

JURY DECLARES DRIGGS GUILTY

Former Congressman Convicted of Accepting Money to Get Contract With Government

SENTENCE WILL BE LIGHT Judge Thomas Expresses His Belief That the Accused Man Violated Law Unwittingly

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—After deliberating forty-five minutes to-day a jury found former Congressman Edmund H. Driggs guilty of accepting money to procure a contract between a private company and the Government, while serving as a member of Congress. The jury recommended mercy.

In response Judge Thomas said the recommendation was eminently fitting, as Driggs had conducted himself with dignity and became an unwittingly guilty only in a technical sense.

After the jury had been discharged the court denied a motion for a new trial and reserved decision on a motion for a stay of proceedings pending an appeal. Judge Thomas told the counsel they might agree on a day for sentence. He said:

"I wish I could inflict a sentence without imprisonment, but I cannot under the law. I shall make the sentence as light as I possibly can. You, Driggs, are free to come and go as you please."

Driggs admitted that he had placed $50 of the cashier company's machines in various departments of the postoffice in Washington and that he was paid $12,500 by the company. Driggs also admitted that he gave money to Beavers, who was a superintendent in the postoffice. He declared that at the time he gave Beavers $2800, in 1900, it was not for services rendered, but went toward a foreign fund. At the time Driggs was a candidate for president of the Borough of Brooklyn.

RICH MEN ARE NOT ALL HAPPY

Croesus, King of Lydia, Had Troubles of His Own, and There Are Others.

Croesus, the John D. Rockefeller of the kingdom of Lydia, was very well-to-do in worldly goods and chattels. "As rich as Croesus" is a saying about 2500 years old. He had his troubles, however, and some of them were full grown. He was taken captive once by Cyrus and only saved himself from being burned alive by quoting a saying of Solon the Sage. He finally had to flee his kingdom for parts unknown.

Many of the rich man's troubles today come from high living and could be avoided. They are brought on by eating all kinds of rich, heavy foods at irregular times, lack of proper exercise, undue mental strain, unnatural stimulants, etc., and are commonly known as indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach. They are serious troubles all right, but not only can they be avoided but can also be cured, and that without loss of time or proper food and nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the certain relief of dyspepsia, rich and poor alike. There is no such thing as stopping their onward progress now. A great nation has placed its stamp of approval upon their noble work. The thousands and thousands of cures they have effected and the happiness resulting therefrom have made their name a household word throughout the land.

The story of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be told in words. They actually do the work that the weak and wasted stomach is unable to do and allow it to recuperate and regain its strength. They contain all the essential properties that the gastric juice and other digestive fluids do, and they digest the food just as a sound and well stomach would. They relieve the stomach just as one rested and refreshed workman relieves the one on duty that is tired and worn, and Nature does her own work of restoration. It is a simple, natural process that a child can understand. You can eat all you want without fear of results. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. Druggists all know better than to try to get along without them, as the demand for them is great and universal.

Witnesses Testify at Inquest Over Victims of the Theater Fire That Avenues of Escape Were Closed by Doors of Iron

MERITS OF ASBESTOS CURTAINS DISCUSSED

Leader of Orchestra Asserts That There Was Only a Small Piece of Hose in Playhouse When Fatal Blaze Broke Out

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—A dozen persons to-day testified at the Coroner's inquest over the victims of the Iroquois Theater fire on Wednesday, December 30. The inquest was held in the City Council chamber.

No person was admitted to the Council chamber without an order or a subpoena from Coroner Traeger. Even members of the City Council who applied for admission were turned away. Among the witnesses were Eddie Foy, a comedian of the "Mr. Bluebird" company, and George W. Stetson, a representative of the company which manufactured the asbestos curtain. The evidence of Foy did not differ greatly from the statements which have been published heretofore concerning his action on the day of the fire.

Stetson and Coroner Traeger became involved in a long discussion as to the merits of asbestos curtains, during which Stetson admitted that asbestos curtains, if subjected to extremely high heat, would lose their "life" and crumble. He declared that in his opinion the greater portion of the asbestos curtain in the Iroquois Theater was still in good condition and expressed himself as anxious to make experiments to prove the truth of his assertion.

Antonio Frolosone, leader of the orchestra, testified that the asbestos curtain came down after each performance and that it came down within a foot of the stage at the time of the fire. Then, he asserted, it appeared to straighten out and the flames came from beneath. One small piece of hose was the only fire fighting apparatus he had found about the theater.

Ella H. Churcher attended the matinee. She was positive that the curtain that was lowered was not the asbestos curtain, but the curtain which had been lowered after the first act.

AVENUES OF ESCAPE LOCKED. Frank Houseman declared that he bought two seats in an upper box for the matinee. He reached the first floor before the fire gained headway and opened a door which was told by an usher was an exit. Outside of this door was another of iron, which it was impossible to open.

Charles Dexter was with Houseman and gave similar evidence. When the panic started he endeavored to open doors on the first floor, and found behind them doors of iron, across which were iron crossbars. One of these doors he could not open, but another he managed to force and got out a number of small children.

Lester Sackett of Elgin, Ill., with two women and a little girl, occupied seats in the third row of the first balcony. They made their way out of a rear exit and down a fire escape. In going down the fire escape Sackett had great trouble in closing an iron shutter which projected across the stairway at right angles and shut off escape.

Eddie Foy, comedian, said he went to the matinee with his six-year-old son. He sent him out before the first act in charge of the stage manager, who brought him back and said:

"During the second act Foy testified he was in his dressing-room and heard a noise, to which he at first paid little attention. The noise grew louder, and being anxious about his son he ran to the theater door, picked up the boy right in front of the switchboard and saw a fireman trying to put out the fire. He ran with the boy to a door at the back of the stage. When he arrived a number of people were trying to escape. He gave the boy to a man, telling him to take him out, and then ran back to the stage and out to the footlights. The audience was becoming panic-stricken and in order to quiet the people he called to the stage hands, "Drop the curtain," and to the musicians, "Keep up your music." He urged the audience repeatedly to remain quiet and not get excited. When the curtain came down it stuck about three feet above his head. The rest of Foy's testimony is as follows:

FIRE PROTECTION LACKING. "I hollered and hollered for them to lower the curtain and then I felt what I should describe as a cyclone. It was a whirl of smoke and when I looked around the scenery had broken and was flying all around me. There was a heavy, cold draught, evidently from the outside, and there was an explosion of some kind, as though you would light a match and the whole box would go off. I did not know whether to go forward or back as it looked about an even thing for my life no matter which way I went. Then I thought of my boy and that perhaps the man did not take him out, so I went to the back door. I went out and found my boy in the alley."

Foy testified that the only precaution against fire that he knew of was a rule against smoking.

George W. Stetson of Bingham, Mass., secretary of a company which made the asbestos curtain, said that there were two kinds of asbestos curtains, one in which a fine brass wire was interwoven, the other being without wire. Both curtains were of equal use against flames, the wire being merely to provide greater tensile strength to the fabric. When asked by Coroner Traeger how he accounted for the burning up of his fireproof curtain, Stetson replied that he did not believe it had burned up, and that he had every reason to believe that it did not. In his opinion, the greater part of the curtain was lying at the present time on the theater stage, covered with soot and ice.

He was shown a portion of the curtain that had been in a hot place and said that the life had been taken out of the piece shown him, and injured to some extent.

At the conclusion of Stetson's testimony an adjournment was taken until to-morrow morning.

Building Commissioner Williams to-day rescinded the order closing the Coliseum, declaring it safe from fire. Fifteen halls were ordered closed.

MORGAN MAKES REPLY TO LODGE

Alabama Senator Insists That This Government Lend Aid to the Panama Revolution

QUOTES THE NEWSPAPERS Acts of Hostility Toward Colombia, He Declares, Violate the Statutes of United States

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Morgan occupied the time in the Senate to-day in a reply to the speech of Lodge, delivered on Tuesday. Morgan again attacked the President and the attitude of this Government in connection with the Panama republic. He introduced numerous newspaper extracts to bear out his contention that the revolution was assisted by officers and citizens of the United States.

Morgan put into the Record a large number of letters written by correspondents of newspapers which, he said, gave the facts concerning the overturning of the Colombian Government without the time warning required by international law.

Morgan maintained that the Bogota was warned not to make any bombardment at any time. This fact, he said, made the United States a belligerent nation against Colombia. This attitude was continued by our forbidding General Torres and his force to go from Colon to Panama.

"These acts of hostility and defiance were in violation of the statute laws of the United States," he said.

ROBBERS BEAT AGED COUPLE

Cruel Crime Committed at a Home in Los Angeles County by Desperate Intruders

Special Dispatch to The Call. LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—Masked robbers entered the house of David Gates, near Compton, last night, bound and gagged him and his wife and robbed them of $745, the savings of years. Gates is 82 years of age and his wife is 77. They were so roughly handled by the thieves and sustained such a nervous shock that both are now under the care of a physician.

The robbery was committed evidently by persons who knew that the aged couple had money in the house. Mr. and Mrs. Gates had retired for the night, but were not asleep, when, without warning, the door of their sleeping room was burst open and two men entered, one carrying an ax and the other a revolver.

Without waiting for any show of resistance on the part of their victims, they seized and beat the old couple; then bound and gagged them, tying the cords so tightly that their lips and cheeks were cut. Then they broke open a trunk and took therefrom $700 in gold. From Gates' trousers they secured $45. The robbers then left.

Mrs. Gates managed to free herself and then freed her husband, but he was unable to walk. She had sustained a fracture of the ankle several weeks ago and the injury was barely healed. Attired only in her night clothes, she hobbled to the house of a neighbor and gave the alarm. The whole neighborhood was soon aroused, but no trace of the robbers could be found.

CRUISERS MAKE QUICK VOYAGE

Rear Admiral Evans Reports on Performance of Asiatic Fleet in the Pacific Swells

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Rear Admiral Evans, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, which recently made a cruise from Yokohama to Honolulu, says that the cruiser squadron made twelve and a half knots and was obliged to drop the collier because it was deficient in speed, and that the battleships could have increased the speed a knot or a half. As to the performance of the battleships under trying conditions of weather in the great Pacific swells the admiral has this to say:

"Heavy swells with practically no wind continued from the fourth day out until the third day before arriving at Honolulu, and I doubt whether at any time during my experience of forty-two years I have seen swells so uniformly high as was experienced. I estimate that the height from crest to hollow of the waves, for about three days of this run, ranged as high as thirty feet, and the general average height of the swells would be at least twenty feet. The behavior of the battleships during this weather was particularly good, and their speed practically not at all hampered. The Oregon, considering her age and design, acted particularly well throughout the passage. During the entire trip the engines of none of the three battleships was stopped except for thirty minutes during the ceremony attendant upon the burial of one of the crew of the Wisconsin."

Secretary Moody complimented the officers and men of the fleet on the success of the trip.

CRUISERS MAKE DUST AND LIME BLIND WORKMEN

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 7.—In the Coroner's investigation into the death of Samuel Olson and Fred Davel, who were killed by an explosion in the Michael Davitt mine, J. H. Trefzler, a Helena superintendent, admitted that he had personally blown air, dust and lime into the eyes of the miners in the Pennsylvania property during one of the underground battles, and further admitted that there existed a secret crossing in the Michael Davitt mine through which it is alleged loot ore had been taken.

In detailing the lime incident Trefzler said that when he broke through the bulkhead into the Pennsylvania mine the men would not let him into the latter. He then blew air from a hose on them and afterward dust, and that falling had a box of powdered lime brought in. The lime accomplished the purpose and he entered the Pennsylvania mine from the raise above and exploded upon Olson and Davel.

Perhaps the nearest to fixing any immediate responsibility for the explosion in the Rarus mine was given in the testimony of Richard Reese, Reese produced a magazine which he said Olson had brought out from the raise December 31, telling him that it had been thrown from the Rarus. Olson said that the man who threw this magazine down said: "Sit down and read that for a while. To-morrow we will send you something on a string."

The Amalgamated people contend that the "something on a string" was the fifty pounds of dynamite James McGrath swore Superintendent Gramkam of the Rarus had ordered lowered in the Pennsylvania workings for the purpose of blowing out the Amalgamated miners and preventing a party of Amalgamated inspectors from entering from the Mountain View mine.

W. P. Winchell, expert geologist for the Amalgamated, testified that the fatal blast was caused by dynamite placed in a sack connected with a fuse lowered from the raise above and exploded upon Olson and Davel.
