CLABS JAIL

Police Identify Him as a Recently Discharged Convict.

Ransacks More Than a Score of Dwellings in Broad Daylight.

The daring daylight burglar who has been operating in the Mission for the past three months is at last behind prison bars. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Ryan and O'Dea in a jewelry store at 1855 Mission street, while trying to dispose of a watch stolen from the residence of Hack Inspector Owen Gorman on Twelfth street. After being taken to City Prison he gave the name of Edward Edmondson, and claimed that he was a stranger in this city. When searched a lady's gold watch set with diamonds and a turquoise ring, which were afterwards identified as the property of Mrs. E. O'Donnell of 2906 Market street, were found in his possession. On being confronted with the evidence of his guilt, Edmondson confessed and admitted that he had entered the residence of Mrs. O'Donnell shortly before noon yesterday and stolen the jewelry which was found in his possession.

Accused of Many Crimes. Edmondson was released a short time ago after coming to this city to open a cobbler's shop on Mission street within a few doors of where he was arrested. While pretending to be a cobbler, he made an honest living the man of many aliases during his leisure time was breaking into houses and stores and stealing. The detective says is valued at over $3000.

January 17—Residence of Mrs. T. O'Donnell, 2605 Market street; lady's gold watch with diamonds, one turquoise ring and a purse containing $14.

Shows Fight When Arrested. Detectives Fitzgerald and Graham, suspecting that Edmondson was the much wanted burglar, concealed themselves yesterday morning opposite his shop and waited for him. While they were patiently waiting for him he was ransacking the residence of Mrs. O'Donnell at 2906 Market street. After leaving the house Edmondson went to the jewelry store, where he was arrested, and endeavored to show them a watch which he had stolen from the residence of Hack Inspector Gorman. Detective O'Dea was passing on a street car and recognizing the burglar from a question followed him into the store. When the detective placed a revolver to his head and threatened to shoot if he made another move he announced his willingness to surrender. He was then handcuffed and taken to the City Prison. An unusually fine skeleton key was found concealed in the leg of his trousers. Charley Gorman, the thirteen-year-old son of Hack Inspector Gorman, visited the prison last night and positively identified Edmondson as the man whom he had seen leaving the house after taking his sister's watch. The prisoner will be formally booked on at least ten charges of burglary to-day.

PEDDLERS CONVICTED OF STEALING BEANS

Several Commission Merchants Were Victimized by Thomas Cunnane and George Murphy. Thomas Cunnane and George Murphy, peddlers, have been victimizing several commission merchants in the wholesale district by stealing articles and driving away with them. Yesterday they appeared before Judge Mogan and were convicted on a charge of petty larceny. They were ordered into custody and will be sentenced this morning.

The complaining witness against them was Daniel O'Callaghan of O'Callaghan & Nelson, 16 Davis street. They drove to his store on the 12th and wanted to buy some onions. They were offered sacks of onions on credit. This was refused, and while O'Callaghan's back was turned, they threw five sacks of beans into the wagon and drove away. O'Callaghan and Policeman Mullender pursued and overtook them, when they offered to pay for the beans. Murphy was also convicted on another charge. He drove to the store of Place & Co., 1015 Market street, and had a customer on Bush street, and if he would give him the potatoes he would sell them and return the money. Other commission merchants were swindled in the same way, but as the defendants were convicted, they did not care to pursue complaints against them.

Johnston, an employe of the gas company which is making a fight to lay its mains in Pasadena regardless of the opposition of the authorities, appeared before the Supreme Court yesterday in an attempt to secure his release. He was arrested by the Pasadena police officials for making excavations in a public street without first obtaining a permit from the Superintendent of Streets. The case was submitted on briefs and a decision is not expected for several months. Johnston was released on his own recognizance.

Mellor was an Easy Victim. Mellor testified that he drew $1700 from the Canadian Bank of Commerce January 2 and that night met Lane by appointment. Together they went to the room in the Palace Hotel. The password for admission was "Two cents from Saratoga." When Lane asked Mellor for the password and Stuckney, alias Fagenbush, admitted them. Sutton was sitting behind the faro table and Carroll had $1500 more in his room. Mellor had $1500 more in his room. Mellor had $1500 more in his room. Mellor had $1500 more in his room.

Archibald C. Kains, assistant cashier of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, testified to Mellor having drawn $1700 from the bank January 2. He also said that he called at the bank and asked about Mellor's standing. Mrs. Wilhelmina Mellor, wife of the complaining witness, testified to having seen Lane three times at her home in Sutton once. The case for the prosecution was then closed.

No Evidence Against Carroll.

Attorney Barnes moved for a dismissal on the ground that the complaining witness had acknowledged that he had joined in a conspiracy to rob the faro bank, and also that the whole thing was illegal and no jury would return a verdict of guilty. Regarding Carroll and Stuckney, alias Fagenbush, there was absolutely no evidence against them. Judge Cabanis agreed that so far as Carroll and Stuckney, alias Fagenbush, were concerned the whole thing was illegal and no jury would return a verdict of guilty. GRAND JURY REFUSES TO BRING INDICTMENT

Dismisses Charge of Assault Brought Against Three Men by Mrs. Rosa Kilbourn. The Grand Jury held a session yesterday to continue to the investigation into the alleged failure of justice in Judge Mogan's court in the case of Frank Morrissey, Thomas Crouch and Martin Flynn, who were charged with assaulting Mrs. Rosa Kilbourn of Santa Rosa. The Grand Jury on Tuesday last heard the stories of Mrs. Kilbourn and the policemen who arrested the men. The accused men gave their testimony yesterday and denied that they had offered any violence to Mrs. Kilbourn. They swore that they had only assisted her when they discovered that she was in a hysterical state. A number of witnesses were in attendance to give testimony as to the reputation of Mrs. Kilbourn, but before they were called, work was given out that the Grand Jury decided that there was no evidence on which to base an indictment.

To-Day's News Letter.

This week's News Letter does much to carry out the general opinion that this paper is the West's great weekly of wit. There are two notable pieces of light verse in the Looker On and Town Crier on the subjects of "Anarchy isle" and "The Telephone Microbe" respectively. "Our Musical City" is a fanciful account of the Board of Supervisors' meeting under the coming regime, and there is a very laughable travesty on Ade, touching off a prominent event of the week. Lady Aigy has some exclusive gossip on the success of a San Francisco girl in Washington, and the Looker On is not far behind in interest. The dramatic criticism opens with a laughable bit of lampoon.

In the Divorce Court.

A suit for divorce was filed yesterday by Mary Symonds against Robert B. Symonds for neglect. Divorces were granted to J. Fenimore Welsh from Katherine Jane Welsh for desertion and Maud Hunt from Bertram Hunt for extreme cruelty.

CARTOON GAINING POPULARITY

Judge Cabanis Acquires Him of Complicity in Faro Swindle. Complainant Describes How Game Was Run at Palace Hotel.

The preliminary examination of "Patsy" Carroll, Martin J. Lane, E. B. Sutton and Charles J. Stuckney, alias Fagenbush, on a charge of tricking A. H. Mellor out of $1500 in a faro game in a room in the Palace Hotel was held before Judge Cabanis yesterday afternoon. Attorney W. S. Barnes appeared for the defendants and ex-Judge Ferral specially prosecuted. The complaining witness said his true name was Alfred H. Mellor and explained that he signed the complaint as "A. Miller" because he did not want his real name to appear in the newspapers. He said he was a speculator and money lender and came here from Victoria, B. C., about four months ago and was living with his wife at 1515 O'Farrell street. He told of his meeting with Lane in answer to an advertisement for a loan of $3000, to be repaid within ten days with $12,500. Lane broached to him the real object of the advertisement. Lane wanted to break the faro bank through his friend Sutton, the dealer, who he said owned and controlled a ranch in Yaquina, Miss., but was financially embarrassed. Mellor said that he called on Lane before he agreed to give 40 per cent of the winnings for the use of his money, the other 60 per cent to be divided between Lane and Sutton. He met Sutton in his room in the Grand Hotel, when it was agreed that Sutton was to give certain signals to guide Mellor in his play.

Uncle Sam's Officials are Loudly Demanding the Scalp of One Poor Little Mongoose.

Uncle Sam's officials are loudly demanding the scalp of one poor little mongoose. Customs Inspector Lynch was on the gangplank of an immigrant ship, Kilpatrick when Army Surgeon Hallwood passed out with a pet mongoose, which he had acquired and trained in the Philippines. The mongoose is a great snake and gopher destroyer, but likes poultry and pigeons better, and for the latter liking has been barred out of the United States. There is a double barrier against him because the importation of any wild or domesticated animal from the Philippines is also prohibited. Inspector Lynch allowed the animal to land, having forgotten the prohibition. Deputy Customs Surveyor Chauncey Milton St. John lives at the Occidental Hotel and heard that Hallwood, who had also put up at that hotel, had a prohibited animal there. He notified State Quarantine Officer Crow, and the mongoose was taken and placed in the storeroom of the appraiser's building Thursday night.

The customs officers visited the storeroom yesterday morning a scene of devastation was spread before them. The mongoose had entered into the storeroom box in which he had been confined. Detecting a familiar odor in a case of opium he had opened and, not liking its taste, scattered the contents of the floor. Then the "varmint" sampled the tea samples and brought tears into the eyes of Webster Tooley by scattering the choicest brands about the room as though tea were worth no more than sawdust. In vain did the customs officials attempt to seduce or coax the mongoose into captivity, and as a last resort Dr. Hallwood was called in. When the officials attempted to seduce or coax the mongoose into captivity, and as a last resort Dr. Hallwood was called in. CITY EMPLOYEES MUST STOP SHAVING DEMANDS

Board of Works Issues an Order Condemning Traffic With Money Brokers. The Board of Public Works issued an order to its employes yesterday informing them that it disapproves the practice of disposing of their demands upon the treasury to money brokers in advance of the date set for payment. The employes are also instructed that no information as to period of service or compensation will be given to any person not officially authorized to take under advisement.

Health Impelled by Malice to Make Charges.

C. Schilling, attorney for Charles Markman, filed a complaint with the board alleging that Superintendent of Streets Heath has persistently refused to accept repaving done by Markman on trenches used for pipe repairs. Schilling said that Heath had written to the corporation that Markman's work was faulty and on that account Markman was unable to obtain street sweeping done by contract. Heath was impelled by malice to make the charges. Heath was directed to file a written report on the matter.

The Point Lobos Improvement Club petitioned that the sidewalks be made of uniform width on Fulton street.

The board after an investigation finds that the charter makes it obligatory to have street sweeping done by contract. It has therefore abandoned the intention to have the municipality do the work by day labor.

Hansen Sent to Jail.

David Hansen, who was arrested for robbing a fellow seaman of $30 in an East street fishing case, was sentenced to four months in the County Jail yesterday by Judge Dunne. Hansen was arrested on a charge of grand larceny, and entered pleas of guilty to the charge. He was subsequently withdrawn and pleaded guilty to a charge of petty larceny.
