SHARKEY'S EFFRES, SHARKEY AND THE MATCHED

Promising the Only Man to Accept the Sweeping Challenge and Agrees to Fight in May.

By F. E. MULHOLLAND.

"Monk" Coburn, the thirty-ninth, protégé of Professor Tommy Lotz, persists in plotting winners for the place, his name was not mentioned in the same breath with the galaxy of stars which includes the "only" Toddie, Lester Reiff, Spencer, Jenkins and Bullman. NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Jeffries and Sharkey were today in a fight for the heavyweight pugilistic championship under the Marquis of Queensberry rules. To guarantee their appearance in the ring the principals have each deposited $250,000 which will be held until May, the exact date not being named in the articles of agreement. There will be no side bet, although Jeffries wanted one of $10,000, the champion, through his manager, waiving that point on Sharkey's agreement to allow the money to go to the purse. Bids for the match will be received by "Al" Smith until January, and the men will meet before the club offering the largest purse. If the fight takes place in Nevada it will be to a finish. According to the terms reached Jeffries reserves the right to face both "Bob" Fitzsimmons and "Gus" Ruhlin in the ring before he dons the gloves against Sharkey. In fact, the champion says that he is prepared to go against either of them in rapid succession next spring, as he is confident of his ability to whip them all.

The match arranged to-day was the result of a sweeping challenge issued by Jeffries last Saturday. Nothing official was said over the Horton law. Fitzsimmons, Ruhlin was not represented by any one with authority to act for him. Sharkey was the only one to appear and his appearance was a surprise. He did the talking for himself without the aid of a manager. Asid, he had no objection to fighting for a side bet he said he was willing to concede anything in order to get a third chance to meet the champion and Brady, for Jeffries, immediately accepted the proposition. Brady was unable to understand why Fitzsimmons is backward now in whom he desires to meet Jeffries and pointed with a tinge of sarcasm to the offer of "Fitz" to face "Jeff" at the time the former was in fine condition, with only a few days remaining before the expiration of the Horton law. Brady is anxious for a meeting with "Fitz," as he believes the public thinks the Cornishman is the best opponent for Jeffries.

Great Stake at Modesto Is Yet an Open Proposition.

MODESTO, Nov. 14.—The sun was not so tyrannical on the plains to-day, the dust not so quite as scarce as they were yesterday, although all three attributes marked the second day's open coursing of the Interstate Coursing Association on the Modesto plains. In all thirty-three courses, the odds are now stands two remain in the second round, which leaves twenty-five to be decided to-morrow, the third and last day of the meeting. Judge John Grace, Slipper Charles Griswold, Siph Steward, R. L. Taylor and President Robert Malcolm are all of opinion that enough hares will be secured up to finish according to time schedule what will have been the largest and most successful plains meet ever held in this or any other county. According to the rare judgment of well accredited leasmen the stake is as yet an open one. Six dogs receive their favored opinions—Forget, Rest Assured, Ploughboy, Sleety Mist, Miss Penman and Lady Davenport. As but two rounds have been run the opportunity for stake speculation is large and there is more of this running rampant on the Modesto plains than there are hares. The majority of the courses were of short duration—on the average no longer than those in Union Park in San Francisco. This was due in many instances to the escape of the hare in the dense stubble; in others to the fine work of the dog. More of Modesto was present at the meeting to-day. About noon several teams conveying townspeople who were not in attendance at the opening joined the cavalcade and their occupants took a walk in the "Belle" train. The dogs are raised as follows: J. Carroll's Auckland vs. D. Toland's Pleasant Hill; H. Lynch's Lexington vs. P. Jackson's Pythian Castle. One hundred and twenty-eight nominations were made. Coursing will begin Saturday on the arrival of the 1925 train and on Sunday on the arrival of the 10:15 train. The dogs are raised as follows: J. Carroll's Auckland vs. D. Toland's Pleasant Hill; H. Lynch's Lexington vs. P. Jackson's Pythian Castle. One hundred and twenty-eight nominations were made. SENT A FIRE ALARM TO CALL OFF POLICE

Wong Gow's Effective Method of Bringing Prompt Assistance When in Trouble. Wong Gow, the Chinese proprietor of a city street restaurant, has discovered a novel means of calling the police. He has figured out that a fire alarm is about the quickest way of bringing officers to his assistance, and he tested the scheme last night. It served its purpose, but its use will not become universal if the heads of the two departments can prevent it.

ATTEMPT TO REVIVE HORSE WITH WHISKY

Two Young Men Falling in This Parake of the Liqueur and Reach Prison. Mrs. Malley's horse got two young men with good intentions into trouble yesterday. G. Herbert and John Green attempted to lead the horse to pasture, but the unfortunate animal fell from exhaustion. They tried to revive the creature with whisky. The young men laid in a supply of the fiery liquid and tried to make the horse swallow it, but the animal had temperance views of his own and declined, whereupon Herbert and Green resorted to their own drooping spirits. Short time they became hilarious, and the people in the neighborhood soon became aware of their presence.

Goebel burned up a barrel of money for his admirers today in the first race because the old horse wanted to stop and play. Emma R beat him out to a head in the wire. Algaretta and Money Miss have made many a bad maiden race.
