

BUCKSHOT ENDS THEIR BATTLE

Officers Pursue Slayer of Former Oregon Official and He Surrenders After a Fight CHASE NEAR RED BLUFF

Photograph Leads to the Discovery of the Whereabouts of Man Wanted in Sonoma

RED BLUFF, Dec. 22.—After a night and half a day of excitement Girard, supposed to be and who himself states that he is wanted in Sonoma County for the murder of Deputy Sheriff McKinnon of Harney County, Oregon, surrendered to officers at the ranch of Mrs. M. E. Wilcox about four miles north of Red Bluff this morning.

Girard had been working as a wood-chopper on a ranch for some time and his discovery is due to an acquaintance formed with H. Brewer, a local piano tuner. Brewer has known him for some time, but had never suspected his real character until yesterday, when he chanced to see a photograph of McKinnon's murderer and recognized it. He at once went to the ranch with the intention of securing the assistance of W. C. Mount, a rancher, and capturing Girard.

Brewer was met at the gate by Girard and accompanied him to his cabin. After some conversation, during which Brewer evidently abandoned his intention of a single-handed capture, he went to the home of Mrs. Wilcox and informed her who Girard was. Then he came to town to notify the officers. Sheriff Boyd and City Marshal Ward arrived at the ranch about 2 o'clock this morning, hoping to get Girard at daybreak. In this they were disappointed, as Girard early in the morning left his cabin and took to the brush in the hills. The officers followed him for several hours and a number of shots were exchanged. In the meantime word was sent to town and a posse went to the officers' assistance, but arrived only in time to witness Girard's surrender.

Girard called to the Sheriff that he was shot and would surrender either to him or Mrs. Wilcox's little son, so that they could get the reward. He stated that he was the man wanted.

Gerard is now in the County Jail. Two of Sheriff Boyd's buckshot took effect in his shoulder and a number in the right leg, but the wounds are not serious.

YOUTH FIGHTS WITH BURGLAR

Desperado Enters a House in British Columbia and Is Captured When Departing BATTLE NEAR THE DOOR

Prisoner Quickly Makes a Hole in the Cell Wall and Almost Escapes Before He Is Detected

Special Dispatch to The Call.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 22.—William Page, a burglar and general desperado, was caught to-day and is in jail in New Westminster. To Garvin Rae, a youth of 19, belongs all the credit of his capture. In the face of a loaded revolver flourished by Page Rae grappled with him and held him tightly until assistance arrived.

Within an hour of his being placed in jail Page started to carry out a plan of escape. He pulled out a number of bricks and would probably have been free in another couple of hours had his trick not been discovered. Now he is manacled and in close confinement.

It was at 10:30 o'clock last evening that several members of the Rae family heard a noise in a back room. Young Rae went into the hall to investigate and when he saw the door standing open toward the back yard he at once concluded that a burglar had been in the house and had already escaped. He called other members of the family, when suddenly the door of the bathroom, a short distance down the hall, was flung open.

Out jumped a stranger and it took him but a couple of leaps to make the rear door. In one hand he held a revolver and he pulled this up as if ready to shoot, in warning for young Rae to get out of the way. But the latter jumped on the burglar as he sought to dash past and in a moment the two were rolling on the floor. Rae's father rushed to his son's assistance and soon they had the desperado securely held and had taken away his weapon. Another member of the family summoned an officer and twenty minutes later the burglar was securely lodged in jail.

Three Thousand Dollars' Worth of Jewels Are Stolen in a Store in an Arizona City

Special Dispatch to The Call.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 22.—The largest robbery of a business house that ever occurred in Phoenix and one unique in point of simplicity and successful accomplishment took place last night, when the store of Sellm, Ackel & Co., on South Second street, was ransacked and goods to the amount of $3000, together with nearly $100 in cash, were carried away.

The store was entered through the front door on a well-lighted street and the robbers departed, leaving not a clue to their identity or number. The merchandise taken was mostly jewelry and watches. The safe was rifled and the partitions in it were broken. The burglars found the hiding place of nearly every tray of jewelry. The greater part of the jewelry was of a valuable sort, mostly gold filigree, manufactured in the store by an expert workman from Mexico. There was also a quantity of silver jewelry made from Mexican coins.

St. Matthew's at San Mateo Has a Narrow Escape from Destruction by Flames.

On the report that the college was burning the Fire Department promptly responded, driving the apparatus two miles to the scene of the blaze. Only the prompt and energetic measures saved the gashouse, the burning of which would have been disastrous to the college buildings. The loss of the building and machinery is about $2000. The property is partially insured.

"A GENTLEMAN" SAYS WITNESS

Friend of the Late Alexander Dunsmuir Describes Him in the Courtroom at Victoria DENIAL OF ACCUSATIONS

Events in the Life of the Millionaire in San Francisco Are Publicly Reviewed

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 22.—Testimony was given by Mrs. John J. Agnew this afternoon in the Hopper-Dunsmuir will case, to the effect that the late Alexander Dunsmuir had always intended that James Dunsmuir, defendant in the suit brought by Edna Wallace Hopper, to break the will of the dead millionaire, should be his heir.

Mrs. Agnew said she had known the late Mrs. Dunsmuir (plaintiff's mother) for seventeen years. She was her most intimate friend and had been introduced to Alexander Dunsmuir by her at the Grand Hotel in San Francisco. She had seen him frequently and always found him to be a gentleman. His conversation was the same as any other gentleman's, coherent and intelligent. Witness said she had arranged for the marriage ceremony. She knew of no other. She had heard of the bath-tub incident of which Mrs. Hopper had told and said this had always been regarded as a joke by Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Hopper.

Mrs. Agnew said that in a conversation with Alexander Dunsmuir and Mrs. Dunsmuir at the Grand Hotel reference had been made to a will regarding the disposition of the San Leandro property, in which Mrs. Dunsmuir was named as part heir, and Alexander Dunsmuir at that time told all present, including Lawyer Boyd and Captain Freeman, that he would not permit her to leave this property to Mrs. Hopper. The will was afterward burned.

At his wedding dinner, the witness said, Dunsmuir had not drunk much and his eating had none of the objectionable features referred to by some witnesses. The will in question now was signed after dinner. Witness also told of a conversation with Mrs. Dunsmuir relative to Alexander Dunsmuir providing for her, in the event of Alexander's death, in which Mrs. Dunsmuir had said:

"I feel so happy now, as in the event of Alexander's death James Dunsmuir has agreed to pay me $1000 a month so long as I live."

J. W. Harrison, coal broker of San Francisco, testified that Alexander Dunsmuir was a good business man and not easily influenced by his brother, James Dunsmuir.

POLICE HOLD RICH RUSSIAN

Subject of the Czar, Who Claims Relationship to a Wealthy Family, Arrested

Special Dispatch to The Call.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 22.—Arthur Rehwald, a Russian subject, who says he is wealthy, languishes in the jail of this county, while planning some sort of legal escape from what he deems an attempt to railroad him to the penitentiary upon a charge of burglary. He speaks good English and is well educated.

The alleged offense occurred at Sentinel, a little railroad station on the Southern Pacific, where he unknowingly entered a railroad car occupied by Mexicans. When he found the car filled he tried to get out, but was arrested by a Mexican officer, tried before a country Justice of the Peace upon testimony he did not understand and that was not interpreted to him. He was sent to jail, he supposed, for vagrancy, till he was informed after his incarceration some weeks ago that he was being held to the Grand Jury for burglary.

Then he secured a lawyer and told his story, which was that he came from a good family in Riga, Russia, and that he and his people are wealthy. He wanted to see the world and sailed for New York, from there coming west, and was en route from Galveston to the coast when arrested. The case is now before the court on habeas corpus proceedings.
