

SECOND SUIT AGAINST SAGE

Madame D'Ajuria Is Not a Stranger in New York Courts.

Varied Career of the Plaintiff, Who Left Many Creditors in Pasadena.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Isabella d'Ajuria, who has sued Russell Sage for $500,000, not new to the courts of this state. It is admitted by her counsel that the present is not the first action at law she has taken against the aged financier.

Isabella d'Ajuria was born in England about forty-five years ago. Her father's name was Salford and by that name she was known until she took the title of marchioness. Eugene F. Daly, a lawyer, with an office at 149 Broadway, was the attorney of 1887 brought suit against Sage on behalf of "Isabella Salford," who asserted that a large sum was due her as a result of speculations in which she had been engaged. She said that Sage had acted as her speculator, and had been a faithful philosopher, but failed her as a friend. Now the question arises, are there two Isabella Salfords? Have they both had suits against Russell Sage?

It is said by the "marchioness" that she was married to Marquis Gregorio d'Ajuria in 1884. This leaves the suit against Sage on behalf of "Isabella Salford" to be explained. Daly said to-day that he recalled having brought suit against Sage in 1887. He said that the case never came to trial, his client having disappeared without notifying him of her intention. Daly has a little child who identifies the portrait of the Marchioness Isabella d'Ajuria as that of his former client, Isabella Sage.

Sage would say nothing more about the suit than that he had been sued once before by the same Isabella Sage, and that the previous suit might have been brought in the name of "Isabella Salford."

Says Sage Is a Skinfliker. MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Mme. d'Ajuria would not be seen by reporters to-day. She is being looked after by a tradesman who called on her she said: "I am going to have my case against Russell Sage tried by my lawyer and not by the newspapers. Mr. Sage owes me that money and I am going to have it. He is the meanest old skinfliker that ever lived."

The report that Mme. d'Ajuria is soon to leave Mount Vernon was declared by her to be untrue. She is expected to remain there until spring and then go to Europe.

Woman's Career in Pasadena. PASADENA, Jan. 15.—Mme. Gertrude d'Ajuria opened a store in this city last year ago. She defrauded local merchants out of several thousand dollars. She came here from no one knew where and hired a leading hotelier, who was a fine looking woman, well appearing and well spoken. She had with her a little child who was afflicted with St. Vitus dance. After staying at the Green a short time she moved to the Hotel Green, 100 Robles avenue. The hotel people had heard of the madame's operations elsewhere, and being suspicious of her, they ordered her out. She claimed to be an Italian Countess and she opened a studio at the home of Mrs. F. J. Pierce, jeweler, and the Hotel Green was the headquarters of the madame among the most every prominent merchant in the city. She had more or less after working in the city whom she could the madame suddenly left town, packing in her trunk her movable values and leaving behind her a mess of chickens and a dog. Even her pet dog and chickens were left behind. These were attached to an attempt was made to locate the woman, but it was unavailing. She was once seen in New York afterward, but she never communicated with Pasadena. It was learned after her disappearance that she was not an artist as she claimed, but that she had ordered for miniatures which she secured.

With Lamé Backs With Weak Nerves With Rheumatism With Lost Vitality

with all those signs which tell a man he is breaking down, losing his grip, I have the remedy which gives back that snap, fire and vim of youth. My cures sell my Belt. They prove what I say about it.

Mr. A. C. Hammond, 39 Merchants' Exchange Building, San Francisco, says: "Your belt has made me the strongest man at the back and kidneys, and has given me more vigor and sound health than I have had for years."

A man is like a steam engine. It takes steam to make him go. My Belt pumps that steam into him.

That's how it makes so many old men feel young.

Mr. A. Crawford, Pokenama, Or., says: "I am 70 years old, but your belt has made me feel like 25."

Try it, you weak men; you will find youth and vigor in it after everything else fails.

Call and test it, free, or I will send you my illustrated book, free, if you will inclose this ad.

Hope to Hear Soon That Warship Reached Honolulu Under Sail.

Special Dispatch to The Call.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 15.—While there is much apprehension for the safety of the ship of war Condor of the British fleet in the North Pacific, which sailed from Esquimaux on December 2 and was scheduled to arrive at Honolulu on December 13, officers of the warships in port advance explanations of her delay by saying that, as is often the case, she is probably the ably sailing instead of steaming to the islands, and, as she has scant supply of canvas in comparison with a sailing vessel and is handicapped by her screw, she would make a slow passage. None of the officers believe the vessel to be lost, but there is considerable excitement. This is due to the fact that she sailed on the eve of the heavy southeast gale, in which the collier Matteawan foundered and the flagship Warpite, which passed out a few hours before her, had a trying time. One of her nine-pound guns being loosened and causing a commotion by rolling about the deck.

There is no news whatever of the Condor since she left the straits, after spending a few hours at gun point on the Royal roads on the afternoon of December 2. The last advices were received from Honolulu under date of January 15, and were that she was still there on that date. The mail due at San Francisco is eagerly awaited by officers of the fleet here.

If the ship of war is lost, her fate will involve the death of more than one hundred and forty men. She carries 900 tons of coal, and is the smallest of the vessels of the fleet. The Condor was the smallest of the vessels, other than the torpedo-boat destroyers, on this station. She was of 900 tons and was high fore and aft and low amidships, with well decks like a passenger steamer.

Fleet of H. M. S. Phaeton, senior officer on this station, said that, although the failure of the warship to put in at Esquimaux was causing uneasiness, he believed that she had only run short of coal.
