BULLETS STOP GOLD-SEARCHERS

Mysterious Shooting in the House Where Cudahy Was Confined.

Four Men, Said to Be Seeking Buried Coin, Enter at Daylight and One Is Shot Down.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

OMAHA, Neb., March 23.—Just before daylight this morning there was a mysterious shooting in the Schneiderwig cottage, Melrose Hill, in which Eddie Cudahy was held captive and which is now occupied by William D. Streeter, a railroad grading contractor.

Four strangers entered the front door and attempted to force their way through the house. Streeter shot and wounded one of them. The man's confederates sprang him away and the police cannot trace him.

ENGLISH COTTON MEN FEAR MORE TROUBLE

Reaction Follows a Period of Activity and an Adjustment of Wages Is Necessary.

LONDON, March 23.—The Speaker says to-day there are unmistakable signs of more trouble between the masters and the operatives in the cotton trade. A period of activity has been followed by a reaction, accelerated by the high prices of raw cotton and other materials.

LAFAYETTE'S RELATIVE VISITS THE PRESIDENT

Nation's Executive Receives W. W. Goodrich of California, French General's Grandnephew.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—W. W. Goodrich of California, who with his children are the only relatives of General Lafayette now living in the United States, was a caller at the White House to-day and was received by President McKinley.

Mr. Goodrich is a grandnephew of the French general, the namesake of William Wordsworth, the English poet. He was born in Hyde Park, N. Y., while his parents were living in this country.
