

RURAL GUARDS PATROL STREETS

Violence Is Renewed at Havana and Cars Are Fired On.

Two Passengers and a Motor-man Shot, the Latter Being Fatally Injured.

HAVANA, Nov. 26.—With the exception of the cigar makers all classes of laborers returned to work this morning and business generally has resumed its normal condition. The cigar makers still have a few minor points under discussion. The authorities had begun to think that there was no fear of further disturbance, but there still remains a feeling of animosity in the hearts of some of the more demonstrative strikers against the government and conductors, who are blamed for breaking up the general strike by their refusal to go out. Threats were made during the afternoon in outlying wards to do these men injury, and these menaces culminated at dark this evening in an assault upon several cars. Shots were fired from housetops in Belascoain street and a motorman and two passengers were shot, the motorman being fatally injured.

All the rural guards, with the exception of those in the Columbia district, were summoned to Havana. The streets through which cars are running are patrolled by the guards and two companies of artillery are stationed in the central and southern districts. The mayor, says the police, though it is not thought there will be any further disorder. The Mayor's edict preventing the gathering of groups in the streets is still in force. The discussion, the organ of the administration, says the Mayor and Diego Tamayo, the acting secretary to the civil government, are responsible for the bloodshed, and that the Mayor's action in dismissing Chief of Police Cardenas was a serious mistake and encouraged the strikers to disregard the authority of the police.

The discussion further states that Secretary of State Zaldo is mentioned for Senor Tamayo's post, Secretary of Finance Montes to be Secretary of State and Senator Silva Secretary of Finance. The position of Secretary of the Government, which Senor Tamayo held, is considered to be the most influential politically, as the holder of the post has jurisdiction over the rural guards, the police and the postoffice.

Senor Gualberto Gomez, colored, is also mentioned as the probable successor of Senor Tamayo. Gualberto Gomez, with General Maximo Gomez, took a prominent part in the settlement of the strike. His speech to the strikers, made Monday night, is said to have prevented further rioting.

The resignation of Senor Tamayo threatens political complications in both the House of Representatives and the Senate. It is stated the National party, which he is president, will call upon its members to resign their positions in the Government if President Palma accepts Senor Tamayo's resignation. The National party controls the house by its retention of the majority. The resignation of the house will vigorously oppose President Palma if Senor Tamayo is discredited.

La Lucha says the responsibility for the recent riots was on the Government, which did not take steps to suppress the trouble until it had been going on for three days, and then only when the Government feared the strikers would knock down the palace.

President Palma and Secretary of State Zaldo dined with Minister Squiers today, and were escorted on their way to the legation by eight Rural Guards.

The committee acting for the cigar manufacturers and the strikers held a conference this evening, but no agreement was reached.

GRAPE-NUTS.
A CLEVER SCHOLAR.
Knew the Food to Study On.
When a young lady going away to school carries food away with her in place of a box of candy there must be some reason.
A woman in Milton Mills, N. H., says: "Having a large family, I had much care and worry, and was never very strong and healthy, but managed to keep fairly well until the last few years. Each summer lately found me worn out and weak at its close, so that I had to spend a week or two in bed. My stomach always fails me when I am overtired, the food refusing to assimilate, until finally my stomach becomes so weak that the mere standing on my feet causes me to retch so violently that I have often vomited blood."
"I had seen Grape-Nuts food advertised and fancied it was like other cereals, many of which I had tried and discarded. When my usual attack came on last August I was in despair, for nothing would stay on my stomach, except a little hot milk."
"I decided to try Grape-Nuts and sent for a package. I ate a little and lay back after eating without experiencing any of the sickly feelings that usually followed any movement in bed, and fell into a refreshing sleep. I continued using the food and day by day gained strength and strength, until now I am entirely well and strong and my stomach does not bother me any more."
"Grape-Nuts is what I have often wished for—something that I can eat for breakfast and feel that I am satisfied. After eating a dish of Grape-Nuts with little cream I can work all the morning and forget I have a stomach."
"The children like it so well that it is hard to keep them in bounds as to the quantity that should be eaten. My eldest girl actually carried off a package when she returned to school at — with such an elation as if it had been a box of the choicest bonbons." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

ALF POHNEY WHEATLEY IS ACCUSED OF STEALING FUNDS OF ESTATE

Miss Ethel Jerome Swears to Complaint Charging the Former Administrator With the Embezzlement of Thirty Eight Hundred Dollars

OAKLAND YOUNG WOMAN AND ATTORNEY SHE CHARGES WITH HAVING EMBEZZLED FUNDS.

OAKLAND, Nov. 26.—Frederick E. Whitney, the well-known attorney and former administrator and Court Commissioner, was made subject to arrest this afternoon on a warrant that was sworn to by Miss Ethel Jerome, the daughter of his deceased friend, Edwin B. Jerome, for many years Chief Clerk at the Custom-house in San Francisco, who charges him with the embezzlement of $3800, which represents the principal asset of the small patrimony left her by her dead father. When Edwin B. Jerome died he entrusted Whitney with the care of his child's estate, and it is out of the alleged betrayal of this trust that the accusation of to-day grew.

The complaint upon which the warrant was based was sworn to in Justice of the Peace Quinn's court this afternoon by Miss Jerome, acting on the advice of District Attorney Allen, after she had laid the case before him. Bail was fixed at $3000. Constable Edward Widdler, in whose hands the warrant was placed, did not attempt to arrest Whitney until late to-night, giving the accused ample time to secure bondsmen.

Edwin B. Jerome was a very popular man, and during his thirty years' labor he made many friends. One of these friends was Whitney, and their friendship finally grew into an uncommonly strong fraternal bond. The two men belonged to the same club, went to each other's home, and were almost inseparable. Therefore, when Jerome died in January last no surprise was occasioned when it was learned that he had appointed his friend to look after his small estate in behalf of his daughter.

The estate consisted of a $4000 life insurance policy and the old family residence on Chestnut street, which was valued at $4000—all it is worth—a meager pittance after thirty years of labor. The daughter, Miss Ethel Jerome, was named executor of the will and the principal legate, with instructions to share with her eight-year-old brother the proceeds of the life insurance policy. With the $4000 from the life insurance company Miss Jerome planned to purchase a flat, half of which she proposed to occupy with her brother and the other half to rent. The old home she proposed to abandon to the mortgagee as not worth the trouble of carrying. But all these castles were soon shattered by the cruel reports that her father's friend, Whitney, had deceived her and left her penniless.

FAILS TO MAKE SETTLEMENT.
In making the final settlement of the estate in July last it devolved upon Whitney, as attorney to collect the $4000 insurance, to do so and, it is now claimed, instead of turning over the money to Miss Jerome, presented to her what purported to be a certificate of deposit for the amount in a local bank. Miss Jerome, it is said, accepted the paper in good faith and subsequently tried to pay the amount on the flat that she had planned to buy by tendering the document to a real estate agent. The paper, it is now alleged, turned out to be merely a promissory note signed by Whitney for the full amount of the insurance collected.

Whitney is charged with the embezzlement of $3800 because he was allowed $200 for his services as attorney in the administration of the estate.

Says Lynch Flourished Revolver.
Frank Lynch, editor of the Herald, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Policeman J. C. Edwards on a charge of exhibiting a deadly weapon in a rude and threatening manner. The complaining witness is W. K. Trulock, an employee of Walter N. Brunt, 537 Clay street. Brunt had a mortgage on Lynch's furniture at 717 Bush street, and, under instructions from the Sheriff, Trulock went there to remove the furniture. Lynch and Trulock quarreled and Lynch alleges that Lynch pulled a revolver and flourished it in his face.

FINDS ARSENIC IN THE CANDY

Report Upon Enos' Fair Made by City Chemist Rowe.

Physician Regains Health and Declares He Has No Charges to Lodge.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 1118 Broadway, Nov. 26.
Chemical analysis of the candy which caused the poisoning of Dr. Manley M. Enos and the slight illness of his attendant, Miss Margaret Conroy, discloses the fact that arsenic acid, scientific name for arsenic, was placed in the chocolate creams which Rowe has had under examination. In one piece of candy Rowe reported this morning to Chief of Police Hodgkins, he found seven grains of the poison and in each of two other pieces approximately the same amount.

That report settles all doubt that the candy had been tampered with, but it does nothing more, so far as the apparent mystery of the presence of the sweets in Dr. Enos' laboratory is concerned. The physician has fully recovered from his illness, which has been attributed to his partaking of the poisoned confection, and he was about his offices in the Abrahamson Block to-day as chipper as a lark. The doctor showed no trace of the severe illness through which he had passed, according to the reports which came from the sick room. In fact when he decided to admit outsiders into his presence there was much surprise manifested by many of his callers at his manifest rapid recuperation.

Dr. Enos has no charges to make against any one and this afternoon declared that he was firmly of the opinion that the drugged candy had not been intended for him. He protested that the arrest of his former apothecary's assistant, T. L. Christianson, was a grievous mistake. Enos and the young man had a talk to-day and reunited their bonds of friendship. Dr. Enos was indignant that the names of any of his longtime friends or acquaintances should have been coupled with the mystery. Enos said:

"I don't know who put that candy in the drug room where it was found, and I don't know why it was put there. There was not a breath of suspicion directed against young Christianson by me, nor do I suspect any woman, let alone those of my friends who have been so considerate to me during my illness. The candy was found in the kitchen in a manner possible, and it stands to reason that if any one wanted to poison me the stuff would not have been hidden in the out-of-the-way place where Miss Cooper and myself accidentally came upon it."

The police wrapped about the box was covered with dust, and the box had lain on the shelf undoubtedly for a long time, several weeks at least. It was during my rummaging about for a gas burner globe that I came across the box. It was behind a drawer on a shelf and as I took it out I saw Miss Cooper what it contained. Then I broke a piece of candied pineapple, handed half to her and ate the rest myself. Three hours later I was taken violently ill, and was very sick until noon yesterday. I did not think about the candy again until Sunday, when I was told that he had been poisoned. I decided my trouble was ptomaine poisoning.

I have no charges to make, and so far as I am concerned the case is closed. Detective Denny Holland, who investigated the matter Monday and dropped the case, said to-day: "It all blew up in about two hours, and that's all there is to it."

PRINCE HEARS TONG KOM'S TALE OF HIS SEARCH FOR KNOWLEDGE

At Feet of His Future Sovereign Youth Who Ran Away From Petchabouree Tells His Ambition and Is Given Hope of Berth if He Studies Hard

YOUNG SIAMESE WHO HAS BEEN PROMISED AID BY CROWN PRINCE.

BERKELEY, Nov. 26.—On Sunday morning last there was ushered into the presence of His Highness Maha Vajiravudh, Crown Prince of Siam, in San Francisco a wizened, toil-bent youth of the Crown Prince's country, who threw himself at the feet of his future sovereign and poured forth a tale with a flavor of the "Arabian Nights." The little man's name is Tong Kom, and he told the young Prince the story of his search after knowledge, which had made him a wanderer. At the end the quiet looking young man, who will some day be ruler, raised his subject and told him that he was much interested in the narrative. The youth didn't carry away a check big enough to make him happy ever afterward, but from what the Prince told him he felt sure that if he acquired knowledge he would get some sort of a Government berth when the Prince became King and dealt out the patronage himself.

Almost two years ago Tong Kom, then only 18 years of age, asked his father to send him to England to gain an education. The parent, then Mayor of Petchabouree, an inland city of Siam, not far from Bangkok, refused to comply with his son's request and the determined boy decided to start out unaided in the quest for knowledge.

He slipped away from his native place and went to the capital city, where he took passage as an able seaman on a Norwegian bark bound for Liverpool. After a long voyage, the youth landed at the English seaport with $10.

On his first day's shore leave the would-be scholar, knowing not a word of English, fell in with a gang of thieves in the purlieus of the city, was beaten, robbed of every farthing and carried to the outskirts of the city. Not knowing how to ask for aid the outcast gained admittance with a truck gardener and thus lived for some time.

Again growing restless Tong took passage as a common sailor on a British ship bound for San Francisco. Nearly six months were spent under a hard taskmaster who refused to give the young Siamese a cent of pay when the vessel finally touched at Port Costa a month ago. One of the sailors had, however, given Tong the name of the University of California written on a slip of paper.

With this as his only guide the little man accidentally stumbled upon Professor Cornelius Bradley of 2639 Durant avenue, a former resident of Siam and a fluent speaker of the language. The professor took Tong into his home and allows him to remain there as kitchen boy.

The youthful Oriental is now under the guiding care of Mrs. S. B. Cheek who for many years resided in Siam. Her family has taken a warm interest in the young wanderer and assured him that he will not suffer so long as he desires to continue his work as a student. The boy stoutly declares he will be beholden to no one or to nothing except his own efforts to gain an education. He desires to be an English rapidly in order to put himself in a position to better support himself while going through college.

LEAP TO SAFETY FROM A WINDOW

Members of Family of J. G. Pettitt Have a Thrilling Escape.

Fire and Smoke Cut Off Retreat Through the Street Door.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 1118 Broadway, Nov. 26.

Cut off from all escape through ordinary exits the family of J. G. Pettitt, consisting of seven members, was forced to find safety through a second-story window while a fire raged in the Pettitt home at 887 Wood street early this morning. Three members of the family leaped to the ground in their bare feet and night robes, while the others were passed to safety by the adult members, who provided thrilling entertainment for 100 spectators.

The family was awakened about 4 o'clock this morning by the alarm of fire that was sounded by Miss Flora Pettitt. There was no time to dress and the family tried to escape by the doors, but the whole lower floor was filled with suffocating smoke, making escape by some other means necessary.

Hastily forming resolutions the father and son, Bert Pettitt, assisted Mrs. A. N. Brewis, the eldest daughter, out of the window to the ground, holding her until the fall was reduced to a few feet. The brother then climbed upon a porch and received the other prisoners from the hands of his sister, Miss Flora Pettitt, after which he passed them to the sister below him. In this way Mrs. Brewis' two babies and Miss Irene Pettitt and finally Miss Irene were saved from the fire. The two remaining rescuers then saved themselves by dropping to the ground by means of a rope that was hung from a window.

The fire got fairly started before the department arrived and the house will be an almost total loss.
