HAIR SOFT AS SILK.

New Scientific Treatment Kills Dandruff Germs, and Makes Hair Soft.

It is an accepted fact, a proven fact, that dandruff is a germ disease; and it is also a demonstrated fact that Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ. Without dandruff falling hair will stop and thin hair will thicken. Herpicide not only kills the dandruff germ, but it also makes hair as soft as silk. It is the most delightful hair dressing made. It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and keeps it clean and healthy. Itching and irritation are instantly relieved and permanently cured. At all drug stores. There's nothing "just as good." Take no substitute. Ask for "Herpicide."

The machine was one of the finest on the coast and was imported from France at a cost of several thousand dollars.

South African Doctor Is Given More Time to Gather Evidence.

Judge Hebbard Refuses to Grant Him Divorce on Showing Made.

Dr. Richard S. Anthony of South African fame failed to prove in Judge Hebbard's court yesterday that his wife, Christina J. Anthony, had deserted him and the divorce proceedings brought by him were put over until July 16 to enable his attorneys to produce other evidence, which they claim they are able to do.

The case is an interesting one, owing to the prominence of the doctor and the sensational charges made by several friends of Mrs. Anthony, who accuse the doctor of attempting to get rid of his wife by confining her in a sanitarium. Affidavits to this effect were made by D. J. S. Merritt, Mrs. Marie Michau and Dr. Frederick Lutz. These affidavits asserted that the efforts of Anthony to secure a divorce constituted a nefarious scheme and that his wife's confinement in a sanitarium was but part of the plot. Mrs. Anthony, they said, when they saw her at the local branch of the St. Helena Sanitarium, whither she had been taken by Anthony, was prostrated and very nervous as the result of her husband's treatment. She told them at that time, they said, that her husband had used force in bringing her there, and told them that instead of keeping her in confinement for six months.

SEES JUDGE HEBBARD.

The strange part of the entire affair is that Mrs. Anthony visited Judge Hebbard yesterday and informed him that she did not wish to contest Anthony's suit and appeared perfectly willing to allow Anthony to obtain a divorce by default. This action on the part of Mrs. Anthony led Judge Hebbard to believe that there was something queer about the proceedings. In consequence he refused to grant the decree on the testimony offered.

Dr. Anthony was the first witness examined. He denied the force in taking his wife to the sanitarium, and in explanation said: "I took my wife to the sanitarium because she was suffering from nervous prostration some time before the occasion mentioned by her friends. She escaped from there and came to the home of my sister, Mrs. J. T. Merritt, where I and our two children were residing, and I could do nothing else but take her back to the sanitarium, as she frightened the children. I used no force."

Continuing, Anthony told how his wife left him in South Africa, admitting that he partly paid her fare, and how he went to the steamer to see her off. She came to this city and took up her residence with his sister, remaining there all the time, except when she went to Washington to save his life, he having been arrested a charge of treason by the British and sentenced to be shot.

USED HER OWN MONEY.

He admitted that Mrs. Anthony spent her own money in her efforts to save him finally succeeding, and returned to this city.

Anthony also came to this city after his release and while there frequently visited his wife and children at Mrs. Merritt's home, where Mrs. Anthony had returned after securing the interference of the United States Government in her husband's behalf.

The suit for divorce was brought after he had taken his wife to the hospital. Mrs. Merritt's testimony was corroborative of that of her brother, in so much as it referred to the visits of the doctor to his wife's home, where Mrs. Anthony went to save her husband from the death of a spy. She said Mrs. Anthony received letters from her brother while he was in the land of the Boers.

"What effect had these letters on Mrs. Anthony?" she was asked.

"She was always after she got them," replied Mrs. Merritt.

"Do you know what they contained?"

"No, I do not. She very often read a few sentences from them to me, and on one occasion tore a letter up and threw it into the fire. She always got angry when reading her letters."

"Where are the Anthony children, Mrs. Merritt?" asked Attorney Savage.

"They are with my mother in Sonoma County."

HAD FREQUENT ROWS.

"Why are they there?"

"Well, it is the best place for them. My wife and I were always having trouble at my house and I sent them there."

Attorney Savage rested his case upon the coroner's inquest with Mrs. Merritt's testimony, saying to the court:

"I think we have provided prima facie evidence of desertion by the defendant. I don't think so," responded Judge Hebbard. "As near as I can make out this man is going to send his children, their destination being his sister's home in this city. He insists upon paying the passage. He is after me and rested on a charge of treason and is only saved from death through his wife's efforts and money."

CHARGES AGAINST POLICEMEN.

H. P. Goldstein, who is employed in the Tax Collector's office, preferred charges before the Police Commissioners yesterday of battery, intimidation and unofficerlike conduct against Policemen W. W. Wilson and G. F. Mulcahey. Clarence Lawless, a stepson of Goldstein, was arrested on the night of June 11 by Policemen Wilson and Mulcahey and booked at the City Prison on a charge of battery. The men were disposed of on June 21 by the Judge dismissing it on Lawless' promise that he would leave the city. Goldstein's stepson was arrested, and remonstrated with the officers, when he alleges, they committed the offenses charged.

MURASKY BREAKS DIVORCE RECORD.

Six divorces in sixty minutes is now the record at the City Hall. It is held by Judge Murasky who, between the hours of 11 and 12 yesterday severed the bonds uniting twelve unhappy husbands and wives, and made them free to try once again a voyage on the sometimes stormy matrimonial sea. The grounds on which the divorces were granted were desertion and neglect, the charge of desertion being made by the husbands, and three wives pleaded neglect.

Divorces on the first mentioned ground were granted to Christian F. Larsen from Nellie A. Larsen, Frederick R. Collins from Louise M. Collins and Charles H. Devoll from Beatrice J. Devoll.

The charge of neglect was the means of freeing Athena Constantine from Constantine, Ella Pepperdine from Silas M. Pepperdine and Juliette Roberts from Eugene Roberts.

Judge Hebbard granted Harry J. Hutt a divorce from Emma A. Hutt yesterday. Judge Sloss made an order directing W. P. Hopkins of the Hopkins Investment Company to pay to Ida W. Hopkins, who is suing him for divorce, $100 a month alimony pending the result of the suit. The order also provides for the payment by Hopkins of $100 counsel fees and $25 costs.

J. M. Wallace, who alleges that his wife was deserted by E. C. Wallace last June, filed a suit for divorce yesterday. They were married at San Jose in August, 1888.

This action on the part of Mrs. Anthony led Judge Hebbard to believe that there was something queer about the proceedings. In consequence he refused to grant the decree on the testimony offered.

Dr. Anthony was the first witness examined. He denied the force in taking his wife to the sanitarium, and in explanation said: "I took my wife to the sanitarium because she was suffering from nervous prostration some time before the occasion mentioned by her friends. She escaped from there and came to the home of my sister, Mrs. J. T. Merritt, where I and our two children were residing, and I could do nothing else but take her back to the sanitarium, as she frightened the children. I used no force."

Continuing, Anthony told how his wife left him in South Africa, admitting that he partly paid her fare, and how he went to the steamer to see her off. She came to this city and took up her residence with his sister, remaining there all the time, except when she went to Washington to save his life, he having been arrested a charge of treason by the British and sentenced to be shot.

USED HER OWN MONEY.

He admitted that Mrs. Anthony spent her own money in her efforts to save him finally succeeding, and returned to this city.

Anthony also came to this city after his release and while there frequently visited his wife and children at Mrs. Merritt's home, where Mrs. Anthony had returned after securing the interference of the United States Government in her husband's behalf.

The suit for divorce was brought after he had taken his wife to the hospital. Mrs. Merritt's testimony was corroborative of that of her brother, in so much as it referred to the visits of the doctor to his wife's home, where Mrs. Anthony went to save her husband from the death of a spy. She said Mrs. Anthony received letters from her brother while he was in the land of the Boers.

"What effect had these letters on Mrs. Anthony?" she was asked.

"She was always after she got them," replied Mrs. Merritt.

"Do you know what they contained?"

"No, I do not. She very often read a few sentences from them to me, and on one occasion tore a letter up and threw it into the fire. She always got angry when reading her letters."

"Where are the Anthony children, Mrs. Merritt?" asked Attorney Savage.

"They are with my mother in Sonoma County."

HAD FREQUENT ROWS.

"Why are they there?"

"Well, it is the best place for them. My wife and I were always having trouble at my house and I sent them there."

Attorney Savage rested his case upon the coroner's inquest with Mrs. Merritt's testimony, saying to the court:

"I think we have provided prima facie evidence of desertion by the defendant. I don't think so," responded Judge Hebbard. "As near as I can make out this man is going to send his children, their destination being his sister's home in this city. He insists upon paying the passage. He is after me and rested on a charge of treason and is only saved from death through his wife's efforts and money."

LOSERS ASKS THE OAKLAND POLICE TO SEARCH FOR MACHINE.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, His Broadway, June 26.

The man who stole a red hot stove would turn green with envy if he could hear the story of the burglar who purchased a $1200 automobile from C. A. Baldwin of Cupertino, Santa Clara County, last night.

The Oakland police were advised of the theft of the machine to-day, being requested by Baldwin to watch diligently for the fugitive "chug chug" and the burglarious chauffeur, who is supposed to be headed for this city.

According to the 'mobile owner's complaint, he was awakened during the night at his country residence by a suspicious noise in the automobile house, which was in his bedroom window, he was almost paralyzed by the sight of his valuable machine speeding down the highway. It disappeared northward. The owner pursued his investigations, and discovered that the thief had picked the lock on the barn door and was truly an up-to-date thief, for the 'mobile was gone sure enough.

Baldwin lost no time in getting into communication with the police about the matter, and he hopes to recover the machine, unless the thief shall get out of the State. The loser says the auto is a specially built mountain climber.

SAN JOSE, June 26.—A fine automobile belonging to Millionaire C. A. Baldwin of Cupertino was stolen last night and mailed to the coast. The carriage house had been broken into, the machine was used and then sent racing into a fence at full speed on the road between Baldwin's ranch and Santa Clara. The machine was one of the finest on the coast and was imported from France at a cost of several thousand dollars.
