Baer is charged by the other prisoners with having escaped with most of the booty. He is said to have made a trip to Europe on the proceeds of the theft.

DR. PIERCE'S REMEDIES.

It's Impure Blood.

"What is it?" asks the mother as she notices the smooth skin of her child marred by a red or pimply eruption. It is impure blood, and the child needs at once to begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the best and surest remedy for impurity of the blood. It entirely eradicates the poisons which corrupt the blood and cause disease. It cures scrofula, boils, pimples, eczema, salt-rheum and other eruptive diseases which are the direct result of impure blood. It enriches as well as purifies the blood.

Dr. Pierce's medicine has not only benefited greatly, but it has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartick, of Denner, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. I have lost two daughters in less than five years with consumption and scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had a hemorrhage since a year ago. My younger son had scrofula scars on his neck, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine. Accept no substitute for 'Golden Medical Discovery.' There is nothing 'just as good' for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

LIKENS BRITAIN TO A BALLOON

Balfour Discusses Economic Conditions of His Country.

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain Honored by Constitutional Club.

LONDON, June 26.—The Constitutional Club today entertained Colonial Secretary Chamberlain at luncheon and presented him with an address inclosed in a basket in recognition of his services to the nation. Premier Balfour made the presentation speech. Referring to Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal proposals, he said it would be absolute folly for the conservative party to make opinions on economic questions a test of party loyalty. The present economic position of the country demanded the most careful consideration. The country was now in the position of an aeronaut who kept his balloon in the air by throwing out sandbags. That was a very proper course so long as he possessed a sufficiency of sandbags, but when these were exhausted it was time to reconsider the position. It must not be supposed that because self-government had been given to the colonies they could be regarded as separate political entities. On the contrary, they were integral portions of the British empire. The question at issue was not new, but Mr. Chamberlain, more than any man, dead or living, had given life to the expression of the idea of imperial unity.

Mr. Chamberlain received a remarkable ovation when he rose to reply. His hosts sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and then cheered Mrs. Chamberlain, who was among the spectators. The Secretary answered his remarks with repudiating the suggestions of personal competition between himself and Mr. Balfour, remarking that he could not conceive any occurrence that could shake the political and personal friendship existing between them. He desired on the eve of a great controversy to publicly state that he believed the leadership of Mr. Balfour was essential to the success of the Unionist party. If the Unionist alliance was dissolved he would endeavor to retain for their own country the vast possibilities for production and opportunity for employment the lack of which was now driving British subjects to foreign lands. Great Britain wanted something to bargain with. During a long business and political career he had never been able to make a satisfactory deal until he had something to give as well as to receive. The time was surely drawing near when a decision must be reached on this question, but he was now speaking for himself alone and he did not ask any one to commit himself to the acceptance of his views.

On the inquiry about to occur, he contended all questions should be argued on their merits. A policy of retaliation could be better described as a policy of negotiation. The Ministers would endeavor to break down the existing wall of hostile tariffs and if they failed in these negotiations they would endeavor to retain for their own country the vast possibilities for production and opportunity for employment the lack of which was now driving British subjects to foreign lands.

Great Britain wanted something to bargain with. During a long business and political career he had never been able to make a satisfactory deal until he had something to give as well as to receive. # BRITAIN'S RULER SALUTES COLORS AT CELEBRATION OF HIS BIRTHDAY

King Edward Attends the Trooping on the Horse Guards Parade and Appears in the Saddle for the First Time Since His Recent Illness Which Caused Much Alarm Throughout the Empire

LONDON, June 26.—King Edward's birthday was officially celebrated today in London at the home naval and military stations. All the public buildings were decorated with flags, salutes were fired, the warships at all the ports dressed ship and the troops were reviewed.

The main feature was the trooping of the colors on the Horse Guards parade here, which the King attended on horseback. This was the first time he had ridden since his last illness. The parade ground presented a highly picturesque scene. Queen Alexandra, the Princess of Wales, the Duchess of Albany, the Duke and Duchess of Fife, the Duchesses of Connaught, the Princess Henry of Battenburg and their children and the Khedive of Egypt occupied seats in the central windows of the Horse Guards' building, while all the other vantage points were occupied by smartly dressed women. Cabinet Ministers, members of the House of Lords, House of Commons, Lord Mayor Samuel, who was yesterday created a baronet, and others. Many

The King, who wore the uniform of colonel of the Grenadier Guards, rode on the ground surrounded by a brilliant staff and an unusually large gathering of foreign military attaches. As the King halted at the saluting base the massed bands played the national anthem. After an inspection of the troops the ceremony of trooping the colors was carried out. Their Majesties returned to Buckingham Palace heartily cheered by the crowds along the route.

Americans were present, including the staff of the United States embassy and the American rifle team, who were under the guidance of Major General Lord Chelysmore. # SITE FOR COALING STATION ON SAN FRANCISCO BAY IS SELECTED BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT the bay, and especially by all parties traveling to El Campo, from which it is not far distant.

Rear Admiral Bradford took on board the Golden Gate at California City one of the employes of the Lynde & Hough plant and proceeded to first ascertain the depth of the water at varying distances from the shore, abreast of the property mentioned.

At a distance of 200 feet from land there was discovered to be a depth of thirty feet of water at low tide. Beyond that the depth was also entirely satisfactory over a wide area covered by the bay. The land was then inspected carefully. Rear Admiral Bradford went ashore and walked over a part of the tract, which includes 55.55 acres, of which 5.55 acres are tide lands.

LAY OF THE LAND.

At this place the land makes a graceful curve, receding slightly within two projecting points. From the water's edge it slopes gently up for a little to a space of some six feet, is quite level. On this stand the buildings of the Lynde & Hough fish curing plant. Back of this the land rises abruptly to a height of several hundred feet, making a complete wide break for any vessel that might lie at the wharf below. From the top of the heights the ocean and the entire bay and city of San Francisco are in view. A general description of the contour would be first a sort of amphitheater, carved out in the hills and sheltered by ridges of land to the north and south and then a huge battlement of earth, covered with a shaggy growth of small trees and shrubbery.

From what has been already said it will be made to appear that there is at hand and in immediate reach a vast quantity of earth, sufficient to build a pier into the bay as far as may be necessary and on the comparatively level ground close to the water's edge is room for all the large structures that a coaling station of the magnitude desired may require.

CHAIN OF STATIONS.

There are already Government coaling stations at Guantanamo, Cuba; at Honolulu, at Pago Pago, at Key West, Fla., and at Manila. The establishment of an extensive station here for the sole use and benefit of Uncle Sam's navy is in the line of expansion of naval facilities vigorously followed ever since the guns of Dewey destroyed the fleet of the Spaniards in the bay of Manila. The benefits of the coaling stations is so apparent that there is no necessity for dwelling on that phase of the matter.

HIGH PRICE OF WHEAT CAUSES MILLS TO CLOSE

Two Large Flouring Establishments in Washington Shut Down for the Season.

TACOMA, June 26.—The mills of the Tacoma Grain Company and the Puget Sound Flouring Mill Company have been closed down owing to the scarcity and high price of wheat. All the large orders have been filled, and it is not probable that the mills will be running to their full capacity until the new wheat begins to arrive. These mills cater largely to the export trade, and may yet get large orders from Japan providing the steamship companies maintain their cut rates between the coast and Oriental ports. A subject that is commanding considerable attention from the millers is the proposed reduction of rates from Mississippi River points to the Orient, which it is said will if kept in effect be a serious handicap to the milling industry of the Pacific Coast.

Foreman Says That A. C. Nellis Made Scales Work for Him.

Claims Seed Packages Supplied Government Were Scant Measure.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—In the Nellis seed contract suit before the Court of Claims an affidavit by Charles Kingsley of Falls Church, Va., has been made public, alleging that A. C. Nellis of New York, who had the contract for furnishing seed ready for distribution to the Government two years ago, directed that no books were to be kept and that the packages should be light weight. The legal representatives of Nellis are suing for the payment of $18,000 which Secretary Wilson withheld from the contract payment for alleged non-performance of contract. The full amount of the contract was $108,000. Secretary Wilson said tonight that the $18,000 was withheld as a result of an inquiry into the work of the contractor at the time and that the Government is still in possession of Nellis' bond for $35,000. Mr. Wilson said that he had directed that the seed contract and its execution be probed to the bottom and that the investigation has not implicated any one in Government employ.

The distribution machines used by Nellis, he said, failed to do satisfactory work and caused serious delay in the annual seed distribution and a great rush of work subsequently made it impossible for the Government inspector to see that all was being done. Kingsley was foreman for Nellis and in his affidavit says that no record book was kept showing the amount of seed received in bulk, that he had suggested the keeping of such books, but that Nellis said he did not want them kept. He charges that a great portion of seeds were put up in light weight packages, that Nellis instructed him to notify the employes engaged in putting up this seed to let the weights run light and that he knows these instructions were followed.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Secretary Cortelyou today issued the following statement:

"In order to correct a widespread impression that on the 1st of July many new places will be created in the Department of Commerce and Labor, Secretary Cortelyou announced today that owing to the limited appropriation for salaries in the executive office and new bureaus of the department and to the fact that the transfers to take place in accordance with the law on July 1 do not create any new positions, practically no more appointments can be made until additional appropriations are secured. Unlike the other executive departments, the Department of Commerce and Labor has no new appropriations becoming available July 1. The civil service requirements obtain throughout the department and vacancies as they occur in the ordinary routine of departmental business must be filled in the usual way through the Civil Service Commission."
