cassation in 1898.

M. Demange and Labori then left. Dreyfus was greatly impressed with the appearance of Dreyfus. They declared Dreyfus was both physically and mentally in much better health than they anticipated.

This evening Maitre Demange and Labori had another conference with the prisoner, M. Labori saying after it was over that the time had been devoted to continuing the review of events since 1898. His counsel was surprised at the Dreyfus' strength of memory even in trifling matters and at the lucidity of mind he displayed. After the interview they dined with Mme. Dreyfus.

At this evening it was ascertained that unless the authorities should declare a preliminary inquiry or the examination of Captain Dreyfus, Major Carriere, the Government commissioner charged with the preparation of the case against the prisoner, will merely draw up a report, which will be presented to the court-martial. Maitre Demange returned to this evening and Maitre Labori will return on Wednesday.

STANFORD'S LAW COURSE EXTENDED

Ranks With the Best in the Land.

THREE YEARS' LEGAL STUDY MOOT COURTS TO BE MADE A FEATURE.

Instructions Given and Results Achieved Will Equal Those of the Highest-Grade Universities.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, July 3.—The announcements of the law department for the coming year have just been published. Since the publication of the university register for 1898-99 the scope of the department has been materially extended. Provision has been made for a three years' course in law, as given in the universities of the highest grade. The faculty of the law department is announced as follows: David Starr Jordan, LL.D., president of the university; Nathan Abbott, LL.B., professor of law; Clarke Butler Whittier, LL.B., assistant professor of law; Jackson Eli Reynolds, LL.B., instructor in law; Charles Ross Lewis, A.B., instructor in law; Clyde Augustus Dunaway, Ph.D., associate professor of history; Hon. Curtis H. Lindley, lecturer on the law of mines and irrigation.

Instructors Reynolds and Lewis, who are both Stanford graduates, were appointed this year.

The department of law, as regards the undergraduate student, conforms in all respects to the other departments of the university. The requirements for admission are the same, and the same degree is granted for the completion of the undergraduate work. By the completion of the two years of graduate work, however, the student will have the equivalent of the work of any of the law schools of the country and will be granted the degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.). The course is designed to occupy three years of law work, or the regular four years' course in the law and other departments of the university and two years' graduate study.

Courses will be offered in elementary law contracts, criminal law, property, torts, trusts, equity, pleading, bills and notes, trusts, equity, pleading, evidence, damages, conflict of laws, constitutional law, corporations and partnerships.

These will be required from all candidates for degrees. Moot courts, under the direction of the department, will be a feature of the course.

had been supposed that Rice fired the fatal shot.

When the jury concluded its deliberations, Rice was patrolling his beat on J street. A warrant was immediately issued and he was taken to jail by Deputy Sheriff Nelson. Bail was refused him on the recommendation of District Attorney Everts and he spent the night in the lock-up.

Donnelly was shot while resisting arrest. He became obstreperous in the Chinatown quarter and drew his revolver on a number of the agents. Among those whose lives he threatened was "Jack" Brooks. During his row with Brooks, Officer Rice attempted to arrest him. The policeman commanded Donnelly to throw up his hands, but instead of doing so the disturber shot at the officer. Rice then emptied his revolver at the offender, and when his ammunition was exhausted shot Brooks to fire. During the melee Donnelly was mortally wounded and he died on Friday afternoon.

The coroner's jury held that Rice was not justified in calling upon Brooks for assistance. In the jurors' minds, Brooks was prompted to shoot by an entirely different motive from that which prompted Rice, and they hold that in encouraging

Brooks to kill Donnelly the officer became an accessory to the crime.

The arrest of Rice promises to stir up a bitter political fight. Many of his friends, among whom are the wealthiest citizens of Fresno, declare that his arrest is the result of spite work on the part of the political enemies. Rice is a Republican and was appointed by the new Board of Trustees about two months ago. At the time of Rice's appointment John P. Morgan, the Democratic City Marshal, made a bitter speech against the young man, declaring he could not work in union with Rice. The City Trustees refuse to discharge Rice.

He was Under Sheriff for four years. The funeral will take place to-morrow under the auspices of the Masonic lodge, of which he was a member in high standing. The deceased was the son-in-law of W. P. Harkey, who was Sheriff of this county for fifteen years.
