Let the people of the United States unite in their various cities, towns and villages in a demonstration of the confidence they feel in the future of our country.

THE STRIKERS' MENTAL DEMONSTRATIONS AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—All the pent-up fury of the striking employees of the St. Louis Transit Company and their sympathizers seems to have been expended, for yesterday's violent demonstration and scenes of bloodshed were followed to-day by a more unusual but no less violent scene.

Chalupsky and his wife were standing at the corner of Twelfth and Emmet streets during the progress of a small demonstration near by, and Police-Inspector Himeles told them to move on.

Public interest in the strike veered to the 29th Police station, where the Police Board, called to devise heroic measures to bring order out of the strained condition of affairs.

The action of the board seems to have been precipitated by the four riots in the southern part of the city yesterday, during the progress of which eleven persons received wounds.

After the meeting, President Hayes of the board said that the city and law both required that all local agencies for the preservation of law and order should be put on a constant alert.

The Commissioners had, he said, asked the Sheriff to summon a posse of 100 men for this purpose and the Sheriff had promised to enlist them by Friday morning.

If the first call for 100 men did not prove effective in the next few days the Commissioners would, Mr. Hayes said, summon another posse of 100 men.

THE MAN AND HIS WORK

Few writers of our century have put more of themselves into their work than did Charles Dickens. Not only did he use his own observations and experiences, made up with the characters of his friends, introduce even his own parents in more or less ridiculous roles, but his own life was so full of incidents that he gave his work a reality and a truth which have made it an embodiment and expression of himself. He actually proposed at one time as the title of a periodical the name "Charles Dickens' Confessions," and this title might have been given to the body of his work. Certain characteristics of his work, grasped, explain, if they do not altogether excuse, the more striking deficiencies of his work.

TO BUILD MODERN COLUMBARIUM

The board of directors of the Odd Fellows' Cemetery have decided to add to the present equipment of the cemetery by the building of another columbarium. Superintendent George R. Fletcher of the cemetery has been commissioned to proceed East to secure plans. He will visit all the important crematories in the principal cities, and to ascertain the best plans on which the new columbarium will be built. The full capacity of the present columbarium is taxed to accommodate the burials of the rich in which the bodies of those cremated are preserved. The new columbarium will have a capacity of 10,000, with room to add to this when it may become necessary.
