REV. J. HANDLY DELIVERS FIRST ADVENT SERMON Dwells on Abuse of External Worship and the Tremendous Need of God. The Advent course of sermons was commenced yesterday at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. Father John Marks Handy, who has only recently arrived from the Eastern mission. Father Handy said in the course of his remarks that the prevailing prejudice against formal worship was due to the fact that with so many it was a mere matter of form, without substance or intention. External worship, he said, had fallen into disrepute because it had been abused. If men were turned away from prayer by that abuse, how much more, he asked, must God turn from those who pray to him with their lips while their hearts were far from him? Father Handy said if a man could only awake to his tremendous need of God it would be impossible for him to pray listlessly.

AMUSEMENTS. A notable event in the local theatrical world will be the first production to-night at the Central Theatre of "Maid of Marston," the latest De Koven and Smith opera. Last week's charming performance has served to revive "Robin Hood" in all its pristine freshness, and this evening will doubtless bring out large crowds of its admirers, anxious to know how the quaint romance ends. "Maid of Marston" is its sequel. For the purposes of opera the marriage of Robin Hood and Maid Marian, about to take place at the close of "Robin Hood," is suddenly interrupted. The merry outlaw is forced to his sovereign to the Crusades, where he presides over the scene of the new opera is laid. Naturally, on his departure the machinations of Guy of Gisborne and the Sheriff of Nottingham begin. It is represented to the Lady Marian that Robin has not gone to the Crusades to fight, but to flirt with the Saracen society girls. She almost believes it, but with a number of Robin's friends "goes East" to disprove it if possible. Naturally, it is not true, and the story ends merrily. "Maid of Marston" is said to follow after the "Robin Hood" setting, and the book to be a logical sequel of the first opera's romantic story. The mounting, with the scenes at the East of Huntington Park, the desert before Acre and the banquet hall of Huntington Castle, are said to be very beautiful. Grace Van Studdiford, who has won so warm a place in the local heart, this week will be the Maid Marian, and Mr. Barnabee, George B. Frothingham, W. H. MacDonald and the rest of this excellent company will doubtless get all there is out of the opera.

THE GREAT BAND IS GREETED BY VAST AUDIENCE.

The California and Orpheum Please With New Bills

There were possibly not so many people in the Mechanics' Pavilion last night as for the prizefight on Wednesday, but even so one of the largest audiences of the season greeted the first concert of the Ellery Royal Italian Band in the big building. An audience commensurate with the size of the attraction should be every seat in the house, for Sousa's not excepted, it is one of the very best military bands ever heard here. Neither was it heard quite at its best last night, the large shell erected for acoustic purposes not altogether fulfilling its function, a very perceptible echo occasionally marring the effects. This, however, will no doubt soon be remedied. It remains, however, that the Royal Italian Band is a stunning and splendid thing in the battle way. The new leader, is all that has been claimed for him. He simply picks up his men at the end of his baton as a magnet draws a needle, has the absolute control. His work is a marvel of precision, a feast of tone and a wonderful combination of delicacy and strength, reserve and abandon. His attack is brilliantly clean, and the light and shade quick, sensitive and various to a degree that the notes obtained are magnificent, almost overpowering at times, and there is a pianissimo equally satisfying. One of the best numbers on the programme was the "Mignone"ture, very well arranged and splendidly played. Signor Demitris made a brilliant debut in a trumpet solo arrangement of the Rossini "Inflammata." The "Lucia" sextet, with Demitris, Mario, Curli, Greco and Di Fulvio as soloists, aroused the customary ecstasies, but the chief enthusiasm of the evening was reserved for the "Carmen" transcription, that closed the programme. Every number was enjoyed.

To-night's programme is as follows: March, "North Coast Limited" (Rivela); overture, "Tannhauser" (Wagner); trombone solo, "Cujus Animum" (Rossini); Signor Maria, "L'Alcazar" (Des Grasse); waltz, "Bella Signora Palma" (Alfredo (trombone), Signor Maria; Germond (bombaridon), Signor Curli; march, "Boulangier" (Des Grasse); waltz, "Bella Signora" (Waldteufel); "La Paloma" (Fradler); "Rigoletto," act 4 (Verdi)--prelude, tenor aria, "Signor Plantamura," Di Natale, Maria, Curli and act.

The Orpheum bill this week comprises a clever lot of talent, but Harrigan, the tramp juggler, seems to outshine them all and is voted the stellar attraction of the week. He well deserves any praise the public or the critics may give him for his feat, last evening, which made him extreme, but decidedly novel. Besides this he has a weird sort of makeup and says such a lot of funny, ridiculous things that he becomes a favorite right away. John T. Thorne and Grace Carlton have an amusing sketch which made quite a hit last night. Barrows, Lancaster and company have a laughable act entitled "A Jolly Jolliter." It is full of amusing incidents and clever sayings. Harrigan, the tramp juggler, is a new attraction and she was loudly encoored, rendering a favorite selection. The holdovers include the Heras family, Gus Williams, Collins and Madell and Captain Webb's educated seals and sea lions.

The perennial "Belle of New York" has lost none of its power with the amusement loving public. The usual crowded house greeted its presentation at the California Theatre last evening, and the audience was full of family jokes and encores. The melodies as heartily as ever. Though not the original cast, it was a good one, while the production was quite up to its old standard both as regards scenery and costumes. The cast was headed by Miss New York's Chinatown and the Casino at Narragansett Pier were notably full of life and pleasing color. The dainty and ingenious Salvation Army lassie was portrayed by Miss Fiove Reddy, who acceptably acted these years. Many of them are now standard-bearers in the church and others will doubtless become such. The officers of the church, the trustees, deacons and the treasurer, to the various societies of the church and to all the brethren and sisters who have labored with me so faithfully, I return my sincere thanks. With the hope and the prayer that this church may be blessed with still greater prosperity in the future and may very soon have a new house of worship, I now return to you the charge which you committed to me, and formally resign my office as the pastor of this church. This resignation will take effect with the close of the year 1902.

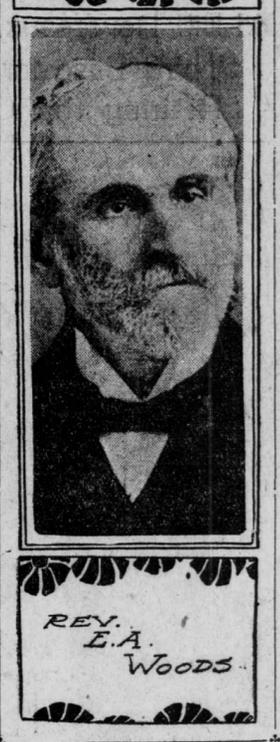

"During the Rev. Dr. Woods' pastorate he has wielded no little influence in bringing to the church of the Pacific Federation, many of our ardent workers. He has made it his special work, too, to encourage young men to attend worship, with results that have been most gratifying. Dr. Woods was president of a Baptist State convention, president of the board of directors of the Pacific Hospital, of which he was one of the founders, and president of the Chi Alpha Theological Club of this city. He acted as a member from San Francisco of the Civic Federation, and was one of the prime movers in securing the exemption of church property from taxation in California. Dr. Woods had two brothers in the Baptist ministry, the Rev. B. A. Woods, D. D., of Philadelphia and the Rev. H. C. Woods, D. D., who was at one time superintendent of missions on the Pacific Coast.

George Laek is responsible for the staging, and it goes without saying that it will be of the best. "The Sporting Duchess," that opened the new Republic Theater so auspiciously, is going well in its new home. Last night the snags and mishaps of the opening performance were largely removed, things going with considerable more smoothness. The players of the company are becoming more accustomed to their neighbor's methods, and there is excellent material in the organization. Harrington Reynolds, this week with the part of Major Mostyn, appears with all his usual distinction. The new leading lady, Helen MacGregor, shows large talent and an attractive personality, and Blanche Douglas is also a very pleasing member of the company. Edmund Brees also makes a very favorable impression, and George de Long shows valuable qualities. The play is hardly the most fortunate choice for an opening piece, its requirements being of rather heavy order for the resources of a new organization. Next week "Alabama" will be put on.

The war of the rebellion will be again pictured this week at the Grand Opera-house in "Winchester," a romance of the time of '63, with Virginia as its locale. It is the ever fresh theme of the love of a Southern girl for a Northern soldier, and is picturesquely told, with much amusing and exciting incident. The play will have almost the whole strength of the clever company at its need, and is to be excellently staged. Next week will begin an important engagement in that of Nance O'Neil in the

POPULAR MINISTER RESIGNS POSITION TO RETURN EAST

Rev. E. A. Woods Announces Retirement to Congregation of First Baptist Church

MINISTER WHO HAS RESIGNED HIS PASTORATE TO ACCEPT ANOTHER.

Rev. E. A. Woods Announces Retirement to Congregation of First Baptist Church

FROM the pulpit of the First Baptist Church yesterday the Rev. E. A. Woods, D. D., announced finally his intention of resigning the pastorate of the church, wherein he has ministered to his flock for the last five years. Dr. Woods leaves his charge with the good will of the congregation and not without many deep regrets on his own part, but the pastor has been desirous some time of returning East with his family to continue there his public ministry.

The morning service Dr. Woods read the following formal letter of resignation, which will come before the whole of the congregation on Wednesday night for acceptance: Dear Brethren and Sisters of the First Baptist Church: In September I announced to the church that it was my purpose to close my pastorate at the end of the year. Five years ago the first Lord's day of December I preached my first sermon in San Francisco, and since that time, with the exception of that time, the loss of our house of worship by fire more than three years ago and other hindrances have made our work here less than it would otherwise have been. I am glad to have spent five of the best years of my life in the charge which you committed to me on the Pacific Coast. I can only wish that I had brought to this work more of ability, of consecration and of self-sacrifice. I rejoice because of what has been accomplished and especially because so large a number of young men have come into the church during these years. Many of them are now standard-bearers in the church and others will doubtless become such. The officers of the church, the trustees, deacons and the treasurer, to the various societies of the church and to all the brethren and sisters who have labored with me so faithfully, I return my sincere thanks. With the hope and the prayer that this church may be blessed with still greater prosperity in the future and may very soon have a new house of worship, I now return to you the charge which you committed to me, and formally resign my office as the pastor of this church. ADVOCATES NEED OF NEW CONSUL

Henry B. Miller Says One Should Be Sent to Dalney.

Official at Newchwang Discusses Commercial Possibilities.

Henry B. Miller, United States Consul at Newchwang, China, will leave for his post of duty to-day on a transport. Mr. Miller has been at the Occidental ever since his arrival last Tuesday and has been pleasantly entertained during his stay. When seen last night Mr. Miller directed particular attention to the need of a Consul to represent the United States at Dalney, the new Russian city which has been established some forty-five miles from Port Arthur. He says that this section and suggests that the commercial bodies of this coast unite in asking the Washington officials to supply the delinquency. "The necessity of a Consul at Dalney," said Mr. Miller, "will become apparent when it is known that the commercial possibilities of the district surrounding the new Russian city are known. There is now an immense market for our goods there and it behooves us to have a Consul at that port to direct commercial affairs in that country. "I would advise that the commercial houses of this city send their drummers or agents to Dalney and the adjacent cities with a view to disposing of their merchandise. They will certainly find a demand for all classes of merchandise, which is now being supplied by Germany, France and Great Britain. This port is the logical distributing center for the Orient and merchants should be quick to take advantage of that point."

The Tivoli comic opera company returns this week with "The Toy Maker," the popular success of last season for bill, for the week only. The old favorites of the Morrison Church and the Arthur Cunningham and Edward Webb, return with many laurels from their country tour and will doubtless be warmly welcomed this evening. The grand opera company will give three performances at the Macdonough Theater in Oakland and will, with "Carmen" this evening, "La Traviata" on Tuesday and "Rigoletto" on Wednesday nights.

Great interest attaches to the concert of Miss Lillie Lawlor, mezzo-soprano, which will take place at Native Sons' Hall Monday evening, December 8, at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Lawlor is a San Franciscan who has been studying in Brussels, Paris and London for five years, and her voice is said to have greatly improved since her departure from this city. She will be assisted by the Minetti string quartet and Fred Maurer, pianist. The date of seats will begin at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s next Friday morning.

Francis Bryant Murphy, the eminent entertainer; Evelyn Ormsby, the petite soprano; Harris and Walters, presenting "The Black-haired Widow"; the three brothers Malvern, acrobats; Camille Person, the "Palma girl"; Frank Dancourt, illustrated song singer, and the amiable scope, with new moving pictures, are providing excellent entertainment at the Chutes this week. The baby tigers in the zoo are growing, and the babies in the life-saving incubators are rapidly "putting on the weight." The attendance at the popular resort was immense yesterday.

"Hazel Kirke" with a splendid cast which includes George Webster as Dunstun Kirke, Evelyn Lawlor as Evelyn Lawlor, and Landers Stevens as Lord Travers will be the programme this week at the Central. Monday evening next Jimmy Britt, the champion lightweight of the world, will appear in the "Bowery After Dark."

To-morrow afternoon at Fischer's Theater the University of California Glee Club will give the first concert they have given here in three years. The programme will be so unusually attractive one and will include numbers by the Glee Club, Mandolin, Banjo and Monologue clubs, and a string quartet. Seats are ready on sale at the box office.

The season sale of seats for the three song recitals to be given at Steinyway Hall by the famous German tenor, Andreas Dippel, on the evenings of December 9 and 11 and the afternoon of December 13 will begin at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store Wednesday morning. The single seat sale will open at the same place Saturday morning.
