

CABILL'S BATTLE FROM THE BITTER CONTEST HAS ENDED.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 908 Broadway, Jan. 30. Four times and out! After three futile attempts in the divorce court, Christopher J. Cahill and Margaret P. Cahill have been legally separated at last.

For the past three years the Cahills—who are among the prominent residents of Diamond, Fruitvale—have been trying to dissolve the matrimonial bonds that had become distasteful to both. Mrs. Cahill being the plaintiff usually.

The last time Mrs. Cahill sued for the divorce she made capital out of the fact that she had secured a lead pencil deed to all his property. Judge Greene, on that occasion, refused to grant Mrs. Cahill a decree until she should return the property to her husband.

Then it was Christopher's turn to file suit. He claimed there was no living with his wife half, but she made unpleasant demonstrations with cups and saucers, and was cruel in her treatment of him.

Late this afternoon Judge Ellsworth granted the divorce to Christopher Cahill, the wife not having found time to answer, and to plaintiff was awarded the custody of two children—Christopher and Irene. But the property, it appears, remains with the wife.

BERKELEY, Jan. 30.—There will be no intercollegiate football games at Stanford. At least not between the teams of Stanford University and the University of California.

At a meeting of the athletic committee of the Association of Stanford and Berkeley universities to-night it was decided that a game could not be played at Stanford, without the aid of a great number of men, which Stanford was in no position to guarantee.

It was contended that all annual contests must be fought on the campus of the university. To insure a crowd adequate to make them paying ventures, for this reason, Stanford representatives of the two universities providing that the annual football games at each university town every alternate year was repudiated.

The agreement in regard to some of the games was also condemned. This was done on the ground that some of the classes were so small that the game would be practically disbanded some of the time.

STATUS OF INSULAR POSSESSIONS FIXED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Republican and Democratic committees to-night laid down definite lines upon which the Republican leaders of the House have decided to legislate for Porto Rico so far as tariff duties are concerned.

The decision reached is exceedingly important, as it commits the Republican committee to the theory that Porto Rico and the Philippines are not the territory of the United States within the meaning of that section of the constitution which provides that the laws of the United States shall be uniform throughout the United States.

In other words, it commits them to the view that our new possessions can be governed as colonies and that discriminating duties can be laid against them. The bill introduced ten days ago by Representative Payne of New York, designed to remove all tariff barriers between Porto Rico and the United States—free trade, in other words.

The Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee, on the other hand, introduced to-day a bill at several secret meetings and to-day decided to favor a substitute, which will be offered when the bill is introduced before the House to-morrow.

This substitute provides that the tariff of duties on goods from foreign countries except the United States shall be the same as that against goods entering the United States from the United States into Porto Rico or from the United States into Porto Rico from foreign goods. That is, between Porto Rico and the United States there shall be no tariff.

The substitute also provides that the revenue from such tariff duties shall be used to defray the expenses of the administration of the territories.

The action of the Republicans to-day amounts to a decision to support the bill which has been the subject of special investigation by a sub-committee for several weeks, does not apply to our insular possessions and that the constitution of the United States does not extend over them.

Mystery of a Broken Window.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 908 Broadway, Jan. 30. A quarrel between two brothers over land interests shortly after midnight this morning nearly ended in a tragedy, according to the story of the police.

The story is that the young brother, called the name of William Gibson, who called at the Receiving Hospital shortly after 1 o'clock this morning to have his face repaired.

"My brother George and I had a dispute over certain real estate which I claim he is trying to steal from me," said the patient to Warden Page, in explanation of the manner in which he sustained his facial injuries.

On the second floor of the Gibson residence, however, there appears to be a bloodstain on the wall, and a window pane is missing. The patient failed rapidly after this and continued to sink until death claimed him.

Mr. Thompson was one of the best-known railroad men in California and had been in the business here for over a quarter of a century. For the last few years he had held the position which he occupied since the death of his father, who was one of the most popular officials of the Southern Pacific system and was especially well liked among his subordinates.

J. R. THOMPSON PASSES AWAY

Oakland, Jan. 30.—Joseph R. Thompson, assistant division superintendent of the Western division of the Southern Pacific Railroad, died at an early hour this morning from blood-poisoning resulting from an injury sustained on Thanksgiving day.

His condition was serious and to most of the friends was a complete surprise. Deceased was visiting friends on a ranch near Callisto when the accident occurred. He was picking wild berries at the time and injured his knee by slipping from a bowlder.

A slight abrasion of the skin occurred and this was soon followed by erysipelas. Although the physicians endeavored to abate the ailment they failed, and a few days ago blood-poisoning set in. The patient failed rapidly after this and continued to sink until death claimed him.

BELL LADES FEDERATION

Call a Special Meeting for To-Day. The meeting of the Bell Society to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock will be one of the most important events in the history of that prominent organization, for it will mark either the acceptance or the rejection of the invitation given the society to join the California State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The chief business on hand, in fact, the prime object of the sessions, will be the hearing of the reports of Mrs. Roland P. Gleason and Mrs. F. B. Gunn, the delegates chosen by the society to attend the convention of women's clubs in Los Angeles two weeks ago.

Although a month has passed since the close of the southern assemblage, the Bell Society's representatives have not before had an opportunity of officially informing their organization of the doing and the saying, nor their impressions of it, nor the part they took.

The board will hear with special interest the report of Mrs. Gleason, who went to Los Angeles rather prejudiced against federation, and returned not only entirely changed in her attitude, but also as a temporary officer, having been chosen a district vice president of the Federated Women's Clubs.

The society twice voted federation down, and has quietly suppressed any ardent feeling that federation would ever mean an entrance into unpleasant conditions, either State or local.

REAR WHEELS WERE REMOVED

Unusual Services Over a Body. Special Dispatch to The Call. SAN RAFAEL, Jan. 30.—News of a double funeral, attended by unusual circumstances, reached here to-day from Sonoma.

Some days ago William Taylor, a mulatto in the employ of a heart disease, as the man was apparently friendless and penniless, an undertaker offered to inter Taylor's remains for the wages which were due him.

Twelve hours after Taylor's death, his remains were interred in an obscure corner of the potter's field in the Valley Cemetery. As the rain was pouring down and there seemed no likelihood of any interest being taken in the funeral, the undertaker hastily shoveled a few spadefuls of earth on the wretched coffin and drove away.
