COLORED BOXER SHOWS GREAT PUGNACITY

Is the Aggressor at Every Stage of the Fight.

Al Neill Passes Critical Points to Finish Strongly.

AL NEILL was given the decision over Young Peter Jackson by Referee Eddie Graney last night in Woodward's Pavilion after one of the most desperate fights ever seen in this city.

The fight was remarkable for the gameness displayed by the two men. Jackson forced him all over the ring, when there was an exchange of blows Neill was the quicker and usually landed first.

The fight was remarkable for the gameness displayed by the two men. Jackson forced him all over the ring, when there was an exchange of blows Neill was the quicker and usually landed first.

Neill's defense was gone, but Jackson did not press his advantage and allowed him to last the round out.

The end of the second round found Neill in a corner, being hit at will by his implacable sable-headed opponent.

The spectators Neill seemed afraid of Jackson, who gave him no rest.

Neill safely weathered several storms which broke about his head and threatened to wreck his prospects on a rock-bound coast.

Close Finishes Mark the Races on Stockton Track.

Katherine Ennis Wins After Judges Caution Her Rider.

STOCKTON, Sept. 25.—Stockton day attracted the banner crowd of the week to the fair. The features of the day's sport were the four running events, in which there were as many close and exciting finishes.

Bill Young, a local horse, came in for a heavy play in the five and a half-furlong selling event and made good after getting away in front.

THIRTEEN MEN FAIL TO CHECK ANGELS' MARCH

THE see-saw in the stampered for the flag remained true to the wise dog yesterday, so the Angels carried away the third game of the big series.

A whole lot of time and still more men were used up before the fans had a chance to make a wild dash for the supper table.

It took thirteen husky men from over the water to quench the Angels' desire for runs and base hits, and they had still more coming if the game only lasted a little longer.

The game, though long, was interesting in spots and sometimes was on the verge of becoming exciting.

AMATEUR TARS TO PLAY HOSTS AT SAUSALITO

Will Meet Corinthian and California Clubmen.

Music and Feasting To-Day and a Cruise To-Morrow.

MANY yachts of the Corinthian and California clubs will cruise to Sausalito this afternoon and evening, when their crews will take part in the reception to be given by the San Francisco Yacht Club.

The committee having the reception and entertainment in charge consists of Commodore R. S. Bridgman, Vice Commodore A. C. Lee, Secretary W. M. Edgell, Dr. T. L. Hill, W. G. Morrow, Eugene W. Levy, Emil A. Delf and R. W. Mason.

The members of the committee have used great efforts to make the entertainment successful and have prepared an excellent programme. "Dr." Hill will act as master of ceremonies and will keep things moving in his well known energetic style.

Many novel and interesting features will be introduced into the show and refreshments will be provided.

The committee promises a continuous performance in the channel and out to the Heads. Though the winds have already become light in the upper bay, a strong, steady breeze is still found out in the channel.

The tide serves well for an outside cruise, as it runs out all morning and begins to flood at 2:31 in the afternoon.

Though the calendar month of the yachting season still remains, only one more event is set down in the schedule of the San Francisco Yacht Club. This is the regatta on October 12, open to any boat on the bay, for yachts of 25 feet length or less, over a course off the clubhouse at Sausalito.

The Corinthians will cruise to Paradise Cove on Saturday evening, October 4, and will enjoy clam chowder and other good things on the shore. Next day there will be a race for small boats.

On Saturday, October 18, the Tiburon sailors will cruise up to Corinthian Cove, where on the following day the annual Corinthian games will be held on the shore.

The California Yacht Club will cruise to Paradise Cove on Saturday, October 12. The protest of Carl Westerfield, one of the owners of the sloop Aeolus, against Commodore A. E. Chapman of the Vallejo Yacht Club for violation of the rules of navigation in the annual interclub regatta on Admission day, will be considered by the regatta committee at a meeting to be held on Monday evening next.

Carl Westerfield charges Commodore Chapman with four violations of rules, to each of which charges Commodore Chapman replies "not guilty."

The skipper of the Vallejo yacht Helen further states that the sloop Aeolus ran into the starboard quarter of Helen, jamming her helm down and putting her again on the port tack, besides injuring four of the crew.

As Commodore Chapman and the members of his crew are employed in the shipyard at Benicia, it is doubtful whether any of them will come to San Francisco to testify before the regatta committee. Carl Westerfield and all his crew are residents of San Francisco and will be on hand. It is said that the sloop Helen might be disqualified on the ground that she had eight men on board during the race, although entitled, according to the rules, to only seven, her racing length being 28.51 feet.

The schooner White Wings has been bought by Charles H. Morrell, who formerly owned the sloop Queen and sailed her in one of the races for the Perpetual Challenge cup, and J. M. Patrick, formerly owner of the sloop. The schooner will still fly the burgee of the San Francisco Yacht Club.

Last Sunday the flagship Thetis, the schooner Chispa, the yawl Wave and the sloop Rover and Cy were in the channel, as was also W. G. Morrow's Challenger. The sloop Queen cruised to Paradise Cove and was towed back to her moorings by the launch Rob Roy, the launch Imp powered by the launch service for Challenger.

The Macdonough cups, the Law cup, the flags and certificates won in the Admission day regatta of the Pacific Interclub Yacht Association will be presented to the owners on Tuesday next at the Merchants' Exchange at 5 p. m.

W. M. Edgell, secretary of the San Francisco Yacht Club, has received from Thomas W. Lawson, builder of the yacht Independence, a copy of a magnificent volume, containing a history of the races for the America's cup, with handsome engravings and colored cuts. The volume is decorated with the burgee of the San Francisco Yacht Club in colors, and is a costly product of the printer's and engraver's arts.
