AUCTION SALES. By William G. Layne-Friday, September 13, at 10 o'clock. Fair Auto Broom, Agricultural Park, Sacramento.

A WRONG TO AMERICANS. ANDREW FURUSETH, in a statement published yesterday, exulted in the fact that the majority of the Sailors' Union are indifferent to the prosperity of the port of San Francisco.

That plain statement ought to open the eyes of American workmen to the menace of the situation. Accepting Furuseth's statement as true, it will be seen that a union composed mainly of foreigners and almost wholly of unmarried men is now endeavoring to tie up the trade of the port, prevent the shipment of the products of our farms and enforce idleness and the danger of destitution upon the homes of Americans.

Such a statement, emanating from such a source, aggravates the wrong done to the public. It is in the nature of an insult added to injury. It is a mocking declaration that American workmen with families to support are to be forced out of employment by a union of irresponsible foreigners having no interest in the country whatever.

It is not easy to conceive a situation more intolerable than this which has been so exultantly depicted by Furuseth. The merchants of the city, the farmers of the State and workmen of nearly all classes are injured by the strike of men who openly boast that they are doing all the mischief without any hurt to themselves.

It is now announced that Cleveland is going to Colorado on a lion hunt, and it is just barely possible he is going to see whether by following Roosevelt's strenuous life he can get himself back into condition to make another race for the White House.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

THE volume of expressions in the country press of this State against the violence and apparent ethics and purpose of the strike, and in stern reprehension of the course of the Examiner in that and other matters, is so immense as to render general reproduction in our columns impossible.

The Humboldt Standard commends The Call for coming out "with courage and vigor in favor of law and order in San Francisco. It is to be commended. How contemptible the yellow Examiner appears beside the clear-cut and courageous utterances of The Call.

The Redding Free Press says: "There are people in the United States who, had they the courage of their unreasoning hatred, would be willing to attempt the life of President McKinley. They are the jaundiced people who have been diseased by the yellow press.

The Evening Blade of Santa Ana, a few hours before the attack on the President, said: "The Anarchists' Own," otherwise the San Francisco Examiner, continues its ill meant efforts to stir up all the strife it can between employers and employees."

The Visalia Delta says: "There are to-day in all parts of the country hotbeds of anarchy. These anarchists are encouraged by yellow journals like the New York Journal and San Francisco Examiner, and deeds of violence naturally follow. Unless the gates are closed to foreign riffraff and yellow journalism is suppressed there will be troublous times in the near future."

Marysville Appeal: "Yellow journalism, by foul cartoons and reckless lying and bitter attacks, did its share to bring about the awful tragedy of Friday, by which alone the Pan-American fair will be remembered."

Woodland Mail: "The attempted assassination of President McKinley is a most terrible and damnable outrage, and can be traced almost directly to yellow journalism."

Alameda Argus: "There have been many outrageous representations in connection with the San Francisco strike, but none that excelled in pusillanimity that regarding the discharge of the Strauss factory girls. The paper (the Examiner) that makes it a practice to misrepresent everybody and stick to it announced that half the Strauss force had been discharged on account of boycott of the firm's goods. It stated this with glee, but it was a clear-cut fabrication."

Sausalito Advocate: "Many idle men, strikers, encouraged by the Examiner, are standing around the streets waiting for the success of a lost cause."

Stockton Independent: "To trace the conspiracy that has led to this infamous assassination it will be necessary to examine experts on mental infirmities and deduce from their testimony the natural and unavoidable impressions and influences exerted by inflammatory cartoons and editorials. William McKinley assassinated is the direct victim of a liberty perverted and abused into lawless license."

Record-Union: "How far responsibility attaches to a sensational, vicious, distrust-creating and contempt-breeding current literature can be measured by every honest man who has read the vile assaults and seen the scurrilous cartooning and the malicious caricaturing of the administrators of national affairs."

Sacramento Bee: "We are sorry and ashamed to say that it is not necessary to go to other States to find apologists for and applauders of satanic assassination. On the fifth page of to-day's Bee will be found a statement that W. T. Eaton, walking delegate of the Building Trades Council of Sacramento, yesterday gloried in the shooting of President McKinley, and declared he should have been shot in San Francisco."

Tacoma Ledger: "The San Francisco Call is to be congratulated on its courage of expression in relation to the strike. No set of men has a right to terrorize a community. When honest laborers are torn from their tasks and beaten almost to death, the ruffians who are guilty of the act deserve no consideration. Whoever they may be, they are no longer representatives of labor. They deserve to be clubbed by the police and driven to their holes, and The Call does not hesitate to say so. Nevertheless, the Examiner stands by the thugs."

Phoenix Republican: "The competition among sensational newspapers has developed a good market for picturesque lies. The New York Journal and San Francisco Examiner were the first to recognize that many residents of the large cities are credulous geese, and that by catering to the appetite for the horrible and the wonderful a large circulation could be achieved."

Visalia Times: "We heard recently of two San Francisco strikers who were in this section looking for work. We would like to ask by what right the striker from San Francisco comes into the interior to seek employment, when he refuses the right of the man from the country to take the job he has voluntarily quit in the city? It is a mighty poor rule that won't work both ways. The strikers appeal to the country press and the workmen of the interior to stand by them in their troubles. Then they come and take the places of the country workmen, but when the countryman concludes to earn his living in San Francisco he runs the risk of having his head broken if he accepts the position left by the striker, who has crowded him out in the farming section of the State."

Sacramento Bee: "The course of the Examiner in the present labor trouble in San Francisco is a disgrace to California journalism. It has exerted all of its power, if not to egg the strikers on to deeds of riot and anarchy, at least to glory in their lawless acts."

Colusa Sun: "We were taken all aback when we found the San Francisco Examiner had cut us off its exchange list for printing an article on a public question it could not answer. We are boycotted, and as in duty bound we feel badly."

Ukiah Times: "A number of the union strikers from San Francisco are in this valley and have offered to pick hops for 80 cents per hundred. The price for picking is fixed by the Hop-Growers' Association is $1 per hundred, and no one has been asked to pick for less. If this cheap offer from those who profess to believe in keeping up wages does not smack of the worst kind of 'scabbing' we don't know what does."

To show that sentiment here is not exceptional, but is common with that all over the country we quote here the New York Saturday Press: "Yellow journalism has attained its savage ambition—the assassination of one who by virtue of his lofty office represents the very essence of all that yellow journalism and anarchy hate—authority, government and law. At the door of the New York Journal and its kind shall the people of the United States lay the atrocious crime against the President of the United States." The New York Sun, referring to the above, said: "This refers, no doubt, to the infamous handiwork of the editor who proclaims openly that it is his ambition 'to have the Supreme Court of the United States tarred and feathered in the streets of Washington!' Just how long merchants and the people of New York will tolerate this sort of thing remains to be seen."

The Sun and Press seem to agree with Mr. Gavin McNab, who, speaking of the assassination, said, "At last Hearst's papers have accomplished something."

Our space permits no further quotations to-day. In addition to what the press says, The Call is in receipt of hundreds of letters to the same purport, on the assassination and the strike. One expresses the meaning of all. Referring to our paragraph on Sunday under the caption "Lawlessness Must Cease," the writer says: "Nothing more true. Follow it up and you will have a thousand followers where our fathers had hundreds in the days of Vigilance men. As I pen these lines the ambulance passes my door, carrying another victim of the 'peaceful strikers,' with his body torn and beaten."

President Wheeler's allusion to "the Vigilance men" seems to have struck a popular chord throughout the State, and people everywhere see in the lawlessness of the strikers, encouraged by the Examiner, the same spirit which it encouraged to murder the President.

It is apparent that the State is ready to back up a movement to enforce order in this city, and secure the safety of the men who are at work.

Injustice of Gage. Cloverdale Reville. Governor Gage, for to him is directly due the removal of Dr. A. E. Osborne from the Glen Ellen home, has not only done an injustice to a competent official, but he has earned the respect of all for the most efficient manner in which the affairs of the home were conducted, but he has done a gross injustice to the people of Sonoma County. For fifteen years under the management of Dr. Osborne this institution has been the best conducted of all the public institutions of the State. No scandal or disgrace in any way came up to mar the good name of the home, but we find a fatherly interest manifest, an interest in the poor unfortunate inmates that was not bought for hire, but the outcome of an affectionate and kindly heart. Sonoma County resents the acts of Governor Gage and his political affairs as a blot on the good name of the home and to Sonoma County, in whose domain the home is situated.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

MARRIAGE LICENSE—F. B. S., City. It is legal but not customary for a woman to apply for a marriage license.

ARMY COMMISSIONS—A. S., City. Commissions in the British army are no longer sold. The purchase system was abolished by royal warrant from and after November 1, 1871.

MEDITERRANEAN SEA—S., City. Soundings under direction of the Austrian Government show that the greatest depth of the Mediterranean Sea is 2965 fathoms or nearly three miles.

PAINTERS—Subscriber, City. The ten greatest painters are named as follows: Michael Angelo, Raphael, Titian, Rubens, West, Reynolds, De Vinci, Veronese, Guido and Rembrandt.

SQUARE FINGERS—W. B. S., City. In the language of the hand, "square fingers" are indicative of great reasoning powers, order and regularity.

RESTAURANTS—F. D. C., City. There were in San Francisco on the 1st of July, 1901, 512 places classed as eating-houses, including restaurants and boarding-houses.

RUSSIAN WORKS—Reader, Bowman, Cal. The works of Maxime Gorky, the new Russian writer, have been translated into the English and have been published by Scribner.

WHEELER THE STRANGLER—S. O., City. George A. Wheeler, who was convicted of murder for having strangled Adella J. Thilson, his sister-in-law, was hanged January 29, 1884.

SLOBODA—T. D., City. This department is unable to ascertain the information asked for in relation to the editor of the Sloboda for the reason that the paper is not in existence at this time.

SCULPTORS—Subscriber, City. The following are named as the ten greatest sculptors: Phidias, Praxiteles, Michael Angelo, Cellini, Cervona, Flaxman, Thorwaldsen, Woolner, Thomas and Bartoldi.

LIQUOR SALOONS—F. D. C., City. On the 1st of July, 1901, there were in San Francisco 2030 places in which liquors were sold at retail. This includes liquor saloons and groceries with bar attached.

RING—Subscriber, City. If a girl is willing to marry, but is not engaged, she wears a ring on the index finger of the left hand; if engaged on the second finger of the same hand, and if she wants to join the army of old maids she wears the ring on the little finger of that hand. When married she wears a plain gold band on the third finger of the left hand.

LATIN QUOTATIONS—A. S., City. The words "Sava indigitas" are Latin and mean "cruel accusation." "Integer vitae scelerisque purus non eget mauri jocalis neque arcus" is a Latin phrase which means "The man whose life is unblemished and unstained by crime needs not the javelins nor bows of the Moors. Such a man may be wounded in body, but will remain unscathed in soul."

INK—M. B., City. Oxymuriatic acid removes ink from paper, and should the paper require bleaching the operation answers both ends at the same time. A solution of oxalic, citric and tartaric acids is attended with the least risk in taking ink from paper, but nothing that is used for removing ink from paper will leave the paper in exactly the same condition that it was in before the ink came in contact with it.

FLOW OF WATER—D. B. L., Oroville, Cal. The following question is not satisfactorily definite to admit of an answer: "How many gallons of water will one inch of water flow under the regulation pressure of six inches in a given time, say ten, fifteen or sixty minutes?" In calculating the flow of water there must be knowledge as to whether the water is flowing through an open or a closed flume or through a pipe, the pitch of the flume or pipe, whether it is a straight run or whether there are any bends or turns, whether the wood of the flume is in the interior smooth or rough and what the interior character of the pipe is. There must also be knowledge of the size of the flume or pipe.
