

COLORED PEOPLE APPEAL TO OF BOOBY

Ticket Incident Continues to Be a Source of Rankling.

Explanations Do Not Meet the Situation, Say the Oaklanders.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 1118 Broadway, Jan. 6. Mrs. George Ingraham, president, and the members of the Twentieth Century Club, the select colored intellectual organization of this city, are not seriously impressed with the explanations made by Mrs. Frederic Burk, one of the managers of the lecture to be delivered by the noted negro educator, Booker T. Washington, in San Francisco Thursday, that she did not draw the color line or discriminate against the Twentieth Century Club in distributing tickets for the address.

In speaking of the agitation that has deeply stirred white and black educational circles in two cities, Mrs. Ingraham said to-night: "Mrs. Burk's explanations do not explain, nor her apologies apologize for the resulting subjugation and the members of the Twentieth Century Club justify cause our ticket happens to be a shade darker than hers. I regret that this affair ever occurred and realize it places Mrs. Burk in an embarrassing light, but I, too, was placed in an embarrassing and humiliating position when told that because the organization of which I am president was composed of colored people, it would be allowed but twenty-five tickets instead of 225 that we asked for and which Mrs. Burk wrote me that she had sent to her father's home in East Oakland, where I could obtain them. "When I called for the tickets Mrs. Burk had ascertained that all the members of our club were colored and had left instructions that the Twentieth Century Club without exception should be in favor of returning the twenty-five tickets to Mrs. Burk. To-morrow night the matter will come before the club for official action."

George Ingraham, husband of the club's president, who has championed the cause of her race to be recognized at the Booker T. Washington lecture, supports his wife in the stand she has taken. He said: "I regard Mrs. Burk's explanation as a mere device to have been displayed by those in whose charge of the lecture to be given by Mr. Washington. They have not drawn the color line with respect to the lecturer. On the contrary, they evince a tendency to monopolize him. They are not content to say the least. Who has a greater right to hear Mr. Washington than people of his own blood and color? Suppose that a prominent German or Irish educator were to lecture at the City of San Francisco and that the managers were to draw the German or Irish line and bar out or limit the attendance of people of these nationalities at the lecture, would there not be a tidal wave of indignation rolling up? And wouldn't it be justified in rolling up? That is exactly the position in which the colored people are with respect to Mr. Washington's lecture."

PEACE NOW IN SIGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Secretary Hay has received the British and German answers to President Castro's last proposition relative to arbitration. The British note is introductory, but in substantial states that if Venezuela wishes a conference with a view to submitting the differences between the two countries to arbitration Great Britain will accede. The conditions attached vary slightly from the original proposition, but in the judgment of officials here the differences between the allies and Venezuela in regard to arbitration are much diminished, and there is warrant for the expectation that the case will be speedily brought to a close. The next step will be a reply from President Castro.

CASTRO SAYS IS SAVAGE

Pen-Picture of the Dictator by His Arch-Enemy.

Revolutionary Leader Accuses President of Barbarism.

Declares Him Guilty of Inhuman Cruelties That Have Caused Uprising of the Entire Nation.

By GENERAL MATOS, Leader of Venezuelan Revolutionary Forces.

Special Cable to The Call and New York Herald Copyright, 1903, by The New York Herald Publishing Company.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Jan. 6.—The present misfortunes of Venezuela caused by the presence at the head of the Government of a man destitute of morals, of administrative ability—a real savage.

Venezuela has suffered great commotions in the last ten years, but even in those difficult periods the duties of the administration to the country have maintained respect for society and for the rights of citizens and consideration for foreigners.

Castro was a man entirely unknown, who rose by chance to the highest magistracy. He has never learned anything, because he has not taken any of the necessary studies. He has always been the same. His arbitrary actions in the interior have been the cause of the uprising of the whole nation. There is no cruelty which has not been practiced by him upon all who have been considered enemies to his authority. He has placed in unhealthy prisons soldiers, merchants, farmers, young and old men, and has carried his cruelty even to putting them into irons of torture.

In this way for more than two years the unhappy laborer and the poor fisherman, who have given water to the revolutionists, have seen their houses burned and their boats destroyed. Defenseless cities have been subjected to pillage and bombarded without clemency for the crime of having been occupied by a revolutionary army.

What is happening to-day in Venezuela is without precedent because an uprising of such magnitude could have been caused only by a soldier of fortune as cruel and as ignorant as General Cipriano Castro.

I am not mistaken, we will see that the powerful American nation, instead of refusing to serve as arbitrator for reason of the moral personality of the Government at Caracas, will not only accept the burden, but will consider it as its duty to the American people and to humanity.

Once the revolution is triumphant, civilization will return to Venezuela and we shall see our country free, prosperous and happy. Thus I answer your cablegram.

CASTRO SCORES AGAIN

CARACAS, Jan. 6.—A high official of the Venezuelan Government said to-day: "I am greatly surprised at the press cablegrams saying that arbitrators have been named to the last of the several propositions contained in President Castro's answer to the powers in the matter of referring the Venezuelan difficulty to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal. This proposition was intended simply as a compliment to President Roosevelt as Chief Executive of the greatest of American republics."

President Castro is elated to-day over the capture by his troops of all the ammunition destined for the Matos revolutionists, which, it is alleged in certain quarters here, the allied powers permitted to reach the Venezuelan coast at Coro. It has been learned here that the allies have declared that the blockade of Coro will begin to-morrow, January 7.

As a result of the Government's victory over the revolutionists at Guatire last Sunday General Fernandez, one of the revolutionary leaders, has offered to treat with President Castro. The offer is subject to the condition that the German marines landed on January 3 at Puerto Cabello and occupied the wharves for two hours and a half is proved by photographs which were taken of the marines while they were on shore.

Acting United States Consul Volkper, who has acted as intermediary between German naval officers and the Venezuelan authorities at Puerto Cabello, has informed the German cruiser Gazelle, he has informed him as follows: "The artillery which was in the fort called La Viga, commanding the harbor of Puerto Cabello, has been removed. It will be replaced immediately in said fort."

The authorities of this port do not know how to interpret the action of the German commander in forbidding the removal of the artillery in question; they consider this removal of the artillery as proof that they have no intention of firing on the bay or the allies. The population of Puerto Cabello expects repressive measures to follow the removal of the guns.

Chinese Highbinder Who Left San Quentin to Cook at Governor's Ranch Is Also Given His Freedom.

Governor Gage yesterday granted pardons to a score or more of convicts, some of whom had been sentenced by the courts to spend the remainder of their days in the State penitentiary. Among those who received executive clemency was Richard Phelan, former superintendent of the Gold Ridge Mine, who was serving a twenty-five year sentence for the murder of Daniel O'Connor, near Sierra City, in October, 1887.

Phelan claimed at his trial that he acted in self-defense, but the jurors who tried him did not so view his act and rendered a verdict of conviction. Phelan has had influential friends at work ever since his conviction, and it was reported several months ago that he was about to be pardoned. Gage, for some reason, deferred the granting of freedom to Phelan until late yesterday afternoon.

Augustine Castro, who enjoyed the somewhat undesirable record of being the oldest convict in San Quentin Prison, was also pardoned. Castro was paroled several months ago, and since then has been leading a quiet life. After his parole he visited San Francisco greatly astonished by the many improvements made in the penitentiary walls.

Mah Noon, the Chinese highbinder whose salads and dainty dishes suited the epicurean taste of the Governor and secured a parole and a position as cook on the Gage ranch, was also pardoned. Mah who is regarded by the local police as a desperate highbinder, was serving a sentence for assault to murder when granted a parole.

John McNulty, the murderer for whom the gallows were erected in the County Jail three different times, and on whom the death watch was placed six times, and whose sentence was subsequently commuted from death to life imprisonment, was also pardoned last night by Governor Gage. The pardon of McNulty recalls one of the most celebrated murder trials in the history of the city. On March 5, 1888, McNulty killed a man named John Collins. He was tried and sentenced to hang in a patrol wagon by Officers J. T. McCormick and James Boland. Despite the efforts of Dr. Leonard the unfortunate man died in about twenty minutes after he was placed on the gallows.

After he had pored the poison into the liquor Hunter deliberately corked the empty bottle and replaced it in his pocket. The label on the bottle showed that it had been purchased at the Washington pharmacy, 326 Fourth street.

"For many years Hunter was in the employ of the Morton Drying and Warehouse Company. He was about 65 years of age and as far as is known had no relatives. He was well known among the teamsters of the city."
