CLAIMS DOCTOR'S HEIR

Strange Romance Underlies Alleged Heir's Demand for a Fortune.

Late Dr. Theodore Keattle Was a Woman and Hugh Haviland Says He Is Her Disowned Son.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11.—The Courier-Journal to-morrow will say: Hugh J. Haviland of Greenville, Ky., claims to be one of the heirs of a fortune left by Dr. Theodore Keattle, who died at Punta Gorda, Fla., in 1896. Then it was discovered that the "doctor" was a woman and that for thirty years she had masqueraded as a man. The woman was a mother. Those who are supposed to know say that in 1853 a little boy was placed in the Protestant Episcopal Orphan Asylum at Louisville. "Dr. Keattle," then confessedly a woman, known as Kate Haviland, the boy's name was Hugh J. Haviland. He was later bound out to a farmer and finally rose to an independent position at Greenville.

Hugh H. Haviland of Greenville is regarded as that boy. That Kate Haviland was "Dr. Keattle," was, it is said, practically established by witnesses in New York and Brooklyn. But Hugh Haviland is heir to but half the fortune. A girl, who is expected to divide it with him, Grace M. Clark Elliott, Haviland's niece, was later bound out to Imbray Clark of Australia, who died worth $25,000,000.

Hugh Haviland's little sister, Kate Haviland, other child, according to Lewis Goldwath of New York, was put by the mother with foster parents. The girl grew up, married Imbray Clark and went West with him. In 1877 they went to San Francisco and there a child was born. Kate Haviland's girl, died. The baby was placed in the hands of Mrs. Martha A. Griswold, superintendent of the Home for the Friendless Children, who was called almost immediately for Australia.

Several years after Mrs. Griswold heard of Clark's death and advertised for some one to claim the estate for her. The Elliotts responded, and on August 21, 1878, were granted papers of adoption by a court in San Francisco. In 1879 Lewis Elliotts learned that Imbray Clark had left a fortune of $25,000,000, to which there was no heir, and began a fight for their fostered rights. The estate for the girl was in the English courts, and though hundreds of claimants have come forward, none have been able to prove their right to the satisfaction of the British authorities.

PLANS A FETE FOR MCKINLEY

San Bernardino Will Have a Flower Carnival and Street Fair.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 11.—The San Bernardino merchants will take advantage of the proposed visit of President McKinley to California next month by holding a street fair, the dates being set from the 24 to the 27th of May. This will be a combination something on the plan of a three-ringed circus. The old-fashioned horticultural and agricultural fair of the city will be held at the same time. The fair will be held on the streets, and that form of outdoor amusements which thrives only in southern countries and is called, for want of a better name, a carnival, will be all incorporated into one jubilee celebration.

The carnival features will be made manifest through its queue and court, floral parade, maskers night, coronation, carnival ball and other amusements. A free vaudeville show on the street will be the principal feature of the street fair section, and over and above all will be the reception of the United States army and his cabinet. A large committee of the prominent men and women of San Bernardino has been formed to assist in receiving and entertaining the president and his cabinet.

The women's department of the street fair has been organized as follows: Mrs. H. M. Barton, president; Mrs. R. F. Garner, vice president; Mrs. S. E. Draper, secretary.

The coronation committee—Mrs. H. M. Barton, Mrs. R. F. Garner, Mrs. J. B. Mullen, Mrs. L. H. Carter, Mrs. G. A. Taylor, Mrs. J. W. Queen's coronation—Mrs. V. H. Stiles, chairman; Mrs. J. B. Gill, Mrs. R. F. Garner, Mrs. A. L. Robinson, Mrs. G. J. Rowell, Mrs. J. Jones.

PLIGHTED THEIR TROTH UNDER SABBATH LAMP

Miss Adele Schwarzschild and Joseph Friedlander Quietly Married at Bride's Home.

YESTERDAY afternoon at the home of the bride's mother on Buchanan street, Miss Adele Schwarzschild and Joseph Friedlander were married, the Rev. Dr. Voorsanger officiating. It was an extremely quiet wedding owing to the recent death of the bride's father, Louis Schwarzschild, which occasioned the postponement of the ceremony.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white crepe de chine. A veil and orange blossoms completed the costume. Mr. Friedlander is the cashier of the Anglo-Californian Bank and the nephew of its president, Ignatz Steinhart. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Amalia Schwarzschild and had deservedly very popular in her set.

Mr. and Mrs. Friedlander will go East for their honeymoon, and on their return will take up their residence in this city.

WHEN FUNSTON WAS A FUGITIVE

General Fitzhugh Lee Tells Good Story on the Dashing Brigadier.

General Fitzhugh Lee was in a reminiscence mood yesterday and told a good story on General Funston.

"Yes, I remember Funston very well," said Lee. "One morning when I was commanding the 1st Cavalry, I was hunting for a man who had been identified with the insurgents for a year and a half and that he was sick and wounded. When he first came in I was suspicious of him as at that time I was getting three or four letters a day threatening my life as the feeling against the United States was growing more bitter daily. I became convinced in Funston's case, however, I admired his grit. I knew that if the Spaniards learned who he was they would arrest him and take him to Moro Castle, where he would be placed against a wall and a volley of musketry would end him. Funston with a Maudslowiak bullet through his lung, his leg broken by his horse being shot under him and his constitution shattered by fever had made his way to the coast."

"I bought him a ticket to New York and also fitted him out with some clothing. I offered to have some clothing made for him as the only ready-made suit he had was of light weight, but he did not dare to remain. When Funston arrived in New York on Monday, I saw a blizzard was howling through the street and he must have shivered as he limped down the gangplank. After his return to Kansas war talk was in the air. He was appointed the colonel of a regiment and you know the rest."

Twenty-six years ago yesterday I surrendered my cavalry command to the commander of the Union army at the close of the Civil War. If you had told me on that day that in thirty-five years time I should hold the rank of a brigadier general in the United States army I would not have believed it. We can never tell what the future has in store for us."

FINDS RING AND GOLD WHEN SEEKING FISH GRASS VALLEY, April 11.—Jerry S. Goodwin, a mine owner of You Bet Nevada County, is making a record as a lucky fisherman. A few days since he went out with his fishing-rod and in digging for bait in a creek where there was a gravel channel he dug up a large ring of solid gold. On the top it bears the mark of 'Egin, surrounded by three-leaved shamrocks, and inside the golden circle is the inscription: "M. M. H." The owner was probably M. M. Higgins, who lived at You Bet many years ago. He was a local jeweler to be at least $40.

On Tuesday night when again angling in a brook near the home of Goodwin, he covered a quartz ledge. Jerry just dropped the fishpole and scrambled down into the ravine where he extracted a water-washed piece of quartz covered with pure gold. The nugget is worth about $25.

MUST CHECK CHICAGO RIVER

Federal Authorities Order Current of the Waterway Reduced.

Action Brought About by the Protest of Local River Interests That Present Flow Is Dangerous to Navigation.

CHICAGO, April 11.—Federal authorities have ordered the flow of the Chicago river reduced from 300,000 to 200,000 cubic feet a minute. Word to this effect came from Washington to the Sanitary Board to-day. The board will act immediately upon receipt of the official communication, which states the channel will not be increased before the opening of the big canal, have complained that the 200,000 cubic feet provided by law was dangerous to navigation under present conditions.

This action on the part of the War Department was brought about by the protest of local river interests and the Lake Carriers' Association, which since the opening of the big canal, have complained that the 200,000 cubic feet provided by law was dangerous to navigation under present conditions.

Local authorities are apprehensive of the effect it may have upon the St. Louis litigation. With the full flow to dilute the sewage carried down the canal from the Chicago River the board had no fear of the charge that Chicago was polluting the water supply of St. Louis in view of the action of the War Department, the outcome of St. Louis' appeal to the courts is doubtful. If the Legislature passes the bill authorizing the commission to collect one-half of one per cent tax to be used for the improvement of the river it is believed the current can be increased gradually after September, as the work of widening and deepening the channel progresses. Otherwise it will be four or five years before relief can be obtained.
