Court Overrules Demurrer of Army Officer's Wife to His Complaint for a Divorce

REFUSES TO DISMISS SUIT

Hebbard Declines to Pay Any Attention to Affidavit Filed in Contempt Proceedings

Captain John F. Madden, the army officer whose sensational suit for divorce against Edith Partello Madden, which was filed some months ago, led to the dismissal from the service of Lieutenant Hector Rubichon, the co-respondent in the suit, scored a signal victory in Judge Hebbard's court yesterday. The court overruled the demurrer to his complaint, interposed by his wife on the ground that it did not state sufficient cause of action, and also denied Mrs. Madden's motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground that the allegations in the complaint were insufficient. The court denied also Mrs. Madden's motion to strike out from the complaint such portions of it as referred to the custody of the one child of the couple that is now in the custody of Jerome Madden, father of the plaintiff.

Judge Hebbard further refused to consider the affidavit of Mrs. Madden filed in connection with her efforts to have her husband adjudged guilty of contempt of court because he had not paid to her the alimony ordered by the court. It was shown by Charles K. Moser, Madden's attorney, that the money had been paid to Mrs. Madden's attorney.

LAWYER IN COMPLAINT

Attorney Joel S. Josselyn was adjudged guilty of contempt of court yesterday morning by Judge Seawell and ordered confined in the County Jail until such time as he saw fit to pay to Anna P. Josselyn, his divorced wife, $275 accrued alimony. He paid the sum and was purged of contempt. When Mrs. Josselyn secured a divorce from the attorney more than three years ago the court directed him to pay her $10 a month toward her support and that of their two daughters. He failed to do so and a short time ago married again, his second wife being a Miss Carrie Andrews, who is reputed to be possessed of means. In the meantime the first Mrs. Josselyn struggled along as best she might to provide for herself and children, only appealing to the courts when alimony for thirty-seven months had accrued.

Judge Graham made an order reducing an order heretofore made by him directing James F. Jones, an Oakland express and bicycle man, to pay to Mary F. Jones $75 a month alimony. In the future Jones, who pleaded that $75 a month was excessive, will pay $45. As the bicycle man was leaving the court room his wife, who was standing in the corridor with their little child, evidently fearing that her husband would make an effort to take the little one from her, grabbed the child and ran screaming down the corridor.

MRS. ANTHONY FREE

Christina A. Anthony and her husband, Dr. Richard Anthony, whose matrimonial troubles have for more than a year past kept them before the public, made their exit from the divorce court yesterday. Judge Hebbard granted Mrs. Anthony an interlocutory decree of divorce on the ground of desertion.

Judge Graham made an order directing H. M. Langhorne to pay his wife, Ida Langhorne, $30 a month pending the trial of her suit for maintenance. Frank Ziffra, a bartender employed at the Yellowstone saloon, is the defendant in a suit for divorce brought by Jessie Ziffra, to whom he was married April 30, 1902. Mrs. Ziffra alleges that from the August following her marriage to January of last year her husband treated her with extreme cruelty. She says that it was his daily custom to flourish a loaded revolver over her and threaten to kill her. When he did not use the revolver, she says, he would threaten to take her life with a chair or choke her to death, and several times, she says, he grasped her by the throat and almost choked her into unconsciousness. In December of last year, charges Mrs. Ziffra, her husband flourished a revolver in her face and made her get down on her knees and beg for her life. In the same month, she alleges, he threw a long sharp knife at her. Mrs. Ziffra asks for a decree of divorce and permission to resume her maiden name, Suglack.

AN UNHAPPY WIFE

Lillian Mitchell wants a divorce from H. J. Mitchell for cruelty. She avers that she is a refined and sensitive woman and is most miserable because her husband neglects her and treats her with a coarseness amounting at times to aversion. She says that ever since the day following her marriage, November 15 last, she has been unhappy, principally because her husband persists in remaining out at night and refuses to take cognizance of her efforts to make his home life a happy one. She says that he pays no attention to her loving attentions and that on the 6th inst. he told her that he was sorry he ever married. She alleges that on the night of the 6th inst. he said to her: "I am tired of married life. I do not want to be a married man. I wish you would go away. Your going would cause a little flutter among your friends, but it will soon blow over."

Mrs. Mitchell also asks for alimony and permission to resume her maiden name, Hall.

Suits for divorce were filed yesterday by Eliza McKeaney against Andrew M. McKeaney for desertion; Richard S. Northey against Anita Northey for desertion; M. L. Ryan, a commercial traveler, against Maude Ryan, for cruelty; Anastasia Hill against William Hill for desertion and neglect; Augusta M. McConnell against J. J. McConnell for neglect, and George A. Bates against Mary Bates for cruelty. Bates alleges that his wife once threw a lighted lamp at him and assaulted him with a hatchet.

Mary Pollard was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, S. T. Pollard, in Judge Dunne's court yesterday on the ground of willful desertion. She testified that about four years ago she sold some land in Siskiyou County for $750 and gave the money to her husband, but had not seen or heard of him since.

DUNPHY'S WIFE ASKS FREEDOM

Spouse of Son of Cattle King Says She Has Been Abused Ever Since Her Marriage

SUES FOR A DIVORCE

Alleges in Complaint That the Clubman Has Beaten Her and Tried to Strangle Her

James C. Dunphy, son of the late William Dunphy, the cattle king, is the defendant in a suit for divorce brought yesterday by Edith Dunphy, to whom he was married but a few days more than a year ago in this city. The separation is sought on the grounds of cruelty and infidelity, and if the allegations in the complaint are true the Dunphys have had a merry time of it ever since they became one. The complaint recites acts of cruelty alleged to have been committed by Dunphy in this city, on two different ranches, one in this State and one in Nevada, and in the complaint.

According to Mrs. Dunphy, her husband, who is well known in club circles and along the line, commenced abusing her in the month following their marriage. She says that in February of last year he struck her and called her all sorts of names. This was while they were living at the Hotel Garlan. Two months later, while they were domiciled on the Dunphy ranch in Nevada, the plaintiff alleges, Dunphy again abused her. She says she was compelled to leave the ranch and take refuge with a neighboring blacksmith.

In May, 1903, complains Mrs. Dunphy, while they were visiting the Dunphy ranch at Laposa, in this State, Dunphy tried to strangle her, and in June, 1903, while they were staying at Paradise Springs Mrs. Dunphy alleges he amused himself by throwing dishes at her.

From Paradise Springs the couple went to Laposa again, arriving there in July. While there, avers Mrs. Dunphy, her husband took particular delight in showing his dislike for Benjamin Sunderhaus, her ten-year-old son by a former marriage. He called both her and the boy all sorts of names, she says, and wound up by ordering them off the ranch. They refused to go and he gave orders to the foreman of the ranch to put them off and to facilitate their going fired two shots from a double-barreled shotgun into the walls of the house where they were. Later on in the same month, says Mrs. Dunphy, he absented himself from the ranch for a whole week and she alleges he was drunk during the entire time he was away.

Mrs. Dunphy's complaint closes with the allegation that on the 15th instant Dunphy arrived home in the early morning gloriously drunk and showed his authority by pulling her out of bed and compelling her to stand exposed to wind and weather in her nightclothes.

Mrs. Dunphy says that Dunphy is worth $200,000 and she asks the court to award her sufficient monthly alimony to keep her in reasonably good style. She also wants permission to resume the name of Sunderhaus. Sullivan & Sullivan are Mrs. Dunphy's attorneys.

Fire Commissioners Meet.
At a meeting of the Fire Commissioners yesterday a rule was adopted prohibiting any member of the department from endorsing the note of another member. It is claimed that a number of abuses of this direction have lately been called to the attention of the Commissioners. The following were appointed probationary members of the department and assigned to service in the various theaters: James E. Harlow, W. J. Olsen, H. J. Hopkins, William F. Heggerty, N. N. Matthews Jr., A. Engelke and C. F. Leutend. A request was sent to the Park Commissioners asking their permission to allow Chief Sullivan's new automobile to be tested in Golden Gate Park.

The contract for the machine provides that it must run twenty miles an hour and at least one hour at that rate of speed. It was explained that Golden Gate Park is the only suitable place for making the test.

To-Day's S. F. News Letter a Remarkable Issue.
The News Letter this week is a remarkable issue in many respects; with trenchant pen the staff of this paper attacks many of the abuses in public life.

The water front scandal is touched upon. The unblushing effrontery of a certain newspaper is rebuked and there are some revelations by a communication regarding the Emperor of Germany.

The labor union has received its usual toast on the gridiron. Society's confidential letter is written by the best informed woman in San Francisco. Fernand Traversa's letter upon San Francisco and the "Looker On" take occasion to touch upon things political and religious in an entertaining manner.

The financial review of the paper is handled in just as able and reliable a way as usual. Every politician will find it of interest to read the political column.

This journal has a great following among those who own automobiles, and the department devoted to that sport is, as usual, full of reliable news.

BRILLIANT BALL GIVEN BY THE FORTNIGHTLIES

By Saily Sharp.
The members of the Fortnightly Assembly danced at the Palace last night under a glittering canopy of twinkling lights. That was indisputably a brilliant scene—the procession down the stairway into the ballroom. Where, indeed, could such a scene be overshadowed? For beauty, style and gowning the women who gathered there were incomparable.

Among the charming women were: Mrs. H. E. Huntington, in white pompadour silk, brocaded in pink roses, trimmed heavily with duchess lace; Miss Helen de Young, exquisite white chiffon, with applied white roses; Miss Constance de Young, white lace, bespangled with silver; Miss Marion Huntington, white dotted net, embroidered in forget-me-nots; Miss Pearl Landers, a brilliant gown of heavy iridescent jet, with rope of pearls about the throat; Miss Elizabeth Mills, blue crepe de chine, duchess lace bertha; Miss Ardella Mills, dainty blue net frock; Miss Maye Colburn, white chiffon cloth, accordion pleated and trimmed with pink baby roses and lace collar; Mrs. Alexander Keyes, white embroidered chiffon, with American Beauty roses; Miss Barry, black spangled net; Miss Baldwin, white lace, with ermine; Mrs. Danforth Boardman, all-over white lace, with pale blue chiffon knots and silver spangles; Miss Borel, dainty white chiffon frock; Miss Edith Bull, spangled black lace; Miss Edith Tallant, pink chiffon crepe, accented with ribbon sleeves, with white lace; Miss Ruby Shaw, black chiffon over black satin; Miss Hazel Shaw, cream chiffon, satin, lace trimmed; Miss Bessie Wilson, white chiffon cloth, exquisitely trimmed in pearls; Miss Katherine Seifridge, dainty white embroidered mousseline, accordion-pleated ruffles; Miss Ethel Kent, pink and white just gown; Miss Elsie Dorr, white crepe de chine; Miss Margaret Postlethwaite, white moire crepe; Miss Mattie Milton, white all-over lace frock; Miss Gertrude S. Smith, very smart frock of white chiffon over blue silk; Miss F. Gibbons, pale blue crepe de chine; Miss Maylita Pease, white crepe chiffon; Miss Margery Gibbons, white lace over pink taffeta; Miss Allan, pink embroidered chiffon; Miss Helen Chesbrough, very dainty frock of white crepe de chine; Miss Elizabeth Huntington, pale pink chiffon, satin striped; Miss Lansing, black black lace gown; Miss Parks, smart spangled net, over white satin, with white satin girdle; Miss Mabel Toy, white gauze, with silver spangles; Miss Kelsey Patton, pink just, with pink baby roses; Miss Irene of Oakland, exquisite gown of pink spangled net over pink taffeta.

Gathered in the maple room for supper were dozens of clever little coteries—clever and gay. Distinctly was it again the debutante's night to shine. The largest tea of the season will be given to-day by Mr. and Mrs. M. H. de Young to signalize the formal introduction of Miss Constance de Young, their lovely young daughter, to the delightful whirl of the smart set.

GAELIC DANCING CLUB AIDS A WORTHY CAUSE

The Gaelic Dancing Club gave an entertainment and dance last night at Scottish Hall, on Larkin street, for the benefit of the Irish Christian Brothers of Dublin. The affair was well attended and consisted of several specialties by members of the club and addresses by Mayor Schmitz, chairman of the evening, and Rev. Brother Hughes of the Irish institution.

Mayor Schmitz opened the entertainment with a few remarks, and was followed by Brother Hughes, who told how the Irish Christian Brothers were struggling for the success of their school and monastery near Dublin, and how he had been sent on a tour of the United States to collect funds for the cause. He stated that at the present time there were more than forty thousand brothers in Ireland and some twenty thousand of the order in this country, and spoke briefly of the work they had accomplished and what they intended to do in the future.

SUIT FOR INJUNCTION WITHDRAWN BY SYMMES

Board of Works Files Answer Denying Intention to Remove Any Civil Service Employees.

The suit for an injunction instituted by Frank J. Symmes, president of the Merchants' Association, to restrain the Board of Public Works from dismissing any civil service employee of the board, in violation of the charter of this city and county, was withdrawn yesterday, and the case stricken from the calendar by Superior Judge Sloss.

President Symmes said he had authorized the withdrawal of the injunction proceedings because the board of public works had filed an answer in court denying that the members of the board had any intention of removing civil service employees, in violation of the charter, and did not propose to take any such action.

"It was understood," said President Symmes yesterday, "that the Board of Public Works intended to remove civil service employees, in violation of the charter, and for that reason I instituted the injunction proceedings. As the board has filed a sworn statement that it will not violate the charter by removing civil service employees, the object of the injunction has been attained. If the board, however, takes any steps contrary to its sworn answer the injunction proceedings will again be invoked."

DEMANDS HALF OF THE ESTATE

Mrs. Florence Clunie Makes Definite Statement Concerning Her Husband's Will

CONTEST GROWS WARM

Evidence Is Introduced Showing That She Once Waived All Her Rights to Property

Mrs. Florence Clunie, widow of the late Congressman Thomas Clunie, does not intend to abide by the provisions of her husband's will. For the first time since the commencement of the battle over the million-dollar estate left by Clunie she has announced in definite terms her intentions concerning the estate. Yesterday, in the Probate Court, her attorney, ex-Judge Charles W. Slack, stated that Mrs. Clunie would not abide by the conditions of the will, but would claim half the estate under the law governing community property. In other words she will do battle with the other heirs under the will for $500,000 or more instead of the realty valued at $200,000 bequeathed to her in the will.

After Slack had admitted that the widow intended to fight the will, Andrew J. Clunie was placed on the witness stand by the petitioners in the proceedings on hearing, which is an action to secure for him a partial distribution of his legacy under the Clunie will. His testimony was intended to prove that the Clunie estate was not community property, and that his brother's wife had waived her interest.

He was shown a paper writing by Judge Garoutte and asked if he had ever seen it before.

"Yes," said the witness. "It is a separation agreement signed by Thomas Clunie and his wife, Florence. It is dated December 26, 1901."

"When did you first see it?"

"Shortly after my brother died," was the answer. "Mrs. Clunie was present when we took it from the safety deposit box."

He was then shown two deeds purporting to be a transfer of property from Mrs. Clunie to her husband. They were dated respectively March 7 and 12, 1902.

He identified these papers, and then identified an agreement whereby Mrs. Clunie agreed to waive all claims to the property owned by her husband in consideration of her receiving $200 a month for the rest of her life.

"When did you first see these papers?" he was asked.

"The day my brother died," was the response.

"Did you know anything of the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Clunie?"

"Not until he died," answered Clunie. "Mrs. Clunie spoke to me about it then, and I believe informed me that she had a copy of these papers."

"That's our case," said Attorney Garoutte.

Attorney Slack cross-examined Clunie for a few minutes, but did not materially change his evidence. The case was then put over until next Friday, when Judge Slack will present evidence for the widow.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO WIELD BOWS

Plymouth Church Sunday School Is Preparing to Have a Regular Full-Fledged Orchestra

TALENT IS ABUNDANT

Flutter Is Caused in the Western Addition by Invitation to Musicians to Take Part

Plymouth Congregational Church on Post street, in the Western Addition, is planning to have a full-fledged orchestra in regular attendance at its Sunday school every week. As a consequence there is a lively flurry among the young musicians that live in the part of the city near the church.

Not many blocks away a full brass band is maintained by the boys of St. Dominic's Catholic Church and it performs very creditably on occasion. The interest the boys take in their band is something quite remarkable and while they do not play to give the famous aggregation headed by Sousa, they have been trained well and are a creditable body of young musicians.

Some years ago a Sunday school orchestra was organized in the First Congregational Sunday school in Oakland that grew to large size and rendered music that was quite intricate and ambitious for young amateurs to undertake. With these demonstrations of skill among young performers on instruments when they are properly directed, it is confidently believed that another musical combination in connection with a Sunday school can be made.

The boys and girls connected with the Plymouth Church Sunday school have been invited (all that can play) to belong to the Sunday school orchestra and also to invite their musical acquaintances to join. No rehearsal of the young musicians has yet been held. Several quite clever amateurs, in and out of the Sunday school, have signified their willingness to attend the rehearsals and to play regularly every Sunday morning as an attraction in the Sunday school rooms of the church as a part of the exercises, accompanying hymns and occasionally, it is possible, playing some of the lighter music of the writers of oratorios like the "Pastoral Symphony."

The orchestra will undoubtedly do much to increase the interest in the Sunday school. All orchestral instruments will be included in the combination.

BURTON HOLMES LECTURES INTERESTINGLY ON KOREA

Appears in Quaint Costume of the Country and Shows Realistic Motion Pictures.

Quite an up-to-date Korean young man was Burton Holmes last night, on the occasion of his lecture on Seoul, the capital of Korea. He was attired in the costume of the Korean aristocrat, and thereby gave additional atmosphere, as it were, to the scenes which he described and pictured on the screen.

The lecture was another remarkable triumph, and the motion pictures gave a perfect realization of life and custom and costumes of the land. Electric transit in Seoul was vividly pictured. One thing was clearly noticeable, and that was the respectful distance the Koreans kept from the moving car. And yet some have been decapitated by the owl cars owing to a penchant on the part of sleepy Koreans to lie down on the track at night and make the steel rails answer for pillows.

Holmes was appropriately rewarded with hearty applause.

To-day's matinee will reintroduce Yellowstone Park, and to-night Korea will be given once again.

Says He Has No Certificate.

Dr. Dudley Tait, secretary of the State Board of Medical Examiners, secured a warrant from Police Judge Fritz yesterday for the arrest of Dr. Edward H. Anthony on a charge of practicing medicine without the necessary certificate.
