

DOWNFALL OF THE BOSS REGIME IN POLITICS

Republicans Administer a Sharp Rebuke to Gage and Burns.

Gavin McNab in Full Control of the Democratic Works—Rainey Controlling Only One Hundred Delegates in a Minority—Kelly and Crimmins Overthrown.

The overthrow of the bosses at the primary polls day before yesterday was very nearly complete. The result as given by the revised figures is the same as that announced in The Call yesterday morning.

The Republican League elects 200 and the County Committee faction elects 196 delegates to comprise the Republican Municipal Nominating Convention.

As the enrollment of voters in the clubs organized under the auspices of the County Committee was almost equal to the number of votes cast by the party last Tuesday, there can be no doubt that many of the Republicans so enrolled voted according to their individual judgment as to the merit of the tickets presented.

The party has no terror for Republicans in a local campaign and a boss must be dealt with brains and tact to exercise any wide-reaching control of Republican party affairs.

Crimmins and Kelly never cut much of a figure as bosses. Since the election of Higgins the Republicans have had no boss of superior stature. Higgins possessed managing ability equal to that displayed by Gavin McNab in the recent campaign for the control of the Democratic works.

Leaders and gave the orators counsel as the line of policy to be followed in public speaking.

Republicans of the Central League—the followers of Henry T. Scott and Z. U. Taylor—were the first to approach Crimmins and Kelly as well done, must soon accept responsibilities. They will be charged with the duty of selecting a county committee for the government of the party, and when that work is done they will be the regulars.

The people elected to the convention chosen under the auspices of the Republican League will put forward the best men for nomination to the County Committee.

There is a strong current of sentiment in the Central Republican League in favor of Horace Davis for Mayor. Mr. Davis is recommended by his friends as a man of exemplary character, a citizen of recognized prominence, a man clean in mind and morals, and one who may not bestow the nomination on Mr. Davis, but it should nominate a man of Davis' caliber.

At the outset it may be stated that the Call has no candidate. It has no favor to back of the convention, and the regular party will not support a boss-tainted or railroad-programmed nominee even if such a man should be nominated by one or all of the conventions. It has no more respect for a boss in the yellow building than for a boss in the barroom.

In the overthrow of the boss regime the Republicans of San Francisco administered a sharp rebuke to Governor Gage. It is a fact known to all who read the Bulletin, which champions the cause of Mayor Phelan and Gavin McNab, thus comments on the result of the election.

The Examiner formed a combination with Rainey and also lost. The stable combination of the Examiner and the Examiner, was beaten nearly three to one by the blind boss, fought by the Examiner.

Rainey is disgraced, but in the parlance of the prize fighter is "still in the ring." He controls the delegates to the Democratic convention-elect and will be able to protect the Fire Department and some of his friends and political associates. More than two-thirds of the delegates elect, however, acknowledge allegiance to the Committee of One Hundred and recognize the superior ability of Gavin McNab. Henceforth Mr. McNab will direct affairs in the Democratic household.

His office will be at the Bay View Hotel, accepted in the selection of a county committee to govern party affairs. He did not go to the office in the recent primary election, but sat in his office in the Mills building and planned the campaign which was so disastrously conducted by the Examiner. He did not for an instant doubt the result of the battle. When Buckle was made Mayor and the Examiner's league most active and arrogant Mr. McNab put his trust in the Democratic party, the people belonging to the Democratic party, and the success of the ticket supported by the Committee of One Hundred. The Examiner had special reasons for its anxiety to control the Democratic local convention. The delegates comprising this convention will select the county committee and it will be the duty of Democrats comprising this committee to propose to a nominating convention, to State or district conventions, upon whom will devolve the duty of electing delegates to the National Democratic Convention. The Examiner desires a national delegation that Hearst can swing. As Gavin McNab is in control of the works he will no doubt give careful attention to the duty of selecting men for the county committee in order that untrammelled Democrats may be chosen to represent the Democracy of California in the national convention. As Mr. McNab is in control of the works he will no doubt give some of his time to public duties.

It may be readily surmised that Mr. McNab in having the reins of the Democracy of California in his hands will direct affairs that Mayor Phelan's ambition for a place in the United States Senate will receive due consideration. That ambition cannot be granted until the Democrats elect a majority to the County Committee.

The Citizens' Republican party, which polled more than 3 per cent of the votes last year, is expected to be re-elected by reason of that party strength was permitted to put a ticket in the field for delegates to a nominating convention. It has only 28 votes. It appears that several voters other than the nominees came to the rescue of the party. The number of votes exceeds the number running for office. The Citizens' Republican party represents the People's party cast 99 votes and the Socialist Labor party 95. The highest number of votes for the government of the party, the Republicans polled 11,299 votes.

The official count shows that the entire delegation to Buckley and Rainey, Joseph Plunkett and James J. Maher, on the ticket of the Committee of One Hundred, were re-elected.

In the Thirty-eighth District Gallagher's ticket was elected, but Gallagher himself was snubbed under. Sixteen of the candidates on the Hasset-Gallagher ticket were elected. On the rival ticket, managed by Bert Schlesinger, seven candidates, among them Schlesinger, were chosen. Judge Wallace received 261 votes, but that number was not sufficient to elect.

A fierce battle was waged between the Republican factions in the Fort third District. The loss of general officers in the regular Republican ranks was unusually heavy. Among the slain are General R. H. Warfield and General S. W. Backus. In battle it often happens that the best fall first.

The conventions to which delegates were elected at least thirty days next preceding the election. Usually it has been the custom to call county conventions some fifty or sixty days before the election in order to give that body plenty of time to deliberate, and, after the convention has adjourned, to let the county committee have ample time to make changes and rectify existing errors, if there be any.

The conventions are called at dates set by the chairman of the county committee of the respective parties, and as is the case in the coming conventions, Jasper McDonald, chairman of the Democratic County Committee, will call the convention which the Italian delegates control, while the Republican convention will be called by A. J. Raich, chairman of the Crimmins county committee.

Will there be no doubt that McDonald will call his convention at a satisfactory date, there is a feeling at the Republican Central League headquarters that Crimmins will have his chairman set the date for the convention at as late a date as possible unless he is accorded some credit with his minority.

W. S. Barnes Losing Weight. Captain W. S. Barnes, the well-known attorney, returned from the springs a few days ago weighing seventy pounds less than he did when he left here. While at the health resort he indulged in mud baths with great benefit to his health and weight. During his sojourn in the country he went to Tuolumne County and secured a verdict in a big mining suit after a two weeks' trial. Mr. Barnes appeared as counsel for a Mr. Emerson, who was defendant in a suit brought by a man named Rodgers to recover valuable mining property. The case was tried before Judge Nichols and Godchaux sitting in bank. Mr. Barnes intends taking a course of training with a view to further reducing his weight. He believes he can do so without injury to himself.

Young Ladies' Institute. The following named have been elected officers of Branch No. 48 of the Young Ladies' Institute recently organized at Stockton: Miss Julia Weber, past president; Mrs. Sadie Garvin, president; Miss Helen Henry, first vice president; Mrs. Mildred Trainer, second vice president.

Funeral of the Late Captain Goodall. The funeral of the late Captain Charles Goodall took place yesterday afternoon from the Simpson Memorial Church, corner Hayes and Buchanan streets. In keeping with the life and character of the deceased the services were simple in the extreme. The auditorium of the church was crowded with the sorrowing relatives and friends of the deceased. In accordance with the request of the relatives there were but few floral offerings.

Rev. Dr. Stephens, pastor of the church, conducted the funeral services. Seated with him behind the pulpit were Rev. W. S. Evans of Stockton, Dr. Dille of Oakland, Rev. W. S. Matthews, Rev. Charles E. Locke of the Central Church, Rev. Dr. J. D. Hammond and Rev. Dr. M. C. Briggs, all of whom had been lifelong friends of the deceased.

Dr. Stephens spoke in the most touching terms of the life and character of Captain Goodall, and so pathetic were his remarks that nearly every one in the church was moved to tears. In closing he called upon Senator George C. Perkins, the business associate of the deceased, to pay a final tribute to his memory. The Senator was visibly affected by the sorrowful duty that devolved upon him. His voice trembled with emotion, and several times during the course of his eulogy he was forced to stop while he wiped away the tears that he could not suppress. Senator Perkins said: "Here are the last earthly remains of a friend whose place in my life can never be filled. Captain Goodall was a friend of friends and he has made his last voyage over life's seas. By his death every lover of true humanity has lost a friend; the church has lost a friend. "It is as natural as the dawn to live, but it is hard for us who remain behind to fully realize our loss. We must find consolation in the fact that our friend is his eternal rest. I have been intimately associated with Captain Goodall in a social and a business way for more than twenty-seven years, and I would feel that I was not doing my duty if I did not pay this tribute to one of the noblest men that was ever born. "The speaker then briefly told of the life of the deceased, and continuing said: "The brightest pages in the history of this State will record the life of Captain Goodall—a life which furnishes an example that every man can follow with profit to himself and the community in which he lives. The captain was true and faithful to every trust that was imposed upon him; he would have been a Gladstone if he had been a statesman. I never saw him with a frown upon his face. He judged men not by what they professed, but by what they were. He was identical with everything that was noble, manly morality and social life. He was a charitable man, and many have received of his bounty. I have seen him had benefited every man who placed a flower on his tier. It would raise a monument as high as the stars if every man who had been associated with him were to place a stone on his grave. He cannot come back to us, but the time will come when we can go to him. "The honorary pall-bearers were: Robert McElroy, Captain Andrew Nelson, Senator George C. Perkins, Alexander Hinkle, Mortimer Dundas, Frank Cosgrove and Captains Johnson, Howard and Wallace of the Goodall-Perkins steamers. The interment was at Mountain View Cemetery, Oakland, and was private.

The South African Republic exported last year 4,555,915 ounces of gold and nearly 40,000 tons of coal.

DRAGGING ITS WEARY WAY. The "Brick" McPherson Conspiracy Has Another Hearing Before Judge Treadwell. Judge Treadwell expressed his determination yesterday afternoon to get at the bottom of the "Brick" McPherson conspiracy, but he made very little headway. The case of "Brick" who was discharged on habeas corpus proceedings, is still on the judge's calendar, as he has not been officially notified of the decision of Judge Durne, and "Brick" was not in court yesterday, but Attorney Harvey Brown promised faithfully to have him before the judge to-day.

The case of Thomas Clisham, charged with obtaining $150 from Attorney I. N. Thorne, was taken up in court yesterday and told in a hesitating way that angered the judge who Clisham had got the money from him and the representations of an innocent woman (referring to Mrs. Carroll) into such a deal, and thought the Grand Jury should take up the whole matter. The further hearing in the case was continued till to-day.
