

NAME TO GO PARTY TICKET Delegates Survey Field to Find the Man for Mayor.

Still Hunt for Candidate to Lead Democratic Bolting Faction.

The Republicans are diligently searching for a suitable candidate for Mayor, and many names are under consideration. The Democrats are also endeavoring to pick out an available man of popularity and general fitness to head their ticket.

It is common talk in political circles that Hearst is ready to take charge of the labor party, or some independent movement headed by laboring men, to defeat the nominee for Mayor on the regular Democratic ticket. Hearst is also encountering obstacles in his search for an acceptable man to run for Mayor. The honor of leadership on his ticket was offered to James G. Maguire, but the latter after reflection declined to make the race. Had he accepted war to the knife would have been waged against him by a strong faction of the Independents. It is known that one element of strength on which the labor party relies was bitterly opposed to Maguire for Governor in 1898.

After the Maguire candidacy was disposed of attention was turned to John W. McDonald, president of the City Street Improvement Company. It is doubtful if he can be persuaded to enter the race. Yesterday he authorized the Call to say that he was not a candidate for Mayor and would not under any circumstance accept a nomination for Mayor or any other office. The merits of James H. Barry, editor of the Star, have been discussed. It was fancied that he would consent to head the independent ticket, but when the subject was introduced to him he positively declined to entertain the suggestion remaining for Mayor on any kind of a ticket. He remarked:

Barry Not a Candidate.
"I am not a candidate and would not accept a nomination on any ticket. I have all that I can do in attending to my work as editor of the Star."

It is common belief that Hearst will bolt the Democratic ticket if Hearst is renominated for Mayor. The Philadelphia convention, but they are appalled at the widespread unpopularity of Phelan. The Mayor himself, however, has lost caste in his own party and may decline to go on the ticket. He speaks of going abroad, remarking that he has adjourned his business affairs to enable him to make a long trip. Up Gavin McNab's name there may be a candidate to allure the Democracy. Phelan is regarded as the logical candidate of the Democratic party. He was winner in the district for delegates to the party convention.

Sizing Up Delegates.
The allied bosses of the Republican party who look to Martin Kelly for support and impetus in the coming election are the individuals in several bold sizers up. The survey does not convince them that they have a "chick" on the convention. Boss Kelly's following in the convention is positive and clear. He delegates himself, standing at the head of the twenty-eight district delegates. He proposes to address his fellow delegates as one commissioned to speak for the people. Immediately after the primary election Herrin, Lynch and several remnants of the Sacramento delegation are to be detached to detach some of the Kelly-Crimmins delegates, and also boasted of their ability to control three or four independent delegations. So far as can be ascertained, the delegates are now at the Hotel Crimmins and Kelly. Crimmins would prefer to see Herrin with Herrin and Lynch if he did not stand in mortal fear of Kelly. If Herrin agrees to any consideration, the extent in the convention, he will do so through an understanding with Kelly, because the big boss of the district has positive strength which can be thrown as he directs as between Kelly's court. Two anti-boss Republicans have Kelly as their choice. The Primary League force of delegates is now at the convention a great power for the good of the city.

Forty-First District.
The Forty-first Assembly District election will meet next Thursday evening at 1922 Broadway. The delegates will elect a chairman and perhaps agree on some general line of policy. There have been no recent additions to the list of prospective candidates for the Mayor's nomination. Judge Bahrs, Auditor Wells and Charles R. Patton are regarded as active candidates, and each is developing positive strength. Friends of H. H. Baker and C. S. Lauxmeister are not idle.

Ex-Assemblyman Arthur Fisk, the Examiner's candidate on the Republican ticket for District Attorney, is making an active canvass of the delegations. Several Republican members of the present Board of Supervisors, among them George Sanderson and Horace Wilson, would like the endorsement at the convention for another term in the board. Augustus Tilden, chairman of the Kelly-Crimmins County Committee; Edmund Taussky of the Fourth District; and T. P. Riordan of the Forty-second district are candidates for chairman of the convention.

Court of Appeals Decisions.
United States District Judge Weeks of Texas sat with Judges Morrow and De Haven on the bench of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday. Decisions were handed down as follows: W. Ferry, as trustee of the estate of Edward C. C. bankrupts—Order of District Court affirmed. C. K. King, as administrator of the estate of J. W. Smith, deceased, vs. Charles H. BARKEEPERS COMPELLED TO WORK MERELY FOR A REGULAR SALARY

Indignation Aroused Among the "Mixers" by an Order Which Forces Them to Abstain From Participating in Profits That Greedy Employers Have Dared to Consider All Their Own

THE bartenders of this city are indignant. They feel that they have just cause for complaint, as, in fact, they have. Overcome by that insatiable greed characteristic of employers, the saloon men of San Francisco have had the effrontery to declare that they have the same right to participate in the profits of their houses as the men who work for them, and have issued a fiat prohibiting the white-coated brigade from "fitting" with the cash registers to any appreciable extent.

This determination on the part of the men who deal in liquid delights and control politics is both unjust and unprecedented. The cash register has always been one of the most highly prized prerogatives of the gentlemen who scintillate in front of the polished mirrors, and to deprive them of the right that immemorial usage has made theirs is an injustice that they will not stand. It is against the free-born principle of the great American constitution, which gives to every man the inalienable right to think and act for himself. If the saloon-keepers insist in enforcing this determination of theirs the mixers will follow the example recently set by the head of a great corporation and resign.

Like Richelieu, the proprietors have drawn a magic circle around the sacred form of the silver box on the mantel behind the mahogany, and they now stand ready to grill any subordinate that shall dare to cross that line. They will go further, and place his name on a blacklist that will effectively prevent him from obtaining employment in any place where the thirst of the weary wayfarer is assuaged for the modest sum of 10 or 15 cents an assuage.

In order to make certain that no daring spirit ventures to disobey this cruel order a number of gentlemen of leisure and capacity have been hired to act as spotters and report the names of those who transgress. These spotters are supplied with money and their duty is to take in all the "joints" along the line, buy drinks and watch what becomes of the coin tendered in exchange for the refreshment and confidential bit of local gossip. It is invariably handed over with the cherry and the clove. Notwithstanding the strike, no difficulty has been found in filling these positions. On the contrary, the number of applicants that have presented themselves, when considered in comparison with the amount of liquor on hand, forms a problem, which if successfully solved will make "the leaves and fishes" look like a 10, 20 and 30 cent show.

What the outcome of the trouble will be no one can foresee. In the meantime, however, the gentleman whom we all delight to honor between the acts is worrying over the possibility of his having to get along on only three changes of jewelry and of his eventually being reduced to a state of penury which will allow him but little more latitude in expenditure than is suffered by the ordinary bank president.

Seeks Reinstatement.
Jean A. Dwyer has applied to the Superior Court for a writ of mandate to compel the Board of Education to reinstate her as a teacher in the Sherman Primary School. Miss Dwyer was suspended last month, she alleges, without cause. Judge Sewan will hear the case.

Makes Profit by Circulating Worthless Notes of Defunct Bank.
Edward W. Smith, stenographer in the office of Major Blakeney, superintendent of the United States Life Saving Service in this city, has been arrested by Chief Hazen of the United States Secret Service for circulating bank notes of the defunct State Bank of New Brunswick, N. J. Smith, in addition to his salary as an employee of the Government, owns a half interest in a curiosity shop at 433 Montgomery street, Leopold Greenberg being his partner. His connection with the worthless notes was exposed by Frank J. Perry, the first member of the gang arrested a few days ago for passing several of the notes of the value of $1 each.

The second suspect in the case of the gang, William Hagan, was caught last Saturday and placed in the tanks. After Smith had been arrested, Hagan expressed his readiness to become informer and turn up all the notes of the whereabouts of which he was being guaranteed immunity and furnishing certain information to the Secret Service chief, Hagan said he would give up the notes. "I thought you were in jail," remarked Smith in surprise when Hagan entered.

"Oh, they had to turn me loose. They couldn't make anything stick on those notes," replied Perry. He then asked Smith for four of the notes. Smith said he did not have any on hand just then but would have some in an hour. Smith was admitted to the police station to the warehouse of the Life Saving Service on Jackson street, where Perry paid Smith $500 for the notes. After the purchase had been completed, Moffitt walked in and arrested Smith, the noted collector being found in his pockets. The old curiosity shop on Montgomery street was next searched and New Brunswick bank bills of the face value of $500 were found concealed in the upper shelves. Perry informed the officers that this batch of bills was a new consignment just received by Smith from the head of the headquarters of the gang was situated.

White Wants the Children.
Secretary White of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children has applied for letters of guardianship upon the persons and estates of Nellie, Phoebe and Echo Allen, three children under the jurisdiction of Judge Coffey's court. Two of the children are now at the Bitter "baby farm," near San Rafael. The eldest child has applied for letters of guardianship over her sisters, and the contest promises to be interesting.

Change of Venue Denied.
When the case of Dora Schwartz, widow, 510 Eddy street, charged with cruelly beating little Annie Keller, was called in Judge Mogan's court yesterday afternoon for trial by a jury Attorney Black, for the defendant, filed an affidavit asking for a change of venue on the ground of bias and prejudice. A counter affidavit was filed by Assistant District Attorney Harris, and the Judge declined to make the change. A jury was impaneled and the case continued till this morning.
