CAUSE OF DEATH STILL UNKNOWN

No Message From Japan for Hugh Tevis' Family.

Little Daughter Not Told of Her Parent's Sudden Demise.

No word has come from Japan to tell how poor Hugh Tevis met his untimely end. Since the cable brought the brief news of death, no news has been received from the young and beautiful widow, who, all alone in Yokohama, must be attending to all the many necessary details that will permit of her bringing the remains home.

The Tevis family no longer expect any tidings from the widow. They feel that the relief of Hux. Tevis is prostrated in her grief and unable to cable any of the sad particulars.

Grief broods over the mansion on Taylor street where the members of the Tevis family have gathered. At first grave fears were entertained for Mrs. Lloyd Tevis, whose health for some time has been in a most precarious condition, but she is surprising her family and loving friends and bearing up nobly and bravely.

There were many callers at the Tevis home yesterday, but only the most intimate friends were admitted. Messages of condolence were received by the bereaved, and many comforting words were cabled to the young widow, whose honeymoon has been ended so tragically.

Gossip is busy with the financial affairs of the dead capitalist and the amount of the estate which will be divided between the heirs. It is said that the late marriage to Miss Cornelia Baxter Hugh Tevis made a will. It is surmised by his friends that he has bequeathed his fortune about equally to his widow and his daughter by his first wife.

The father of Hugh Tevis bequeathed all his property to his wife, but it is said that she in turn settled upon each of the children $200,000.

HONOR TO HERO OF BOER CAUSE

Irish Nationalists Make Preparations for Reception.

It may perhaps have been the irony of fate that made Major John McBride, who espoused the Boer cause at Johannesburg September 3, 1899, the captor of his fellow-countrymen, the Dublin Fusiliers, who fought under the English flag. Major McBride is to be treated as a hero when he arrives in this city to-morrow afternoon. Every Irish society in the city will assist in giving him a hearty welcome.

Irish Nationalists met at 1133 Mission street yesterday to arrange for Major McBride's reception. There was a lusty spirit of independence in the proceedings and many a cheer for the struggling Boers. It was decided to send a committee to Port Costa to meet the gallant major, and that there might be no hitch in the proceedings a committee consisting of Jeremiah Deasy, chairman; Colonel J. C. O'Connor, Captain Peter Dunne, James J. Cunniffe, William Hudson, Frank J. Kiersey and J. J. Mellott, was appointed to arrange the details. The Knights of the Red Branch will escort Major McBride to the Occidental Hotel, where he will remain during his stay.

A communication has been addressed to all Irish societies in the city by the reception committee. It states that June 22 was chosen as the date of Major McBride's lecture because it was three years ago, and the birth of Theodore Wolfe Tone. After dwelling upon the heroic and bloody struggle of the Irish people in times gone by, to throw off the oppressor's yoke, the circular says:

Why do we refer to those times, crimsoned with the best blood of our race? We do so to demonstrate once more, if necessary, the soldier spirit of the Celt is yet as virile and as fearless as it was three hundred years ago, and that it was this same noble spirit which fired the soul of the gallant exile, John McBride, to take the sword and the banner of the African veldt, with the splendid chivalry of his race, fling himself into the fight for liberty, and by his valorous achievements, before an admiring world prove once again that the children of the Gael are still a force to be counted in the world's economy.

This is why the Irish people should give testimony in their admiration to this splendid Irishman. And it is in order to afford our people such an opportunity that the Knights of the Red Branch invite Major McBride to San Francisco. Knowing that the Irish people value and are ever ready to honor those who possess qualities in all men, but particularly in those of their own race, it is with a deep sense of responsibility with us in our efforts to make the reception of this heroic and gallant soldier one worthy of the cause and of the man.

Father Yorkie will take part in the reception to Major McBride, which will also be the nature of a celebration of the Wolfe Tone anniversary.

WALL STREET BROKERS ARE THIS NIGHT

Clever Confidence Game Is Charged Against Geirshofer.

Disposes of Alleged Secret Tips From Pierpont Morgan.

New York Officer Will Come to California After the Marin County Prisoner.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Edgar Geirshofer, alias Howard E. Vernon, who was arrested in Escalante, Cal., yesterday by Sheriff Taylor of Marin County and Detective Archie Hamill of San Francisco, was for many years confidential clerk of the brokerage firm of Hallgarten & Co. of Exchange place and Broad street. He was arrested on the complaint of Robert Auerbach, a broker of 88 Wall street, who asserts that Geirshofer by false pretences obtained from $10,000 to $20,000 from several men who had placed trust in him and that he had then attempted to flee from the country. The arrest was made at the request of Captain Titus of the detective bureau. Mr. Auerbach made the complaint against Geirshofer early in April. He was indicted by the Grand Jury and a bench warrant from the clerk of the Court of General Sessions was issued on April 3, 1901. Secret was maintained that Geirshofer might not learn that legal steps had been taken to obtain his arrest.

Will Send a Marshal.

Captain Titus ordered Detective Sergeants Clark and Fay of the central office to locate Geirshofer. After a search of two months he leaped on Saturday that he was living in San Rafael, Cal., where he was known as Howard E. Vernon. Captain Titus immediately telegraphed to the San Francisco police to arrest the man and hold him for extradition. It was said to-night at police headquarters that a marshal would be sent to San Francisco to-morrow.

According to the story told by Mr. Auerbach before the Grand Jury, Geirshofer had defrauded several brokers and speculators. He said Geirshofer came to him about a year ago and told him that he had money to invest and would place confidence in a "confidential clerk" he would be assured a princely income. Geirshofer had told him, Mr. Auerbach said, that Hallgarten & Co. manipulated several pools each year and that he had been granted permission to utilize for his individual gain the information that necessarily came into his possession.

Geirshofer told me, said Mr. Auerbach, "that he had little money himself and had therefore come to me. This was his proposition: I or my friends should advance money and he would invest it in such a way that it would always be on the safe side of pools engineered by Hallgarten & Co. or J. P. Morgan & Co. He also averred that he had inside information in regard to the Morgan syndicate."

Trusting Friends Taken In.

"This story seemed plausible and several of my friends joined me in trusting Geirshofer. We had known him in a business way for many years and had no reason to suspect him of being dishonest. "We gave him money from time to time, and he told us that he had invested. When a dividend was declared by any of the corporations in which he had invested Geirshofer would pay each one of us his share of the profits, and in case any stock was sold we received the money that was our due. We never questioned Geirshofer closely. "By arrangement we were to meet on January 1 and settle all outstanding accounts. About Christmas Geirshofer wrote me that his wife was ill, and that he had obtained a vacation of a week in order to take her south. At the end of that time he did not return, and our suspicions were aroused. I went to the office of Hallgarten & Co., and asked one of the members of the firm whether permission had been granted for Geirshofer to make use of confidential information. It was told that no such permission had been given, and it was then that we placed the matter in the hands of the police."

Amount of the Steal.

Mr. Auerbach says that, in his opinion, between $10,000 and $20,000 had been placed in Geirshofer's hands for investment. He declined to mention the names of his friends who had been deceived, but he said in Geirshofer, and said that he did not know whether they intended to bring action against him.

As soon as Captain Seymour received the warrant for the arrest of Vernon, or Geirshofer, he sent Detective Hamill over to San Rafael to notify the Sheriff of Marin County and arrest the man, who was known to have a residence in San Rafael. For some time the police have known that Vernon and Geirshofer were the same man, but it was not known that Vernon was the head of any company in this city. He was found and arrested without trouble.

As soon as the arrest had been made Captain Seymour telegraphed East to a New York police, and yesterday he received a letter saying that some one would start West at once with the necessary papers to secure an extradition. It is understood that Vernon will make a hard fight against being taken back to New York.

Vernon was head of the Universal Automobile Company, a firm that has had but a recent history, and practically unknown. It has offices in the Parrott building.
